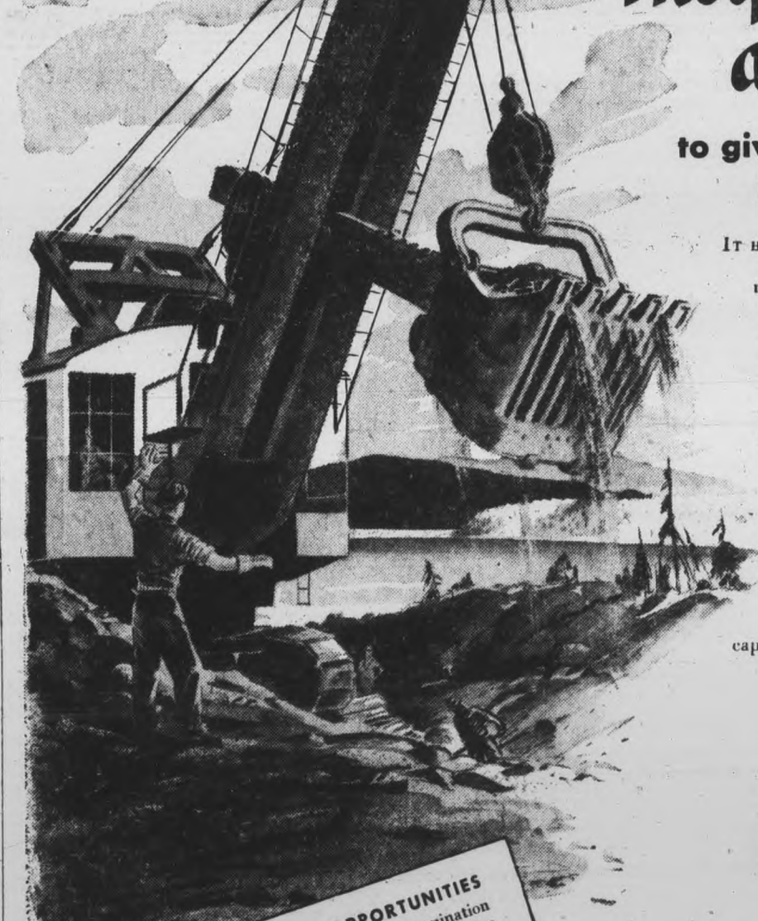
Today we Live in a Greater Canada



They Drained a Lake

to give Canada a Great New Industry

IT HAPPENED in Ontario's Rainy River District. Steep Rock Lake — fifteen miles long and ranging in depth from 40 to 265 feet — was emptied by batteries of giant pumps. Finlayson Lake was lowered by draining from the bottom. The course of the Seine River was completely changed. And one of the richest bodies of iron ore on the continent was uncovered. Providing millions of tons of ore a year — with enough uncovered for years to come — Steep Rock's development has been spectacular, but it is only ONE of many examples of Canada's tremendous modern advance. Today we truly live in a Greater Canada—one with productive capacity vastly increased and diversified, offering to young Canadians greater opportunities than ever before in every field of endeavour.

The iron and steel manufacturing industry presents another spectacular example of development: productive capacity and number of employees have been doubled since before the war, striking indication of Canada's new position as one of the world's great industrial nations.

SO MANY OPPORTUNITIES

"A sound idea and the determination to carry it through—those are sure passports to success in Canada today where there are so many interesting opportunities in so many different kinds of activity" —says MR. LESLIE BUTCHER, of Windsor, Ont.

Mr. Butcher—member of Canada's 1936 Olympic basketball team—after returning from college in the U.S. and being manager of a local insurance office, started his own Butcher Enterprises. Their development provides many examples of this young Canadian's energy and enterprise. They include: a unique and successful service in the wrapping of products for shipping; and the modernization of the Windsor Arena to present outstanding sports and entertainment events with great success.

Young Farmers Told Improve Standard Of Hog

ROSENEATH, July 5—(ENS)—"We must improve our standard of hog raising," declared Douglas Coyle at the monthly meeting of Roseneath junior farmers, held in the township hall on Wednesday.

Mr. Coyle spoke of a good foundation as the basis for good hog production and then the care of the pigs and also of the sows. He threw a challenge to the junior farmers to improve the grade of hogs.

"If we are to compete with the world's best bacon producer, Denmark, we must improve our grade," Mr. Coyle said. "If our grade is equivalent or superior to this rival, we may be able to keep our British market, otherwise we may lose it."

Miss Joan Grigg gave a talk on sheep. She mentioned the ten important breeds of sheep and told the distinguishing characteristics of each. The ten are: Border Leicester, Cheviot, Cotswold, Dorset Horn, Hampshire Down, Lincoln, Oxford Down, Shropshire, Southdown and Suffolk.

The Misses Barbara Adams and Roma Braithwaite were appointed program committee for the July meeting. Percy Gooding, the weed inspector for Northumberland, will be guest speaker.

Power Projects Making Good Progress

TORONTO, July 5 (CP)—Robert H. Saunders, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission, Thursday reported "excellent progress" in construction of Hydro's new power developments on the Ottawa River.

"It is expected all three projects will be completed according to schedule," he said, "Des Joachims in 1950, Chenaux in 1951 and LaCave in 1952."

He said total amount of power to be added to the southern Ontario system from these developments is estimated at 820,000 horse-power. More than half this amount, he added, will come from Des Joachims, which will generate 480,000 horse-power.

"At Des Joachims," he said, work on the first four units is well ahead of schedule, with the first two of the plant's giant penstocks now being placed in position."

He said also that work is well advanced on the powerhouse substructure, and excavation is being carried on at the site of the second group of four generating units.

"By June 1," Mr. Saunders disclosed, "more than 460,000 of an estimated total of 900,000 cubic yards of concrete had been poured."

Mr. Saunders said Hydro has surmounted the supplies obstacle by ordering well in advance and added that the labor situation has "improved tremendously."

At present, he said, approximately 4,600 men are employed on the three Ottawa projects.

German Invents Anti-Mine Device

HAMBURG, July 5—(Reuters)—A new device against submarine mines has been invented by a former Berlin merchant, Guenther Huebner, now a fugitive in Cuxhaven.

He claims that it has been passed as useful by British naval authorities and that first production has been allowed for use by German vessels and for export.

It consists of a U-shaped iron construction projecting beyond ships' bows when at sea which can be withdrawn in harbor. The device is claimed to be useful against all anchored and floating mines, but not against ground mines equipped with acoustic or magnetic mechanisms. It scoops up the mines and pushes them out of the way.

The device, costing about $1,200 is being made at a Cuxhaven dockyard.

High Building Costs... Have Raised Our Costs Too!

WE'VE HAD TO BUILD or enlarge 100 telephone buildings in the last three years. We were obliged to do this at a time when building costs were about double pre-war costs.

Yet, up to now, despite rising costs on all sides there has been no increase in the basic telephone rates established 22 years ago.

To meet unprecedented post-war demand for more telephones, our expansion and improvement of service have of necessity taken place in a period of rapidly rising costs. Most businesses have offset their higher costs by higher prices for their products. We have not yet done so.

You can be sure we will keep on doing our best to provide you with adequate and constantly improving telephone service — and to provide it at the lowest rates consistent with a fair return to our investors and employees.

SIU Announces Boycott Of All British Ships In Eastern U.S. Ports

Move Reprisal Against British Dockers Refusing to Work Canadian Ships In Sympathy With C.S.U.

MONTREAL, July 6—(CP)—The Seafarer's International Union (A.F.L.) today announced that a boycott against all British ships in Eastern United States ports will start tonight. The rival Canadian Seamen's Union immediately called it "nothing short of blackmail against the British people. The boycott was announced by Hal C. Banks, S.I.U. international representative, who said it was a reprisal against refusal of British dock workers to work Canadian vessels.

Banks said he advised Prime Minister Attlee in a cable of the action which will be taken at midnight by longshoremen and port workers in U.S. east coast ports. His cable to the British Prime Minister said: "Regret to inform you that all British ships will be boycotted in eastern U.S. ports as of July 7."

Boycott Reprisal

Banks, leader in Canada of the strongly-rightist SIU, said the boycott is a reprisal against British dockers who have acted in sympathy with the striking CSU and refuse to work Canadian ships.

More than 80 vessels, two of them Canadian freighters, now are tied up in Britain because of the British dockers' action.

"If they want desperate action, they'll get it," Banks said. "There are more than 3,000 British ships docked along the Atlantic seaboard and the Maritime Trades Council have assured the Seafarers' Union that the boycott will be observed."

The Union official recalled that Mr. Attlee had recently urged the dockers to return to work.

"But he has not had much success," Banks said. "When the British merchant marine, which is carrying Marshall aid to European ports, finds itself worse than becalmed along the Atlantic seaboard, it should spark British authorities into action."

In London the government today ordered troops into the London waterfront to unload food ships paralyzed by a strike of stevedores.

Havelock Stores Robbed, Auto Stolen

Thieves ransacked four different busines premises in Havelock and stole a car from a house in the village either late Tuesday night or in the early hours of today.

When Ray Peters opened his grocery store this morning he found the place in a shambles and discovered that around $100 of canned foods, meat, butter, gum and cigarettes had been taken by the intruders, who had entered the shop by breaking the back window.

White's service station, situated in the other end of the village, was also ransacked. The cash register was taken and also a number of tires. From Mathison's service station the thieves took gas and the Co-operative warehouse was also broken into.

The car, which was taken from beside Don Dafoe's house was found shortly after noon today by the railway track east of Havelock.

Although there was a break-in at Havelock several years ago, the village has recently been free from thefts of this nature.

Provincial Police Constable A. Kellog of Hastings and Chief Constable Bell of Havelock started investigations after the five complaints had been received.

Fear Indian Dies In Fire

BRANTFORD, July 6—(CP)—George General aged resident of the Six Nations Reserve was reported missing today and is believed to have been burned to death in a fire which Tuesday night completely destroyed the log house where he lived with his nephew, Grant General, RR 1, Ohsweken.

The house was in flames when the fire was noticed by neighbors who gathered at the scene but were unable to enter the burning building.

Grant General who was away from home at the time, returned shortly before midnight to find the house ablaze. He said that his uncle had been at home when he left. It is believed that the aged man was asleep when the fire broke out. The RCMP officers at Ohsweken were called to the scene. They reported that investigation will be made to ascertain the cause of the fire. A search of the ashes for the remains of George General is being conducted.

Inquiry At Hospital Will Cost $10,000

WINDSOR, July 6 (CP) —Taxpayers will have to hand out between $10,000 and $15,000 to foot bills of a Royal commission inquiry into Metropolitan General Hospital affairs.

Lorne R. Cumming, city solicitor, said today "the amount will not be in excess of $15,000," and indicated it might be closer to the $10,000 mark.

"The city has already paid $1,195.73 to George L. Mitchell, who acted as commission counsel during the probe which concluded last week. This was only part of Mr. Mitchell's bill.

Enjoy Snowballing

HALIFAX, July 6—(CP)—Heat getting you down? Try snowballing for a change. That is what a group of Halifax workmen did Tuesday, although the thermometer was registering in the 80s.

The men were laying water lines when they discovered a three-foot drift of snow, 30 inches below ground. The snow had been covered over during the winter, the earth providing insulation against the summer heat.

Woman's Shout Scares Off Bank Bandits

PAPINEAUVILLE, Que., July 6—(CP)—Ontario Provincial Police patrolling the Ottawa-Montreal highway were told to keep a sharp lookout today for two bandits who Tuesday night made their getaway after an unsuccessful attempt to rob a branch of the Banque Provinciale in this town 35 miles northeast of Ottawa.

Officers of the Quebec department from Buckingham, Lachute and other points in the area were staging a hunt for the bandits, questioning people living along the highway between Papineauville and Buckingham for possible clues.

The bandits fled in a burst of gunfire, without loot, after striking Mrs. Medard Lalonde, the manager's wife in the mouth. They held the manager and his wife at gunpoint for more than an hour, trying to force him to open the bank vault.

Detective John Ross of the Hull detachment of the Quebec provincial police was on the scene early today directing the search for the two gunmen. He awaited arrival of members of the provincial police holdup squad from Montreal to take over the investigation.

Hide During Fire

The men entered the Lalonde apartment in the Provincial Bank of Canada building here while the manager and his wife were watching a small fire in the barn on the outskirts of the village.

When they returned, the two bandits ordered Mr. Lalonde to open the vault When he said he could not do it alone, they indicated they would spend the rest of the night in the apartment.

The attention of the bandits was diverted when the Lalondes' daughter returned from the fire and Mrs. Lalonde ran yelling to the street. One of the bandits hit her in the mouth in a futile attempt to stop her.

Mrs Lalonde in poor health, fainted after her ordeal.

The bandits drove off in the direction of Buckingham, 10 miles east of here.

4 Ontario Hospitals Get $240,000 Grants

OTTAWA, July 6 — (CP) — Four Ontario hospitals have been allotted more than $240,000 from federal health grants to help them meet building costs.

The health department announced today that aid has been approved for the children's section of the Kingston General Hospital, St. John's Convalescent Hospital at Newtonbrook, Chesley and District Memorial Hospital and Clinton Public Hospital.

The building program will add 175 beds at four institutions.

Largest grant goes to St. John's Hospital, serving the Greater Toronto area, which gets $151,500 to help pay for addition of 101 beds through construction of a new pavilion and rearrangement of accommodation in the present building. Work is expected to be completed early in 1951.

Montreal Police Plan To Question Dennis

MONTREAL, July 6 (CP) — Gerard Dennis, held in New York State's Westchester County Jail for burglaries in the United States involving hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of loot, will be questioned by Montreal police about robberies in wealthy homes here four years ago, it was learned today.

Save Village Second Time From Treacherous Flames

BUCHANS, Nfld., July 6—(CP)—A treacherous forest fire lurking on the outskirts of this central Newfoundland mining town was brought under control today for the second time by volunteer firefighters.

The fire roared out earlier today to threaten this town's railway link with the rest of the island and it also burned furiously near the airport.

It was brought under control after a four-hour battle during which a shift of wind assisted the volunteers.

For a time there was danger that telephone and telergaph communication might again be severed.

Tuesday a west wind swung a wall of flame away from this town of 5,000 at a time when the settlement seemed doomed. Armed with bulldozers and other equipment, firefighters followed the fire, hoping to master it, but it sprang up out of control again early today.

Meanwhile, one home was destroyed by another forest fire at the western farming village of Cormac, where some 200 homes are being built by the Newfoundland government for veterans. That fire was brought under control except for scattered patches of smouldering bog

The fires started suddenly and gained headway through the tinder-dry brush following several days of intense heat throughout the island province.

Say Canada Will Refuse Another Loan

Hint U.S. May Agree To Lowering Tariff on British Goods

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA, July 6 —(CP)—Finance Minister Abbott departed for London Tuesday to help solve the United Kingdom's economic ills.

"Canada will co-operate in seeking a solution," he said in an interview as he boarded a Montreal-bound train. He will fly to London from Montreal today.

"We are outside the sterling area but if the U.K. takes any steps to curtail purchases from the dollar area, naturally it will affect us to a great extent."

In London Mr. Abbott will meet with John W. Snyder, United States Secretary of the Treasury, before joining a Commonwealth Conference of finance ministers.

"The essence of the problem is that the U.K. is living beyond her means," Mr. Abbott said. "She is not exporting enough to pay for the commodities she imports."

Need Greater Production

If the U.K. could increase production and increase efficiency in producing and exporting goods, the economic crisis probably could be solved.

Meanwhile, he hoped the U.K. would not proceed with a threatened curtailment of dollar imports as a means of conserving dwindling supplies of dollars and gold.

"I trust that by reasonable persuasion I may be able to remove the curtailment possibility," the minister said.

There were indications as Mr. Abbott left the capital that Canada would reject any U.K. request for another loan. Canada's position was that she had insufficient reserves of dollars. Reserves have declined to below the $1,000,000,000 mark as a result of recent United States withdrawals of profits made in Canada.

There was the expectation, however, that Mr. Abbott's talks with Mr. Synder may bear fruit and that there likely will be a concession made to the U.K. by the U.S. as a means of meeting the crisis.

May Lower Tariff

This concession may result in a lowering of the U.S. tariff on British goods, making it easier for U.S. products to compete with U.S. industry.

Canada is not expected to make a similar tariff move since it is considered that there are currently no high tariff barriers retarding U.K. exports.

Want $17,500 Back From Ex-Solicitor

WINDSOR, July 6 — (CP). — The Board of Control to-day adopted without comment a resolution instructing the city solicitor to obtain "independent, outside legal opinion" as to whether the city can recover $17,500 paid in 1937 to Bruce J. S. Macdonald, a former city solicitor.

The resolution, adopted in open session after an hour-long meeting behind closed doors, did not indicate on what grounds the city might hope to obtain repayment.

The money had been paid to Mr. Macdonald as a fee in connection with a civic refunding operation. It was authorized by the Ontario Municipal Board and paid by the city's fiscal ayent.

The resolution now goes to the City Council for ratification.

Forest Fire Spreads

WINNIPEG, July 6—(CP)—Prevailing southwest winds and dry weather continued to balk attempts by firefighters Tuesday to put out a 4,000-acre forest fire racing close to the Ontario border near Dogskin River in eastern Manitoba. District Forester A. W. Braine said tonight that the fire is still spreading with 20 new men flown into the area to assist firefighters already on the scene.

Predict Drought Boosts Milk Prices

Result of High Prices Ontario Farmers Having To Pay For Fodder

TORONTO, July 6 — (CP)—W. K. Riddell, Middlesex County Agricultural Representative, said today an increase in milk and dairy product prices will come inevitably as a result of the high prices which Central Ontario farmers have to pay for fodder this year.

"Farmers have to pay as high as $30 a ton for baled hay and are hauling it as far as 30 miles," he said.

Other country representatives reported that farmers are paying double the usual prices for hay. They said the milk production would be affected but added that a good corn crop would help to relieve the situation.

They agreed that no estimate of the actual increase in prices could be made until the second hay crop is harvested.

Farmers said that some of them were short of hay and were suffering from drought-parched pastures. Several said they were forced to feed their cattle well in advance of the usual stall feeding time.

Officials added that present cattle stocks in whole-milk producing areas can not be maintained unless rain comes.

An "optimistic" estimate placed hay crops at 40 per cent of normal.

Labor Congress Suspends Jackson, 4 More

TORONTO, July 6 (CP)—Five top official of the United Electrical Workers' of America (CIO-CCL) have been suspended from the Canadian Congress of Labor, it was learned today from reliable sources.

The five are Clarence S. Jackson, president of District No. 5 Council; M. Chambers, vice-president of Peterborough; George Harris, secretary-treasurer; Ross Russell, organizing director, and Jack F. Douglas, editor of the United Electrical News, a union publication.

Informed sources said the suspension arises from charges made by the U.E. News against officers of the Ontario Federation of Labor (CIO). The step was taken by the executive council of the Congress at Ottawa within the last two days.

Believed to be for an indefinite period, the suspension is subject to review from time to time by the executive council and by the annual Congress convention being held this fall in Ottawa.

Hold Couple In Baby's Death

CHICAGO, July 6—(AP)—An autopsy showed today that illness, rather than effects of a spanking, caused the death of 2½-year-old Elizabeth Ann Lehman.

The girl was found dead in her bed Tuesday. Police reported bruises on her face and detained the parents without charge.

Dr. Jerry Kearns, coroner's physician, reported his examination showed the girl died of bronchial pneumonia with malnutrition. He said there was no evidence of severe injury.

William Lehman, 26, a drill press operator, told police he had spanked the child on Monday night when she cried and tried to climb out of bed. His wife, Inez, 21, said she had hit the child with a ruler.

The bruises on Elizabeth's face, the mother said, were suffered in a fall from the seat of the family automobile during a ride on Monday.

Nab Fleeing Pair In 14-Hr. Search

LONDON, Ont., July 6—(CP)—Fourteen hours after a stolen auto crashed into a utility pole near London, two battered and bruised Stratford youths were arrested by provincial police Tuesday near Talbotville, 14 miles southeast of here.

They are Alfred Diehl, 16, (of St. David St.) and a 14-year-old companion, who were returned to Stratford Tuesday night.

The car went out of control on No. 2 Highway, clipped two poles and smashed off a third pole, tearing down hydro wires. A 14-mile square area in the Delaware-Lambeth territory was without electricity for several hours.

Constable Owen Collins was patrolling No. 4 Highway when he saw the youths climb over a fence and head for some bushland. Questioned, they said they were on a hike.

Provincial Police were alerted early Tuesday when on a report that two persons were attempting to break into Hook's Restaurant at nearby Glendale. The pair escaped in a car and police gave chase. The stolen car went out of control on the curve and the occupants fled in the darkness.

Four Berlin Commandants Plan To Resume Meetings

BERLIN, July 6—(AP)—Russia and the three western powers agreed Tuesday on machinery to carry out the will of their foreign ministers on Berlin and Germany. The four deputy military governors announced in a communique after the meeting that they have agreed that meetings of the four Berlin commandants should be resumed.

They also agreed on creation of a special committee of experts on trade, transport and finance to submit recommendations on how to carry out the agreement on the Paris foreign ministers conference.

The Communique said the commandants will meet "for implementation of paragraph 3C of the Paris Communique."

Different Set-Up

This paragraph was accepted after the four foreign ministers were unable to agree on re-establishing four-power control of divided Germany and Berlin. It called on the occupation authorities to "consult" together with a view to expanding east-west trade and travel in Berlin and Germany and "normalizing, as far as possible," the life of Berlin.

Before the Russian blockade started more than a year ago, the four commandants regularly met in what was called the allied Kommandatura. The veto applied to its proceedings, however, and the four commandants often were unable to make decisions. The Russians finally walked out and broke up the four-power body.

A western official said the veto will still apply to the commandants' meeting, but their functioning together is not a revival of four-power government as it existed before.

Charges British Music In Barbarous State

HASTINGS, England, July 6—(CP)—Dagger-bearded Sir Thomas Beecham is on the warpath again.

Music in Britain, he told a Mozart-Beethoven festival banquet, has "now descended to about the rock bottom condition of barbarism."

"We have every day new impressarios, each one more fantastic than the last. We have a new orchestra every day, each one pronounced to be the best in the world. We have new conductors of whom no one has ever heard . . . and we have about five times as many orchestras as the community can support."

Sir Thomas said "this whole boil and bubble of insanity" would quickly come to an end but for the fact that Britain was "living on American charity."

"When we come down to the rock bottom of sanity and common sense we shall have to start all over again in British music."

Order Warships To Retaliate

TOKYO, July 6 —(Reuters)—British warships will defend any British ship attacked in Chinese waters wherever possible, Admiral Sir Patrick Brind, commander-in-chief of the British far eastern station, told a press conference here today.

"Neither side is entitled to attack British shipping by sea or air and British warships will stop that wherever possible," he said.

The Admiral confirmed that the British aircraft carrier Triumph is on its way to Hong Kong to be ready to operate from the colony.

"There may be another carrier should it be needed," the Admiral added.

The British government has told the Chinese National Government that it can not recognize the "closure" of Chinese territorial waters from Foochow to Manchuria imposed by the Chinese Nationalists on June 25.

The Chinese replied by saying that conditions in the areas declared closed were still unsettled, and urged the British government to warn its shipping not to enter these waters.

Abundant Fruit Expected In '49

OTTAWA, July 6 (CP)—More fruit, less vegetables—that's the outlook for Canadian crops to be harvested this fall.

The Bureau of Statistics Tuesday issued its first 1949 estimates on production reporting that corn will be the only one of the home-grown vegetables more plentiful at harvesting time.

Acreage of asparagus, beans, peas, and tomatoes under contract to vegetable processors is sharply reduced.

Loganberries, a British Columbia crop, will be down, too. But prospects are for more apples, pears, plums, prunes, peaches, grapes, apricots and cherries.

Corn acreage is 23 per cent greater than last year. Apple production is estimated at 16,770,000 bushels, 25 per cent above 1948.

Asks Ratification Of Pact As Shield Against Reds

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan today asked the Senate to ratify the North Atlantic Pact as a shield for free men against "embattled, greedy Communism."

He opened the second day of debate on the 12-power alliance with the double-barreled statement that (1) Communism is the sole threat to world peace and (2) its final target is the United States.

The treaty will be a warning to would-be conquerors. Vandenberg said in his prepared text, that 300,000,000 people will resist aggression.

As Republican leader in foreign affairs, he added the weight of his prestige to that of Senator Tom Connally (Dem. Tex.) who led off in the debate Tuesday.

As Vandenberg spoke, Senate leaders saw a good chance to win final approval of the treaty in less than a week of debate. They were encouraged by a general lack of opposition to the pact and its stated purpose of heading off any attack on the western, non-Communist world. A two-thirds vote of approval by the Senate is needed to bind the United States to the treaty.

Vandenberg called the treaty "the best available implement to discourage armed aggression and thus to stop another war before it starts."

"In my view," he said, "the pact's invincible power for peace is the awesome fact that any aggressor upon the North Atlantic community knows in advance that from the very moment he launches his conquest he will forthwith face whatever cumulative opposition these United Allies deem necessary to beat him to his knees and to restore peace and security."

Not Devalue Pound House Told

Canadian Contracts Remain In Force; Reserves Very Low

By ALAN HARVEY.

LONDON, July 6 (CP)—Britain will mark time on new dollar spending for at least three months and then may make further retrenchments, Sir Stafford Cripps today told the House of Commons.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer said it may be necessary to reduce imports of some footstuffs and raw materials from dollar areas in an effort to cope with Britain's "new and dangerous financial position." Britain, he added, however, "has not the slightest intention of devaluing the pound."

The Chancellor announced this "corrective action" after soberly warning that the sterling area's reserves have fallen to £406,000,000 ($1,624,000) as of last June 30 compared to £471,000,000 last March 31.

Existing contracts — such as agreements with Canada on wheat cheese and bacon—will remain in force.

Sir Stafford said the government reluctantly advised all purchasing departments to postpone new dollar purchases to "the maximum extent practicable."

Must Prove Need

"But specific authority will be required for any new dollar purchases and will only be given when a clear case of urgent national interest is established."

The new import program would be drawn up shortly. It was hoped it would go into effect by September.

Sir Stafford reiterated the familiar appeal for greater efficiency in production and restraint in wage demands. He said any other course would lead to lowering of the standard of living.

He expressed hope that the rising trend of exports to Canada would continue.

Must Cut Prices

The Chancellor of the Exchequer said Britain must reduce the price of her products to encourage exports. He said this can be done through efficiency of pro-

Up Gas Price By Half-Cent

TORONTO, July 6—(CP)—A half-cent a gallon increase in the wholesale price of gasoline in Ontario and Quebec was announced today by Imperial Oil Ltd.

The increase brought retail prices in Imperial service stations in Toronto to 40½ cents for premium grades and 38½ cents for regular grades.

A company spokesman said the increase follows a recent half-cent increase in the Maritimes and earlier increases in prices at eastern U.S. and Gulf Coast points.

He said there would be no increase in the wholesale price in western Canada.

Officials of other oil companies in Toronto said they were considering the move by Imperial and would probably follow suit.

Radio Activity Group Set Up By Government

OTTAWA, July 7 (CP)—Keeping up with the atomic age, the department of mines and resources department has set up a new section—known as the division of radio-activity.

Establishment of the new department was announced today by Mines Minister Gibson who said it is the result of increased interest in Canada in the hunt for radio-active minerals.

The division was formerly a part of the mineral dressing and metallurgy division, which also contained sections in charge of mineral dressing and metallurgy. Departments have now been set up separately for the three sections

Peacetime Record Achieved For Production During Month Of April

Wholesale Prices Of Farm Products Down From Those Listed In 1948; Estimate 199,000 Unemployed In Canada

OTTAWA, July 6—(CP)—Canada set a peacetime production record during April. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics production index reached 187.2, compared with 184.1 at the same time last year. During 1943 and 1944 the index—computed on 1935-39 equals 100—hovered just below 199. Production of cars and trucks and transportation equipment jumped to the highest levels since 1945 to help boost the index. The motor vehicles index zoomed from 189.3 in March to 212.9 and the transportation equipment index went from 252.5 in March to 266.7.

At the same time, the Bureau's review of current economic conditions showed 270 commercial failures during the first three months of 1949, the largest quarterly total since 1941.

Wholesale prices of farm products were higher, going from 147.3 in April to 147.6 in May as compared with 150.4 in May last year.

Production drops since April last year were shown in pulp and paper, coal and foods and beverages.

The bureau estimated 199,000 unemployed in the country in March, some 4.1 per cent. of the total number of persons over 15 working or available for work. Labor income during the month was $605,000,000.

Electric power production was 194.3, against 174.5 a year ago.

The goods and beverages index stood at 178.6, a drop from the 181.4 recorded in April, 1948. Iron and steel products production was 233.0 compared with 255.8 and pulp and paper was 174.4 compared with 176.

The trade section of the report noted that the removal of restrictions on imports from the United States and increased Canadian travel in the U.S. were responsible for the bigger adverse trade balance with that country. The adverse balance for the first four months of the year had increased from $155,900,000 in 1948 to $197,900,000 this year.

duction and "we have no desire to see wages cut."

The "sandstill" in dollar buying which Sir Stafford ordered will continue at least until September. By then ERP funds for the coming year will be distributed, and a new scheme of payments among European controls will be in effect.

"We shall get out a new import program in the light of circumstances which then exist," he said.

The sterling area comprises all British countries except Canada and the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, and also Burma, Iceland and Iraq. Previously, the danger point of sterling reserves has been considered as around $2,000,000,000. The reserves now have sunk nearly $400,000,000 below that.

Sir Stafford told the Commons: "The problem of the relationship between the sterling and dollar worlds is not one to which the United Kingdom alone can find a problem. It is a problem in which our friends and partners of the United States and the Commonwealth are especially involved.

Exports Down to US

He said diminishing exports to the United States were the main reason for the drain on Britain's reserves.

"A drain upon our reserves at present rate calls for immediate corrective action as well as for longer term and more fundamental measures."

He said it may prove necessary to "reduce consumption of certain selected foodstuffs which are primarily drawn from the dollar area and of certain raw materials."

Tobacco, wheat, cotton and gasoline might fall within this category, although Sir Stafford did not single out any specific import.

Sir Stafford said the "standstill" order to government departments on dollar purchases "is no solution for our difficulties" although it was "absolutely essential."

Fire Destroys Barn; Police Question Youth

COBOURG, July 6 (ENS) — Loss estimated at over $10,000 occurred Tuesday afternoon when fire destroyed the barn, 1,000 bales of hay and five cattle on the farm of Karl Haas, northeast of Cobourg. Police are holding a 19-year-old transient, James McColl, for questioning.

McColl is said to have told some of the spectators that he guessed they'd be looking for him after the fire. Provincial Constable Lyle Erskine of Cobourg was called and after questioning the youth took him into custody for further examination.

McColl told police that he was recently released from the reformatory but on account of his readiness to volunteer incriminating statements, provincial police were checking closely on what he had to say.

The fire broke out while the farm employees were at dinner and fueled by 1,000 bales of hay, it spread with great speed throughout the entire building. A valuable bull and four calves perished in the flames, but 15 purebred cattle and two horses were safe in the pasture field when the fire broke out.

Cobourg fire department responded and while a swimming pool supplied plenty of water, the fire had gained such headway that all the brigade could do was to see that it did not spread to the house. The barn was modern in every detail and was 100 by 40 feet in dimensions.

McColl was charged with arson when he appeared in court today, and was remanded until Friday.

CSU Leaders Blamed By Ottawa

MacNamara Advises Union Call Off Disastrous Strike

OTTAWA, July 6 (CP)—The Canadian government has bluntly called the east-coast shipping strike a failure and advised the striking Canadian Seamen's Union to call it off.

The government put full blame for the strike on the executive of the red-influenced CSU, now under suspension from the Trades and Labor Congress.

Arthur MacNamara, Deputy-Minister of Labor, placed responsibility for the strike on CSU President Harry Davis, secretary-treasurer T. G. McManus and their "associates."

He made the statement in a letter released Tuesday, replying to a four-point proposal by the CSU executive for settling the strike.

It started March 31, after east-coast deep-sea operators began signing contracts with the anti-communist Seafarers' International Union (AFL). The strike has spread to 35 world ports and tied up more than half of the 80-ship Canadian merchant fleet.

Mr. MacNamara's letter, addressed to the two union men, said they called the strike "without consulting anyone."

"The events which have transpired since then can all be laid at the door of the union executive in making these disastrous decisions and now that the strike has failed and has been a disastrous one for the seamen and their families and the future of the shipping industry in Canada, my recommendation to you is to call off the strike immediately."

He said the Labor Department will do its best to get operators to put their ships back in service, if the CSU stops the strike.

Accept Tender For 2-Room School Addition

Contract to build the extension of two class rooms at Park Hill School was awarded by the Board of Education Tuesday to Gray and Banks Ltd. of Bailieboro. Gray and Banks quoted the lowest figure of four contractors.

The successful contractor will build the extension for $25,871 and the nearest quotation to that figure came from J. K. Sheehy at $25,875. W. H. Mortlock's figure was $27,569.83 and Eastwood Construction Company quoted 29,900

None of the members of the Board of Education knew a great deal about the building abilities of Gray and Banks Ltd., but J. B. Parkin, the Board's architect, said the two men had set up in business here 18 months ago after several years' experience in England and South Africa. Mr. Gray, who was living at Bailieboro while Mr. Banks was still in England, had told him that he had been manager of a large construction company in England. The types of large buildings in which he had had experience were schools and public houses. The motion to accept the lowest tender was made by Arthur Pitchford and G. Wilson Craw.

Mr. Craw moved that the council be asked to issue debentures for the sum of $28,000 to cover extra expenses including furniture. This was seconded by Walter Bannon.

When discussing the cost of the extension, which it had originally thought would be considerably less, Mr. Parkin pointed out that the new rooms were having several improvements over the existing rooms in the school. There was to be an acoustic ceiling, a sink in each room and a wardrobe instead of bare hooks.

The Board awarded the contract with the proviso that it would not be signed until the council had completed the financial arrangements.

An inter-communication system for Queen Mary School was another addition approved by the Board Tuesday. Mr. Craw said that for some time the need for this system had been evident and K. S. Wightman, superintendent of Schools said that it would be a desirable addition.

A system linking up all the classrooms, teacher's room and nurse's room, similar to the one at Prince of Wales School is to be installed at a cost of $2,644.35. Mr. Wightman said that the system with the outside speaker also, at a cost of $2,800.75 was not sufficiently needed to warrant the extra expenditure.

Base Metals Strong During Mid-Session

TORONTO, July 6 — (CP) — Base metals turned strong in mid-session while golds were under mild selling pressure here today. Activity slowed considerably from Tuesday. A few industrials climbed steadily.

Early activity in base metals was dull but prices suddenly swung ahead in mid-session with key issues leading the way. Consolidated Smelters, Hudson Bay, International Nickel and Noranda, the big-four group, were ahead fractions in brisker activity.

Golds continued under selling pressure as investors continued to realize profits on Monday's advances. The statement from London that England would not devalue the pound tended to depress activity since some recent buying has been attributed to devaluation talk.

Junior producers showed losses ranging up to 15 cents and a few seniors eased fractions.

Selected industrials were in slight demand for fractional advances. Imperial Oil added a fraction following announcement of an increase in gasoline prices in Ontario and Quebec.

500 CHILDREN PARADE

It is estimated that 500 children will march in the Labor Day parade sponsored by the Allied Labor Council. They are children from the city playgrounds who will compete against each other in field sports and other events at Riverside Park. Prizes, similar to those of other years, will be presented to the winners by the ALC.

ANOTHER VICTIM

Lack of water has prevented the Filtration plant fountain at the Water Works from displaying its wares to tourists in the Peterborough area. It will be off until water conditions have improved considerably.

Standardization Plan Pushed For Industries

OTTAWA, July 6 (CP)—Canada is preparing new fields of industrial standardization.

Backed by some 300 Canadian industries and commercial associations, the Canadian Standards Association appears to be nearing completion of three projects to help the Dominion both in war and peace.

"Standardization projects now under development in the CAS may have a far-reaching effect on the industry and national economy of Canada," Col. W. R. McCaffrey, CAS general manager, said in an interview.

Most important is a new standard of screw threads for nuts and bolts, which has been unified with the practices of the United Kingdom and the United States in an agreement last year.

Acceptance by industry of the new unified thread is expected to result in savings in future capital expenditures and increased production efficiency.

The CAS, functioning through funds provided by industry as well as a small annual grant from the federal government, also is helping solve production problems for Canada's shipbuilding industry.

No Depression In Sight

The great depression which began with the Wall Street crash of 1929 left its mark upon the mind of everyone old enough to remember it; unfortunately it seems also to have created a belief in some minds that another, and worse, depression is always just around the corner. Of late there has been some talk of depression because employment in many places has dropped from the high level which it reached during the war and the three or four years which followed it. We must realize that those times were not normal and do not afford a true standard for the measurement of employment in ordinary times of peace. Even a comparison with employment in 1938 is unsatisfactory. We must judge employment and prosperity by many things, and we must not allow ourselves to be cast down by temporary and local declines in employment.

* * *

In Peterborough today, for instance, some industries are working less than the usual five-day week in some departments. In some cases it is shortage of raw material, rather than a lack of demand for goods, which creates this situation. In other cases there have been lay-offs during a period of re-tooling. In still other cases there is a real excess of supply over demand. But in no case is the decline in employment likely to be a permanent or a growing thing, and the coming of autumn should bring better times for those who are laid off now. We must be careful not to see the seeds of depression in a situation which is normal and healthy.

* * *

In the U.S.A. there are approximately 60,000,000 employed people at present, and although this represents a decline of over 3,000,000 from last year's figure it is nevertheless a remarkable fact. In Canada the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports an employment index of 188.6 on May 1 of this year, as compared with 186.5 a year ago; this is an increase of one per cent. only, but it is an increase, and a cause for congratulation. Some levelling off in business must be expected, and the process has begun. But to mistake it for depression is to jump to an unwarranted conclusion.

Holiday Drivers Were Careful

We happened to be motoring on the most travelled, reputedly most speed-inducing highway in Canada over the July 1st-July 4th holiday week-end. We found the Queen Elizabeth Way from Toronto to Hamilton and beyond to Niagara and other points. We ventured on that highway that crowded week-end with trepidation, and drove along it Saturday, Sunday and Monday with pleasure and ease.

Despite the lugubrious warnings, and indeed, despite the large number of highway accidents in Canada during the holiday, we found motorists driving with skill, care, patience and courtesy. Most of them cruised at no higher speed than 45-48 miles an hour, even when they could have been racing at 70. In all three days we noticed but one car travelling at a really high speed, and few went at more than 55 at any time. We saw no car in the ditch, no signs of an accident anywhere along the route, and heard little violent screeching of brakes. Drivers uniformly obeyed the signs and pavement lines. At night along unlighted parts very many drove with their lights dipped all the time, and nearly all others dipped theirs well in advance of an approaching car. Instead of trepidation at being on such a highway at such a time, we felt rather proud to be numbered in the company of such a host of careful and good drivers.

What is the explanation of this evident care, sanity and courtesy? It may be that the drive-carefully campaigns are taking effect, that the alarms and indubitably mounting number of accidents and deaths on highways are frightening people into using greater care. There were not a few police cars on patrol, and they are always an inducement to slower driving. It is possible that the example of the thousands of American drivers on our highways that week-end was contagious. Americans seem to drive more skilfully, and when they are on our roads at least, more carefully than many Canadian drivers. Then, too on a highway such as the Queen Elizabeth Way, there are no bicycles and pedestrians, and few merely local cars of infirm years driven by good people but poor drivers out for a leisurely airing and to look over their shoulders at the neighbour's crops.

The week-end accident toll was heavy; the hightways still are potentially very dangerous. But let us in fairness to motorists allow them credit when due. As we saw them on the Queen Elizabeth way last week-end they were as a group not only skilful but careful, not merely law-abiding but courteous.

A Note For The Censors

In 1857 the French poet Charles Pierre Baudelaire published his book of poems called Fleurs du Mal (Flowers of Evil). Shortly afterward, upon the complaints of certain citizens, Baudelaire, his publisher and his printer were prosecuted in the Court of Correction for having "attacked good morals," and were heavily fined. In 1946 the Literary Society of France appealed against this judgement, and the appeal was sustained; a few weeks ago Baudelaire (who died in 1867) was cleared of the stigma which the court had laid upon him.

What had been happening between 1857, when Baudelaire was disgraced, and 1949, when he was posthumously vindicted? His fame as a poet had grown until he was known in every civilized country in the world, and editions of Fleurs du Mal are numberless. Every good library has a copy of the book, it is the cherished possession of millions of lovers of French poetry; it is studied in schools and colleges. Everyone, in fact, quickly discovered that Baudelaire was a great poet except the moralists. It is curious that people of conscious and indeed aggressive morality should always be a century or so behind the rest of the world in matters of taste and senibility.

Cleaning Up Jackson's Park Creek

The Junior Chamber of Commerce has begun the cleaning and reclamation of Jackson's Park Creek. It is a long, tedious, dirty job, for the creek has been abused for many years. Nevertheless, it has a certain beauty still, and the Junior Chamber is determined to release that beauty from beneath the rubbish of decades. When they have finished the job Peterborough will have regained a pretty natural watercourse which, by Peterborough's own dirty and shiftless ways, had been turned into an eyesore.

All honour to the Junior Chamber for tackling a job which cannot be a pleasure and which must often be wearisome and repellent. Peterborough stands in an area which is famous for its lakes. The two watercourses within the city are both in bad condition because we have not troubled to keep them clean. Little Lake and the river below the sewage plant are in disgraceful condition; the creek is choked with debris. It is greatly to the credit of the Junior Chamber that it is taking practical steps to restore the creek.

The Death Of P. D. Ross

Philip Dansken Ross was born on January 1, 1858; he died on Tuesday, in his 82nd year; for seventy years he was an active newspaperman, and during the greater part of that period was president of the company which produces The Ottawa Journal. During his long life he was active in civic affairs, in the Conservative Party, and in newspaper associations and co-operative newsgathering ventures. At one time he was an athlete of some distinction. But his principal interest was always his newspaper, and his best efforts were given to its improvement and enlargement.

Inevitably Mr. Ross had an unusual fund of recollection of political events and Ottawa memorabilia. He was widely admired as an after dinner speaker and as a racounteur of dry wit. Regret at his passing after so long and useful a life is inevitable, and he will long be held in recollection by those who knew him.

Afrikaans: A Language Of The People

By GLANVILLE LE SUEUR
In The Christian Science Monitor

RECENTLY published figures based on the 1946 census in South Africa indicate that Afrikaans is the most widely used language in the union. Nearly a million and a half people, or 57 per cent. of the while population, gave their home language as Afrikaans, and 11,000 speak both English and Afrikaans in their homes. Behind these figures lies a story of endeavour covering two centuries; an epic of struggle between two rival peoples which are at last blending to form a new nation.

* * *

IT was about a hundred years after the landing of Jan van Riebeeck, that is, the middle of the eighteenth century, that Afrikaans seem to have established itself as a spoken language, and to have developed its own characteristics. The settlers who came over in their little wooden ships had spoken various dialects of Dutch. Their vessels had driven around the world, had captured the trade routes and established outposts of a powerful empire. Now the stalwart Dutchmen began to plant vegetables under the shadow of Table Mountain, and the salt spray of the seven seas blended with the winds of the veldt as they brought to this new land the saltiness and the earthiness of their native tongue.

* * *

THE language took root along with the vegetables and the oaks, and began to develop a character all its own. Just as languages always develop, when they are close to the earth and to the people, Afrikaans flourished in this land of wide horizons and rich new soil. The older folk did not like it very much; called it ill-bred, vulgar, said it had no grammar; that it sounded awful.

These things are said about it today, but it goes from strength to strength, for it is close to the people, giving them a ready phrase, a feeling for things elemental, which the tongue delights in. While the children of a century ago spoke Afrikaans at home and in the streets, they were sometimes punished for using it in school, and an elder of the church was heard to remark, indicating his High Dutch Bible, that what was good enough for Moses was good enough for him!

* * *

THE Bible was translated in 1933, and even its sternest critics had to admit that the new translation shed a light on the Scriptures, and gave to them a piquancy which the rather stilted High Dutch had hidden. Here is the Afrikaans version of I Cor. 13: 4-6:

"4. Die liefde is lankmoedig en vriendelik; die liefde is nie jaloers nie; die liefde praat nie groot nie, is nie opgeblase nie,

"5. handel nie onwelvoeglik nie, soek nie sy eie belang nie, word nie verbitterd nie, reken die kwaad nie toe nie,

"6. is nie bly oor die ongeregtigheid nie, maar is bly met die waarheid."

* * *

THE boom in Afrikaans literature is at its height, and the quality of the work being produced is improving. With the translation of "Hamlet" into Afrikaans, and its presentation by Afrikaans players, another forward step was taken, while all the time original novels, plays, and children's books are being written by local authors.

Indeed, the output of Afrikaans literature probably exceeds that of the English in this country, for the English reader can always get his books from England or America, and the cost is less than that of books printed in this country, while the quality of the printing is sometimes higher. In the case of the Afrikaans language, however, the demand for literature is so strong that these difficulties are to a large extent offset, and South African publishers have plenty of work on hand.

* * *

MANY of the Afrikaans works have a homely, earthy smell about them. Listen to the words of "The Voice of South Africa," one of the union's national anthems. They were written by C. J. Langenhoven, one of the best-loved of Afrikaans poets.

"Uit die blou van onse hemel, uit die diepte van ons see,
Oor ons ewige gebergtes, waar die kranse antwoord gee,
Deur ons ververlate viaktes, met die kreun van ossewa,
Ruis die stem van ons geliefde, van ons land, Suid Afrika.

"Ons sal antwoord op jou roepstem, ons sal offer wat jy vra:
Ons sal lewe, ons sal sterwe, ons vir jou, Suid Afrika."

* * *

ROY Campbell, a South African poet, wrote of Afrikaans:

"The language had to express a new life, more intense and poignant. Greater economy of time was required—words that were hammers of iron, rims of sturdy wheels, words that were cruiser-prows of plowshares, cutting the white-baked clay with crimson wakes....words that asked no sanctions of professors, but exploded spontaneously into life as they were needed, amputating unnecessary limbs from the mother tongue.

"Coarse and healthy as a young colt, Afrikaans is just now in such a state as was the English language when Marlowe first snaffled its jaws with thunder. Established by victory against terrible odds, and finally secure, it now presents itself to the intellect and the imagination, as before it was limited solely to the service of the heart and the will."

* * *

EVERYWHERE one goes today, from the Cape up to the borders of Abyssinia, Afrikaans is spoken and understood, and visitors endear themselves to South Africans by picking up a few phrases with which to greet their listeners from many a public platform. The language is woven into the warp and woof of the people's life, and its future is assured. It has taken its place beside English for its public life of South Africa, and provides for its people a doorway into Flemish, German, Dutch, and the languages of the ancients.

Will it always be confined to one country, or will it one day be heard on distant shores? "Die tyd sal ons leer"—Time will tell.

Letters To The Editor

KEEP CANADA OUT OF PAN-AMERICAN UNION

Sir: Your editorial "Canada and Pan-America" raises the question whether Canada should join the Pan-American Union. The Pan-American Union is the secretariat at Washington of "The Union of American Republics", twenty republics and the U.S.A. The former countries have a common cultural background dominated by Southern European principles, practices and languages. They won their independence by revolution, at which they are experts, not by evolution, and this still colours their thinking. Their ideas of democracy, and freedom of press and person are different to those of Canada. Thus at the 1938 Lima conference a resolution was passed containing the following: "the system of ethnical, language, or religious minorities cannot have any application in America, where the conditions that characterize the groups known as minorities do not exist". In short they are a very different people to those in the greater part of the Northern continent. The Pan-American Union acts as a liaison between these people and the U.S.A., which dominates it on account of its much greater power and population.

Where does, or would Canada fit into this picture? This country exceeds any of the Latin-American republics in industrial development, population and political prestige. We belong to a different racial group, the same as the U.S.A., with whom we have amply sufficient trade and diplomatic intercourse. Suppose Canada joined the Pan-American Union and one of the numerous differences arose between the U.S.A. and the other republics (racial groups). Canada would have to take sides and lose the goodwill of the opposing side. For example, some thirty years ago an arbitration board under a Canadian chairman (Mr. E. LaFleur, K.C.) awarded Chamazil to Mexico, but the U.S.A. has done nothing about it and Chamazil still remains U.S. territory. Suppose the Pan-American union adopted the resolution: "Resolved that the U.S. government do implement the Chamazil award." Then Canada would be in a very unfortunate position in this and similar incidents.

A great many rhetorical phrases like the "Continental Unity of the Americas" and the "Common American Point of View" are largely meaningless. Not only are there different types (races) but the British West Indies, French and Dutch Colonies, and Newfoundland (now Canada) have all refrained from joining. This confused thinking stems from regarding land as a uniting element and water as one which separates, whereas water is the greater union as shown by the British Commonwealth. As a member of this noble and greatest union, Canada would have been in co-operation, as a member of the Pan-American Union, with republics whose policies persistently lagged behind those of the U.S.A. in opposing enslavement by Hitler. The Pan-American Union developed a political function in the early 1930's and in 1938 at the Lima conference affirmed "Their unanimous intention not to become involved in the European conflict". On the outbreak of war they proclaimed "Their absolute adherence to the principles of international law". We forget Hitler's objective, the brittle urgency and the stiffling danger. Canada was free of this ignoble, morbid, amoral outfit and was able to provide a lead for the whole Western hemisphere. In 1940 they talked defence at Havana, and by 1942 many had only broken off diplomatic relations with the Axis, and finally four declared war.

Mr. King toyed with the idea of Canada joining the Pan-American Union, naturally, but Mr. Pearson is more realistic. The Pan-American Union was cradled in isolationism, born of revolt against European countries, it is a liaison organization between two different types of peoples. Canada stands to gain nothing and lose a lot materially and in good will elsewhere, by becoming involved in disputes between principals, or in wars between members of this disunited Union. One of the most savage wars in history between Paraguay and Peru ended in 1935 from exhaustion, not through the good offices of the Pan-American Union which again failed in 1932 between Columbia and Peru. Canada has the honour and right to belong to a greater, a more noble and a more successful union: The Commonwealth of Nations, and also the United Nations.

Most emphatically, Canada should keep out of the Pan-American Union.

Yours truly,
C. W. HOLMAN.

THE HANSARD SOCIETY

Sir: With your kind permission, I would like to enlarge on your recent editorial "Failure of the Hansard Society".

Although there is now no permanent office or secretary in Canada, Canadians interested in the aims of the Hansard Society have entered their membership with the British Hansard Society in London.

As you mentioned in your editorial, the aim of the society is to set up groups of a non-political nature to study the proceedings of Parliament. But the objectives of the organization are broader than this. Some aspects of its purpose are: to make citizens of Canada aware of their Parliamentary heritage; to help the citizens of Canada understand the machinery of democracy; to encourage the people of Canada to accept the responsibilities of citizenship.

What modern novel can compare in interest with the story of the fight for Parliament from early Saxon days to the present day struggle for survival? Even the spectacular explosion of the atom bomb will not affect the development of social man as much as the less spectacular discovery that government by the people for the people is man's right.

"Get out and Vote" campaigns serve an excellent purpose, but at best, are only temporary expedients. If the effort put into the recent Chamber of Commerce campaign could be put into an educational campaign as contemplated by the Hansard Society, the value would be continuing, not temporary.

Although the Canadian Hansard Society has marked up one failure, it still exists as part of a larger organization and more than ever merits support.

Yours truly,
C. K. HURST.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And the first day of unleavened bread, when they killed the passover, his disciples said unto him, Where wilt thou that we go and prepare that thou mayest eat the passover? And he sendeth forth two of his disciples, and saith unto them, Go ye into the city, and there shall meet you a man bearing a pitcher of water: follow him. And whersoever he shall go in, say ye to the goodman of the house. The Master saith, Where is the guest chamber, where I shall eat the passover with my disciples? And he will shew you a large upper room furnished and prepared: there make ready for us.

And his disciples went forth, and came into the city, and found as he had said unto them: and they made ready the passover. And in the evening he cometh with the twelve.

And as they sat and did eat, Jesus said, Verily, I say unto you, One of you which eateth with me shall betray me....The Son of man indeed goeth, as it is written of him: but woe to that man by whom the Son of man is betrayed! good were it for that man if he had never been born.

And as they did eat, Jesus took bread, and blessed, and brake it, and gave to them, and said, Take, eat: this is my body. And he took the cup and when he had given thanks, he gave it to them: and they all drank it.

And he said unto them, This is my blood of the new testament, which is shed for many. (Mark 14: 12-16; 21-24.)

Building Program Hits New High

LONDON, July 6 (CP).—Sidewalk supervisors are getting back on the job in London. Once more they can find construction jobs worth staring at.

Until recently there has been little new construction, essential repairs were performed, but the building program was aimed almost entirely at providing new housing.

Now, although steel and timber are still in short supply, new offices are beginning to go up on sites that have supported nothing but bomb rubble for the last few years.

It is estimated that building worth £215,000,000 ($860,000,000) will be completed in London this year. It will require an army of 250,000 men.

One of the biggest office building projects is a £2,000,000 structure rising in Whitehall not far from the Houses of Parliament. It will accommodate Government employees, whose increased numbers have made the provision of offices a top problem.

Many are still occupying property requisitioned by the government during the war. By 1951, however, they should be in new buildings, 23 of which already are being erected by financial trusts for renting to the Ministry of Works.

Will Ration Milk

LONDON, July 6—(Reuters)—Milk will be rationed again in Britain after 15 weeks of free sale. Rationing will be reimposed Sunday because of a drop in production caused by the month-long hot spell, Food Minister Strachey announced Tuesday. C.N.E. CANDY: "Can I exhibit home-made chocolates and candy at Canadian National Exhibition? Are the prizes worth while?"
Sorry. No classes for home-made chocolates and candy at Canadian National Exhibition. Weather is usually so hot candy will not stand up to it, hence it is difficult to judge.
VARICOSE VEINS: "Is there any possible way to get rid of varicose veins on the legs? They are not large, just small and red and blue."
Best take this question to your doctor. There are three tried and proven ways to get rid of varicose veins: treatment, injection and surgery. Your doctor will give you good sound advice.
ROUND SHOULDERS: "My 13-year-old daughter is quite round-shouldered, indeed, just the figure of her dad. I don't want to keep nagging her about straight shoulders. We tried shoulder braces when she was seven years old. What would you suggest?"
Our medical experts say the round shoulders may be the direct result of adenoids. Have your doctor first check this condition, they advise. If the round shoulders result from poor figure habits, better take the young daughter to the Hospital for Sick Children, Out-Patients' Department, for examination. Doctor in charge will suggest treatment and probably corrective exercises.

Boucher Follows Dit Clapper As Bruin Pilot

BOSTON, July 6 (AP)—George (Buck) Boucher of Mountain, Ont., who coached Ottawa Senators to the Allan Cup title last season and a member of one of Canada's outstanding hockey families, has been named coach of Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League under a one-year contract.

Boucher succeeds popular Dit Clapper, member of hockey's Hall of Fame, who resigned last April.

Brother of such hockey notables as Frank, the New York Rangers' immortal, Billy and Bobby, old-time Montreal Canadiens Buck turned professional for Ottawa Senators in the National Hockey League back in 1915. One of his teammates then was Art Ross, the vice-president and general manager of the Bruins.

After winding up a long NHL career, Buck coached the now disbanded Montreal Maroons and Chicago Blackhawks before joining forces with the Bruins, in 1933-34, as coach of that club's farm team in the Canadian-American Hockey League, the Boston Cubs.

Happy About Deal

Buck also coached Springfield Indians in the Canam Circuit, the Noranda Club in the Gold Belt League and Quebec Beavers.

"The Bruins' management is very happy it could select Buck from a long list of applicants," President Weston Adams of the Bruins said. "He always has coached smart hockey teams that displayed impressive fighting spirit. We're sure he can get everything out of his players plus a little bit more."

"We looked for a two-fisted guy and I'm certain we found him," was Ross' tribute to his oldtime teammate. "Boucher never has been a 'yes man' and I'm positive that he, at 53, is too old to change now. He'll be strictly on his own, in full charge of the playing end and I can assure him now he'll never get any second-guessing from the front office."

Petes Triumph Over Lindsay

Lindsay soccer club dropped two valuable league points Tuesday evening to the Petes club by the score of 5-0 in King Edward Park before a meagre attendance. Thomas, Lindsay, was brilliant in goal. Everley, Lindsay, a newcomer made a good impression. Best for winners were: T. Foster, jr., and L. Payne.

Lindsay arrived late and were minus their goal-keeper and played with 10 men against the Petes eleven and full sub list. Lindsay forced the issue but wilted through subs being placed in and Larry Payne opened the scoring with the assistance of the sub-goalie who helped the ball through the goal. This was followed by Harold Payne scoring the second counter. Willis and Appleton, replied with an aggressive attack that compelled Petes goalie to be alert. Just before the interval, Gribbis headed through the fourth goal after the ball hit the cross-bar.

N. Thomas arrived to complete the visitors eleven and take charge of the goal, on resuming. His display in goal held the Petes off the score list with Lindsay putting up a great battle to break through the stalwart defence of Petes' half-back line—N. Lane, E. Downer and K. Downer. Willis, Cox and Everley repeatedly broke through the defense to find their progress blocked. Thomas, in goal, for Lindsay held the Petes scoreless up until five minutes of the finish when Jack Downer made the count 5-0.

Lindsay—N. Thomas, goal; R. Cox and V. Barbie, full backs; R. N. Crawford, T. Dobbie and L. Appleton half backs; E. Everley, T. Nye, B. Nye, S. Willis and D. Berry forwards. No subs.

Bowmanville's bouncing ballsters are here tonight to tackle the Young Petes at 6.30 in Riverside, a Lakeshore Loop fixture. The local club, sponsored by H. B. McGinness, with Art Pagett and George Masters the co-pilots, have looked fairly impressive in higher company so far this semester and will be shooting for their fifth league win this eve. Sullivan or Corkery will probably do the pitching, with Wade in reserve. Or it could be that Lefty Bill Dadson will take time out from senior competition to toe the mound for Young Petes. They also have a home joust on Saturday at 6.30 p.m. in Riverside with Cobourg the opposition.

A Canadian Press writer with the musical monicker of Shaun McQuillan writes a piece on baseball from London. Says the game's popularity in Britain, simmering for years under die-hard traditions of cricket, is boiling up for a boom now. Bigger crowds coming out each week. A team of American and Canadian players in Birmingham draws crowds up to 7,000, while in the midlands and north—where baseball is most popular—10,000 fans is a normal figure. Hm, that's better than the game draws in Canada as a general thing, eh?

Players Buy Own Gear

"The game in Britain is simon pure," says Shaun, "although some supporters' clubs raise funds to meet the cost of renting parks. Players provide their own gear, which costs about £10 ($40) annually. Most of the players are British but there's a fair sprinkling of Canadians and Americans, former servicemen now settled in Britain or American servicemen doing a tour of duty. People come first to watch out of curiosity, then they become ardent ball fans. Officials hope the public is prepared to accept it as the clean game it is."

* * * * * *

Despite financial difficulties, all clubs coach youngsters, many under 16, and in time the game will challenge cricket as Britain's No. 1 summer sport. One official predicts that baseball will become so popular that professionalism will follow. The item adds that the game has three advantages over cricket—first, spectators can watch the game through, whereas county cricket matches spread over three days; secondly, the odd tie in ball is a common occurrence in cricket; thirdly, unlike club cricket, ball fans enjoy the thrills of knockout cups and league battles. Yes, we've borrowed soccer and cricket from the English, but they're really going in now for our hockey and baseball. And that's all to the good.

Uniteds Tie On Top

Outlaws romped to a 13-2 win o'er Jewellers and Uniteds edged Knights 7-5 in men's softball at the Bowl last eve. A goodly gallery and two neat numbers, especially the last game. Woods threw good ball in the opener and had the hitting behind him with Cournyea leading the way. Hinton had a little the best of Reid in a nifty nightcap on the mound, and Leether's hefty hitting helped a lot. Fielding wasn't too good this joust but it was a keen contest and puts Uniteds in a tie for first spot with Cosmos. These three teams are really in a hot race right now with playoffs not too far off. Cosmos play Uniteds tomorrow, as Jewellers meet Knights. Executive meets at seven tonight in the "Y" to discuss things.

Fading in the fourth quarter at Owen Sound last evening, the Armstrong-sponsored Petes took the slimmer side of a 26-14 OLA senior "A" lacrosse score. The loop-leading Crescents banged home a dozen goals in the windup stanza to win handily. Petes were short the Vitarelli brothers, sitting out suspensions for fighting in Mimico, and they couldn't keep up the torrid pace. The Creightons, McNulty and Teatero turned in a good effort for the visitors, as White, Ashbee and Campbell paced the Owen Sounders on the attack. Mimico Mounties, a rough-house team, comes here Friday p.m. On July 13, with Brampton here, a "father and son night" is offered in Miller Bowl.

Uniteds Take Close One Over Knights

Uniteds edged Knights 7-5 at the Bowl last night before a good-sized crowd to go into a top-place tie in the City Softball League with Cosmos, dropping Knights a bit further back. Each top team has 11 wins and four losses and Knights have nine and six, while Outlaws have won six and lost 10. While the game was slow and marked with nine errors, it was tight and interesting all through. Hinton allowed but five hits, though he walked six, while Reid gave nine hits and walked only two. He fanned seven as Hinton whiffed 10. Leether led the hitters with a triple, double and two singles in five, none of the losers getting more than one safety. Wade pulled off a fine catch in centre.

Dom DiMaggio In Limelight As Red Sox Whip Yankees

By JOE REICHLER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

The youngest of the great DiMaggio clan, although enjoying his best year in baseball, has been shoved into the background by the electrifying comeback of big Joe.

Nearly all baseball know that Joe has slammed five home runs since his return to active competition a week ago. But few are aware that Dom has made more hits than any other American Leaguer and is second only to Detroit's George Kell in batting. And there ins no better fielding centrefielder in the majors.

However, Tuesday night Joe faded into the background despite his double, single and two walks in the four times at bat for the New York Yankees.

He took a back seat to Dom, who walloped a home run and triple and scored two runs to lead the Red Sox to a 4-2 triumph over the Yankees. This helped the Red Sox snap an eight-game losing streak.

Limits Yankees

While Dom was supplying the fireworks, Maurice (Mickey) McDermott, a 20-year-old southpaw, limited the Yankees to four hits to win his third game since joining the Red Sox several weeks ago. Ed Lopat was the loser.

It was Boston's first victory in their last six games with the League leaders, and cut the Yankees' margin over the idle, runner-up Philadelphia Athletics to four games.

The third-place Cleveland Indians advanced to within six games of the Yankees, drubbing the Tigers in Detroit 8-1. Frank Papish, making his second start for Cleveland, gained his first victory with a seven-hitter. Joe Gordon led a 14-hit attack against three Bengal hurlers with two singles and his 13th home run. Marv Grissom was the loser.

St. Louis Browns came up with six runs in the seventh inning to defeat Chicago White Sox 9-5. Paul Lehner singled with the bases loaded to drive in two runs and when catcher Joe Tipton let the throw home get away from him, then threw wild to third, everybody scored. Joe Ostrowski was the winner, and Bill Wight the loser. Luke Appling hit a triple and two singles for the losers.

The second-place St. Louis Cardinals cut Brooklyn's National League lead to one game, winning a 10-inning, 2-1 game from Chicago while the Philadelphia Phils whipped the Dodgers 7-2.

Singles by Red Schoendienst and Marty Marion, and Stan Musial's fielder's choice accounted for the winning run in the 10th. Musial cut down the potential tying run in the last half of the 10th with a fine throw home. Howie Pollet, who relieved starter Harry Brecheen in the seventh, was credited with his 10th victory. Bob Rush went all the way to be charged with his 10th loss for the Cubs.

Ken Heintzelman, veteran Philly southpaw, allowed seven hits in racking up his 10th victory and his fourth straight over the Dodgers. Joe Hatten was kayoed by a six-run blast in the first inning. Bob Blattner homered for the winners.

All other teams enjoyed an off day.

Charge Bishops Collaborators

PRAGUE, July 6 — (AP) — Czechoslovakia's Roman Catholic bishops were accused by a government official of having collaborated with the Nazis during the occupation.

This is one of the charges the government apparently intends to press against the Church Hierarchy to break their resistance to Communist control. The Communist regime claims that the church leaders are "unpatriotic and waging anti-state activities" because they refuse to negotiate a new State-Church accord on government terms.

The charge of collaboration with the Nazis was made despite the fact that the whole country knows that Archbishop Joseph Beran of Prague, the country's primate and leader of the Church in its fight with the government, was a Nazi prisoner in Dachau Concentration Camp.

The collaboration charge against the Catholic leaders was made by Professor Laco Novomesky, Commissioner of Education for Slovakia.

Presents Portrait

HARWOOD, July 6—(ENS)—Mrs. George Rogers of Rochester, N.Y., a summer resident of Harwood, at a ceremony in the Community Hall Friday evening, presented a beautifully framed portrait of her late husband, ex-Senator George Rogers, to the hall, which was received from Mrs. Rogers by Major R. E. Drope, M.M., president of the Memorial Park Committee. The presentation was made at a party sponsored by the W.A. of St. John's Anglican Church. Progressive euchre was played, and the prizes were won by Mrs. C. Calcutt, Mrs. VanDoran, Mrs. Pascoe, Mrs. Wm. Lee and Everett Harris.

Actors Continue Changing Names Till Successful

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, July 6 (AP).—Question: What's in a name?

Answer: Fame or failure for Hollywood hopefuls.

You and I generally go through life with the handle our parents dubbed us with, whether it be Robert, Roderick or Rhoda. But acting folk sometimes change their names with the seasons. It's all a matter of finding the one that will bring them success.

Ever wonder how some of the stars got their names? Here's how:

Judy Garland was one of the Gumm sisters until a Chicago theatre one night made their bill "The Glum Sisters." George Jessel suggested her last name, from the New York critic, Robert Garland.

Billboards Help

Chorus girl Ruby Stevens was dubbed Barbara Stanwyck by her new bosses, Willard Mack and David Belasco. They took it from an old playbill advertising Jan Stanwyck in "Barbara Fritrichie."

Myrna Williams' father picked his daughter's first name from a way-station in Montana. When she started playing slunky sirens in silent films, she decided she needed a more exotic name. So—Myrna Loy.

And Numerologists

Zelma Hedrick switched to her middle name and a variation of her mother's maiden name, Gray. Result Kathryn Grayson.

A numerologist told movie hopeful Harriet Lake she would have better luck with a new name. She has been doing very well as Ann Sothern.

Szdke Szakal obviously needed a name-change for U.S. audiences, So he became S. Z. Sakall. But he got tired of telling people the S. Z. didn't mean a thing. Now he's just plain Cuddles.

Harvey Beecroft Wins $3,000 Scholarship

TORONTO, July 6 — (CP) — Harvey Beecroft, 28, of Toronto, has won a $3,000 scholarship to the Chicago Institute of Design. The award, granted to Beecroft by Canada's National Industrial Design Committee in a competition in which 20 persons took part, will enable him to do two years' post-graduate work in industrial design leading to a master's degree. Beecroft formerly lived in Haileybury, and Fenelon Falls, Ont. He was graduated in architecture from University of Toronto this year.

During the evening gifts of chinaware were presented to Mrs. Earl Waldie and Miss Helen Arnould directors of the play "The Little Clodhopper."

Swimming was enjoyed by the YPU members previous to the weiner roast.

Haying Helper Injured Back

NORWOD, July 6 — (ENS) — Ernest Colby of Norwood is in Civic Hospital with a crushed vertebra as a result of being struck by a swing hay loader.

Mr. Colby was helping Joseph Quinlan, a farmer residing three miles west of Norwood, to take in hay Saturday morning. Something went wrong with the loader and he went up a ladder to fix it.

Believing it to have been repaired he descended the ladder but the loader swung and struck him, knocking him to the mow below. His injuries were said to have been caused by the blow not by the fall.

After receiving medical attention from Dr. Don Holdcroft of Havelock he was taken to Civic Hospital by ambulance. Mr. Colby was placed in a body cast because of the crushed vertebra.

He is being attended to by Dr. A. G. Howson and his condition today is said to be satisfactory.

To Enforce Rules May Deputize Beach Guards

Roused by a letter complaining that people are undressing in the open instead of using the bathing house at Inverlea Park, Jack Dane Recreation Director said the Recreation Commission will ask to have the lifeguards on the beaches deputized as policemen. Mr. Dane said that people are changing their clothes outside the bathing house are going against common decency as well as the regulations of the supervised area. He added that if the request is made to the police commission to have the lifeguards made special officers the chances of its being accepted are good.

Lifeguards, if deputized, Mr. Dane said, will be able to help put a stop to the petty thieving at the beaches and people will be made to conform with regulations in the parks as well as in the swimming areas.

"We're not fooling around any longer with people who feel as taxpayers they can do as they please on the beaches, playgrounds or any other Recreation Commission regulated area," said Mr. Dane. He was referring to swimmers dressing and undressing in the open, rough-house play and people swimming in water forbidden them because of dangerous conditions.

Poppy Campaign Is Reorganized

Re-organization of the Poppy Fund Campaign of the Canadian Legion association members has been made with Maurice Rea, Secretary of the Branch 52 of the Canadian Legion, as general chairman of the campaign. Albert Mason will be chairman of the committee of the sales of the wreaths. Other officers chosen are Eric Hogg and Fred Kiff Jr. organization and marshalling of the Remembrance Day parade; Fred Kiff Jr. and Mrs. Albert Mason, Poppy Tag Day committee. The campaign was conducted last year by the secretary of the Legion.

Maurice Rea explained the changes as an effort to better the 1948 Poppy Day campaign. The money received from the sale of poppies and wreaths is used to aid veterans in need of help in some way.

The member organizations assisting in the Poppy Day campaign are the Canadian Legion Branch 52 and the Ladies' Branch 452, the Ladies' Auxiliary of Branch 52, the Red Patch, the Peterborough Naval Association, the Hasty Pees, the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders and the CGE Ex-Servicemen's Association.

DISCUSS HYDRO SHORTAGE

The subject of a possible hydro shortage came up for discussion at the meeting of the Allied Labor Council on Tuesday night. Several members were concerned over the present dry spell and how it might affect the power supply this autumn and winter. Some of them stated that union men would take a poor view of irregular shifts forced upon them as was the case last year, and they wanted to know if any measures had been contemplated to prevent a recurrence. The subject will be brought up again at the special meeting called for next Tuesday night to discuss unemployment.

Roadside Tables In Big Demand

Picnicing at beauty spots along the highway is one of the highlights of a summer-time motor trip and appeared to be the most universal type of meal during the sweltering holiday weekend.

Driving from Peterborough to Ottawa on the July 1 holiday Cleveland Robb, James St., noted that between 11.45 a.m. and 3 p.m. only one of the many roadside tables along No. 7 Highway from Peterborough to Perth was unoccupied.

"Rarely does a government department receive a word of praise—they are more accustomed to hearing grouses—but there is no doubt that the Department of Highways roadside tables, situated in shaded and picturesque spots, were greatly appreciated by many hundreds of family parties on the road during the holiday," Mr. Robb said.

A LONG WAY from the hot dirty streets of Toronto, these children at the top left are beginning a holiday at a camp for underprivileged children on Pigeon lake, four miles north of Gannon's Narrows bridge. The camp is operated by the Earlscourt Home for Children, Toronto. Their swimming instructor is Mrs. Verna Burgess, whose husband, Bill, is also on the staff. The small fry on the right is, Douglas, two-and-one-half-year-old son of the camp's temporary supervisor, Mrs. F. Hennebury. Shown at the bottom is the main lodge not yet completed containing the dining room and offices. Three large dormitory buildings with separated bedrooms complete the camp. So far only one of these dormitories is ready for use.

Toronto Youngsters Sport At Pigeon Lake As Earlscourt Camp Builds Round Them

We were in a boat! Eyes shining in his thin face, a nine-year-old youngster called out as if he had reached the ultimate in happiness.

All around him were 18 other boys and girls ranging in ages from four to 11 just as delighted as he with their first boat ride. Last week these children were smothering in boiling hot streets in the slums of Toronto. Through the generosity of a few people and the agency of the Earlscourt Children's Home in Toronto they were taken from the dust of the pavement and transported to a camp being built on 20 acres of lightly wooded shore line on Pigeon Lake, four miles north of Gannon's Narrows bridge.

Although the buildings are only partly completed, an advance staff which has arrived is already enthusiastic about the camp. There is a fine sandy beach which slopes gradually into the lake with an area roped off for paddlers. This is one of the few really good beaches on that section of the lake. The land was given to the Earlscourt home by Louis Cadesky of Toronto who is also a prominent shorthorn cattle breeder at Lakehurst. He has a summer home a short distance around the bay from the children's camp.

Volunteer Work

Most of the money to build and maintain the camp was contributed by the Wymadosis Club of Toronto which takes an interest in underprivileged children. But many of the people of the district as well have contributed to the project in many ways. Some of the carpenters and other workmen have worked a day or two now and again for nothing. Others from the Lakehurst district have volunteered labor and have come in when they had free time. Some lumber companies sold the lumber at wholesale prices; a Bobcaygeon company gave the camp a supply.

When the buildings are all complete, there will be three dormitories, one for the girls, one for the boys and another for boys and girls from four to six. In the centre is the main building containing a dining room, kitchen, lounge and offices for the staff.

Building began May 7 under the direction of Keith Gordon of Peterborough. Mr. Gordon has had an average of 15 men to help him. One of the dormitories is complete enough to be used and the others are well on the way. When they are ready more children will arrive with the permanent staff from the institute in Toronto.

The dormitory has eight bedrooms, two storage rooms, a bathroom and a counsellor's room. The bedrooms contain two double bunks with spring-filled mattresses and flannelette sheets.

Temprary Arrangements

Arrangements are still temporary, but the children don't mind in the least. At the moment the camp is under the direction of Mrs. F. Hennebury, a member of the permanent staff of the Toronto institute, who will be girls' counsellor later on. She is being assisted by Shirley Page who is temporarily the boys' counsellor; Mrs. Dorothy Walton, RN, the camp's nurse and at present girls' counsellor; Bill Burgess and his wife Verna who are the boys' and girls' sport supervisors. Mr. Burgess was formerly a school teacher in Peterborough. Rose Ember is acting as the camp dietitian.

The children's day is filled with swimming lessons, handicraft work and nature study, games of all sorts and periods of swimming. In the evening there is often a camp fire and with it Indian counsel. This includes stories of Indian lore, learning some of the Indian language, including prayers and songs. They are going to learn the Omaha tribal prayer before long. The big thrill for the youngsters will come when they begin to learn Indian dances and are able to put on Indian masks representing bears, wolves and foxes for the dances.

What all this means to the children can best be illustrated by the action of one of the boys when he first arrived at the camp. When the bus entered the camp and he saw the lake, he yelled "Water." Before anyone could stop him he raced to the dock and jumped off the end into the lake without a second's hesitation, clothes and all.

Lindsay Offered Gov't Housing Rental $34.50

Houses renting for $34.50 a month were offered to the veterans of Lindsay in a letter to the Lindsay council from a government-sponsored housing corporation.

The houses renting for $34.50 would be four room houses. Five room houses under the same plan would rent for $37.50. They would all be of wooden construction with siding of cedar grain asbestos shingles or aluminum. They would have basements and hot air heating.

Several conditions were attached to the offer. For one thing the corporation would have to have proof at least two veterans families had applied for each house requested by the town.

The veteran would also have to be in a position to pay the rent

The town would have to supply the land and water and sewage services and be prepared to transfer the land to the corporation for the nominal sum of $1. In return the corporation would lend the city $600 per house at two per cent interest rate for providing these services.

Lindsay's Mayor Moore said he knew there was a large waiting list for houses of this type, but the matter should be looked into further before anything was decided.

156 Females In City-Dogs

Females are few and far between in Peterborough's dog world. The male hounds, terriers and the 57 varieties outnumber their mates more than 10 to 1. In making their yearly rounds of the homes in the city the assessors found that there are 1,563 male pooches in the city compared with 156 females.

The south ward of the city has the greatest number of dogs—436. Of these only 39 are bitches. The situation in the north ward is nearly the same with 392 dogs of which 358 are males. Figures in the other wards are: East, 244 dogs, 21 bitches; West, 316 dogs, 28 bitches; Claraday, 189 dogs, 29 bitches; Centre, 59 dogs, and five bitches.

Only 820 dog tags had been bought by the masters for their dogs up to Tuesday afternoon. Dog tags should be bought by April 1. Any dogs born before May 1 should have a tag. The tags cost $2 for a dog and $4 for a bitch.

Due to so few tags being bought Gerald Dunford, dog catcher, told the Examiner that a house to house check will be made. He explained that if a dog was picked up by him on the loose it could be returned to its owner easily if it had a tag. He advises anyone who loses a dog to phone 4722 in case the dog-catcher has picked up the dog. At present he has eight dogs in the pound.

Services Vote Munro Hastings-Peterboro'

The servicemen's vote in the Hastings-Peterborough riding reflected the general opinion of the country in the recent Federal election, but it was widely at variance with that of the home riding.

Figures released showing the political preference of Navy, Army and Air Force personnel are as follows: J. Haffey (CCF) none; J. W. Duke Munro (Liberal) 20; and George S. White (Conservative) nine.

In contrast to the "soldier vote" that of the civilian population showed a substantial majority for the Conservative candidate. Latest figures in possession of Howard Sabine, Hastings-Peterborough Returning Officer show Haffey with 714, Munro with 4,426 and White with 6,066.

The official summing up in that riding will not be made until Monday, July 11.

HAVE TO WAIT

Children in the area of the King Edward Park playground will have to be satisfied with sunbathing, at least until the water shortage is over. Until then the wading pool will be "stone dry." Complaints have been made both over the running of the pool's fountain and the pool not functioning. This matter can only be settled by Mother Nature.

REPLACE OLD BLOCKS

Non-swimmers will soon have no trouble seeing their boundary at Inverlea Park beach. New blocks painted alternately red and white will replace the old faded blocks.

CPO KENNETH WILLIAMS

Torpedoed 1944 Body Recovered Parents Learn

The body of Chief Petty Officer Kenneth Williams, Royal Canadian Naval Reserve, who lost his life when the destroyer HMCS Athabaskan was torpedoed in 1944 has been recovered.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Williams Engleburn Ave., parents of the dead man, were informed that after the remains were recovered burial took place recently at Plouescat, Finistere, France. His ship, the 1,900 ton Tribal class destroyer was split in two by an enemy torpedo while engaged in a duel in the English Channel with two German destroyers.

The sinking occurred April 28, 1944 and he was presumed dead January 22, 1945.

Another Peterborough Son

Another Peterborough man, AB Anthony Bianco, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicola Bianco, Park Hill Rd., was also killed on the Athabaskan. His parents have received no word from the Department of National Defence indicating that his body had been found.

CPO Williams was an Engine Room Artificer, Fourth Class. He went to Glasgow in 1942 to help install the new diesel engines in the Athabaskan, and he remained with the destroyer until the final action.

Included in his naval experience was a trip to Murmansk whereby a steady stream of supplies was maintained to the Soviet. He also helped to escort the first American troopship of the Second World War which was on its way to Ireland.

In the letter to his parents from the Department it says that his grave in the communal cemetery at Plouescat has a temporary wooden marker. Later a permanent headstone will be erected by the Imperial War Graves Commission (Overseas.)

Eager Beavers Jump The Gun

Eager-beaver citizens jumped the gun turning on their hoses Tuesday night, the first night of the limited hosing schedule.

Ross Dobbin, manager of the Public Utilities, said the pressure began to drop at 8:30 p.m. showing that people were beginning to turn on their hose. This low pressure lasted until 11 p.m. one full hour past the allotted time.

The low pressure was bad news for those people living in the low pressure areas. They had trouble getting water for any purpose.

Mr. Dobbin said people will have to hose their lawns strictly according to the schedule times. If everyone is to get fair treatment. If the plan doesn't work out he thought the city would have to return to the former system of no water at all for lawns and gardens.

He said he hoped the people in the low pressure areas would be patient about the lack of water one hour each night

Sewage Plant Enlargement Under Tender

Tenders for the work of enlarging the sewage treatment plant are being called for the city council through Gore and Storrie, consulting engineers in Toronto. Tenders are to be in August 8.

Plans for the addition and extension of the sewage treatment process were received by City Engineer A. E. Chalmers Tuesday.

Included in the additions to the plant will be a large preliminary settling tank which will allow much of the sludge to settle before it is pumped through the processing equipment. Thus the load on the equipment will be eased.

Treatment of the sewage will be carried several steps further than it is now. The resulting sludge can be used as fertilizer by farmers and others without any offensive odor.

This liquid sludge is often used on park lawns and golf course greens. It has a high humus value as well as being valuable as a fertilizer.

Extension to the sewage treatment plant has been held up two years by high costs The plan is now to do the job in stages which can be paid for more easily.

Oops! Tot Lot To Be Moved

August 1 will see the moving of the Kinsmen Club's totlot in Inverlea Park to the northeast section of the park. This will end a hot three-way contest between the City Council, the Parks Committee and the Recreation Commission. For the past month ever since a complaint was made that a child was nearly hit on Park Hill Road near the totlot the City Council and the Parks Committee have been in favor of moving the totlot.

Tuesday morning Dr. Herbert Young, Recreation Commission, and Armar Butcher went to the park to select a new position for the lot. Three weeks ago the City Council asked the Recreation Commission to move the lot. The Recreation Commission prepared a resolution which was passed at the monthly meeting and handed on to the City Council. The resolution recommended leaving the totlot in its present location, with specified improvements. Last week the City Council again asked for a change in its position.

The new location will be in the northeast part of the park. It will be where the basketball court was the first year of park supervision by the Recreation Commission. It will extend almost to the city park limits. Here it was felt the totlot would be out of the way of other playground activities, shady, and be safer for the children left there by the parents.

Another location, mid-way up the park along Dennistoun Ave., was suggested. Although handy for the parents and closer to the toilets and water fountain, the men agreed that this location would spoil the park for other recreations.

Around August 1 the Parks' Committee will undertake to move the lot. The expense of the moving will be paid by the Parks' Committee.

Former Teacher Gifts Presented

DOURO, July 6 (ENS).—The parents and friends of the pupils of SS No. 7, Douro, gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Leahy recently to say farewell to Frank J. Maloney, who has completed his term of teaching here.

An address was read by Isabel Hefferman and presentation of a suitcase and pen and pencil set was made by Frank L. Leahy.

Mr. Moloney, in reply, thanked all for their kindness to him during his term here.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T Moloney of Ennismore were present for the occasion.

MEANING MODIFIED

The word advertisement was used in Shakespeare's time to mean any kind of information.

WHEAT, NOT BULLETS—There's so much wheat in Texas this year they don't know where to put it all. This old ammunition warehouse, about 20 miles outside Amarillo, is pressed into service to store some of the bumper crop.

Couple Reject Church Ruling

BOSTON, July 6.—(AP). — A young Roman Catholic couple, denied a church marriage for participating in a doctrinal dispute, were told Tuesday archdiocesan authorities would grant them a hearing — if they meet certain conditions. A spokesman for the pair quickly branded the conditions "unacceptable."

The exchange—involving Miss Doris Coulombe, 22, and Thomas Sennott, 26, both Roman Catholics —was the latest development in what has come to be known as the Boston College Heresy case.

Monsignor Walter J. Furlong, chancellor of the Boston archdiocese, said he "would be glad to talk" with Miss Coulombe and Sennott "under certain conditions —but the conditions will not be made public."

A friend of Miss Coulombe and Sennott, speaking for the engaged couple, said Msgr. Furlong's condition is that both publicly renounce St. Benedict's Centre, a Cambridge school in which both are students.

St. Benedict's, which has 55 Roman Catholic lay students is operated by Rev. Leonard J. Feeney, S.J., noted Jesuit author, poet and lecturer who was "silenced" — deprived of priestly functions—by Archbishop Richard J. Cushing in mid-April for disobedience. The archbishop accompanied his order with another denying Roman Catholics the sacraments if they attend St. Benedict's.

Eggs Perennial Standby In Times of Rush, Thrift

By MARY MOORE

Reading new cook books is one of my favourite occupations and yesterday I discovered a recipe I have not tried for years — scrambled eggs with chipped beef.

It happens that I have had one of those little 4-oz. jars of chipped beef on my pantry shelf for months, and since we were having one of Marianne's friends for the week-end, instead of our usual Saturday noon lunch of bacon and tomato sandwiches we had this. It would make a good one-hot-dish meal for a hot summer night too.

Scrambled Eggs With Chipped Beef

Pull apart into very small pieces about 2 ounces of dried chipped beef. To it add 1 cup chopped tomatoes, ¼ cup grated old cheese, a grating of onion juice, and shake each of cinnamon and cayenne. In heavy frying pan melt 2 tablespoons butter, and when hot add the mixture and stir. When thoroughly heated through add 3 beaten eggs, stirring. Cook until eggs are of a creamy consistency. Serve very hot on or with toast.

Since we are on the subject of eggs and since the liberal use of them might—just might—help to bring the meat prices down, I am giving you more egg recipes.

Egg Salad — And Variations

(I make a habit of hard-cooking 6 of the eggs when the egg lady brings them on Saturdays, and storing them in the hydrator for quick use durin the week.)

If you are hard-pressed when unexpected guests arrive you can make this salad: Chop 6 hard-cooked eggs when they are cold, and mix with 1 green pepper chopped finely, 1 cup finely chopped celery, 4 slices crisp-cooked side bacon, and salt and pepper and chives or green onions. Moisten with plenty of mayonnaise and serve very cold. This salad may be extended, course, in limitless ways. I add chopped cold potatoes to it, grated carrots, cooked green peas or asparagus, and even shredded cabbage or chopped tomatoes. Hard-cooked eggs are versatile items to have on hand during the hot months.

Savoury Devilled Eggs On Toast

Have ready 2 or 3 halves of hot hard-cooked eggs on toast and pour over them a sauce made by melting 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in top of double boiler; to this add 2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper, then 2 tablespoons flour and blend; add 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 2 tablespoons chili sauce, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ cups homogenized milk; stir until thick. While very hot pour over the prepared eggs on toast. This is a delicious supper dish. One very much like it was a favourite dish of the late Franklin Roosevelt.

A variation of the old favourite "Devilled Eggs" is called and calls for salted peanuts (Remember to use plenty of peanuts and peanut butter for they contain the valuable B vitamin some of us lack.) Hard cook 4 eggs and chill and peel them. Cut in halves lengthwise. Remove yolks. Add 2 tablespoons mayonnaise, 3 tablespoons chopped salted peanuts, 1 teaspoon cream, 1 or 2 teaspoons grated onion or chopped chives, 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley, ½ teaspoon mustard, shake of cayenne; mix well and refill egg white halves. These are pretty if arranged on lettuce leaves with alternate wedges of ripe tomatoes. Pass French Dressing.

Another variation of this is to use chutney in place of peanuts and omit the mustard. This is "different" and a nice surprise for a picnic basket lunch.

Hogg-Carruthers

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. Leslie Carruthers, Plainville, on Saturday, when her second daughter Helen Grace, became the bride of Charles Graham Hogg, younger son of Mrs. Hogg and the late Bert Hogg, Roseneath. The Rev. A. E. Larke, of Gore's Landing officiated, and the ceremony took place on the lawn, under an arch of evergreen, entwined with a profusion of summer flowers.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, wore a gown of white nylon. Her veil was of silk net, held in place by a halo of pearls, and she carried a bouquet of Bettertime roses, bouvardia and maiden hair fern.

Mrs. Douglas Harris, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, wearing a dusty rose satin frock with matching hat and gloves.

Mr. Glen Hogg of Harwood, was groomsman.

Mrs. A. E. Larke sang preceding the ceremony and during the signing of the register.

A buffet luncheon was served by girl friends of the bride to about 40 guests.

Later the bride and groom left on a trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls, the bride wearing a rose suit with whote accessories.

They will reside near Harwood, where the groom is an employee of the Harwood Co-operative Creamery.

John T. Metherel Weds In Orillia

At the Orillia Baptist church on Saturday, Shirley Ann Dutrizac, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Dutrizac, Sr., Orillia, was united in marriage with John Thomas Metherel, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Metherel, of Peterborough. The ceremony was by the Rev. Alfred Price.

The church was decorated with Shasta daisies and delphiniums and organ music was played by the Rev. Alfred Price.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of dusty rose crepe with matching picture hat and mittens. She carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and white sweet peas.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Mervin Pritchard, of Sudbury, a cousin of the bride, wore a cocktail length dress of ice blue crepe with matching halo hat and mitts and carried a cascade bouquet of Talisman roses and pink sweet peas.

The groomsman was J. T. Dutrizac, Jr., the bride's brother, and ushers were Al Copping, of Detroit and Jack Sharpe, of Peterborough.

The reception was held at Birchmere. On their return from the wedding trip the bride and groom will reside in Kitchener.

Guests were present from Toronto, Sudbury, Peterborough, Ottawa, Guelph, Detroit, Buffalo and Hamilton.

Princess Elizabeth, Philip Move Into London Home

LONDON, July 6—(CP)—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh at last have a home of their own in London.

They took up residence at Clarence House despite the fact that painters and decorators still are working there. Princess Elizabeth and the household staff moved in during the afternoon. The duke, who attended a public function at Trowbridge, Wiltshire, during the day, joined her this evening.

The residence of the heiress-presumptive to the throne and her husband is in the grounds of St. James' Palace, facing the Mall and only a few hundred yards from Buckingham Palace.

A few minutes after the Princess arrived from Buckingham Palace the Royal Standard flew from the flag-staff above the flat-roofed, cream-painted Victorian mansion occupied for a time by the Duke of Connaught, her great grand-uncle who once was Governor-General of Canada.

Sentries of the Welsh Guards took up their posts at the main gateway signifying that Princess Elizabeth is in residence. Only a handful of passers-by noticed her arrival.

Modern Residence

Clarence House, which has been undergoing renovations for many months, now is practically transformed into a modern Royal home. But it will be several weeks before the decorators leave. This afternoon men in white overalls, carrying paint pots and brushes, were still at work.

With a small household staff, the Princess and the Duke are occupying a capacious suite of rooms on the first floor while the finishing touches are put to the rest of the house. Prince Charles, their son, who was born last Nov. 14, still is with a nurse at Midlesham More in Surrey, country house of Elizabeth and the Duke. But the young price will join his parents shortly.

The Princess and the Duke will personaly supervise the installation of furniture in the other rooms. One of their main difficulties is the unusual one of having too much furniture, most of it wedding presents.

DOROTHY DIX

Parasitic Husband Makes Marriage Misery

Dorothy Dix

DEAR MISS DIX: My sweetheart and I have been going together 4 years. He is 19 and I am 20. At present he is out of work. I have a fairly good job and I believe I could pay the expenses until he has found work if we were married. He thinks that he would be dissatisfied without work and with me paying all the bills, so he does not want to marry until he has a job again.

What would you advise?
IMPATIENT.

ANSWER: I would not only advise, I would entreat you with all the earnestness of which I am capable, not to think of doing anything so wrong and foolish as to get married until your man is on his feet again and has some good, settled way of making a living. If you force him by your importunities into marrying you now against his better judgment, you will wreck him, because you will destroy his self-respect, you will break down his morale, you will kill everything that is fine and beautiful in your love, and eventually he will come to hate you as he realizes what a mess you have made of his life just because you were impatient and not willing to wait for a deferred happiness.

Don't delude yourself into thinking that it is fine and noble for you to be willing to work and support your husband, and that he will be grateful to you for doing so. If a man has any decency and any spirit of manhood about him, he wants to be the breadwinner in his family. He wants to take care of his wife. He wants to be the strong and efficient one at the head of the house, and when you reverse this order of things, which is the order of Nature, it invariably causes trouble. No man can be dependent on his wife without being ashamed of it and resentful of it, and invariably he takes out his resentment in being surly and disagreeable to his wife. I know many women who support their husbands, but I do not know a single one in which the parasitic husband treats his wife with even common politeness.

It is a cruel thing for a girl to rush a boy into marriage before he is prepared for it, yet it is a crime that girls commit continually, apparently without any realization of the wrong they are doing not only to the boy but to themselves. For thousands upon thousands of marriages that go on the rocks would never have met with disaster if the girl had had the patience to wait until the boys were financially able to marry.

Perhaps the boy is ambitious. He knows he has talent and that he could rise in the world if he only had a chance, but that chance depends on his being able to pursue his education, or having a few dollars saved up when opportunity knocks at his door. If he marries, he hopelessly handicaps himself, and so he wants to wait until he gets his foot on the ladder before he takes unto himself a wife.

The girl discovers that she has less money to spend on herself than she did before, and if she has to support her husband she is filled with a secret contempt for him, for, while a man can gloat over being prodigally generous to his wife and boast of it, few women are open-handed enough to be generous to their husbands.

As for the man, nothing humiliates him as much as does taking from his wife. One year of being dependent on a woman will give any man an inferiority complex from which he will never recover.—DOROTHY DIX.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a girl of 18, engaged to a boy who is 19, but does that make him my present lord and master? If it is necessary for me to attend a school function he sulks. If I talk with any one, male or female, he raves. If I gout out of the house on the evenings when I don't see him he starts a quarrel. I love this boy dearly, but I am not oblivious to his many shortcomings, among which are jealousy, selfishness and sulkiness. I am not happy with him, but I would be much more unhappy without him. Do you think our engagement should be broken off now, or shall I wait to see if time will change him?

PERSEPHONE.

ANSWER: You may be unhappy for a little while if you break off your engagement to this ill-tempered and tryannical young cub, but if you go on and marry him you will bring lasting misery on yourself. For it is a man's disposition that his wife has to live with, day in and day out, and if that is disagreeable and cantankerous her marriage will be failure and, as the old saying goes, she will sup on sorrow and her drink will be tears.

It doesn't matter how many outstanding virtues a man may have if he has a mean any cranky disposition. He may be noble and high-minded. He may be honest and honorable. He may be sober and moral and industrious and a pillar of righteousness in the community in which he lives. These are nothing to the wife if he is surly and grouchy and fault-finding and hard to get along with.

Certainly this young man has put the stop, look and listen sign for you. He has shown that if you marry him he will treat you as the dust beneath his feet. He will expect you to obey him as if you were a slave. If you don't give in to him on every point, he will go into the silence that will send the temperature of your home down below freezing and out of which you will have to cajole him by effacing yourself.

I can imagine no worse fate that a girl can bring upon herself than to marry such a man. So take the tip as to the future he has offered you and break away while the going is good.—DOROTHY DIX.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Canada's mines and oil wells, not her golf courses, were beckoning to Walter Hagen when he visited Toronto 10 years ago today. Here "strictly on business," he promised to return in August for the Canadian Open. He did, but did not place well, Sammy Snead took the title.

Outfielder Monte Irvin and infielder Henry Thompson, the first Negro players to appear on the club's roster, have been purchased by New York Giants from the Jersey City club and will be in uniform at the Polo Grounds when the Giants meet the Phils tonight, it was announced Tuesday at New York.

Group Insurance Plan Kept By OHA Officials

TORONTO, July 6 (CP) —The Ontario Hockey Association executive committee wound up its day-long session Tuesday night by screening everything from league schedules and group insurance to player disputes.

Out of the meeting, presided over by J. J. (Jim) McFadyen of Galt, came word of a 46-game schedule for Junior A clubs and a 40-game schedule for the Senior A loop.

McFadyen also convinced the Junior A delegates that the so-called "group insurance" policy should be retained in the league. This is a plan whereby 7½ per cent of the gross gate of each game is pooled, the total sum then divided by the number of games played with each club receiving one unit of the money for each game played.

Considerable discussion over Doug Towers, young prospect on Toronto Maple Leafs' negotiation list, who was drafted by Oshawa Generals, was heard. Barrie Flyers said they had already signed Towers, claiming he was a junior a player with Porcupine Combines.

However, the Generals claim he was a juvenile with Moneta. Towers played in both leagues last season, and McFadyen said the OHA will investigate the matter thoroughly.

A new entry for the five team Senior A loop was received from Niagara Falls. Jay Jay MacDonald said his sponsors were willing to gamble $50,000 that Niagara Falls could make a go of senior hockey.

George Panter, assistant secretary of the Ontario Hockey Association, said "everybody wants to get into the Junior A act."

Several Applications

He said the executive committee of the association, in session here, has applications on file from Niagara Falls, Kitchener and Waterloo.

Marlboros, Oshawa, Barrie, Galt, Stratford, Guelph, St. Michaels, St. Catharines and Windsor, he said, are the Ontario towns already re-entered for next winter's Junior A series and added a few more are interested.

Treasurer George Dudley of Midland, reported that prospective revenue from last year's playoffs will be more than $31,000 for all series. The Intermediate B playoffs brought in $1,000 more than the Junior A, he said.

New clubs at the OHA meeting were Lakefield and Tillsonburg, probably with Intermediate B ratings, and Lindsay Meteors, formerly Toronto Meteors, Senior B.

Havelock Victors

NORWOOD, July 6 (ENS) — Havelock defeated Norwood 16-12 in Norwood Monday evening. It was the second tussle for the home boys and their second defeat. Although they had a good lead in the first of the game by the score of 12-4 for Norwood, at the end of the fourth inning, K. Vaughan really bottled them up in the last three.

Kelly was replaced by Ernie Spencer as pitcher for Norwood, but the Havelock boys could still hit them, getting seven in the last inning. The teams:

Havelock—Pollock cf, Southward rf, Thompson lf, Cosgrove c, W. Vaughn 2b, Bales ss, McColl 3b, Heath 1b, K. Vaughn p.

Norwood—K. McKenzie c, B. Monahan 1b, B. Spencer 2b, B. Kelly p, L. Wrightly 3b, E. Spencer cf, Don Rae rf, Dick Fredericks lf, Freddie Baker ss, G. LaBrash, Jack Stackhouse, Marvyn Scott, Dewart Morrison.

Bell Beats Duffus

Bell Telephone trimmed Duffus Motors 19-3 in a Civic Softball League fixture, scoring five in the first frame, two next heat, seven in the fourth one next inning and four in the sixth. The losers counted two in the first and one in the third as good pitching and fielding held them down.

Teams:

Duffus—Logan, Manbeck, Hill, Corkery, McIsaac, Smith, Black, Sharp, Tyler.

Bell—Conway, Greatrix, James, Ackford, Harrison, Gillespie, Tushingham, Wood, Giardino, McClure.

ATTENDS TORONTO MEETING

L. H. Ingram, of the Quaker Oats Co. in Peterborough, attended Tuesday's meeting of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations in Toronto. Mr. Ingram is a past president of the associations.

George T. McGowan, collector of internal revenue for the port of Buffalo, said Tuesday sports promoters of events in Canada must pay a 20 per cent American admission tax on all tickets sold in the United States.

Promoters of such events also pay 22 per cent Ontario tax on tickets sold either in that province or in the US. Several Buffalo promoters who have staged boxing and wrestling bouts in nearby Fort Erie, Ont., said today that tickets for future matches will only be sold in Fort Erie. They said the tax was "a temporary blow" because substantial numbers of tickets are sold here.

South Victorious

Southend peewees pulled out a 13-9 City Baseball League victory over the northenders last evening. They got two runs in the first inning, four in the third, three each the next two and one in the sixth. The losers counted five in the first, adding one in the fifth and finished with three in the seventh. McDougall fanned nine of the losers, while eight of the winners went down on strikes. Teams:

Southend: Kearns, Floyd, Halcrow, Coit, McDougall, Cuffe, Smith, P. Gerard, D. Gerard, Beggs.

Northend: Peacock, Gardner, Nash, Brady, Smith, Davis, Crowe, Hamlin, Montgomery.

Bears Bounce Jersey City 14-1

By The Associated Press.

Newark Bears are on the verge of giving up their season-long lease on the International League basement.

They trail the seventh place Baltimore Orioles by only one game today following Tuesday night's 14-1 romp over Jersey City Giants.

At the same time, the Orioles bowed to Syracuse 8-0 to lower their season percentage to .347, the same mark held by Newark.

While Harry Schaeffer, rookie righthander, was holding the Little Giants to four hits, his mates pounded two Jersey pitchers for 19 safeties. Lew Riggs, Marty Hansen, Johnny Dyck and Leon Culberson clouted home runs for the Bruins.

Johnny Hetki pitched the six-hit shutout for the Syracuse Chiefs. It was his ninth win of the season.

A wild throw by catcher Hal Wagner enabled Montreal to score three unearned runs in the top of the 13th inning and gave the Royals a 4-2 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs, with the bases loaded and the score tied at 1-1, Wagner attempted to complete a double play by throwing to first. The ball went wide and two runners scored. A single by Chuck Connors then sent another tally across the plate.

The Leafs came back to get one run on Eddie Sanicki's 22nd home run.

Dan Bankhead went all the way to register his ninth win for the Royals. Oscar Judd was the loser.

Verne Escoe TKO's British Opponent

LONDON, July 6 (CP)—Verne Escoe was the only one of three Canadian boxing titleholders to gain a victory on an all-star card at the Olympia last night.

Escoe, Canadian heavyweight champion from Toronto, won a technical knockout over Jack Gerdner, Market Harborough, Leicestershire, when the Briton couldn't come out of his corner for the sixth of their scheduled eight-round tilt. The Toronto scrapper scaled 194½ to Gardner's 200¼.

Jean Richard of Montreal, Canadian featherweight champ, was outpointed by Ray Famechon of France, European featherweight titleholder, in 10 rounds.

In another 10-rounder Fernando Gagnon, of Quebec, Canadian bantamweight champion, was outpointed by Danny O'Sullivan of London.

Campbellford Gains TVL Softball Tussle

CAMPBELLFORD, July 6 — (ENS). — Backing up the fine hurling of Holmes and Robertson with excellent work in the field, the locals trimmed the Colborne nine 21-7 in a TVL softball contest here on Tuesday night. It was a one-sided affair until the fourth inning when the visitors came to life and played fast ball during the balance of the game..

The teams:

Colborne—Lowry 2b, R. Carter ss, Lee 3b, Muskett 1b, Hall c, L. Carter rf, Frauts cf, Maskel lf, Semple p.

Campbellford — Robertson ss, Herrington cf, D. Holmes p, Fralick c, Taylor rf, Bibby 3b, L. Holmes 1b, Robinson 2b, Blake lf.

Labor Council To Investigate Unemployment

To sort our fact from rumor in the present local employment situation the Allied Labor Council has decided to call a special meeting for all members next Tuesday night. Those on the unemployment committee will be notified they should come with statistics on the present level of employment in their respective shops compared with the same date a year ago.

This was decided at a regular meeting of the ALC Tuesday night.

Introducnig the subject, Phil Knibbs, UE representative and corresponding secretary, said it was a matter of concern to all the workers of Peterborough. Management explanations that layoffs are "seasonal" or "temporary" are not acceptable, he stated.

Fewer Jobs

"There are many less jobs about in July 1949 than in July 1948," Mr Knibbs said. "For example, the company (CGE) tells us there are no people employed with less than an a year's service except some skilled tradesmen."

Alfred Barber, ALC president, pointed out that at Canada Packers there is no cannery this year which means about 100 less people employed than in 1948.

When the refrigeration department of CGE moves to Montreal later this summer or early autumn it will affect about 300 local people, one delegate said.

"What can we as the ALC do about this unemployment situation?" asked William Whibbs, Local 524.

"There's one thing we can do," replied Fred Hannah, CCL organizer. "Recently there was a piece in the local press about 300 people coming in every day from Lindsay. We could point out that scarcity begins at home. Many people are coming into the city to work from rural areas and yet farmers are crying out for help."

Several members demurred at this suggestion saying that some of their staunchest union members were from outside the city.

John Rowley, UE organizer, suggested two ways of meeting the problem of unemployment: one, by local projects with provincial and federal help if possible; and two, by putting pressure on those holding two or three jobs.

In the absence of more exact knowledge on the local situation it was decided to postpone further discussion until the special meeting in a week's time.

Millbrook Leads

BETHANY, July 6.—(ENS).—After losing their game at Millbrook on Friday, Bethany baseball team staged a neat comeback on Monday when they were the victors over Millbrook by a score of 13-7. Brenton Dawson pitched the first half for Millbrook, Harry Kennedy the last. Roy Dawson caught.

For Bethany, Reg. Edmunds pitched the entire game, Art Stewart catching. May be a record to have father and son playing on the same team. It was a nice combination last night with Bruce Ryley on first base and son Harry on third. V. Jackson played second base, Ray Stewart, shortstop L. Capstick, R. Pomeroy and H. Lowes made up the outfield.

Umpires were W. Reynolds at the plate, G. Hartness on bases.

This is the last of the scheduled games in the Durham East section with Millbrook topping this half and Bethany in second place. The playoff schedules will be announced following Friday's games of Blackstock at Yelverton and Janetville at Port Perry in the west section.

To Defend Crown

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—Maybe Ezzard Charles can't carry Joe Louis' gloves but he's beating the Brown Bomber's record for a first title defence. The Negro from Cincinnati who won the National Boxing Association share of Louis' vacated heavyweight championship at Chicago June 22, has agreed to defend his crown Aug. 10 against Gus Lesnevich, the former world light heavyweight king. New York's Yankee Stadium will be the site of the 15-round bout to be held only 49 days after Charles captured the crown by outpointing Jersey Joe Walcott.

Church Picnic Held At Keene

KEENE, July 6—(ENS)—The annual Sunday school and church picnic of the United Church was held at Keene recreation park on Friday when races, games and sports were entered into with zest, despite the warm weather. Supper was served on the church lawn.

The church service on Sunday was in keeping with Dominion Day. The theme was "Canada Our Home and Native Land." Reference was made to what has made our nation strong and prosperous, not so much the mineral resources, its farming industry, its factories, but the character of its people. This has been fostered by Christian ideals taught in our homes, churches, schools and other national orginizations, said Rev. G. Murray, the pastor. Walter Morrow of Peterborough presided at the organ and Donald Landry sang two solos.

On Sunday, July 10, at 11 a.m. Akron Baptist Temple, Ohio, will be guest minister. The church at Akron was recently completed at a cost of one million dollars. $150,000 Fire Deliberately Set In Church

Hamilton Alderman Charges Laxness In Firemen's Methods

HAMILTON, JULY 7 (CP) — A $150,000 fire, believed to be of incendiary origin, today destroyed Westminster Presbyterian Church here.

The blaze had swept through a large section of the interior before the alarm was turned in by an unidentified passer-by who stood on the street and shouted: "Fire, fire."

Police constables John Galloway and James Gavin, first to reach the scene, said a rear door on the west side of the building had been kicked in although the caretaker had left everything in order Wednesday night.

Fire Chief William Murdoch said he believed the fire was deliberately started, but declined further comment.

Destruction of the east end church resulted in charges of laxness in the Hamilton Fire Department by Ald. H. Arnott Hicks who said he would demand that Board of Control conduct an investigation.

Had To Help

He charged that residents had to help three firemen pull hoses from the first truck on the scene.

"Then it took the firemen more than an hour to get the aerial ladder here and into action. Once the aerial got there, the firemen soon had the blaze under control," Mr. Hicks said.

Twenty minutes after firemen arrived, the roof buckled and collapsed, the first floor and gallery fell in and only the walls were standing when the blaze was extinguished.

Eyewitnesses reported the flames shot high in the sky, topped by a dense pall of smoke. The three-alarm blaze, one of the most spectacular since the destruction of Hamilton Central Collegiate several years ago, was brought under control two hours after scores of firemen were called from seven stations.

Union Boycott Against Britain Said Premature

MONTREAL, July 7 (CP) — The threatened boycott of British ships in east coast United States ports remained unsettled today following reports that the announcement was "premature" from the two major Maritime groups.

Joseph P. Ryan, International President of the International Longshoremen's Union said in New York Wednesday night that he agreed with the statement issued by the Maritimes Trades Council of New York that the boycott statement made here Wednesday by Hal. C. Banks, International Representative of the Seafarers' International Union, was "premature." All three Maritime bodies are members of the American Federation of Labor.

Banks, leader in Canada of the union whose signing with Canadian east coast shipowners touched off the strike of the rival Canadian Seamen's Union March 31, announced the boycott after sending a cable to Prime Minister Attlee.

His cable said: "Regret to inform you that all British ships will be boycotted in eastern U. S. ports as of July 7."

Banks told reporters the boycott would start at midnight Wednesday night. He said it would be backed by the MTC, embracing east coast port workers affiliated with the AFL.

Following the premature calling of the announcement by the two Maritime bodies, Banks could not be reached for comment.

His announcement said the boycott was a reprisal for the action of British dockers who have refused to handle Canadian ships against which the CSU has struck.

Ryan said that when the various unions in the MTC do decide to call such a boycott "we want it to be 100 per cent effective."

$1,500,000 Fire Lays Waste ¼-Mile Bangor Waterfront

BANGOR, Me., July 7—(AP)—A $1,500,000 blaze early today laid waste a quarter mile of Bangor's waterfront. Five fuel plants, a bus garage, and store houses of a hardware and a plumbing supply firm were levelled. Drums of gasoline and oil caused the explosions.

Four big gasoline and oil tanks were in danger for more than three hours. At times the flames licked the sides of the tanks.

Five fire departments won their spectacular battle shortly before 2 a.m. They stopped the flames just north of the big Maine Central railroad freight sheds.

Visible for miles from this city of 30,000, the fire attracted thousands.

A National Guard battery was turned out to help police control the crowds around the fire zone, which stretched a quarter of a mile south of the Penobscot River's confluence with Kenduskeag stream.

Other thousands lined the opposite river bank in Brewer.

Several firemen overcome by smoke were the only casualties reported.

Although fire still was all around them, four big gasoline and oil tanks did not ignite.

The fire zone was wholly industrial and commercial. No residences were in danger.

Violence Sweeps Across Japan

TOKYO, July 7—(AP)—New violence marked Japan's worsening labor situation today.

A state of national emergency appeared in the offing.

Ibaragi Prefecture miners joined in the general unrest. They protested and demonstrated against arrest of 19 of their number and discharge of 200 more.

Evidence mounted to indicate the country's first political murder since the occupation had been committed. The victim was Sadanori Shimoyama, president of the National Railway Corporation.

Doctors said there were strong indications he had been dead at least 12 hours before his body was mangled by a speeding freight train in Tokyo Tuesday.

Shimoyama had just issued discharge notices to 30 000 to 95,000 rail workers scheduled to be let out under an American-sponsored retrenchment plan.

New Hudson Bay Ship Begins Arctic Trip

MONTREAL, July 7 —(CP)— The new Hudson's Bay Company ship, Rupertsland, will sail today on her first voyage into the Arctic to supply the lonely outposts served for so many years by the famed Nascopie.

At the helm of the small but sturdy 60-ton vessel will be Capt. A. C. Lloyd of Barries, Wales, who will also be making his first voyage through the ice-strewn waters where the Nascopie foundered on a rocky reef two years ago after 35 successful annual trips.

Capt. Lloyd has had considerable experience sailing in the Russian Arctic and is looking forward to his 9,000-mile voyage to bring the necessities of life to Eskimos and whites who live on the "rim of the world."

Iowa Man Breeds Wingless Chickens

DES MOINES, Ia., July 7 (AP) —Wingless chickens have been developed by Peter H. Bauman of Des Moines after 12 years of selective breeding.

Bauman said his birds have white meat where others have only bony wings. And besides, no high fence is needed to keep the chickens in the yard.

Bauman says the chickens lay an average number of eggs, but he says in time he expects the breed will out-lay other chickens as well as produce more meat. The reason is that the energy an ordinary chicken wastes in "useless flapping and flying about can be utilized in production of meat and eggs," Bauman said.

Cyanide Kills U of T Student

TORONTO, July 7 — (CP) — Three grains of potassium cyanide, the deadliest of poisons, caused the death of Ralph Whelan, 22-year-old University of Toronto honor student, Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson announced today following an analysis by Prof. Joslyn Rogers.

He said an inquest will be held to determine where the student obtained the poison and how it was administered.

"Because potassium cyanide acts in a matter of minutes," the Chief Coroner said, "we believe that Whelan was fatally poisoned shortly after he entered his room."

Police have been unable to establish a motive for the poisoning, he added.

The youth, whose body was found in his room Tuesday night, was employed during the summer at the University of Toronto's chemical laboratories.

Charge Hospital Refused Baby

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP).—Michael and Mary Zaccaro's first child was born five weeks ago with a spinal ailment that left him partially paralyzed. Doctors, they said, gave the boy less than a year to live.

The young husband, 21, and his 19-year-old wife took the baby from the hospital where he was born last Thursday. They were told to go to another hospital with the paralyzed infant.

There, they said, they were refused admittance.

So, they told a court Wednesday, they left the baby the next night on a stairway in Bellevue Hospital. They were afraid the hospital might not take him in otherwise.

Then, Tuesday, they were arrested on abandonment charges.

"If this great city of our has no facilities to care for such cases as this then the city itself is guilty," their counsel told Magistrate Philip B. Thurston.

The judge paroled the Zaccaros and ordered a thorough investigation of the case.

Make It On Wing, Prayer 54 Plane Passengers Safe

SHANNON, Ireland, July 7 — (AP)—Fifty-four passengers on a trans-Atlantic plane forced to turn back when it developed engine trouble 600 miles out of Shanon, breathed a sigh of relief today when the plane arrived back here.

"I can swim," said comedian Danny Kaye, one of those aboard, "but not 600 miles."

The Pan American World Airways Stratocruiser was en route from London to New York.

The pilot, Capt. H. G. Gunbransen of Lake Success, N.Y., said a of the port engines. When he tried cutting off that one motor, the propeller fell off, he said.

Gunbransen said he took the ship down from 18,000 to 3,000 feet. "We were ready to ditch on the ocean," he added.

The plane, using three engines, made it back to Shannon in three hours and 45 minutes. The airline is sending two planes from London today to take the passengers on to New York.

Other passengers included tennis stars Louise Brough and Margaret Osborne Dupont, returning from the Wimbledon tournament.

Miss Brough said everybody aboard the plane donned lifejackets. "I couldn't help laughing at Danny Kaye," she said, "when I saw him in his lifejacket, even under the circumstances."

(Pan American World Airways reported in New York that Paul V. McNutt, former Governor of Indiana and former head of the Federal Security Agency, also was on the plane.)

18 Prisoners Make Try For Freedom

One Guard Slugged, Second Prisoner As Shower Wrecked

TORONTO, July 7 (CP)—Eighteen long-term prisoners in Toronto's Don Jail made an unsuccessful break for freedom today in which one guard was slugged into unconsciousness with an iron pipe and the jail shower-room was wrecked.

Armed guards subdued the prisoners wtih hoses and tear-gas while more than 100 city police officers were summoned as a precautionary measure to the jail, in the eastern section of the city across the Don River.

The attempt was quickly controlled.

The injured guard was William Wallace, a veteran attendant, who was rushed to hospital with head wounds. The extent of his injuries was not immediately known.

Jail authorities said the intended break was well planned, though another official termed it a "silly" attempt.

It came when the 18 prisoners, attended by Wallace and another guard, were trooping into the shower-room.

Attacks Guard

Suddenly one of the prisoners swung a piece of iron piping and knocked Wallace to the ground. Prisoners dragged him into a side washroom, from which he later was rescued by other guards.

The second guard in the shower-room, meantime, rang an alarm and other jail attendants converged on the room and battled the prisoners with hoses and tear-gas.

C. F. Neelands, Deputy-Minister of Reform Institutions for Ontario, described the disturbance as "a silly, abortive attempt to escape."

"The prisoners made some noise and milled around, but order was quickly restored," he told reporters. "If it was an attempt to escape, it was a foolish one for the guards who were watching them in the shower-room did not have keys which would have let the prisoners out of the jail."

He said his Department is making an inquiry.

Guards Locked In

The second guard in the shower-room with Wallace, Fred Lee, said he and Wallace had just reached the ground-floor showers in the south-east block of the jail building when one of the prisoners shouted: "This is it. Now's the time."

Then one of the prisoners pulled the piping from his clothing, and struck Wallace.

The two doors leading into the shower-room were locked and bolted by guards out in the corridor. Lee and Wallace were locked in with the prisoners for a time.

While the Don Jail prisoners were rioting, police reported that a woman prisoner, Lillian Samson of Toronto, escaped from the Mercer Reformatory across the city in the west-end. She merely walked out the front gate and disappeared.

CHANGES STORY

CHICAGO, July 7—(AP)—A 13-year-old boy told police today he strangled a neighbor child and hanged him to a rafter, then retracted his story.

2,500 Trees Burned

OSHAWA, July 7—(CP)—Fire originating in a pine stump Wednesday burned more than 15 acres of reforested land and destroyed 2,500 young pine trees near Dagmar, 20 miles northwest of Oshawa. Twenty men from the nearby Ontario county forest prevented the fire from spreading into a 350-acre bush. The trees were owned by A. H. Murphy of Brooklin, six miles northwest of here.

One-Armed Vet Saves Boy 5 From Drowning

LINDSAY, June 7 (ENS)—Although not sure he could swim, Fred Mills, 35, of Bobcaygeon jumped into the Trent Canal in Lindsay, Wednesday, to rescue a five-year-old boy. Mills, a one-armed war veteran, attracted by the frightened shouts of nearby children, ran to the canal bank and spotted the young boy's head in the water just before he sank from view.

Handicapped with only the one arm, Mills had difficulty pulling the boy to safety. He held the nearly unconscious five-year-old up with his arm and kicked his legs in order to reach the bank.

By that time another man arrived to assist in the rescue.

Name of the rescued boy was unknown. After artificial respiration applied by Mills had brought him around, he disappeared before authorities could learn his name.

Screams of children playing along the bank of the Scugog River, which constitutes part of the Trent Canal system, first attracted Mills' attention to the accident.

"I was working in the yard at the rear of the Benson Hotel," said Mills. "I heard some kids hollering and shouting, so I looked over the wall at the rear of the yard. Two women were standing on the bridge pointing to the water. I knew something must have happened, so I jumped the wall and started running down the hill to the water."

"I could see the boy's head in the water as I ran, but by the time I got to the bank he had disappeared. I just jumped in and within a few seconds managed to spot him near the bottom of the river. He wasn't hard to raise to the surface, but how I got him out I'll never know."

Mills said he was "a pretty good swimmer once," but hadn't been in the water for several years.

"I didn't really know whether I could swim any more or not. I held him up with my arm, and by kicking pretty hard with my feet managed to get back to the bank. By that time another man had arrived and helped me get him out of the water."

Artificial respiration learned while he was attached to the National Fire Service in England during the war was credited by Mills with bringing the boy around.

"He wasn't quite unconscious, but he was pretty far gone. Another few seconds and I don't think he would be around," said Mills.

Born in Toronto, Mills happened to be in England when the Second World War broke out. A few days later, he was in an accident at work which resulted in amputation of his arm.

Send Troops To Take Over Job Of Unloading Strike-Bound London Ships

Labor Minister Isaacs Retracts Statement 2,000 Meat Porters Strike; 96 Vessels Idle In Big British Port

LONDON, July 7—(CP)—Labor Minister George Isaacs today made—then retracted—an announcement that 2,000 workers at Smithfield meat market, London, had quit work after troops started unloading meat from strike-bound ships in London docks. Some time after making the statement in the House of Commons, Isaacs intervened in the debate to withdraw the announcement, saying he had had the information "in good faith and on short order."

"I was unable to check it sufficiently," he said.

Earlier he had said:

"There has been no improvement at the docks this morning . . . certain food supplies now are being unloaded by service personnel, but I regret to say I have just learned that some 2,000 meat porters and drivers have stopped work at Smithfield."

The troops began unloading meat shortly after noon in the government's first move to get cargoes moving again in the London docks—idle since the men struck more than a week ago in support of the Canadian Seamen's Union.

Manage Winches

More than 200 men from the Scots and Coldstream Guards took over the winches aboard the Argentina Star. Carcasses were being hustled into refrigerated trucks for transport to market.

Two hundred sailors and 100 Royal Marines were reported en route to the docks.

Today's work parties, mainly technicians able to work cranes and winches, left the Chelsea barracks in a motorcycle-escorted convoy.

As the denim-clad troops swung into their work, the National Dock Labor Board also announced further work stoppages. In St. Catherines Dock 250 workers quit in protest against military "intervention" and 2,750 men employed in London docks scheduled a meeting for tomorrow to decide their policy.

Ships idle numbered 96, an increase of one over Wednesday, the Board announced. Seven were unudermanned against Wednesday's eight.

Asks U.S. To Speed Up Raw Material Buying

WASHINGTON, July 7 (AP). —Britain has asked the United States to speed up purchases of strategic raw materials the United Kingdom has available for sale as a means of helping solve its financial crisis.

Government officials said today this suggestion has been made informally to the State Department.

The British view is that since the United States intends to buy these critical raw materials for stockpiling purposes in any event it could best help Britain by buying immediately, thus making the dollar available quickly to help correct her present dollar shortage.

The United States undoubtedly could save money by buying slowly, taking advantage of the steady price drops in many of the raw materials.

Strike Threat Facing U.S. Steel Plants

PITTSBURGH, July 7—(AP) —The United States today faced the threat of its first major steel strike since 1946. United States Steel Corp., bellwether of the industry, said "no" Wednesday to demands of the United Steelworkers (CIO) for a fourth round wage increase and for company-financed pension and insurance programs.

The union immediately called a July 13 meeting of its wage policy committee to consider a possible strike July 16.

Contract negotiations between the steel union and the United States No. 1 steel producer were recessed indefinitely. The talks had just resumed after a two-week recess.

Phillip Murray, president of the CIO and the steelworkers, told a press conference:

"There is no hope as I see it at present of a mutually satisfactory agreement being arrived at on any of the issues."

Benjamin F. Fairless, president of United States Steel, said in New York that "with business now receding in almost every industry across the land, nothing could be more damaging to the economy of the nation than generally to increase labor costs at this time."

Jackson Sends Strong Protest

TORONTO, July 7 (CP)—C. S. Jackson, one of five top United Electrical Workers Union officials suspended Wednesday by the Canadian Congress of Labor, has sent a "strong protest" to Pat Conroy, C.C.L. secretary-treasurer.

In a telegram, Mr. Jackson said his union "strongly protests action of the executive council in interfering with the autonomous rights of this union to advocate and press the policies adopted by its membership.

"We intend to carry out protests to the basic membership of the Congress and to the forthcoming convention," he added.

The five men were suspended at a special meeting of the Congress executive. Suspended besides Mr. Jackson were: M. Chambers, vice-president, of Peterborough; George Harris, secretary-treasurer; Ross Russell, organizing director and Jack F. Douglas, editor of the U.E. News.

Gas Fire Threatens Destroy Peace Bridge

BUFFALO, July 7 (AP)—The Peace Bridge to Canada reopened to traffic early today after a gas fire beneath it was brought under control.

The fire disrupted telephone and gas service to Canada and threatened for a time to weaken the 22-year-old international span.

Buffalo and Fort Erie firemen fought the blaze for about two hours after it was discovered by a party of Buffalonians returning from Canada.

Firemen said flames shooting from an apparently broken gas main charred wires, burned cables and buckled sidewalks on the bridge.

The cause was not established. Fire Commissioner Joseph S. Masterson estimated damage at between $50,000 and $100,000.

Don't Expect Food Contracts Renewed

Believe Britain's Trouble Inability To Meet Competitive Prices

OTTAWA, July 8 — (CP) — Trade officials don't think Canada will be affected—not right away, anyway—by the British government's decision to cut imports from dollar areas.

But the restrictions announced Wednesday in London by Sir Stafford Cripps may mean the Anglo-Canadian food contracts won't be renewed when they expire in 1950.

The contracts are worth $400,000,000 a year for Canadian cheese, wheat, eggs, bacon and salmon. The wheat agreement wouldn't have been renewed anyway. It will be superseded by the new international wheat agreement.

Officials here said, too, they are confident Canada can help Britain overcome the serious dollar shortage that led to the import restrictions but they would not speculate on how Canada might help.

Canada's exports to the United Kingdom have been "pared to the bone," one Canadian trade expert said. The food contracts probably wouldn't be renewed unless the dollar shortage was overcome by 1950.

Tough Sledding

It was also expected that some less essential manufactured goods made in Canada might find it tough sledding in sterling markets following the announcement.

Another expert said the reasons for Britain's dollar troubles were a lag in production and inability to meet competitive prices in dollar countries.

The production problem will be discussed by the Anglo-Canadian continuing committee on trade and economic affairs which will meet in London at the same time as the finance ministers.

It has been suggested that the U.S. may lift tariff barriers against British goods to help U.K. manufacturers meet American price competition, made more difficult by recent drops in American prices. Canada may lift tariffs, but the extent would be governed by the possible effects on Canadian manufacturers.

The last time Canada lifted tariffs on British products was a year ago when duty on British textiles was removed and the U.K. agreed to ship a quota of textiles to Canada. But the quota wasn't met. The goods were sold, instead, in barter areas where prices were higher.

US Has Sympathy But No Aid In British Crisis

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(AP)—Britain seemed likely today to get United States sympathy—and not much else—in her newest financial plight.

Members of Congress generally reacted coolly to the announcement that Britain is down to her last £406,000,000 ($1,624,000,000) in gold and dollars. Their general observation was that the problem is one Britain will have to solve for herself without increased United States financial aid.

State Secretary Dean Acheson said that, like an individual whose income drops, Britain was cutting her purchases. He added this was an unfortunate temporary necessity, however, and not a permanent solution.

Britain will get $920,000,000 in Marshall Plan aid this year. Democrats and Republicans joined in saying that Britain had better not count on additional United States help.

No More Help

Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee, told a reporter "the British have a planned economy and it just hasn't worked," he said. "They'll have to work out their problem for themselves by changing their system or doing something else. We can't be expected to give them any more help than we already have."

Senator Patrick McCarran (Dem. Nev.), a member of the Senate appropriations committee, said "we have been pouring out our money to them for years and they are in worse condition than they were when the war ended. "I don't think they will get anywhere until they change their socialist government."

Paul G. Hoffman, economic cooperation administrator, recently testified Britain was making steady recovery gains ,a viewpoint Cripps stressed in reporting that production is at record levels in his country with trade practically in overall balance.

Senator Kenneth Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican floor leader, said the new reports of British dollar shortage just don't square with what Congress has been told about ECA's plan helping Britain back on her feet.

EYE TOPICS

THANK YOU B. F.

We owe the idea of bifocals to Benjamin Franklin. But we owe today's superbifocals to many unsung marchers in the onward parade of ophthalmic science.

Old Ben Franklin was known to everyone by his crabtree stick—and his glasses. He wrote that by 1784 he could not read even large print without his glasses. Before that year, he used two pairs of glasses—one for reading, and one for regarding what he called "the prospects," meaning objects at a distance.

"Finding this change troublesome and not always sufficiently ready," he wrote, "I had the glasses cut and half of each kind associated in the same circle." These were the first bifocals.

Ben Franklin's glasses, however, clearly showed where the two lenses were joined. In modern bifocals the joining point is nearly invisible. Looking at them casually, you would think they were ground from single lenses, but really there are two types of glass in each lens.

If you have any question concerning your eyes, or any visual problems, your enquiries are very welcome. Enquiries should be addressed to A. Ward Smith, 341 George St. (Over Selkirk's), Peterborough, Ont. A personal visit to Mr. Smith at this address (Telephone 9397) would be even more desirable.

Girl 16 Calls Gang To Fight

TORONTO, July 7 — (CP). — An attractive 16-year-old girl was accused on Wednesday in the County Court of calling her "gang" from a West Toronto pool hall to start a "zoot-suiters" fight in an East-end school yard.

Seven 'teen-aged youths and the girl, Gladys Hull, were appearing on charges of causing a disturbance.

Alan Stokes, 18, testified he and two other East-end friends called at the girl's home to collect some money and a fountain pen they had loaned her. He said the girl told him there was going to be a "livening up in the district," and that she was bringing her boys down.

Stokes said that a short time later 12 or 13 youths from the West-end appeared and provoked a fight with him and his friends in the grounds of the Normal School.

"The fight started and the girl just stood over by the corner," said Stokes. "After we got ruffled up the gang dispersed."

Stokes said his nose was smashed and his eye blackened. He said he had only known Gladys Hull two days but had lent her his pen the previous night.

Sprinkler Plan Used For Crops

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., July 7—(CP). — The sprinkler system of watering a lawn is being applied this year to sugar beet and vegetable farming in the Lethbridge irrigation district of Southern Alberta.

Just as the city dweller can do two jobs at the same time with the aid of a lawn sprinkler, the irrigation farmer now may give his attention to other chores while a big sprinkler system waters his crops.

Previously the flooding and furrow methods have been the accepted means of spreading water from the irrigation canals to the cropland.

Those using the new system say it saves manpower, providing even crop growth with less water and eliminates costly land levelling because it can water up and down hill.

Sprinkler irrigation is done through light-weight aluminum piping which is laid out over the crop land. Water, pumped in under pressure, shoots out of the pipe at 40-foot intervals through spray nozzles.

New Truck Damaged In Water St. Crash

A new truck owned by Lillico Motors was wrecked and a car driven by Harry Dafoe the George St. hairdresser, was badly smashed Wednesday afternoon when the two vehicles collided on Water St. at the junction of Argyle St.

The car and the truck were proceeding north and south on Water St. as a car which had just left the hospital, turned from Argyle St. into Water St. It appeared that the truck driver pulled out onto the left hand side of Water St. to avoid the car from he hospital and in so doing, met Mr. Dafoe who was travelling north.

The truck mounted the curb with such force that the back axle was broken and landed on its side on the sidewalk. Mr. Dafoe's car was involved in collision with the truck and the entire front was badly smashed.

Damage to both the Lillico truck and Mr. Dafoe's car was heavy, but was confined to the two vehicles and no one was hurt.

The driver of the car entering Water St. from Argyle St. was J. J. Conrod of Saskatoon.

There was a minor collision between a truck and a parked car during the busy traffic period around 6 p.m. on McDonnel St. Miss R. Lessard of Ennismore had left her car on the north side of the street. The trunk of the car was hit by a truck driven by James Elmhirst of Keene. Damage to the car was estimated at $30.

Couldn't Take Heat Greenhouse Bursts

LANCASTER, Pa., July 7 — (AP)—Albert Reitz was mopping his brow, looking at a thermometer that registered 101 degrees Tuesday, when suddenly, wham!

A terrific blast shook his greenhouse and 30 panes of heavy glass were blown from the building.

Reitz made his way carefully through the glass and entered the greenhouse to find an unbroken thermometer registering 142 degrees.

Apparently, Reitz said, sunshine beating through the glass kept expanding the air inside until the glass was shattered.

Deputy Fire Chief E. J. Nixon said the blaze spread rapidly and "I called for reinforcements as soon as I arrived."

"You have to look at a fire before you know what equipment is needed," he said.

Fire Chief Murdoch said the department's aerial ladder is not "usually" dispatched to fires as far east as the church.

"It is kept in the downtown area where the high buildings with high property values are concentrated."

Norman Anderson, chairman of the church's Management Board, said the Board had planned to spend $5,000 on repairs this summer. Workmen had nearly finished re-roofing the building this week.

He said the church carried a $23,000 mortgage and the loss to the congregation will be heavy.

$24-A-Week Freedom Chosen By Diplomat

OTTAWA, July 7 (CP) — A 36-year-old diplomat, who preferred Canada's freedom to communism, gave up a $6,000 a year position to work as a $24 a week desk clerk in a hotel at neighboring Hull, Que.

W. A. Zbik, for three years second secretary to the Polish legation in Ottawa, left his post in April rather than return to his Communist - dominated home country.

Unable to find the type of work he wanted, he took a job at the Hull hotel, at $4,700 less than his previous salary. His salary in the diplomatic service was tax-free.

He is one of five representatives of Communist-dominated countries to break with their governments in recent months to settle in Canada.

Mr. Zbik considers the Communists "far more dangerous" to a nation than the Nazis or Fascists. "The Nazis could only work on your body," he said. "The Communists work on your soul."

Papers Criticize Cripps' Plan

LONDON, July 7 (Reuters) — Dissatisfaction at Wednesday's statement by Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, on the drain on gold and dollar reserves in the sterling area was expressed by most sections of the British press this morning.

The Daily Herald, Labor, commented that "the saving of dollars provides no permanent solution to our problem. It is upon the earning of dollars that we must concentrate our ability and energy."

A commentator in the Conservative Daily Mail speculated on the possibility of Prime Minister Attlee or Foreign Secretary Bevin going to Washington with Sir Stafford to attend a conference there in September on the present economic situation.

The Financial Times, in an editorial called "crisis unsolved," said: "one would have expected from the government recognition that a state of national crisis existed.

"One would have looked, for measures that would bring home to the people the fact that there is a crisis in reality—not merely a crisis in the papers—and which would stimulate them to efforts to overcome it.

"Instead we are presented with a policy which will 'have little immediate effect,' and is so technical that it is doubtful if any layman will understand it. . ."

Old Hose Tower Demolished

COBOURG, July 7.—(ENS). — Cobourg's own leaning tower of Pisa, the tall structure used to dry out the fire hose, has been torn down on account of the sag of its timbers and its general antique condition. It is believed that it was built some 70 years ago. Fire Chief Jim Campbell said that it was there when he came to Cobourg 61 years ago.

The old frame tower was located directly back of the fire hall, and while it served its purpose well, the electric dryer which has replaced it is much more efficient.

Fire Chief Campbell said that about 500 feet of hose would be used in an average fire, and it would take two to three days to dry it in the old tower or even longer in cold weather. Now it only takes the new drying equipment about seven hours to dry 500 feet of hose.

Peterborough's Sound Finance

Serial debentures amounting to $1,814,990 issued by the city of Peterborough were offered for sale on Tuesday, and all were gone before the market closed at the end of the day. This was the largest issue that Peterborough has ever offered, and it is flattering that it was taken up so quickly. Experts in such matters say that there are only three other Ontario cities which could hope for a similar show of confidence— Ottawa, Toronto and Kingston.

* * *

This circumstance leads us to refer once again to a matter which we have mentioned many times before in these columns, and that is the soundness of Peterborough's finance. Once, in its early history, this community got itself into a mess by careless handling of money matters, and the outcome of that experience was the establishment of a City Trust. Although that Trust is now less active than before, it has established a pattern which has served the city well. The latest and largest issue of debentures was in the hands of the City Treasury, and the eagerness of buyers to acquire them shows plainly the trust which attaches to the name of Peterborough in the world of finance.

* * *

Because the city has large commitments and a heavy program of development before it there have been suggestions that we are over-reaching our strength and may be headed for bad times. Apparently business firms and banks which understand these matters thoroughly think that our credit is as sound as that of any city in the province. It is heartening to know that Peterborough's credit is held in such esteem.

Another Dollar Crisis

Dollar crises, like alarms about crops, are nothing to joke about, but we cannot help but remark that they have become as frequent and spasmodic since the war as vagaries in the weather always are. If it is not Canada that is in a dollar dilemma, it is Britain, France, Italy or China.

Sir Stafford Cripps' announcement in the House of Commons yesterday that Britain was in "a new and dangerous financial position" and that its gold reserves had fallen seriously has been heard in Canada sympathetically and also anxiously. The British government must take immediate action to curb its dollar spending. That means, for Canada, a smaller British market for Canadian goods. We shall be able to sell less in Britain, and thus our economic life-sustaining export business will be lessened, unless other ways are found out of the British dollar problem. It is to assist in the exploration of ways and means that Mr. Douglas Abbott, Canada's Minister of Finance, has gone to London. There he will confer with American Treasury officials and later with other Commonwealth finance ministers.

At this latter conference he will be in a unique position, for Canada is the only Commonwealth country outside the sterling area. There will undoubtedly be pressure to increase sterling area trade. This would adversely affect trade with Canada. It would also tend to further divide world trade, and the more it is divided into blocs or the more barter deals are made, the more shackled international trade becomes.

Mr. Abbott has already said that Canada is not in a position to make further large loans to Britain. Our own reserve of dollars is too meagre. The chief ways in which Britain can right her dollar deficit is to bring her standard of living into line with her means, or to increase her means. Either method is drastic. To further reduce her living standards is not desirable. The way to increase the means is to produce more. As Mr. Abbott said, Britain is not exporting enough to pay for the commodities she imports. She must produce more and export more. Unless she does, what will happen when E.R.P. dollars stop flowing in 1952?

Peterborough Traffic And The Faludi Report

The heaviest movement of summer visitors through Peterborough is now under way, and there are times when the traffic on Charlotte Street is greater than that street was ever designed to accommodate. The police have been doing a good job of moving traffic and preventing snarls, but their best efforts are unable to prevent a certain amount of congestion. A great deal of this traffic is moving through the city, heading north, and does not mean to stop. Is there any reason why it should travel on one of our busiest streets?

We seem to recall that the Faludi Report contained suggestions for a by-pass which would take through traffic to the north without using the streets which are already most in use. We do not know whether anything is being done to put those suggestions into action but we think that it would be wise to look up the report and see what can be done.

It is sometimes said that tourists who pass through our streets stop and buy goods in local shops. We doubt very much if they stop when they are already irritated by a traffic block; and during the busy hours of the day there are never so many vacant parking spaces on Charlotte Street that the tourist is tempted by them. Undoubtedly tourists do a great deal of shopping here, but we think that they do it on specially planned expeditions, and not on chance visits. There are always a number of tourists who do not intend to stop at all, and for their convenience, and that of the city, it would be a good plan to have an alternative route for them which began as far outside Peterborough as the Kawartha Country Club, and took them through the quieter streets to the northern exit from the city.

More About "Squid Jiggin' Ground"

On June 22 we commented in these columns on the wealth of folk-song which Newfoundland possesses, and mentioned particularly a piece called Squid Jiggin' Ground which was played by the carillon of the Houses of Parliament on the day that Newfoundland joined the Confederation. We knew no more of it than the name. Now Miss Constance Troy, of Ottawa, supplies us with further information.

A squid, as most people know, is a kind of cuttle fish which squirts a black liquid when it is in danger. It is used for bait by Newfoundland fishermen; how squid are caught we do not know, but the process is called jigging.

Here are the words of the song as supplied by Miss Troy:

Oh! this is the place where the fishermen gather--
With oil skins and boots and Cape-Ann's battered down,
All sizes of figures with squid lines and jiggers
They congregate here on the squid-jiggin' ground.

Some are workin' their jiggers while others are yarnin',
There's some standin' up and some more lyin' down,
While all kinds of fun, jokes and tricks are begun
As they wait for the squid on the squid-jiggin' ground.

There's men from the Harbour and men from the Fickle,
In all kinds of motor boats, green, gray and brown;
There's a red-headed Tory out there in a dory,
A-runnin' down Squires on the squid-jiggin' ground.

There's men of all ages, and boys in the bargain,
There's old Billy Chafe and there's Raymond Brown;
Right yonder is "Bobby" and with him is "Nobby",
They're a-chawin' hard tack on the squid-jiggin' ground.

The man with the whiskers is old Jacob Steele;
He's gettin' well up but he's still pretty sound;
While Uncle Bob Hawkins wears three pairs of stockings,
Whenever he's out on the squid-jiggin' ground.

God bless my sou'wester there's Skipper John Chaffey,
He's the best man at squid-jiggin' here, I'll be bound,
Hello! what's the row? Why, he's jiggin' one now—
The very first squid on the squid-jiggin' ground.

The Squires referred to in the third verse is Sir R. A. Squires, once Liberal Prime Minister of Newfoundland; this accounts for the fact that he was being run down by the red-headed Tory. This sport still persists in Newfoundland. The tune, Miss Troy tells us, is similar to that of "Sweet Betsey from Pike," with which man of our readers will be familiar.

Mouse racing is the new English sport; the mice pursue a piece of cheese which is on wheels. In the case of blind mice, of course, a farmer's wife is used.

A London Letter from Conrad Frost

AT any moment now they will display a sign outside the Colonial Exhibition in Oxford Street: "It's Cooler Inside!" Fifteen rainless days here constitute a drought, and three or four days of blazing sunshine make a heatwave. We are having both, and in little villages likes Brasted in Kent, the cottagers fetch all their water from the one well not yet dried up. A harsh heat continues both by day and night and every telephone line to the Air Ministry is engaged by irate and sleepless citizens complaining that the mock air war is too noisy, and too realistic. Must "Exercise Foil" be carried out at rooftop level, they ask.

❖ ❖ ❖

BUT it is a strange feeling to stand out of doors in the lavender blue dusk listening to the awful pulse of the bombers throbbing through the night. The mind goes leaping back like a coward to the blitz nights of 1940. The minute skin muscles contract into "gooseflesh." One feels guilty and anxious about the lighted and uncurtained window. Hundreds, driven out of airless rooms by the horrid heat are sleeping, to the lullaby of the bombers, in the open spaces of Hyde Park, although the park is officially closed at midnight. As I write this copy around the time borderline that separates one baking day from the next, I can hear the splash of my neighbours diving into the river Thames which flows warm and slow at the end of the lawn.

❖ ❖ ❖

THE news that goes up to Gleneagles, where the Cinema Exhibitors are this week holding a conference, may well cause them to mop their brows. Show business has hit the doldrums. Cinemas are empty. Theatres are relying upon bookings made in the days when the breeze blew chilly. But television, not the temperature, is the menace the film men are in Scotland to discuss. The thermometer will go down again, but the di-pole television masts just go up, and up and up! Today's widely publicised picture that will disturb them shows two men in the exclusive Members' Room at Wimbledon. There are two windows in the room. One, factual, looks out on Courts 2 and 3 where games are in progress. But the two men are looking into the other window, the seeing-eye of television which is showing them the Test Match in progress at Lords. At Gleneagles, they just don't know the answer to this new menace.

❖ ❖ ❖

THERE have been hints this week that sweets will go back on the ration, and that there will be a cut price war in the tobacco industry soon with new brands of cigarettes coming on the market at lower prices. It has become an offence in most parts of the country to use your garden hose, but if this creates a wave of mi crime, the police won't mind. Crime has waned in London. There have been 8,000 fewer indictable crimes in the first five months of this year than in the same period last year.

❖ ❖ ❖

BUT nobody—including this columnist who would like to be heading his column "Speaking From Alaska"—seems to care very much. The nation is in holiday mood. And the shops report a sell out in bathing suits, sun tops and sandals. One sh in Luton, only town left where they still make straw boaters, turned away this season a thousand men who would have liked to have been straw hatted. Chances of getting a boater are almost exactly a million to one! Overnight telephonists at the Air Ministry's Met office in Kingsway last night answered 50 "How hot is it?" calls. The man who didn't ring them was Samuel Arthur Williams in Blackfriars, S.E. He was busy wiping five inches of snow off pipes in an ice factory.

❖ ❖ ❖

THE startling revelation that clothes have now been added to the list of "free" benefits poured out at public expense comes at a moment when one can only slant the news despairingly against the background of blazing sunshine and ask weakly: "What would Bevin give them on a day like this?"

And, by jingo, there's a smart come-back answer.

"Women will get whatever is suitable. At present we should fit them out with bright summer dresses."

The Health Service is costing £260,000,000 to be inflicted upon British taxpayers. Under it, plans for badly needed operating theatres have been tossed into the waste paper basket. Nursing homes have even closed down.

The news that stocks of clothes have been built up to give to patients leaving hospital complete outfits at an estimated average cost of £11 for a man and £10 for a woman, has caused a howl of protest which will still be echoing when it's election time.

THERE are official pleadings in the air to "be nice to the tourists." We have a lot of the people who, before the war, used to say: "We think your policemen are wonderful." This year the Americans are handing the bouquets to the B.B.C. for doing so much better a job with television than the commercial American networks. They say, this time: "We ought to be ashamed of ourselves."

The tourists are quite important to us. They are the subject of debates in Parliament. Because of them, we are allowed to drink a little longer, see slightly more risque shows—the display cards outside the Casino for "Latin Quarter" are very Parisien. They advertise the show as "the Tops in Town." And the out of towners gape and say: "But there are no tops."

This is all very well. The eye of the alien American is well catered for, but with the 5/- meal limit still enforced, his stomach fares badly.

Of course, some visitors from America are tactless themselves.

"It isn't hot here at all by my standards," said Grandmarlene Dietrich arriving from Paris with four £250 Dior frocks for her British made film "Stage Fright."

Miss Dietrich has always been provocative.

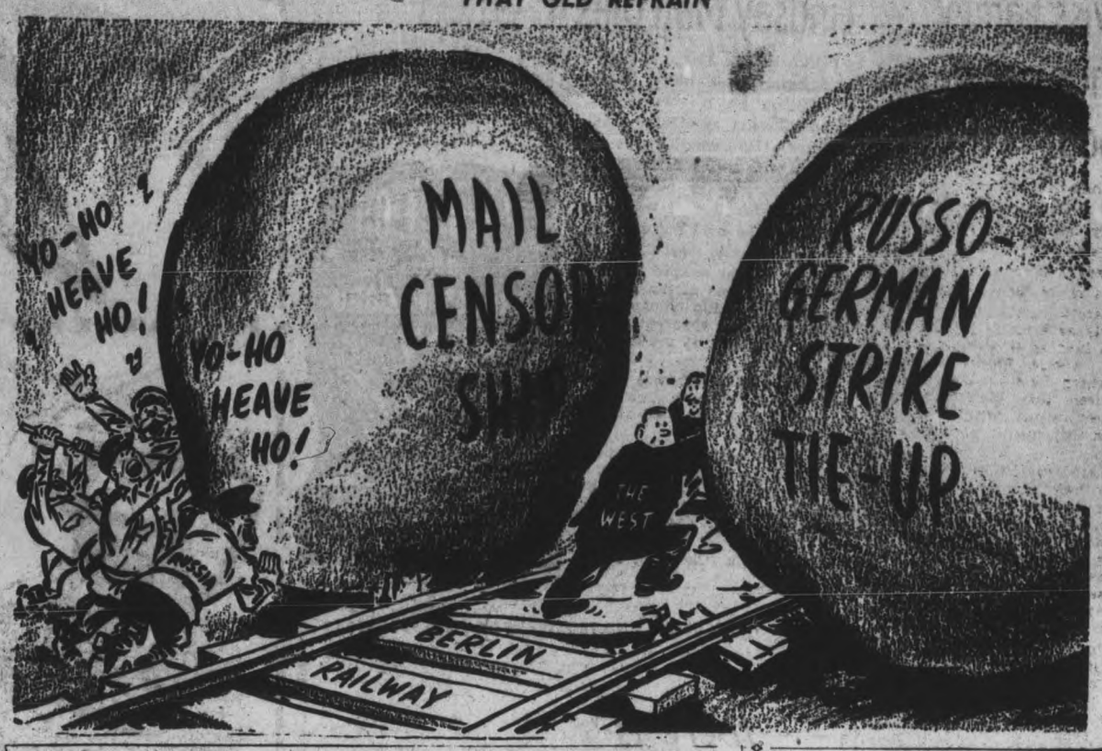
WITH rumours of a meat ration rising to 1/6 worth a week each, interest at Henley, where the Regatta is in full swing, has focussed on the 60 beefsteaks the American rowers brought over and are eating manfully in spite of the heat. Some Britons commented: "So that's what they look like."....And also in spite of the heat 20,000 women surged through the doors of one Oxford Street shop for the first real postwar sales, in which prices, not coupons had been cut. Some queued all night to be early in. Dresses were down to as low as 10/-. Men's suits went for £5. Mr. Bevan should have been there, buying as hard as he could, to save the taxpayer's money!.... Back from Paris Mr. Bevin brought his own hot weather tip. Asked for ice coffee....Hostess to Princess Margaret, who goes to Eastbourne next week-end as thousands or ordinary Londoners in search of coolth will do, will be the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire. Compton Place, their home will be remembered by the Princess. She and her sister stayed there in 1935 with Queen Mary and King George who took the house for a month's holiday.

The hay-happy farmers, are now beginning to worry about the weather, too. Warble flies are beginning to attack the thirsty cows. Turnip flies are devouring the young kale plants. The cornfields have tell tail tips of yellow which warn of light ears at harvest time.

Rain over Britain tonight would be worth £10,000,000 an hour.

THAT OLD REFRAIN



When George Brown Was Kissed

(W. J. H. IN THE MONTREAL STAR)

IN the election campaign there have been (or, were) dramatic incidents, but never in any campaign one to be compared with the dramatic scene enacted some fourscore and ten years ago on the floor of the legislative assembly of Upper and Lower Canada (now Ontario and Quebec). It was recalled by Mr. Drew's quotation from George Brown, a quotation which Mr. Drew made use of in a way that took the Liberals by surprise.

Brown, the leader of the Liberals at that time the head of the Brown-Dorion Government, a man of commanding stature and rigid, stern countenance, had then, and all his life, a strange, personal enmity against John A. Macdonald, the Conservative leader, whom all Canada in later decades spoke of as "Sir John A." He gave bitter expression to his enmity to Macdonald in his last speech at a Liberal convention in Toronto. Macdonald was a wholly different man. There could not be a greater contrast between two personalities.

WHEN the Brown-Dorion Government resigned in 1858, for the formation of the Tache-Macdonald coalition formed to frame the federation of Upper and Lower Canada into one Canada, Brown took a place in the cabinet.

A convention was held in Quebec, at which the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland took part, with a view to forming a federal union of them all, and all except Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland were represented in a delegation sent to London to discuss the matter with the Colonial Office.

In one of Macdonald's letters, he tells that Brown did not speak to him once socially (both were members of the delegation) going or coming.

❖ ❖ ❖

BUT, to come to the point, the union of Upper and Lower Canada into one Canada was effected. Brown and the Liberals had held to it strongly that Macdonald and the Conservatives were for giving Lower Canada more than Upper Canada would have from the union. When terms were arrived at which the Liberals decided to agree to, Brown made the announcement in the legislative assembly, after walking out from his desk to the middle of the floor to do so. When he had spoken, almost before the applause had begun, a Quebec member, a little, elderly man, ran out on the floor and embraced Brown, climbing up on the big man to kiss his cheek. Brown, with offended dignity, shook the little man off and stalked back to his front row desk, amid the loud and excited applause of the whole assembly. And thus it was that Upper and Lower Canada became a united Canada, with the three Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland remaining distinct.

Brown, until his death in 1880, exercised masterful political power in Ontario. His editorship of the Globe, wrote Goldwin Smith, was "a long reign of literary terror."

Stradivarius, Jr.

When better violins are built, Stradivarius will build them. Nevertheless, at The Hague, in Holland, engineers, lawyers, coal miners, streetcar conductors, and policemen have been taking part in a violin-making contest, hearing lectures on acoustics, and exchanging opinions about the secret varnish which is believed to have added lustre to the Stradivarius tone.

The idea behind the contest seems to be that anyone can make a violin. But the assumption is reminiscent of the schism that eventually came between Gerald Johnson, author of "A Little Night Music," and his flute teacher. Mr. Johnson seems to have considered that anybody ought to be able to play a flute, but his teacher insisted there was only one way to play it—and that was well.

The news of this contest doesn't mention the discovery of any rising young Stradivarius among the entrants. Of course not. The violin was so nearly perfected hundreds of years ago that it has not been improved upon since. The real aim in making violins, as the entrants in this contest have made them, is to perfect the maker.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And when they had sung an hymn, they went out into the mount of Olives. And Jesus saith unto them, All ye shall be offended because of me this night: for it is written, I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered....And they came to a place which was named Gethsemane; and he saith to his disciples, Sit ye here, while I shall pray.

And he taketh with him Peter and James and John, and began to be sore amazed, and to be very heavy; and saith unto them, My soul is exceeding sorrowful unto death: tarry ye here, and watch.

And he went forward a little, and fell on the ground, and prayed that, if it were possible, the hour might pass from him. And he said, Abba, Father, all things are possible unto thee; take away this cup from me: nevertheless not what I will, but what thou wilt.

And he cometh, and findeth them sleeping, and saith unto Peter, Simon, sleepest thou? couldest not thou watch one hour? Watch ye and pray, lest ye enter into temptation. The spirit truly is ready, but the flesh is weak. (Mark 15: 26, 27, 32-38.)

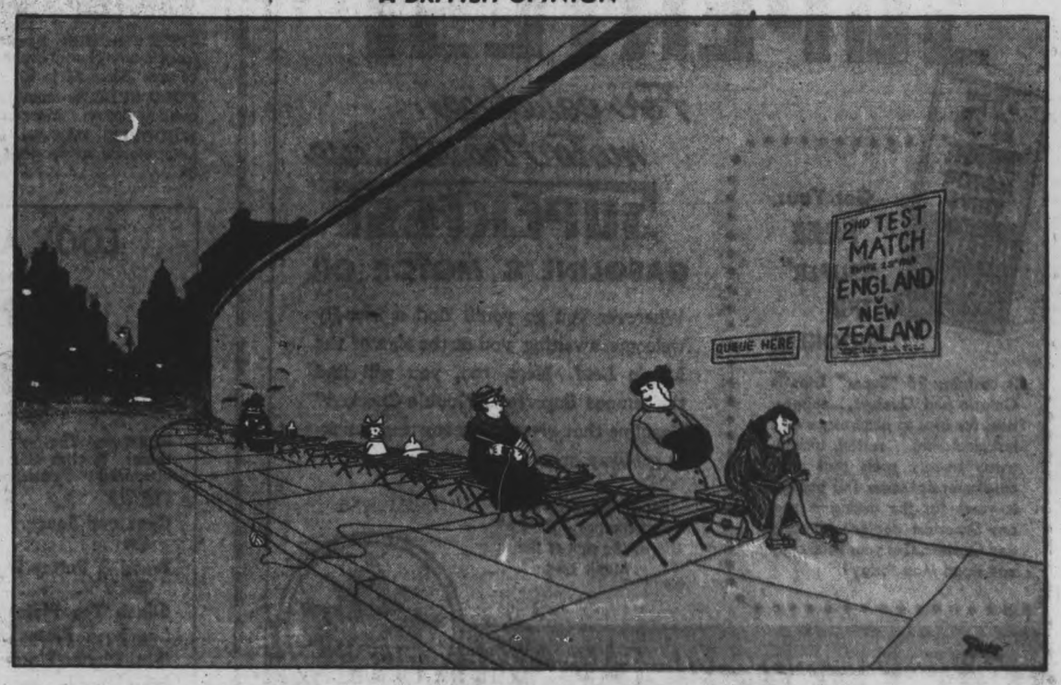
❖ ❖ ❖

The cup of blessing which we bless, is it not the communion of the blood of Christ? The bread which we break, is it not the communion of the body of Christ? (I Cor. 10: 16.)

❖ ❖ ❖

For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye do shew the Lord's death till he come(I Cor. 11: 26.)

A BRITISH OPINION



"Don't suppose we'll see many men at Lord's while these little lace panties are at Wimbledon."

London Express Service

Swiss Family Finds Canadian Food Prices Low

While the Kawartha Lakes district of Ontario is visited annually by hundreds of tourists from all parts of the United States and Canada, visitors from Switzerland are a rarity. Because Swiss tourists are so rarely seen here it was nearly as exciting for the Canadian host as it was for Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Moritz and their daughter Lucy, to see the enthusiasm with which this family chatted about things Canadian, when they visited Port Hope last week.

The Moritz family has come to visit their son, Henri, who has been fur ranching near Bailieboro. The family is fascinated by Canadian standards of living and their views of food prices would probably startle every Canadian housewife. The price of food here is about half the price in Switzerland, they said.

"Your bread is so good", they exclaimed, "you have nice tea and all the milk we have had so far has been pasteurized."

People here have refrigerators and even farmers own cars, a condition rarely found in Switzerland. "Your roads are all right" they said rather sheepishly, "but we have good roads in Switzerland too."

Freedom from police control is one of the most noticeable features to the Swiss family. A newspaperman was at first feared to be a policeman when he approached Mr. and Mrs. Moritz.

The fact that Canadian farmers enjoy the same social standing in the community as city dwellers, was a contrast between Canadian and Swiss society, the Moritz family thought.

Girls More Mature

Lucy, who is 24, thought most Canadian women looked more mature at an earlier age than Swiss girls. She herself looked about 17. She liked the independence from family control enjoyed by Canadian children. In Switzerland, for instance, a child could not attend a theatre until he was 16 unless accompanied by his parents.

Switzerland, a country of 4,500,000, is governed by a Conservative party, Mr. Moritz said. There is a strong socialist element—"but they are good socialists."

The Moritz family found most Canadian cities they have visited clean but Mr. Moritz felt that Toronto "could stand a little sprucing up." Cities in his country were considerably smaller, he added and the people lived a less rushed life. "They have more time to clean their streets" he said.

Contrary to public opinion, the Swiss do not spend every walking hour climbing mountains. Lucy has climbed, but that is only because she has lived in the mountains. "Swiss people do not climb mountains any more than Canadians who live in the Rockies" she said.

Despite the magnificent scenery of their homeland, the Moritz family was far from disappointed with the Canadian countryside. "It's beautiful and green and we like it,' Mrs. Moritz said.

Travelling from their Neuchatel, Switzerland home the family plans to go west to Alberta where their son Henri, an agricultural college graduate, may establish his own fur ranch.

No Sign Of Settlement

TORONTO, July 7 (CP) —The combined strike-lockout of 543 lithographers in 25 plants in Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton and London Wednesday entered its second week with no sign of an early settlement. Electrics Gain Close One Over Marines

CGE emerged victorius by a 3-2 count over Outboard Marines in a nifty Girls' Softball League fixture last evening in the Bowl before a fair-sized crowd. Mary Perrin pitched six-hit ball and fanned eight in a fine showing, getting excellent support from the other CGE players. E. Whittaker also threw six-hit ball and struck out three but a few costly errors hurt her cause. It was a neat and snappy scrap and marked the first appearance this season of Albert Watkins at the Marines' helm

E. Boyce and A. DeCarlo looked good in the field for Electrics, though all went well, and V. Mitchell and A. LaPointe were probably the pick of the Outboards. Mary Perrin and M. Batley led CGE at bat with two hits each as B. Larmer topped the losers with a triple and single in four appearances.

The teams:

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

Notwithstanding that it was the half holiday, and as a rule many of our bowlers go away to take in tournaments of this district, there were close to 50 players out Wednesday evening, to enjoy the mixed rink tournament. Although the greens became a little damp during the last hour or so, it was a fine night for bowling. Don't be surprised if, on Saturday night when we have the Family Hour tournament, the attendance reaches a record point.

Last night's winning skips were George Spence, Harry Northrop and Reg. Dyer.

The ladies' doubles tournament starts tomorrow morning at 10:00 o'clock. They intend to play one game before the noon hour and two after.

We expect to publish the complete draw for the Lift Lock Doubles within the next few days.

New Ball Diamond Opened In Marmora

MARMORA, July 7 (ENS) — Marmora Day was observed by the Marmora District Chamber of Commerce at the new recreation centre Wednesday evening. The event opened with a Trent Valley League (Juvenile) scheduled game in which Norwood played the home team. This also marked the official opening of Marmora's new baseball diamond for which Rev. G. D. Young acted as pitcher with manager Irving of the Norwood team at bat, P. Gray as catcher and W. Regan taking third base.

Acrobats Perform

Stirling brass band played several selections in the Arena and Batawa entertainers presented a program of spectacular acrobatic feats and Czech folk dances. A dance was held in the Fair Building with music by Alex Cunningham's orchestra. Swelling the proceeds of the evening were bingo and other games, and refreshment booths.

Victory Taken Over Locals By Bowmanville

By FRED MAYBEE.

Bowmanville staged a late rally in the seventh to defeat Young Petes 7-2 last evening at Riverside before the largest crowd of the intermediate Lakeshore League baseball season, to date.

It was a good game all the way with neither team scoring till the fifth when Millar and Floyd combined for one with sharp singles, the latter scoring. Royals evened in the top of the sixth on hits by Cowle, Yourth and Cox but Petes regained the lead in the bottom half as Pagett singled to short, advanced on an error, took third after Dadson hoisted to right and scored after Menzies flied to Cowle. Sullivan had complete mastery up to this point as his mates played superbly. Furey also toiled well in a great duel. Then Royals rallied to win.

Players Suspended By Soccer Officers

The Peterborough Soccer Commission met in a special session to consider the reports and complaints placed before them of irregularities of players and other matters of interest to the code. They considered the subject of players' attitude towards the rules of the game and have decided on the following suspensions:

Dalton Downer, Petes, Reg. 4853, Petes, suspended from July 11 to August 11 inclusive for ungentlemanly conduct (bad language) and fighting after the game CGE vs. Petes.

Stanley Murduff, Reg. 4864, CGE, suspended from July 11 to August 5 inclusive for fighting after the game CGE vs. Petes.

A Warning

Harold M. Payne, Reg. 4842, Petes, has been notified that the Commission will not tolerate ungentlemanly conduct (bad language) on or off the field of play. It is left to himself whether he wants to play or not.

Kenneth E. Downer, Reg. 4846, Petes, has been suspended for two games, Monday, July 11 and Saturday, July 16 inclusive, for ungentlemanly conduct (bad language.)

These decisions are reported to the Dominion Association and if players requested appeal they must appeal to the Ontario Soccer Commission, Toronto.

Change Game

Through a misunderstanding O'Hanloran players did not appear for the game with the CGE that had been changed from tonight to Tuesday, at the last moment, but they held a practice game. Both teams have arranged that they will play this game on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 prompt, with J. Buchan as referee. Petes travel to Lindsay Monday night, July 11, to play Lindsay. Kick-off at 6:30. CGE plays Lindsay in the city next Wednesday, July 13. Kick-off at seven.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Like Jim Coleman of the Globe, we take objection to Baz O'Meara's remark in the Montreal Star that Sam Jethroe, Royals' outfielder, is faster than Ty Cobb used to be. This is rank heresy to any admirer of the immortal Georgia Peach. When Jethroe has played a spell in the major leagues and pilfered up to 96 bases in one season, he may rate a spot with Cobb, but not before. It might be that Baz is just trying to start an argument and, if so, he has been successful on a number of news fronts. As Coleman sums it up: "We wish, sir, that you wouldn't begin comparing Jethroe with Cobb in any department. Heck, it's like comparing Leonforte with Man o' War!"

* * * * * *

We often saw the once-fleet Tyrus in Navin Field. He was past his prime then, though keeping up his 24-year big league batting average of .367. And he was still a big worry to his opponents as soon as he got on base. Took a big lead off, went at the most unexpected time, and just offered taggers a flashing spike or a slapping hand to tag as he hustled into his fallaway slide. And he'd steal third or home as quickly as second. Asked once what he'd do if Cobb broke for second, catcher Muddy Ruel replied: "I'd fake a throw to third, hold the ball and try to tag him coming into the plate!" But Ty Cobb doesn't need any defence—the record books show him the greatest of them all.

COBL Leaders Clash

Oshawa Merchants tackle the Petes at three in Riverside Park this Saturday aft, with the COBL leadership at stake. The pesky Merchants have beaten the leading Petes three times this semester with their classy American twirler, Gingerich. It's time the men o' Murphy mauled the cocky Motor Citizens. Two dates in the schedule have been switched and now call for Petes in Oshawa on July 23, and the Merchants here on Aug. 13. By the way, the locals are still experimenting and there may be a change or two yet in Saturday's lineup. Bill Edger may be back in action ere too long, also.

Quinte scribe says: "Peterborough's youthful Lefty Dadson hung the Indian sign on the Batawa bludgeons Saturday. The youngster fashioned a seven-hit mound chore that included 10 whiffouts with nary a walk. His team played flawlessly behind him. The Petes arrived with only nine men, sufficient to field a team and it turned out that nine were plenty. Manager Murphy had some misgivings at the start but, as the game got under way with Dadson out there as cool as an ice cube and hurling like a Newhouser, the clouds of misgiving gradually disappeared, and smiles of satisfaction were noted on the managerial mug."

They Play It Rough

The rugged Mountaineers of Mimico form stiff opposition for the Petes' lacrossers in the OLA senior "A" fixture at 8.45 in Miller Bowl tomorrow night. It will be recalled that these teams had a rough go of it a week back in Mimico, resulting in Sandy Milne of Mimico and the two Vitarellis (Dootch and Lou) drawing suspensions of several games for a series of fights. With Em Creighton suffering a five-stitch gash on the noggin. Now, we don't think the Petes will stand for too much pushing around in their own garden, but the Mounties aren't noted for gentle playing anywhere. It should be a rousing struggle all the way.

Men's softball executive has decided to run three games nightly on Tuesdays and Thursdays, starting next Tuesday, to catch up on postponed games. Triple-headers will start at 6.45 p.m. with seven-inning games run off. Three teams make city playoffs, second and third clashing to meet the top-place team. Prexy Pat Calladine laid down the law to the clubs, insisting that they field full teams every game, during holidays, too, with no pickup squads tolerated. Players must not wander into stands either nor smoke on benches. Oshawa Pedlars, OASA champs last year, play Knights an exhibition this Saturday eve. Two ump, Jack Billingsley and Ron Akers, have left, the latter planning to play the rest of the season. Holly Mowry and Cy Whatley will be a big help when they are available. Tilts tonight: Cosmos vs. Uniteds, and Jewellers vs. Knights.

Woollens Take 10-8 Win Over Lock Co.

Dominion Woollens pulled out a 10-8 Girls' Softball League victory over Lock Co at the Bowl last night. It was a good, exciting struggle, with most of the action coming in the late innings, and the issue a tossup. It was run off in an hour, while the improving Lock lasses could have won the joust but errors hurt. Woollens going better in the clutches. The losers had one more hit but booted one more, also. There were few strikeouts by the two flingers.

J. McIlwain and S. Wakeford looked good defensively for Woollens, while R. Roberts and D. Jackson went best for the other side. S. Harris led the winners at bat with three hits, and J. McIlwain hit a homer. For the losers, R. Roberts led the way with three singles. Woollens' cause w' helped, too, by half a dozen walks.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Heavy showers Wednesday forced the Ontario Amateur Golf Association to postpone its open championship tournament at Kitchener's Westmount Golf and Country Club for the first time in the 27-year history of the event. The qualifying round will be played today with the final Sunday instead of Saturday.

Officials of the third annual Canadian Junior Track and Field Championships announced Wednesday that a record entry of 376 contestants has been received for the two-day meet at Toronto Friday and Saturday. The entry — largest for any track and field championship held in Canada, junior or senior—will bring strong teams from many well-known clubs in the United States and Canada into competition.

Mrs. Phonse Hefferman realized a golfer's ambition at Guelph on Wednesday. She registered a hole-in-one on the 110-yard, 11th hole —with a No. 3 iron. Despite suggestions by her husband that she use a No. 8 or No. 9 iron, she knocked the ball into a bank in front of the green and it bounced into the cup.

Capt. Harry West, well-known to horsemen in Toronto and Montreal, died Wednesday at Toronto. For a number of years prior to his retirement about seven years ago, he was a placing judge at Toronto's Woodbine race track and, before that, he was a trainer.

At Toronto, a touring Swedish soccer team Wednesday night defeated Ontario all-stars 5-1. Some 5,000 persons at Oakwood Stadium saw the dull, slow game, the Swedish team's last exhibition match in North America.

Fred W. Hooper's Ocean Drive charged up from behind in the mud to win the $25,000 added Dick Welles stakes for three-year-olds at Chicago's Arlington Park Wednesday. Ocean Drive was coupled with his illustrious stablemate, Olympia, in the six-furlong stakes. Ocean Drive, ridden by Chuck Parke, drove up from fourth place to defeat Lextown by a length and a half. Olympia, top-weighted at 126 pounds, finished third, another length behind.

Proximity, brown mare owned by Gordon and Ralph Vernhurst of Citor, N. Y., today won the $10,000 Titan free-for-all grand circuit trot at Historic track in Goshen, N. Y. Driven by C. Hodgins, Proximity won two straight heats to defeat Rodney, 1948 horse of the year, which finished second both times. Vita Lee was third, finishing there in both heats.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

California's sun-tanned brigade swept to four championships three years ago today as the All-England tennis tournament wound up its first post-war fortnight before a crowd of 14,000, including Queen Mary. The only championship that escaped the U.S. contingent in the first Wimbledon since 1939 was the highly-prized men's singled, won by Yvon Petra of France.

Mounties Maul Tigers 16-10

By The Canadian Press.

Mimico Mounties took over third place in the Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association and Brampton Excelsiors slid into a first-place tie with Owen Sound Crescents last night.

Mimico Mounties took over with Hamilton Tigers 16-10. Brampton, also at home, defeated St. Catharines Athletics 17-0.

Top scorer for the Mounties was Ken Dixon with four goals. McPhail and McDonald each got three with Al Dixon scoring twice. Simpson, Williams and D. Beatty each scored once. Dorney and J. Rair sank three goals apiece for Tigers with Grainger and Blain McDonald each getting two.

Harvey Madgett was Excelsiors' top scorer with four goals while Cruikshanks, Browning,. Graham and Raine each tallying twice. Steele, Ferri, Crawford, Ashbee and Garbutt each got one.

Tigers counted three fast goals early in the first frame, but Mounties scored four in the remainder of the period without a reply from the mountain city team. Mimico was never in any trouble for the rest of the game and kept safely ahead in every period.

Excelsiors had just as easy a time with St. Catharines. The Brampton squad finished the first quarter ahead 5-3 and in the second quarter rapped home five unanswered goals to take a comfortable lead which they never lost.

Change Good For Cooper Chalks Up 10 Runs For Reds

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

All Walker Cooper needed was a change of scenery—or was it a change of managers?

Big Coop, who popped off publicly about his trials with the New York Giants under Leo Durocher, sounded off with his big bat Wednesday for his new boss at Cincinnati.

Six straight base hits, including three three-run homers, added up to a big 10 runs batted in for the ex-Giant who went to Cincy for catcher Ray Mueller June 14.

Since Coop left the Giants he has been nothing short of sensational.

Here's the game and after story:

	G.	A.B.	Hits	H.	Average
Before	43	147	31	4	21 .211
After	18	72	24	6	19 .333

All this thumping doesn't make much difference at Cincy where the Reds have dipped into seventh place and are in danger of falling all the way to the basement. In New York, a Cooper hitting at that pace could have made a contender out of the fifth-place Giants.

Nearly Record

Cooper, in helping the Reds to a 23-4 landslide win Wednesday over Chicago Cubs, had a chance to tie Uncle Wilbert Robinson's all- time record of seven consecutive hits when he came up in the eighth inning. He grounded into a force play, breaking the string. The 10 RBI's were only two short of the record set by Sunny Jim Bottomley of St. Louis Cards in 1924.

The Reds battered Frankie Frisch's staff for 26 hits, giving Ken Raffensberger a comfortable ride to his ninth victory.

The heavy firing in Cincy overshadowed the pennant race which almost—but not quite—resulted in a first place tie. Brooklyn's one-game lead faded when the Dodgers lost to the Boston Braves, 7-5, but the runner-up, St. Louis Cards, blew a 3-1 lead in the last of the ninth and bowed to Pittsburgh 4-3. As a result of the Brooks still lead by a full game.

Tommy Holmes sunk the Dodgers with his third homer in the last three days to give Vern Bickford his 11th win.

Johnny Hopp was the hero of the Pirates' ninth-inning rally against the Cards. Hopp's single with the bases loaded scored two runs for Pittsburgh's fifth straight win.

Murry Dickson accounted for his third victory with an eight-inning relief job. Dickson has lost 11.

Rain washed out Philadelphia-New York games in both the National and American.

Lose Ground

Both Cleveland and Detroit lost ground in the race by dropping night games, but the distanced Boston Red Sox pulled up even with the .500 mark by shutting out Washington, 5-0, in a game called in the sixth due to rain.

Ellis Kinder held Washington to four hits as the Red Sox mauled Joe Haynes and Sid Hudson for eight hits.

Steve Souchock's double with the bases loaded in the eighth gave Chicago White Sox a 9-6 edge over Cleveland, snapping the Indians' five-game win streak. Satchel paige was tagged with his fifth loss. St. Louis Browns outlasted Detroit Tigers 6-5 in 13 innings, when Gerry Priddy singled home Tom Ferrick with the tie-breaking run. The Tigers moved out front in the 12th, but Jack Graham's second homer of the game and 13th of the year knotted the score again.

Ohio Tourist First Fisherman To Be Awarded New Order

Wilbur V. Kyser, of Akron, Ohio, will go down in history as the first sport fisherman to be enrolled in the "Order of the Kawartha Muskie". The order was created a couple of weeks ago by the newly-organized Resort Operators' Section of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce in an effort to give greater publicity, particularly south of the border, to the outstanding advantages of he Kawartha Lakes tourist area.

Mr. Kyser was presented with a membership certificate and crest Tuesday by Chamber of Commerce manager, James M. Fraser, emblematic of his having caught the first muskie in the Kawarthas since setting up of the order. The Akron angler caught his fish, an 18-pounder, in Pigeon Lake at 11.00 a.m. on Tuesday. Minimum size to quality for the award is 15 pounds.

Mr Kyser caught two other muskies at the same time but both were under the 15-lb minimum weight limit. He plans to enter the 18-pounder in the Examiner's annual fishing contest.

Suitable Certificate

The certificate is suitable for framing so that it can be hung in the winner's office or home and is signed by Mayor M. J. Swanston and Mr. Fraser. The crest, which can be worn on a jacket or shirt, is in the shape of Canada's national emblem, the maple leaf, and is in green and gold colors, with the words "Order of the Kawartha Muskie" and hte year inscribed thereon.

Membership in the order is open to all fishermen except regular residents of the Kawartha district and fish must be caught in a lake or river situated within the "Kawarthas."

The following is the wording on the certificate: "To whom it may concern: This is to certify that Wilbur V. Kyser, respected and responsible citizen of Akron, Ohio, on this 5th day of July, 1949, while a guest of Pine Tree Lodge, Pigeon Lake, Ontario, did land, single-handed and at great risk of life and limb, an 18-pound muskie (maskinonge or muskalonge). This fabulous, sleek, battling muski—alpha and omega of the fresh water fish and mightiest fighter of them all, was taken from Pigeon Lake, part of the Kawartha Lake District, whose white-flecked waters sparkle like gems in their exquisite settings, whose rolling hills—covered with ghost-like birch blending into dark pines—embrace deep, green waters alive with muskies, gamey bass, pugnacious walleyes—virtually the Utopia of Canada's many playground areas.

"Know ye, by all these presents, that this worthy member of the Order of the Kawartha Muskie, by virtue of his skill and daring, is a man to be set apart from his fellow creatures, a man to whom all respect is due and a fisherman par excellence, whose tales of mighty catches in the Kawarthas must go unchilenged, uninterrupted and unflinchingly accepted as fact.

"Signed, sealed and delivered, in the City of Peterborough, Ontario, in the Dominion of Canada."

Ideas For Montreal

Jimmy Adams Holds One-Stroke Open Lead

SANDWICH, Eng., July 7. — (AP).—Golf can play some funny tricks on the best of players. Otherwise, Americans Johnny Bulla and Frank Stranahan and South African Bobby Locke might be at least tied today with Scotsman Jimmy Adams for the British open leadership.

The fates decreed differently, so going into today's second round of the 72-hole medal play tournament at the St. George's layout, Adams held a one stroke lead with a 67. Ireland's Harry Bradshaw and Roberto De Vicenzoe of Argentina shared second place with 685, then came tournament favorite Locke—tied with six others at 69.

Southenders Win

Southend bantams pulled out a 6-5 City Baseball League win over East City last evening in a loop fixture. Rose had 13 strikeouts and allowed eight hits in a good mound showing, as Ivey fanned seven and Pamniett (who took over in the sixth) whiffed three. Both sides hustled all the way in a neat bantam encounter. Turner had three hits and Driscoll two to lead their sides at bat. Teams:

East City: Pammett, c; McGrath, ss. Byrne, cf; Withers, 1b; Ivey, p; McCormack, 2b; McCarthy, 3b; Driscoll, rf; McGillen lf.

Southend Pagett, ss; Kearns, 2b; Batley, 3b; Turner, lf; White, cf; Strickland, rf; Delahaye, 1b; Ball, c; Rose, p.

THE DIONNE QUINTUPLETS' DOCTORS PRESCRIBED LIBBY'S BABY FOODS
Fifteen years ago, newspapers in every part of the world were carrying front page stories about the Dionne Quintuplets. The whole world was asking, "Will all the babies live?" and was interested in every detail of their infant regime.
That they did all live to become healthy and charming young girls is a tribute to the skill of those who cared for them during their infancy. For this reason, Libby's are especially proud that the Dionne's doctors selected Libby's strained and homogenized Baby Foods for their world-famous charges. Proud, too, that the Dionne Quintuplet have maintained a high level of health ever since they emerged from their critical baby days.

OSHAWA, July 7 — (CP) — Francois David Boire, 57-year-old carpenter who calls himself King David II, was in court Wednesday on a charge of allowing persons to live in premises unfit for human habitation. Magistrate F. S. Ebbs reserved judgment until July 25 after hearing evidence that Boire turned a garage into living quarters for a family with nine children. There was no evidence that he had been collecting rent.

Actress Claims Blondes Handicapped In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, July 7 (AP)—You have got to dye to be an actress, Shelly Winters advises young blonde hopefuls.

"A blonde who wants to be a serious actress has an uphill struggle in Hollywood," said the new film find.

Shelley had a series of frothy roles on Broadway until Director George Cukor picked her to be slain by Ronald Colman in "A Double Life." Colman got an Oscar for slipping her a mickey.

The gal has been going great guns at Universal-International. But she claims the average blonde has a rough go.

"Every woman is flattered by male attention and the average blonde female actress in Hollywood gets more than an adequate share. But how vain can you be? After a while you want to find someone who takes your ambitions and your ideas about an acting career seriously.

Sexy Look

"The typica male attitude here is 'this is just a cute blonde cookie who knows only about looking sexy.' When you try to convince them that you want more than that out of acting—you get blank stares."

Her solution: Dye your hair and save yourself a pack of trouble.

After seeing Shelley do a sexy song number in a Far-East barroom for "East of Java," I think I would rather see her in that sort of thing than in Shakespeare. (She studies the bard in Charles Laughton's class.)

But then maybe I am that typical Hollywood male she talks about.

Going On Holiday

OTTAWA, July 7 (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent presided at a meeting of the Cabinet Wednesday, a day or so before going on a vacation with his family near Bathurst, N. B. He expects to be gone at least a couple of weeks and it is probable that Trade Minister Howe will be in temporary charge of affairs of state in Ottawa.

City Merchant Writes From Isle Of Man

Charles Kingan, who has been visiting in England, writes home full of enthusiasm for the beauties of the Isle of Man. Mr. Kingan says that he knows of no place so small that has so many beautiful moors and glens, mountains, handsome homes and good roads. The weather has been wonderful and entertainment plentiful.

While Mr. Kingan was on the island, 2,000 motorcyclists, watched by more than 50,000 enthusiastic spectators, gathered to race over a treacherous 37-mile mountain road course. The road is full of sharp bends, steep grades, long descents, high hedges and stone fences. The cyclists average 84 miles per hour, stepping it up to 120 miles per hour on the few straightaways.

In England, Mr. Kingan went to Birmingham and there purchased distinctive English stoves, steel scaffolding for construction work, and long handled grass clippers.

Mr. Kingan adds that the trip so far has been wonderful, aided by good weather.

Ibey Brothers Tracked Down Plead Guilty

Two Campbellford brothers, Albert Ibey 24 and Fred 17, pleaded guilty in city Police Court to-day to robbing a grocery store, two service stations, and stealing a car in Havelock on Tuesday night. The charges followed their arrest Wednesday afternoon after four constables had spent the day searching through bush country for them.

The pleas of guilty were made before Magistrate E. A. Gee of Lindsay, presiding in Peterborough Police Court to-day, and the men were remanded for sentence until July 14. Even while in the prisoners' box the men were handcuffed together.

Theft Discovered Wednesday

Wednesday morning it was discovered that Peters' grocery store had been robbed of $100 worth of meat, butter, canned foods, cigarettes, gum and cash. White's Service Station in the other end of the village had been entered and tires, tubes, cigarettes, and a .303 rifle were missing. The lock had been broken off the gas pump at Don Mathison's service station, and 17 gallons of gas taken; and Dan Dafoe's car was stolen from outside his house.

The two accused brothers are also thought by the police to be responsible for theft of a truck at Coboconk on Monday, which was recovered in the bush 28 miles north of Havelock. They are also accused of stealing cooking utensils from a hunt camp at Twin Lakes. Most of the goods stolen in two Havelock breaks have been recovered.

Provincial Police say Albert Ibey was released only recently from Kingston Penitentiary, where he served four years for similar offences. The younger brother, Fred Ibey, has served time at reformatory.

Bush Search

Arrest of the brothers ended a dramatic search through bush country by police officers well acquainted with the area. After finding Dafoe's car abandoned, the police combed a densely wooded area and found the men in the bush near Trout Lake.

The men were standing with the stolen rifle between them, and after four constables had closed in on them the captured men said they would have fired if they had not known that all four constables were armed.

Police who took part in the capture were Constables Archie Grayling and R. A. Feeley, Peterborough Provincial Headquarters, Provincial Constable A. Kellog of Hastings, and Chief Constable Bell of Havelock.

Inspector E. V. McNeill of the Peterborough headquarters of the Provincial Police, said this morning that the pair are also wanted in connection with burglaries which took place during the past few days into two cottages at Portlock, on the north shore of Georgian Bay, between Bruce Mines and Sault Ste. Marie. Charges of breaking and entering will be laid in this case also.

TOM CURVIN AND FRIEND, Little Benny the chipmunk, have fun several times each day at Tom's Clear View Camp on Clear Lake. Trained from a wild shy creature since early in May, Benny has become quite bold, and practical. He has cached away several pound of peanuts in three separate "storehouses" against the coming winter months. His payload is three nuts, shells included, one in each cheek pouch and a third gripped in his front teeth. A rival pet chippie, which would only be fed in his own area across the roadway, was killed a short time ago by a car.—Examiner Staff Photo.

Junior Farmers Plan To Attend Field Day

Plans for the part the junior farmers of the district will take in the Belleville Field Day were discussed at a meeting in the Agricultural Office Wednesday night. The Field Day will be held July 29. Twenty members of the organization were present at the meeting.

The members discussed the possibility of sending a ball team from this district to compete at Belleville, and decided to charter two buses to transport those interested.

Ron Frankish, the president of the club, was chairman.

Tourists Arrive In Droves

Judging by the considerable number of inquiries for accommodation being made at the office of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce these days, the Kawartha Lakes district will enjoy a record tourist season this year. Five different parties have been directed to various resorts during the past few days by the manager, James M. Fraser.

The first group so aided was a party of six from Bessemer, Alabama, who were accommodated at Gail Park, Buckhorn. Seven from Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, were directed to a private cottage at Young's Point; a doctor and his wife from Newton, Pennsylvania, went to Birchmuir Lodge, Stony Lake; a party of three from Baltimore, Maryland, received accommodation at Irwin Inn, Stony Lake; and the fifth group, five in number, from Miami Beach, Florida, went to South Beach Hotel, Clear Lake.

United States license plates almost outnumber those of Ontario cars on highways adjacent to Peterborough at the present time. Many tourists are staying at various points in trailers or tents, a large number of these being noted yesterday in Lakefield Park.

A popular fishing spot for Americans of late is the dam across the Otonabee River at Young's Point, where many gather from resorts for miles around.

Unemployment Jumps

OTTAWA, July 7 (CP)—Unemployment in Canada was greater during May this year than in the same month in 1948, although it declined from the previous month. The Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday that claims for unemployment insurance benefits were 63,700 during May, down from the total of 69,000 in April, but considerably higher than the 42,300 claims filed in May a year ago.

Chipmunk Will Take Nuts From Man's Shirt Pocket

The two English words "come on" translated into chipmunk language mean "peanuts", an Examiner reporter discovered Wednesday when he paid a visit to Tom Curvin's Clear View tourist camp on Clear Lake, Young's Point. All Mr. Curvin has to do is to call out these words two or three times and Little Ben, his unusually tame chipmunk comes scampering across the lawn to climb up on his chest for the peanuts the little animal knows are either between Mr. Curvin's teeth or in his shirt pocket.

Mr. Curvin started to train the chipmunk last May 1 and he named it after Ben Heard, 80-year-old former guide, who lives nearby.

Stores Nuts Away

Little Ben eats very few of the peanuts he plucks from his master's mouth, hands, shoulders, and pockets — the great majority of them are taken to three different storage depots in and around a small tool shed on the grounds, there to be stowed away against the ravages of another winter. Thanks to Mr. Curvin's friendly interest, Little Ben won't have to forage around for food for the winter the hard way, has is untrained fellow chipmunks still have to do. He can carry three lots of peanuts in their shells on each trip, one in each cheek pouch and the third in his front teeth. Mr. Curvin bought ten pounds of peanuts on June 15 and now there are only about 1¼ pounds left.

Mr. Curvin also trained another chipmunk during this same period, but he would only "take nourishment" in his own territory across the roadway. Every now and then the two chipmunks would meet in the roadway and engage in a fierce battle. Little Ben still bears several scars sustained in these encounters. Much to the sorrow of the children of the campers, Little Ben's rival was killed by a car a few weeks ago.

Mr. Curvin was feeding Little Ben for a while with salted peanuts, but when he noticed that they made his little friend run continually to the rainwater barrel, he switched to the shelled variety.

Another oddity of the animal world on Mr. Curvin's premises is a cat which has reached the ripe old age of 23 years, about equivalent to a nonagenarian in human beings.

If you can cycle uptown to a show, don't leave your bicycle leaning against a shop window or door way—if you do—it may not be there when you come out.

Wednesday evening city police collected 22 bicycles which were leaning against the plate glass window of Neill's shoe store and took them to the police station.

Where's my bike? was the cry as it came time to go home. At the police station the owners were warned of the dangers of leaning bicycles against shop windows. A broken pane of plate glass would be a costly business for the offender.

Allied Labor Council Will Write Again

Another letter is to be sent to the city council by the Allied Labor Council on the subject of fire protection.

Members felt the city council had misinterpreted the letter sent previously asking permission for a delegation to inspect fire fighting facilities in the south end. They felt the reply indicated the council was under the impression the delegation wanted only to inspect equipment at the fire hall.

"I think we should clear this matter up," said William Whibbs, Local 524. "We should give the council another chance to say 'yes' or 'no' and then we'll know where we stand."

This was opposed by Phil Knibbs, corresponding secretary.

"I think that the city council has chosen to misinterpret the letter this way," said Mr. Knibbs, "because it is not in their best interests to have us making an inspection. I take it as perfectly logical they don't want us to inspect these facilities."

The motion to write another letter passed.

Ejected From Session

EDMONTON, July 7—(CP) — The opposition's fight to amend Alberta government natural gas export control legislation was climaxed Wednesday night by a member being ejected from the special session of the legislature. Th member was Arthur Wray (Ind SC—Banff-Cochrane). The house speaker named Mr. Wray after the member had engaged in a heated argument with Attorney-General Lucien Maynard on control legislation. Mr. Wray was barred from further paticipation in the night's debate.

Says CCL Move Will Weaken UE-CIO Union

Commenting on the suspension of five top district leaders of the UE-CIO by an investigating committee of the CCL, John Morton, president of Local 524, today deprecated the fact that 25,000 union members have no representation on the Executive Council of the CCL.

After consulting other members of the Executive Board of the Local he said: "We view with alarm the fact that our Union representing 25,000 workers is not now represented on the Executive Council of the Canadian Congress of Labor."

He contended that Local 524 had always striven for "the greatest freedom of expression and sound criticism in all labor bodies," and added this comment: "For the officers of the Canadian Congress of Labor to continue to deny the UE the full privileges and benefits of affiliation with the parent body will undoubtedly weaken our Union and react against strong contracts."

Offers Mild Rebuke

But he did not entirely whitewash the five UE leaders. In what could only be interpreted as a mild rebuke to President C. S. Jackson and the four others, he said: "We want to make it quite clear that we are not in favor of public vilification of responsible union leaders."

(Ostensible reason for suspending Jackson, Mervin Chambers of Peterborough, former president of Local 524 and vice-president of District 5; George Harris, secretary-treasurer; Ross Russell, organizing director; and Jack F. Douglas, editor of the UE News, was an editorial in that publication dated March 4, 1949.)

The officers of the Ontario Federation of Labor selected these passages from the editorial as referring to certain officers of the CCL.

"Complete alignment with every anti-union and union busting individual and organization in Canada, and with the employers of Canada, as indicated by their continued echoing of the most vicious statements of employers and anti-union groups."

"The membership of CCL unions will have to awaken to an understanding of the course which some within the labor movement have set out for themselves, if we are to head off these fascist-like developments within the ranks of labor, which are the inevitable preparation for another war of the same kind and for the same aims as that launched by Hitler in 1939."

President Morton stated that "generally speaking the leaders of the CCL and the Ontario Federation of Labor are sound and sincere trade unionists."

He concluded: "the efforts of this local will always be to promote better relations between our union and both the CCL and the CIO. We believe the policies of these bodies are generally sound. A closer co-operation will help us to build a bigger and better UE."

Pulls No Punches

Duncan Drummond, president of Local 527 UE-CIO, pulled no punches in his criticism of the CCL's action.

"Every person who is interested in the trade union movement and the democratic principles a union must maintain will be shocked at the invasion on the right of our members to elect their own officers," he said.

"The policy of the UE is made by the members," stated President Drummond. "The officers and delegates representing the UE are also elected by the membership. We will not allow the CCL Executive Council or any other group to deny us that right. The members have always run our union and will continue to do so."

He contended there exists today an "obvious unity" between employers to stand firm against granting wage increases, shorter hours and other benefits to the worker.

"It is therefore hard to understand people who call themselves labor leaders taking action against our union or any other union. Instead I would think they would be taking action to further strengthen the ranks of labor."

"Attack" On Worker

"An attack on the working people of Canada" was his description of the CCL's action and he called on organized workers to tighten their ranks "In the face of thousands of unemployed and a full scale drive by the Companies to reduce their staffs even more."

The UE was one of the founders of the CCL, he pointed out. And he claimed it had played a great part in the building of the Congress.

"We have made more gains for our members than any other Congress union," he said. "Surely no fair-minded person can complain about a record like our union's in Canada."

He concluded by saying as President of Local 527 he would continue to fight for the rights of UE members to make their decisions and union policy.

"I know that when the rest of the workers in Canada understand what this action really means they will fight for the UE and every other union that truly represents the working people. The Congress officers will not be allowed to continue their attempts to create trouble within affiliated unions."

Mervin Chambers, only Peterborough man suspended by the CCL, could not be reached for comment.

Peterborough Bond Issue Of $1,814,990.46 Snapped Up In One Day

The scramble for the Peterborough debenture bonds which went on sale Tuesday morning was more like a housewives fight for bacon in wartime than like solid investors buying some municipal bonds. The bonds were all sold in one day, with many buyers unable to make the purchases they would have liked. The local representative of Dominion Securities Corporation Ltd., one of the syndicate companies which bought the issue to put on the bond market, said he did not even have time to advertise the bonds locally.

At $1,814,990.46, the debenture issue was three times the highest issue Peterborough has ever made.

The fact that this issue was snapped up at a premium of .2116 per cent above the par value, speaks extremely well for the financial condition of the city, local financial men said.

Market Tightening

Many towns are reported having difficulty selling their bonds in a tightening market. The average price of municipal bonds has been dropping recently. Only about four other Canadian cities could have disposed of their bonds as easily at the price as Peterborough did. These other cities are Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa and Kingston.

Finance experts even go so far as to say Peterborough's bonds compare favorably with Province of Ontario debentures. The bonds had a quite wide distribution, although many good sized blocks were bought in Toronto and Montreal.

The legal expert of Dominion Securities sent to the city from Toronto to prepare the way for the debenture issue said he was amazed and extremely pleased with the way in which city treasurer Stan Couper had completed the work and had co-operated. The job, which often takes about two weeks, was finished in a day or two in this case.

Dealers Raise Gas Price Cent

TORONTO, July 7 (CP) —The half cent a gallon increase in the wholesale price of gasoline in Ontario and Quebec announced Wednesday at Imperial Oil Ltd., will mean a one cent a gallon increase to motorists in the Toronto area.

D. J. Fletcher, executive secretary of the retail gasoline division of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, said the service station operators have decided to boost their prices.

He said they were doing this because "for many years the operators' percentage has been dropping while his costs—rent and labor, for example—have been rising."

Retail Outlets Increase Gasoline Price

Gasoline prices are going up one cent a gallon in Peterborough George Melton, president of the Garage Operators' Organization said today. He said the raise was not the result of any agreement of the organization, but merely the answer he got from questioning service station and garage operators throughout the city this morning.

He said probably operators outside the city would raise their prices the same amount.

Wholesale prices were raised half a cent yesterday, but all operators in the city were not sure how much their retail prices would increase.

One-cent Rise

Whittington Motor Sales on Lansdowne St. said they had put up their prices half a cent this morning, Reuben Wilson garage at the corner of Reid and McDonnel raised their prices one cent Wednesday night.

Operators outside the city hadn't received any word during Thursday morning of any raise they would have to pay. But Willis A. Cunningham of Fraserville said he thought most of the operators along the highway would follow Peterborough's lead and raise prices the full cent.

Mr. Melton said the reason for the full cent increase was that last February higher freight rates had increased their costs less than half a cent and the service station operators had absorbed the cost. With another half cent addition to their costs, they thought a full cent increase was warranted.

Some of the oil company representatives said their companies did not dictate prices to the operators and that it was up to the dealers themselves.

26 New Houses Started In June

Peterborough's building continues to boom as 118 building permits were issued by the city engineer's office during June with a total value of $747,275.

Of these permits, 26 were for erection of houses totalling $174,350. The number of garages almost equalled the houses with 25 going up at an average price of about $250. Miscellaneous types of structures and repairs represent the majority of the permits issued. In all there were 71 of these permits issued with a value of $567,575.

So far this year there have been a total of 166 permits issued for houses and apartment houses valued at $1,079,650.

Unhooked Muskie Jumps In And Jumps Right Out Again

Here is a fish story of a muskie that jumped into a fisherman's boat, in error, on Cameron Lake, above Fenelon Falls. Dr. James Bain of Oshawa and Joel Aldred of Toronto were coming off the lake to the former's cottage landing dock when Joel saw a large lunge swimming away from it. With his rod handy beside him in the boat, he made a quick cast and the moody fish eyed the bait from the bottom. In the unpredictable way of its kind, it rushed up at the lure, broke water and commenced to thresh the air in an effort to get free.

The fish's jump brought it close by the canoe gunwale, the bait came free and Mr. Muskie, which zigged when it should have zagged landed half its length in the bobbing boat. Dr. Bain grabbed it, too late, just as it flipped into the water and disappeared.

Both fishermen were goggle-eyed but not too much to estimate that his acrobat would go about 45 inches in length. The fish could have been called "Flannigan". Remember the old saw? Out again, in again, gone again, Flannigan.

Hole in the Toe Latest Fad In Stockings

LONDON, July 7—(CP)—Latest fad from Paris: Stockings with a hole in the toe.

You can have stockings with inserted motifs of chantilly lace, or you can have them merely colored, printed or finely embroidered with tiny colored flowers.

But whatever decorative effects the stockings carry, having a nice big hole in the toe is the thing if you're wearing open-toed shoes.

With delicately strapped, open dance-shoes or sandals you can have a large hole showing just the right amount of big toe with the nail painted to tone or contrast.

Toe holes figure again in the "sloppy" striped beach socks which replace beach shoes or sandals. These are usually combined with a beach suit which looks like a long "sloppy Joe" jersey with frilled hem, untidy boater neck and big, wrinkled Dolman sleeves.

Stockings carrying the most trimming are for evening wear. Some, however, simply match the dress in color or have a seam the same color as the dress. And combining colors of ensemble with those of stockings is one more preoccupation for the fashion-minded. The stockings may match gloves and bag with the stocking trimming repeated on the glove.

A pair of black resille with tiny rhinestones could be worn with a black tulle evening gown with dull gold underslip embroidered with rhinestones.

Others, covered with tiny pieces of jet, are worn with a short black evening dress with long flowing tulle at back.

Navy blue tockings with white spots match a short, full cocktail dress of navy and white polka-dot taffeta.

Grey stockings with motifs embroidered in light grey and matching purple gloves are the chosen acessories of a light grey tailor-made.

Light blue stockings with a double bracelet in white tulle inserted over the ankle are worn with a striped cocktail dress.

Black stockings, with inserted pink guipure, are presented with a short evening dress in black and pink guipure. A white bridal gown is acompanied by stockings in white resille.

Canada's national animal, the beaver, is one of nature's most energetic conservationists. The dams they build help to hold back the rushing waters in the spring, storing them up for the dry summer months. Beavers and the dams they build should never be molested by unauthorized persons.

High Standard On Continent Amazes Nurses

MONTREAL, July 7—(CP)—Six Canadian nurses returning today from a tour of Britain and attendance at an international congress in Stockholm, said they admired the British standard of nursing but that British nurses had plenty to learn from Canadians about working conditions.

"The high standard of nursing is something amazing in both Britain and on the continent," said Miss Eleanor Atkins of Parry Sound, "but the working conditions are terrible. The girls work long hours for poor pay and worse working conditions. They have a lot to learn from us about such things."

The Canadian nurses found hospitals overseas clean, orderly and up-to-date, with the staffs doing a good job in looking after the sick. But, as in Canada, the hospitals suffered from lack of nurses.

Discussion was held in Stockholm on the means of overcoming the scarcity of trained personnel. The question of what should be done was left to a committee.

Another Grateful Citizen Praises Syntona Highly

Was Rundown, Troubled With Headaches, Backache, Constipation. Had Pains in Limbs, Joints; Nerves Were Tense; Couldn't Sleep.

MR. J. E. PERSSON

Convincing proof of the benefits to be obtained by taking a treatment of Syntona Herbal Compound is found in the many experiences of local men and women who have used this medicine. A very recent and interesting case is that of Mr. J. E. Persson, 35 Genesee Avenue, Mount Hamilton, Ontario, who said:

"In the past year I was generally rundown. My nerves were tense. I felt tired and got frequent dull headache. Pains set in my back, limbs and joints I had no appetite, couldn't get my proper sleep at night and felt tired and awful sluggish in the mornings.

"I was advised to take a good tonic and Syntona was recommended to me so I got some. That is only a few weeks ago, but in that short time the improvement has been so great that I can almost say I feel 100% better. Headache, backache and other pains are gone away, my appetite has picked up wonderfully and my nerves are settled down so that I sleep soundly all night long. Now I can work all day without tiring as I did before and I certainly think Syntona is a wonderful medicine. I will gladly recommend it to any one."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. Find out how it can help you, too. (Advt.)

WOMEN PAY BIG PRICE FOR POOR "BLOOD MAKE UP"

You women who feel and look "washed out"—limp and droopy—may be paying the price of hemoglobin shortage in the blood.

Nature's regular monthly demands on a woman's system often tend to bring about this shortage of the vital red coloring matter in the red blood cells. Try Dr. Williams Pink Pills.

They help increase hemoglobin where there is a shortage of it due to iron deficiency and help chase away that "leaden" feeling of tiredness so often due to this condition. Start your course of Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. Ask your druggist.

DOROTHY DIX

Pity the Old Wolf's Wife Must Endure His Fancies

Dorothy Dix

DEAR MISS DIX: We women get tired of being told how to hold our husbands. Isn't it up to the husband to hold his wife's affections as much as it is to the wife to keep her husband entertained and well taken care of?

I would like to say to every bridegroom:

Don't throw away that with which you caught me as soon as we are married. Don't forget the little considerations and courtesies you extended to me before we were married. Don't forget to tell me how nice I look nor how sweet I am. It carries a thrill at any time for any woman. Don't keep all your good clothes and good manners for company. Don't cease to be a lover just because you have become a husband. Women are just as sentimental and romantic as men and if husbands would remember this there wouldn't be so many wives looking abroad for men who understand them.

Don't go off on your holidays and Sundays, the only days I could be with you, and leave me with friends or by myself while you golf. The real reason I married you was because I loved you and wanted to be with you and thought that you felt the same way about me. Once in a while it is right and proper for you to have a day off, but not every Sunday and holiday.

Don't ever let me see that you regard me simply as some one to cook and wash and iron for you and make things comfortable. It is a knockout blow to a woman to find that she is nothing but a cook and a valet to her husband.

Don't be one of those husbands who think that a wife should bear all the burden and hardships of rearing children alone. You may be tired when you get home from the office. So am I tired from washing, ironing, running, after the children and entertaining them. And every evening brings no change.

When you and the children keep the house torn up and I am doing my own work and busy, don't tell me what a poor housekeeper I am and how nice some other woman keeps her home.

Don't hang your family around my neck. It is hard enough to care for our immediate family without in-laws being thrown in. Don't tell me how mother used to do this or that. Every wife resents that most of all. Don't begrudge me every penny you give me for the expenses of the home. You get more enjoyment out of it than I do. Don't begrudge me a few clothes once in a while. Nothing takes the pep out of a woman and drags her down and makes her so discontented as having to wear old clothes year after year. Don't act as if my opinion is worth less than nothing. I held down a good job for several years before we were married.

Don't expect me to look like a million dollars on a ten-dollar-a-month allowance. Before we were married I had ten times that much for clothes and spending. Don't say you would do this or that if you were not married. You are the one who did the asking. Don't nag me. Say a thing and let it ride. A man nager is worse than a woman nager.

Don't be a quitter. Don't run to your stenographer or some other sympathetic woman with tales of your marital woes. Of course, marriage is full of sacrifices and full of work and worry, but you had intelligence enough to know that before you married, so buck up and take it on the chin and grin. And don't think that you have been stung because I am human instead of a conjurer who can work miracles in labor and economy and still remain young and fascinating and even-tempered. If you will go with me fifty-fifty and stand shoulder to shoulder with me, fight the good fight with me, and we will build a home to be proud of and make marriage a success.

A STRUGGLING WIFE.

ANSWER: I can add nothing to this woman's letter. It is a good working schedule that every husband should frame and hang above his mirror where he will see it every morning when he shaves, and if he will follow it there will be fewer peevish and discontented wives.

For marriage is harder on women than it is on men and just as many wives get disillusioned and tired of their husbands as there are husbands who fall out of love with their wives, and if men want to retain their wives' affections they have to keep themselves attractive and interesting and worth while to the ladies to whom they are married.

DOROTHY DIX.

❖ ❖ ❖

DEAR MISS DIX: For thirty years my husband and I have made a happy home for ourselves, and three unusually fine children. But my husband has one quality that has often caused me pain. Women are simply irresistible to him and he can't be near one without getting all pepped up and swelling out his chest and trying to attract her atention until he reminds me of nothing so much as a strutting turkey gobbler. By steadfastly refusing to see or talk about this I have kept up the dignity of the family, but it is very wearing on me, and if I had not been brought up to be a perfect lady I would be tempted to

Red Wings Edge Buffalo 3-2

By The Associated Press.

Erv Dusak is making good in his bid to get back into the major leagues as a pitcher.

Dusak, who failed to live up to his minor-league reputation as a hitter while playing the outfield and infield with St. Louis from 1946-48, is rapidly picking up the finer points of pitching with the Cardinals' Rochester farm club in the International League.

The 28-year-old twirler came up with one of his best performances of the season Wednesday night as he pitched the Red Wings to a 3-2, 13-inning triumph over the league-leading Buffalo Bisons.

Dusak scattered 11 hits, walked seven and fanned 12 in posting his sixth victory against four defeats.

The triumph was his fourth in his last five decisions and his fourth straight complete game.

Russ Derry tripled with two out in the 13th and scored on Steve Bilko's hard single to right field to break up the game.

Rain postponed scheduled games between Montreal and Toronto and Newark and Jersey City. Baltimore Orioles and Syracuse Chiefs were idle.

Dorothy Dix

hit him over the head when he makes such a spectacle of himself.

LONG SUFFERING.

ANSWER: Certainly a flirtatious husband, and particularly an old one who fancies himself as a lady-killer, is hard for a wife to endure, not because she is torn with jealousy but because she is mortified at the figure of fun he makes of himself.

But really there is nothing the wife can do except shut her eyes and call her sense of humor to her aid, for these middle-aged, reconditioned sheiks who always want to paw flappers and kiss every pretty young girl are so besotted with vanity that they are beyond all human aid. Particularly are they beyond their wives' aid, for when the wife tries to save them from their folly they think she is jealous and that just eggs them on.

So you just have to make up your mind to endure these little flirtations and be generous enough not to begrudge them because your husband is getting such a whale of a kick out of them.

DOROTHY DIX.

Want To Get Rid Of Governor

CHICAGO, July 7—(AP)—The Chicago Tribune says today "the majority" of Falkland Islanders don't want their governor, Sir Geoffrey Mills Clifford, to return to his post.

Jules Dubois, Tribune correspondent, says in the last of a series of articles on the islands that the governor's wife, Lady Clifford, also is unpopular with the natives.

The Falklands are a British colony situated in the South Atlantic off the southern coast of Argentina.

Dubois reports these comments by prominent islanders:

K. V. Leilman, clerk of the Port Stanley town council:

"We don't want him (Sir Geoffrey) back because he is arrogant and dictatorial."

Leslie A. Hardy, elected member of the legislative council and chairman of the Port Stanley town council:

"We hope he won't return. It will be a very sad day if he returns to us."

Sir Geoffrey now is in Canada buying aircraft for England's Antarctic bases, Dubois writes. He left the Falklands recently to proceed to London on home leave. Lady Clifford has not been in the islands for more than a year.

Police said McKay was slugged over the head with a lead pipe, buried alive in a shallow grave in a backyard potato patch and then hacked to death with an axe. Seven Dozen Boys Joined YMCA Vacation Club

Eighty-five boys between the ages of eight years and 14 years have joined the annual YMCA Vacation Club for boys. The club operated on the same lines as a boys' camp at the lakes for the boys who are spending the first few weeks of their holidays in the city. The two-week program is being conducted by Al Clark, Physical director at the YMCA, who is being assisted by the Junior leaders of the Physical Department and the members of the Junior Swimming Club.

Monday morning was spent in registering the boys and arranging them in classes. In the afternoon all the boys were tested for their swimming ability. The non-swimmers were put in one class while the swimmers were again tested and were classified according to their speeds. Movies were shown.

Treasure Hunt

Dog leashes and leather belts were in the making Tuesday morning as the boys started their craft work clases. In the afternoon a "milkshake" treasure hunt was held. Boys with bicycles travelled to Lock 22 above Nassau. There they hunted for small bits of paper distributed about the park. Each of the papers meant a milkshake if found. For the non-owners of bicycles the treasure hunt took place in Nicholls Oval.

Each morning the boys hold an assembly in the dining room of the YMCA. Roll call, instructions for the day, a sing-song and games are held to start the day. After the asembly they form into their classes.

Today Al Clark expected that the boys would carry on with their craft work in the morning. His afternoon program will depend on the weather. He said that they would likely hold canoe tests for each boy. The test is the ability to swim 10 lengths of the pool (600 feet) strongly. Those boys who pass the tests will be allowed to go out on canoe hikes on Little Lake either this week or next.

KING TO PROCLAIM EMERGENCY STATE

ABSOLUTELY THE BIGGEST MUSKIE taken in the Kawarthas in the past three years, at least, was landed this morning before breakfast by Mrs. Elmer Zingery, of Beach City, O. It weighed 35 pounds, towed the boat for nearly an hour on Rice lake in front of Elm Grove Camp, Hiawatha. The battle was a family affair as Mr. Zingery helped his wife and son Charles assembled the gaff and stood by.—Examiner Staff Photo.

Give Dockers Till Monday Halt Strike

Triple Troops Helping Unload Food Ships; See Red Interference

LONDON, July 8 (Reuters).—The King will be asked to issue a state of emergency proclamation if the London dock strike is not settled by Monday morning, Home Secretary James Chuter Ede announced to-day.

Earlier the government tripled the number of troops employed on the London docks to unload food ships held up in the strike.

The port must be fully working without discrimination between the ships, Ede said. Dockers have been refusing to work two Canadian ships because of the Canadian Seamen's Union strike.

The position in the docks had not improved to-day, Ede said.

The result of the ballot taken by National Amalgamated Stevedores and Dockers Union, to which most of the strikers belong, could not be expected to give any reliable result because it had been largely boycotted by the men, Ede added.

"The inter-union dispute in Canada is the business of no one in this country and nothing we can do here can effect a settlement," Ede said.

No Interference

Canadian ships coming to British ports loaded by Canadian dockers were not "black" and there was no justification on trade union principles for holding otherwise. Both the British unions involved had instructed their members to return to full normal working.

"The only reason why we have to deal with the trouble in this country is that the Communists see in it a chance of fomenting unrest, injuring our trade and hampering our recovery and with it the whole process of Marshall aid on which the recovery of Western Europe depends."

"The issue with which we are faced is not one of a legitimate industrial dispute but a challenge to the whole authority of the state and it must be met" Ede told the House of Commons.

Wide Effects

"Troops are being used to safeguard food supplies, but the stoppage has wider effects. In its present economic situation the country cannot afford delays in the turnround of ships and the hold-up of exports.

"The government has accordingly decided that unless the port is fully working with discrimination between ships by Monday morning they will advise His Majesty to issue a proclamation under the Emergeny Powers Act 1920 declaring that a state of emergency exists."

Ede said the act of 1920 enabled regulations to be made to obtain GIVE DOCKERS

Luciano, One-Time New York Vice King Ordered Exiled To Old Village In Sicily

ROME, July 8 — (AP) — Charles (Lucky) Luciano, one-time New York vice king, will be "exiled" to a village in Sicily "because his presence in Rome is a crime threat," Italian authorities announced today.

The 51-year-old Sicilian was picked up Thursday in his fashionable Rome apartment. He was questioned in connection with an international drive on drug traffic, but "no evidence was found against him, police said.

Nevertheless, they said, he will be sent to the tiny village of Lereara Friddi, near Palermo.

The village was his home once before. When Luciano was deported from the United States in 1947 and arrived here, he was restricted to Sicily. Later, however, he was permitted to circulate freely.

Luciano was questioned for hours Thursday in a Rome jail about possible links with an international drug ring. The ring was uncovered June 25 with the arrest at Rome airport of a man identified as Charles Vincent Trupia of New York. Police said Trupia was carrying about 20 pounds of cocaine, valued at $500,000.

Police said Luciano will be questioned again today and then shipped to Sicily.

Canada Refuses To Shelter Two Stowaways Now Facing Soviet Death

Pair Discovered Hiding In Pile Of Hay After Ship Leaves Antwerp, Dominion Now Orders Their Deportation

MONTREAL, July 8—(CP)—A young Austrian passport clerk and his Polish friend who made bids "for liberty and freedom" in Canada today learned that their applications for political asylum in the Dominion have been turned down and they will be deported. Robert Radowicz, 22, the Austrian, and Paul Rakasiawicz of Poland, arrived here this week as stowaways aboard the Swiss freighter Anunciada. The two were found hidden in a pile of hay after the freighter sailed from Antwerp.

"I can't go back," Radowicz told a reporter who reached him by telephone at immigration detention quarters. "It means death, maybe. I've burned all my bridges behind me. I just have to get permission to stay here.

"I'll kill myself before they take me back on the ship. Please, do something quickly for me if you can."

Both Appeal

Both stowaways, in immigration cells since the freighter docked here on Wednesday, said they would appeal. But with the Anunciada sailing to-night it was believed they would be aboard before any further action could be taken.

Immigration regulations provide that stowaways, being deported on the same ship on which they arrived, must be aboard at least an hour before sailing time.

Radowicz claimed that he had aided 1,200 of his countrymen to escape through the Russian zone in Austria. Through his work in the Passport Department he was able to get political refugees out of the country.

Finally his work caught up with him and he decided to flee.

He got out of Austria dressed as a woman. Joined by Rakasiawicz, he boarded the Anunciada because he heard she was sailing for Canada.

He told reporters here earlier in the week that he was "sick and fed up with fear." He said if he had to surrender to anyone he would rather do it in Canada "where I believed liberty and freedom still existed."

Sees Europe-U.S. Trade War Developing Soon If Recovery Doesn't Come

OTTAWA, July 8—(CP)—United States gold against European production is the way a European economist now working for the Canadian government sees trade battle lines shaping up if Europe doesn't soon bounce back on her economic feet. Dr. Alfred Valdmanis, former Latvian Minister of Finance, Industry and Trade, believes that in Europe's recovery lies the solution to the world's trading problems.

"But," he said in an interview, "Europe has not recovered." Marshall Aid was keeping the continent alive but not giving it economic strength.

Dr. Valdmanis, in the midst of a five-month foreign trade survey for the trade department, said that what Europe still needed was "a sound currency system, new industrial equipment and new tools." Even with Marshall aid, the continent still hasn't got these.

Form Own Empire

"If Europe doesn't get back on its feet soon, it may drop from the present economic world and try to establish an economic empire of its own," added the 40-year-old economist.

"Such an empire would work on a multi-barter basis, goods for goods with a clearing house somewhere inside, ignoring hard currency and gold power.

"It might lead to an economic battle of United States gold versus European production and it might mean the end of free world trade."

Dr. Valdmanis is new in Canada but he knows Europe inside and out. He arrived last fall from Geneva where he was director of planning for the international refugee organization.

As a skilled economist, Dr. Valdmanis has found a lot to praise in his new homeland. He said:

"Canada with its relatively small population and gold reserves has made tremendous achievements in its finance and world trade."

Smaller Nations Must Have Voice In Pact-Pearson

SOUTH HADLEY, Mass., July 8—(CP)—L. B Pearson, Canada's external affairs minister, said today the smaller nations in the Atlantic pact must have a full voice in its decisions. "A great deal remains to be done," he said, before the pact's machinery begins to function.

Pearson predicted the successful conclusion of preparations for that functioning "will make demands on our political vision and understanding."

It will also involve, he said, giving small nations a voice in plans they may be called on to help carry out.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the Mount Holyoke College Institute of the United Nations, he said the alliance must become "a living, constructive social and economic force in international affairs."

Effective Machinery

Its machinery must be effective in co-ordinating and strengthening the defence capacity of our association. It must be simple, with those who have the main responsibilities possessing the power.

"At the same time, the smaller members of the group cannot be bound by plans in the making of which they did not participate and which they may not have even known about. A solution may be found in the council, which represents all the members, having the power to lay down general principles of collective action with smaller agencies with delegated powers responsible for transforming those principles into detailed plans."

The council would probably comprise the foreign ministers of the 12 member countries or their representatives. There also would be a defence committee made up of the defence minister or their representatives.

The council would be primarily concerned with broad political questions, the defence committee with the relation of military and political considerations.

Beverage Room Inspection System Changed

TORONTO, July 8—(CP)—The Ontario government today announced changes in its inspection system to enforce regulations governing sale of beer or liquor in beverage rooms and cocktail bars.

The announcement came from Hon. Arthur Welsh, Provincial Secretary, at the close of a cabinet meeting.

Under the new setup, divisional inspectors will be appointed throughout the Province to check on operation of licensed premises and also to supervise the work of the regular inspectors in their areas.

They will have authority to order dirty beverage rooms to be cleaned up or to deal on the spot with places frequented by drunks. Mr. Welsh said the method of this enforcement was an administrative matter and he gave no details. However, there was speculation that the inspector would have authority to cut off sale of beer until conditions were remedied.

Under the new plan, inspectors will report to their divisional chiefs and if necessary they take the matter to the chief inspector.

Mr. Welsh said the province is now paying the municipalities 20 per cent of the revenue obtained from licences. In return for these monies, the municipalities undertake to police the licensed premises.

"Some have been taking the money and not doing the work," he added. "We have intimated to the municipalities that if they don't police these premises properly, we'll do it."

Britain Orders Russian Grain 1,000,000 Tons

LONDON, July 8 (AP)—Britain has agreed to buy nearly 1,000,000 tons of coarse grains from Russia in the next year, official sources disclosed today.

The informants added that part of a barter deal agreement was initiated in private in Moscow last week—a few days before Britain's economic planners announced a three-month standstill on dollar spending.

Talks for a one-year Anglo-Russian trade pact have been going on for some time. The grain deal would form part of that year-long pact.

Russia and Britain signed a contract in December, 1947, whereby Russia was to deliver 750,000 tons of coarse grains to Britain. That contract called for a barter on British electrical, motor railway, and other equipment in exchange for the grains.

Negotiations for a longer term Anglo-Soviet trade agreement are expected to follow this new agreement. Russia is to supply a big quantity of wheat over and above the coarse grains—barley, oats and corn, the informants said. They declined to say how much.

Britain and Argentina signed a five-year trade agreement in Buenos Aires June 27. The Buenos Aires accord provides that Britain will spend a minimum of £129,000,00 ($516,000,000) annually for Argentine products and Argentina a minimum of £121,-535,000 for British products.

Russia and other Eastern European countries do not demand dollar payment. They desperately need machinery and capital equipment—things Britain can not easily sell for dollars.

Vice-Consul Beaten

SHANGHAI, July 8 (AP) — William B. Olive, a United States Vice-Consul, severely beaten by police in a minor traffic incident, Thursday was held without communication in jail in this Communist metropolis. The incident occurred Wednesday at the same time several hundred Chinese former employees of the United States Navy were besieging the consulate with demands for more severance pay. The two affairs apparently were not related, however.

Discover DP Groups Using Old Storm Troop Tactics

TORONTO, July 8—(CP)—One man was arrested and warrants were issued against two others as a result of an investigation to what police termed the "storm troop actions" of a group of immigrants who allegedly attacked three men in midwest Toronto Park Thursday night. Fred Wanat, 28, who arrived in Canada from Poland several months ago, was charged Thursday night with aggravated assault on Peter Kryshtolovich, 55-year-old Ukrainian miner, and was scheduled to appear in court today.

Kryshtolovich's son Thomas, 24, charged he was also attacked by a group of men in a park when he objected to the assault on his father.

Police said the "gang" also struck and kicked 18-year-old William Kogut who was playing ball in Alexander Park. When a number of other ball players went to help him, Police said, a mass fight broke out and police squads were dispatched to the park.

Act Like Troopers

Investigating officers said "the gang of D.P.'s who recently arrived from Europe, intend to act like Fascist storm troopers and drive old residents of foreign descent from our midwest parks."

"At first we thought it might be a fight between political factions," they said. "But now we are not sure."

Kryshalovich, recovering in hospital from head injuries, told police he was driven from a bench in the park twice within the last few days. Thursday night, his son went to the park to determine the cause of the attack on him and was beaten and kicked by a group of men.

US Plans Session On Dollar Crisis

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—High-level talks may be held between British and United States officials in six or eight weeks to work out long-range solutions to Britain's economic crisis.

Some diplomatic authorities here said that the problem now appears so serious that it seems unlikely that solutions can be worked out without a meeting of highly-placed officials. On the American side this might presumably mean State Secretary Dean Acheson would be a participant Such a conference would follow a London meeting of Commonwealth officials.

The present mission of John Snyder, United States Secretary of the Treasury, in Europe is more of an investigating and reporting operation than it is concerned with actual negotiations according to reliable information here.

It is understood that Snyder was sent to Europe by President Truman to find out what the problems are and what European leaders think about possible solutions and then to report back to the President and the Cabinet.

In the meantime, Paul G. Hoffman, the Economic Co-operation Administrator, has come up with an estimate that dollar-short Britain may cut their planned purchases of United States goods by $250,000,000,000 during the coming year.

Hoffman told a Washington press conference Thursday that Britain had planned to buy about $1,600,000,000 worth of goods during the year from the western hemisphere. He figured now there will be a reduction of $450,000,000 in this amount, including the $250,000,000 expected reduction in United States goods and the balance from elsewhere in the hemisphere.

Mexican Government Keeps Congress Hold

MEXICO CITY, July 8 (AP)—First scattered returns from Sunday's elections indicated the government has kept its hold on Congress.

Complete results from seven election districts in Mexico City showed the government's institutional revolutionary party won seven of the Federal district's 12 seats in the Chamber of Deputies. The PRI was leading by more than two to one in three others. The Conservative National Action party was ahead in two districts.

Colonial Govts. Halt Imports

LONDON, July 8 (AP)—Britain's world-wide colonial governments have been asked to suspend temporarily the issuance of licences for imports requiring payments in dollars.

The action, taken by the Colonial Office, is in line with the "standstill" of dollar purchases in Britain ordered this week by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Stafford Cripps.

A Colonial Office statement said the various governments of the empire were asked to take the action "except in cases where that would have a grave effect."

It was emphasized that the request was of a "temporary nature" to bring the rest of the empire into line with conditions prevailing in Britain, now hard pressed by a serious shortage of dollar reserves.

Thousands Of Sockeye Salmon Fight Way Up Turbulent Fraser River To Spawn In Canyon

VANCOUVER, July 8 (CP) — A silver harvest of sockeye salmon is again running in the Fraser River's Hell's Gate canyon fishways.

And the Pacific International Salmon Commission believes it has solved the four-year riddle in the tremendously increased early salmon run.

The fish are offspring of 28,000 Sockeye which ascended the fishways in 1945, the first year the $850,000 fish ladders went into operation. Fish ladders enable salmon to by-pass dams.

A year before the ladders began operation, only 6,300 fish were counted in the spawning grounds.

The long wait to discover effects of the fish ladders was caused by the Sockeye habits of returning to the sea for four years before returning to the rivers to spawn.

UEW Plans To Retain Affiliation With CCL

TORONTO, July 8 — (CP). — District Five Council of the United Electrical Workers (CCL-CIO) announced to-day that their union would retain its affiliation with the Congress despite suspension of five of their top officers by the Canadian Labor Congress Thursday.

At the same time the union condemned suspension of the officers, terming it "a denial of the right of the union membership of a given union to select their own representation."

Suspension of the union officers followed the publication of an article criticizing Ontario Labor Federation leaders for their handling of the Federation convention last February. The five men were deemed responsible for the article published in the UE News following the convention.

Ship Surplus Women To Canada Briton Asks

LONDON, July 8 (CP) — Sir Frederick Whyte, in a letter to the Times, today suggests that British women emigrate to Canada while the men stay at home.

He points out that the 1931 census showed a surplus of 1,886,606 women in the United Kingdom and a surplus of 372,-296 men in Canada.

"After the heavy loss of men in their prime since 1914 we cannot afford to send more than a few men to Canada. But we could redress the balance somewhat by sending some of our surplus women to the advantage of the Dominion and to their own advantage."

Two Go To Chair

OSSINING, N. Y., July 8 (AP) —Andrew Sheridan and John M. Dunn died Thursday night in Sing Sing's electric chair for the slaying of boss stevedore Anthony Hintz in New York in January, 1947. A third man convicted of the same murder, Daniel Gentile, 40, was saved from the chair when Governor Thomas Dewey Wednesday night commuted his sentence to life imprisonment.

Call On Indians To Aid Search

VAL D'OR, Que., July 8 — (CP)—The bush search for 16-year-old Gillis Gray, lost since June 25, rested largely today with 25 Algonquin and Cree Indians.

The Indians, all trappers and guides, came in from Jackson's Landing voluntarily. Their arrival followed an intensive week-end search by townspeople of Val d'Or and Bourlamaque, many of them experienced woodsmen.

Leaders of the search said they feel that the Indians, directed by Fred Jackson, can cover more ground in a day and do it more effectively than any number of white men, no matter how experienced.

Many of the townspeople are taking the present phase of the search as an effort to prove young Gray never was lost.

Co-ordinate Wage Drives

UAW, Steel Workers Unite On Demands

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 8 (AP)—Whether automobile or steel workers lead the way this year, their economic drives now reaching the crucial stage in the United States will be "co-ordinated."

Walter Reuther president of the United Automobile Workers (CI.O.) made that plain as his union's executive board opened a pre-convention meeting here yesterday.

The meeting was called for the announced purpose of making final arrangements for the big U.A.W. convention next week.

But the U.A.W.'s own bargaining strategy seems due for a complete review and possible revision by the 22 board members in light of new developments in the steel industry.

The United Steel Corporation told the steelworkers union (C.I.O.) it can not meet wage, pension and insurance demands similar to thosce the U.A.W. has served on most of the auto industry.

While watching developments ni Pittsburgh, U.A.W. leaders did not overlook the negotiations they left behind in Detroit.

Specific targets there are the Ford Motor Company, just recovered from a 24-day "speed-up" strike in May, and the Chrysler Corporation.

Canadian Goods Not Selling

Ask Private Trading In Foreign Markets

MONTREAL, July8 (CP)—The Canadian Chamber of Commerce said today that sale of Canadian manufactured goods in the Sterling area is "dropping at an alarming rate" and it called on the government for "continued effort by the government to clear the way for private trading in foreign markets."

The Chamber, in a statement prepared by its foreign trade committee said it does not suggest that the solution of all Canada's difficulties lies within Canada.

It "does believe that a greater measure of understanding and co-operation between government and business in the foreign trade field will result in more energetic and effective Canadian trading abroad."

The Chamber said a chief obstacle to private trading is the prevalence of bilateral deals resulting from the inconvertibility of currencies."

"Our exports have been shut out of markets which have been built up by years of work, and it that unless a solution to this is the feeling of the committee ternational exchange problem can be worked out, we must face the prospect of losing permanently a great part of our export trade."

Let Contract For Canada's First Subway

Begin Work In Sept. On $150,000,000 Rapid Transit System

TORONTO, July 8 — (CP) — Canada's first subway was a step nearer completion today with the letting of a $10,000,000 contract for its first two sections.

The $50,000,000 rapid transit system, Toronto's remedy for the perennial traffic headache on narrow Yonge St., the main north-south avenue, is scheduled to be completed in 1953.

Besides a 4½-mile route under Yonge, it will include a cross-town section of some 1½ miles along downtown Queen St. Toronto Transportation Commission officials say it will be the most up-to-date in the world.

Estimated cost of putting the trams underground on Yonge St. is more than $32,000,000.

The $10,000,000 contract let Thursday to a syndicate headed by the Toronto firm of C. A. Pitts General Contractors Limited, is the final step before start of construction, scheduled in September.

The work involves underground cuts from Front St., near the city's waterfront, to come 16 blocks northward. These sections of Yonge St. will be closed to traffic when the job is on. Seven tenders involving 13 British, American and Canadian firms were submitted and the Pitts' bid was lowest.

The syndicate includes three United States firms. The contract is the major one to be let in the construction.

"We will use Canadian materials almost entirely," said William C. McBrien, chairman of the TTC.

Traffic on Yonge St. will be back to normal within 10 months after construction is begun, said Mr. McBrien.

Head-on Smash Crushes Brighton Trucker

TRENTON, July 8 — Crushed beneath a pile of cement and hot asphalt mix, Lloyd Gerow, 22, of King St., Trenton, was fatally injured in a head-on collision near here Thursday afternoon.

Gerow, driving a tractor-trailer loaded with 10 tons of cement, was hurled through the windshield of his truck when it collided with another driven by Ronald Gray of Queen St., Trenton. He was pinned beneath the box of Gray's truck, loaded with hot asphalt mix.

Part of the cement load was hurled onto the asphalt truck, and the hot mix poured down over Gerow. A crane had to be brought from nearby No. 6 Repair Depot, RCAF, to remove the wreckage, and Gerow died en route to hospital in Belleville.

Gray, driver of the other truck, was taken to Belleville General Hospital with minor injuries.

Police said the cement truck was westbound, and Gray was headed in the opposite direction. A car, driven by Gordon A. Campbell of Trenton, stopped to make a left turn into the road leading to the repair depot, police said, and Gray swung out to pass it, hitting the cement truck head-on.

Coroner R. T. Potter said an inquest would be held. Gerow is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gerow of RR 3, Brighton, and a brother.

Currency Crisis Upsets Dairymen

OTTAWA, July 8 (CP) —Canada's dairymen are worried about the effects of the world-currency crisis on their export business.

"Canada is a big exporter of dairy products and anything which has a tendency to restrict that trade is bound to have serious effects on the whole dairy economy," said J. H. Duplan, president of the National Dairy Council after an Ottawa meeting of the executive committee this week.

The meeting, attended by representatives of all branches of the industry in Canada, urged that the government make every effort to open new markets for Canadian dairy products, including evaporated milk, cheese and milk powder, particularly in view of the stringent currency situation in the United Kingdom. The U. K. was described as the best long-term market for surpluses of Canadian dairy products.

Plan New Crack-Down On Liquor Operators

TORONTO, July 8 (CP)—A Toronto paper says today that further details of the Ontario Government's "plans to crack down on beverage room operators who have been lax in their observance of regulations" are expected to be announced today.

The announcement will come after the weekly meeting of the Ontario cabinet, the paper says in a newspage story.

It suggests that changes in the Licensing Board may be forthcoming. One of these may be the setting up of regioanl boards to handle routine, leaving the main board to handle new applications and complaints of a serious nature.

NOISY MOTORBIKES

George Street pedestrians held their ears and muttered curses under their collective breaths early this afternoon as two noisy, evidently mufferless motorcycles roared down the road. People turned to watch and swear, and one man, probably a light sleeper, said he wished someone would start a campaign to get the bikes put off the street altogether. Apparently his peaceful nights at home have been interrupted by the snarl of motorcycle exhaust.

Food Picture Brighter In All Lands

Wheat and Rye Crops Now Increasing, Predict Price Drop

OTTAWA, July 8 (CP)—World production of wheat and rye is increasing. As a result, the world food picture is brighter.

In its monthly review of the world wheat situation the Bureau of Statistics said Thursday the world's post-war shortage of bread grains is over.

Most countries are producing as much grain as they were before the war and grain stocks are the biggest in more than a decade.

Because of increased wheat production, a fall in price is expected and the United States may restrict production next year. There already has been a general price decline and prospects for the 1949-50 crop are fairly satisfactory, the Bureau said.

Several important developments have occurred as a result of mounting food supplies, the Bureau said. With the exception of rice, international control of all foodstuffs had ceased.

Rationing Relaxed

Bread rationing had almost disappeared. Ration controls on other foodstuffs had been relaxed throughout most of Europe.

The world's bread-grain exportable surplus increased in 1948-49 to 27,000,000 tons, compared with 25,400,000 tons in 1947-48 and 27,800,000 tons in 1929-30.

In the United States, exportable surplus increased to 13,600,000 tons, compared with 13,100,000 tons in 1947-48 and 3,100,000 in 1929-30.

With a near-record production of 1,337,000,000 bushels in the United States and an exportable surplus of 300,000,000 bushels there was evidence that the U. S. may reduce production next year.

The Bureau refrained from estimating Canada's 1949 crop at this early date. More seed had been planted this year than last, but weather conditions had been variable.

Four 'Martyred' British MP's Not Taken Seriously In House

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, July 8—(CP)—Four "martyred" members of parliament are having a tough time convincing their colleagues that a rebel's life is real and earnest. The House of Commons just won't take them seriously. As soon as the quartet announced its decision to band together as a Labor independent group, a christening contest started. Most popular name was "The Prittties," after the chairman, D. N. Pritt, K.C.

The others members of the group, all expelled from the Labor party for refusing to toe the line on foreign affairs, are Konni Zilliacus, J. F. Platts-Mills and Leslie Solley.

They call themselves "Labor Fellow-Travellers" and hope to return to the party some day — after proving they were right all along.

They say Labor's task is to make peace with Russia and that Foreign Secretary Bevin has fumbled the job by leaning too heavily on the United States.

All Want Trade

But they are all for increased trade with Canada. They argue that the Dominion is more receptive to long-term agreements, which harmonize with Labor's bulk-buying policies

The four rebels, who may be hard to beat at the next election because of popularity in their own constituencies, joined forces as a matter of parliamentary expediency. As a unit, they will obtain a voice in more debates and carry more weight in close votes.

Pritt, a stern-faced, heavy-jawed barrister who represents Hammersmith North, a London constituency, is the senior exile. He was cast out of the party for pro-Russian activities during the Russo-Finnish War in 1940.

Handsome, smooth - tongued Platts-Mills, whose Finsbury constituency will be merged with Shoreditch at the next election, was banished in April last year for his part in sending a congratulatory telegram to a Communist-tinged Socialist group in Italy.

Zilliacus and Solley, who represent Gateshead East and Thurrock respectively, went out last month for persistent support of Russian policies. Many Labor members were sorry to see Zilliacus outside the pale, but Will Nally, member for Bilston, said Solley's expulsion was a "hygenic operation, long overdue."

Few doubt the sincerity of the four Labor Independents, but most believe them to be misguided In their new unity, they've even had to scratch to find seats together in the Commons. None of the other backbenchers wants to give up his place to make room for them.

Find 1947 A-Bomb Arsenal Nearly Empty, U.S. Told

By MORGAN REYNOLDS

WASHINGTON, July 8—(AP)—The A-bomb arsenal of the United States was empty, or nearly so, when the Civilian Atomic Energy Commission took over the multi-billion-dollar project from the army in 1947, Senator Brien McMahon (Dem., Conn.) said Thursday.

But Brig.-Gen. James McCormack, Jr., a top AEC official, reported that since that time production bottlenecks have been broken and output of the mighty weapon now is on a stable basis after a complete model change.

McMahon's remarks came during McCormack's testimony before the Senate-House of Representatives Atomic Energy Committee, which the Connecticut senator heads.

The Congressional group now is in its fifth week of hearings into charges by Senator Bourke Hickenlooper (Rep., Iowa) that the AEC and its chairman, David E. Lilienthal, have conducted the vast atomic program with "incredible mismanagement."

McCormack, director of the AEC's military application division, testified that when the commission took charge two years ago the main atomic plant at Los Alamos, N. M., was "flat on its back." Since then, the AEC has been "revitalizing and expanding the weapons program" with the result now that production is on a stable basis.

At that point McMahon commented that when the AEC took charge "it didn't have any bombs —the models had been used up."

But after the hearing he modified his statement a little when questioned by reporters. McMahon said he thought there were no bombs, but that there may have been one.

Just how many bombs the United States now has or can produce are closely-guarded secrets.

Have First Defeat

DUBLIN, July 8 (Reuters) — Prime Minister John Costello's Coalition Government Thursday suffered its first defeat in the Dail since it took office 16 months ago. The defeat by three votes, came in a vote on the estimate for the Republic of Ireland's Department of Posts and Telegraphs. The government has decided to call for a vote of confidence when it resubmits the estimates today. There is little doubt that the government will win today's vote.

Doesn't Plan Inquiry

LONDON, July 8 (CP)—Harold Wilson, president of the Board of Trade, today said he plans no inquiry into why the liner Aquitania arrived in the United Kingdom May 25 with a large number of vacant berths. He said the Aquitania is used primarily to carry emigrants to Canada. The ship's austere accommodation made it less popular with passengers. The Aquitania is operated by the British Government.

Hughes Charged Operating Salvage Yard

W. J. A. Fair, K.C., Thursday accused the city police of discrimination against Thomas Hughes, salvage yard operator on Monaghan Rd for the past 15 years. Hughes faced a charge in city police court of unlawfully operating a salvage yard contrary to the provisions of the Police Commission's bylaw passed in April this year.

Mr. Fair complained that when the police discovered Hughes was carrying on his business without a license issued by the commission, they spied on him for three days to obtain evidence and then issued a summons without having previously drawn his attention to the necessity of a license.

"There should be reason and decency about these things," Mr. Fair declared. Constable Andy Dalton had said that on checking police files he found Hughes had no license. When examined by Mr Fair he did not agree that the proper procedure for him to take would have been to approach Hughes directly about the matter.

Now Within City

Constable Dalton said that the land where the yard is situated was outside the city until two or three years ago. It now came under bylaws apertaining to the city. He said the yard had no fence, which was a contravention of the bylaw and it was only 150 feet from the travelled portion of the road.

Hughes produced a 1949 license issued by the provincial government, and Mr. Fair said that it was only because Hughes did not know about the recent bylaw that he had not conformed to city requirements.

W. F Huycke, K.C., presecuting, said that ignorance was no excuse.

Mr. Fair claimed, however, that the Police Commission sat "in camera" and made bylaws which the public did not always know had been passed.

When Mr. Fair offered E. A. Outram $20 in court, on behalf of Hughes for a license, Mr Outram said that unless Hughes conformed to the requirements of the bylaw, as he did not at present, he would not be granted a license. The $20 was left in the hands of the court.

The case was adjourned to July 18 when two witnesses, who had been subpoenaed did not appear in court.

Base Metals Show Strong Advance Today

TORONTO, July 8—(AP)—A strong advance in base metals featured today's trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange. Industrials more than held their own. Gold trading was largely confined to a few low-priced issues and western oils saw very little action.

In the metals Smelters advanced more than $2; Noranda turned an early loss into a gain and nickel was also ahead fractionally. Pend Oreille gained 35 cents and Waite Amulet 25. Most other gains were moderate, but nearly the whole metals list was active and ahead. Sherritt-Gordon was active from the start, near its former close.

The industrial list tended to strength and changes were mostly upward. CPR and Bell Telephone were ahead fractions in utilities. Other gainers included Aluminum and Massey-Harris. Liquors showed strength.

Trans-Television lost 10 cents to sell at 25 cents in opening activity which stopped early.

Active golds included Hosco, Nib Yellowknife, Nicholson, OLeary and Wiltsey for small gains; Eldona and Piccadilly, slightly off, and Dulama, unchanged.

In the quiet oils Anglo-Canadian, Calgary and Edmonton, Okalta and Pacific Pete took small losses, while Royalite was ahead.

Fire Destroys Three Big Barns

PICTON, July 8—Three large barns owned by Hugh McWilliams, John St., were razed by fire Thursday afternoon.

Four calves and two hogs were burned alive. Also lost in the blaze was a large quantity of furniture owned by Mrs. Martha Dunn, which was stored in one building, 25 tons of hay and two trucks. The cattle and hay were owned by Keith Pearsall, who rented the structure.

A bull and a calf escaped from one of the blazing barns. The calf's body was burning and its head bleeding when it emerged. It was led away after it had run across the road into a wire fence.

The fire is believed to have started from spontaneous combustion. Newly cut hay was being placed in the barns this week and the fire was first noticed after neighbours heard a loud explosion. Several minutes later all three buildings were raging infernos.

Picton Fire Department kept the blaze from spreading to the road to the homes of F. Markland McWilliams home and across the Canadian School of Artillery and George Clapp. The Royal (AA) and Bloomfield Village fire departments also answered the call.

Clouds of dense smoke rose high in the air and attracted hundreds of curious spectators.

Morin, parish priest of the northern New Brunswick port of Lameque, where the ceremony was held; Hon. H. J. Robichaud, provincial fisheries minister; Hon. J. Andre Doucet, New Brunswick reconstruction minister; Bishop C. A. Leblanc, of Bathurst, N.B., who performed the ceremony; Premier John B. McNair and Rev. L. Godin, parish priest from nearby Shippegan. Botton photo shows part of the flag-bedecked fleet of 43 vessels lined up for the ceremony.

19-Year-Old Pilot Has Third Crackup

SAULT STE MARIE, July 8—(CP)—Wayne Cooper, 19-year-old pilot, is getting familiar with crackups. He had his third one Thursday.

Cooper, a photographer in neighbouring Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., crash-landed his plane Thursday with a companion. Both walked away from the gasoline-soaked plane without a scratch.

Flying since he was 15, Cooper had his first accident two years ago when he ploughed into some trees shortly after leaving the airport. His second crackup came recently, while attempting to land. "It is just a case of luck that can't be beat," the young pilot said.

Campbellford Wins

CAMPBELLFORD, July 8 (ENS)—In the best game of the season, Russ Ayhart's club took the hard-hitting Wooler nine to the tune of 11-4 in a TVL softball fixture here Thursday night. The locals piled up a commanding lead in the first two innings which they held throughout.

Pinch-hitting for G. Holmes in the 8th, O'Sullivan, by reaching first, started a rally that netted the home team five runs. Herrington was good for a triple and G. Holmes reached third on an error. The visitors played neat ball but they could not match the machine-like precision of the local boys.

The teams:

Wooler—Richards, ss; Redcliffe, c; McCall, p; Stacey, cf; McKee, 3b; Leavitt, 1b; Brown, 2b; Adams, rf. Rosenplott, lf.

Native Indian In Legislature

STEWART, B.C., July 8—(CP)—A reversal in the far-northern British Columbia constituency of Atlin Thursday night put the first native Indian in a Canadian legislature.

A six-vote majority for CCF candidate Frank Calder in Thursday night's final count also gives the CCF party another seat in the legislature.

Party standings now are: Coalition 39; CCF 7, Labor 1 and Independent 1.

The coalition is made up of Liberals and Progressive Conservatives.

The final count ousts from the provincial house coalition candidate W. D. Smith who had a majority of 78 votes after the June 25 provincial election. The final vote is: Calder 376, Smith 370. The upset was due to the counting Thursday of absentee ballots.

Calder, a 33-year-old University of British Columbia theology graduate, is a member of the Nash River tribe.

Forest Fire Menace

VANCOUVER, July (CP) — Hot, dry weather brought new threats today to British Columbia forests. Serious fires were reported in the extensive Vancouver forest district, which includes part of Vancouver Island, where several million feet of piled, felled and bucked timber have been destroyed.

OTTAWA, July 8 (CP)—Hundreds of people from all ranks of life Thursday paid their last tribute to the late P. D. Ross, president of the Ottawa Journal, who died at his home Monday. He was buried in Beechwood Cemetery after services at All Saints Anglican Church.

Expect Senate To Do Battle On Military Help Scheme

By GEORGE RONALD

WASHINGTON, July 8 (CP).—Senate debate on the North Atlantic Treaty is getting special attention from backers of the Arms-for-Europe program.

State Department and military experts expect stubborn opposition to the Arms Plan, regardless of what the Senate finally does with the pact itself.

Indications are that the treaty will win overwhelming approval, but discussion of it may give a clue to the type of complaint to look for when the military assistance scheme comes up for action.

Anti-Aggression

The State Department has been hammering away on the theme that security in the modern world means stopping war before it can start.

Military men, from Defence Secretary Louis Johnson on down, have been repeating the same thing over and over again.

Military help, separate and distinct from the treaty but complementary to it as a self-help, mutual-aid measure, is the surest way to bring about that security, they insist.

The first rumblings of opposition have been vague but they indicate many Senators who support the treaty will fight the Arms Plan. There may be a concerted attempt to shelve it until next year.

Taft For Delay

Senator Robert A. Taft (Rep., O.), whose opinions carry a lot of weight in the Senate, is talking in terms of delay. He believes in the treaty, he said, but, "so far as I am concerned, there is no necessity even to consider the Arms Plan at this session."

Other Senators have hit out at the cost factor.

Senator Walter F. George (Dem., Ga.) says that if Congress takes any action he is sure the majority will want only surplus United States equipment to go to Europe.

Training Factor

To the political expert and the military planner, many critics of the Arms Plan are missing the point. There is a tendency, they say, to under-rate the immediate advantages to the armed forces of Western Europe of technical instruction in the use and maintenance of equipment and tactics developed in the United States since the end of the second World War.

Gives Lecture About Goethe

ASPEN, Colo., July 8 (AP)—Lunch in a cafeteria with admiring collegians was the high point Thursday for Dr. Albert Schweitzer, famed theologian.

Schweitzer, medical missionary in French Equatorial Africa, delivered the major lecture Wednesday night at the International Goethe Bicentennial Convocation. The three week-long celebration honours Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, renowned German poet-philosopher, who was born 200 years ago.

Schweitzer's lecture in the tented amphitheatre on the outskirts of this mountain town brought a tremendous ovation from the audience of 2,000. Afterwards the 74-year-old Schweitzer sat down in the rear of the tent and for more than an hour autographed 200 books, slips of paper and programmes.

It was the first address in the United States by Schweitzer, who has spent the last 36 years at a jungle hospital in Lambarene in French Equatorial Africa.

Schweitzer will repeat this morning his first American address, "Goethe: his personality and his work." He spoke Wednesday night in French but today he will speak in German. Thornton Wilder, three-time Pulitzer prize winning novelist and playwright, will translate the text sentence-by-sentence into English.

25½ Pound Muskie Landed By Fishermen

TRENT RIVER, July 8 (ENS)—Joe Walsh, of Toronto, and Rip Kyle, of Gerrard, Ohio, landed a 25½ lb. muskie while fishing near Stream Mill Island.

The large fish, whose length was 47½ inches, put up quite a struggle but was landed in about 15 minutes. Only a small bait was used. R. L. Lippincott, Akron, Ohio, and Bert Sprinks, Toronto, had good catches of both muskies and pickerel. Their favorite fishing ground is near Mackenzies Islands.

Mr. Sprinks has come here annually for the past twenty-five years.

Chieftains Refuse To Have White Queen

JOHANNESBURG, July 8 — (AP). — The Regent of the Bamangwato Tribe in Bechuanaland and 43 chieftains took a walk on Thursday rather than accept a white queen.

Regent Tshekedi Khama and the other head men, including two in direct succession to the tribal leadership, sent a letter to the British High Commissioner, Evelyn Baring, in Pretoria, saying they are joining a neighboring tribe.

The letter called on the British Government to start a judicial inquiry into the position of Seretse Khama, Chieftain-designate, and his wife, Ruth Williams 24, a London typist. The couple were married in London last fall while Seretse was studying law. He recently returned to his homeland and received the support of a majority of the tribe as their leader, despite the thumbs-down attitude of the chiefs led by Tsekedi. Seretse's wife is still in London.

Clean Bill Of Health For The British Press

It was on April 14, 1947 that a Royal Commission was appointed to investigate the press of Britain. No particular attempt was made to conceal the fact that the Commission was appointed and given its intructions for political reasons; the Labour party thought that the predominantly Tory press was unfair to it, and decided to expose the shortcomings and skullduggeries of the newspaper owners and their employees. The British papers were accused of monopolist tactics, of slanting the news, of truckling to their advertisers, of discriminating against political personages, and of debauching the public with trivialities. The charges, in fact, were all of the type which people who dislike newspapers make against them everywhere. The suggestion was made that the press would be better if it were under close government control, and if all newspapers were published by government-licensed corporations.

• • •

On the 13th of June of this year the Commission presented its Report. We have read its 180 pages with keen interest and some amusement. Not only did the Commission find that the British press was free of the wickedness which had been attributed to it; the Commission found itself again and again commending the press for the reasonableness and common sense with which it conducted its peculiar and demanding business. The Commission's Report, in fact, comes out as a splendid endorsement of a type of private enterprise which socialists have long eyed with suspicion—and it must be said—covetousness.

• • •

The newspapers are not perfect, of course. A few instances turned up in evidence which were not good journalism or good sense. But the important thing is that these instances were conspicuously few, and they were the sort of thing that any journalist of decent standard would condemn at once. Journalists cannot be judged only by the rogues among them, any more than the medical profession is to be judged by its abortionists. The publishers, those maligned men, come out of the Report with clean hands. They do not, it appears, use their papers to humiliate and browbeat their political enemies. They do not maintain "blacklists" of persons whom their underlings are instructed to victimize or ignore. They do not cringe piteously when large advertisers demand special favours; indeed, advertisers in Britain, as in Canada, do not seem to try to influence the newspapers very often. And as for the editors, they seem to be a respectable class of men, and in no sense the jackals and mouthpieces of their employers.

• • •

The upshot of the report is that the British press appears as a special sort of business, with special responsibilities, conducted by a competent and honourable group of men in a businesslike way. Some papers are not as good as others; some papers take a different view of their purpose from others. But none are contemptible, and none impose humiliating or dishonourable conditions upon their employees. The British press appears, in fact, to be an excellent example of free enterprise and private ownership.

Should Churches Be Exclusive?

A curious and interesting suggestion was made at the Christian Endeavour Conference in Toronto on Wednesday last by Dr. Robert J. McCracken, of Riverside Church, New York; he said that it was harder to get into some golf clubs than it is to get into a church, and expressed the opinion that if the churches practised exclusion they might have more members. We do not suppose that Dr. McCracken meant his remark to be taken too seriously; nevertheless it is one of those interesting half-truths which sometimes illuminate a situation more brightly than a solemn statement of fact. People are eager to join golf clubs because they want to play golf; no doubt they should be eager to join churches because they want to praise God and seek to know Him, but it is an unfortunate fact that great numbers of people feel no such urge. What the golf club offers is obvious; what the church offers is often vague.

Our opinion, whether it is worth anything or not, is that this situation has come about because churches have virtually ceased to expound theology. Many Protestant churches have a body of dogma, but they do not expound it. Tough problems of dogma are just as fascinating as tough problems of any other kind, but few churches today present such problems to their adherents. And the adherents drift away or become indifferent because they are intellectually undernourished.

The Church of Rome has never made the mistake of neglecting the brains of those among its children who like to use their brains; the Protestant Church, which had at least half its origin in an intellectual revolt has thrown overboard practically all its intellectual baggage. Its appeals to the mind are few and timid. But great numbers of people need to be fed, primarily, through the intellect; they need to be convinced intellectually before they can be convinced spiritually. Perhaps a powerful appeal to the intellect of the unrighteous would lead them into the churches more speedily than the present indifference to that aspect of the spirit.

Needle In The Ice Floes

For the third successive summer Canadian fliers and scientists are hunting for the North Pole;—not the one at the top of the world, on which all latitudinal lines converge so precisely on maps, but the magnetic North Pole, the one that makes compass needles quiver. The magnetic Pole is believed to be somewhere on Prince of Wales Island. In case any reader has not been up that way, we may say that if he were to fly due north (true north) from Winnipeg for 1,800 miles, he should be over some part of Prince of Wales Island.

We really cannot believe that our clever fliers and scientists have not found the Pole after two summer excursions. This chasing after the Pole seems to be a game with them, for the Pole itself is a sporting sort of thing, wandering here and there as its magnetic personality takes the whim. There is this to be said. The pole's individual magnetism is strong enough to attract men of reason to it three summers in a row, and sufficiently important that when these men pin-point the Pole year by year the makers of navigational charts are as pleased as if a new star had swum into their ken.

More Fruit

The long dry hot spell has bitten into the grain and vegetable crops. Tubers have withered, kernels have not been plumped. But the same weather has not been unkind to many fruit crops. It is reported from Ottawa that generally across the country fruits will be abundant. The eyes of travellers through the Niagara peninsula verify the prediction, in so far as cherries are an indication. The trees are loaded with cherries dark and luscious, red and tangy. They are a treat for the eyes, though not for the wayfarers' palates, for fruit farmers in that area are understandably not well-disposed to travellers stopping their cars under a roadside tree and gorging themselves at will. The fruit farmers have providently set up, however, roadside stands where cherries may be bought in baskets, at the same or slightly higher prices that one buys the same cherries in shops in Peterborough.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Three new apartment houses have collapsed in Cairo. Building standards have declined there since they put up those Pyramids.

Many of our contemporaries insist that the Liberal party will be "disturbed" or "embarrassed" by its great success. Boloney! Unmistakeable victory disturbs nobody, except the vanquished.

It is no secret that the "Progressive" handle was stuck on the Conservative party at the request of John Bracken, who became for a short time its leader. Now that Mr. Bracken is no longer an M.P., would it not be wise to drop this needless encumbrance?

The Ottawa Citizen regrets that no women were elected on June 27, and comments that there will be "no pretty head in the House." Sacrificing gallantry to truth we may say that there never has been a head in the House so pretty as to cause vertigo among the male M.Ps.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column, particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

SIR: On Dominion Day the chimes in St. John's Church were played. The tunes used, besides O Canada and God Save The King were: The Red, White and Blue; God Bless The Prince of Wales, The Maple Leaf, Flow Gentle Sweet Afton, Blue Bells of Scotland, Killarney, Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms. What a lamentable selection! The songs may be all right (apart from The Red, White and Blue and God Bless The Prince of Wales) but they are the same ones we hear every time hte bells are played for anything but funerals and church services. Why can't there be a bigger and better variety? Anyway, I don't think they are well played.

ANSWER: The bell-ringer, Mr. Richard Ford, is primarily the sexton of the church; bell-ringing is one of his incidental jobs and he cannot practise all day or every day. Further, the mechanism by which the bells are played is pretty creaky and awkward. I do agree that the selection of secular tunes is limited. Mr. Ford has two or three tune books, in which the tunes are set out in numbers, not notes, according to the bell sequence. The tune books are quite old. They may even be the same ones that R. J. Devey wrote out thirty or forty years ago.

There seem to be not more than a dozen secular tunes in the lot. Perhaps Mr. Fred Mann, organist of St. John's, could be persuaded to write down some other tunes for Mr. Ford to learn. There are many pretty little airs (from the 16th century on) admirably suited to a limited number of bells. They do not need to be tunes which everybody recognizes. In fact, sometimes it is better not to have recognizable tunes.

Something might also be done to make the bell-playing less ponderous. Sometimes I have to listen quite intently, even though I am very near them, to know whether a dirge or a jingle is being rung. Bells should be gay and charming most of the time, with all sorts of bright fanfares and runnings-up-and-down. There should be more pealing of bells than tolling of them. You might seek out Mr. Mann and ask him to take over the bells occasionally himself to ring some changes, and to give a more sprightly rendition.

SIR' During the dry spell the lighted fountain at the Filtration Plant has been turned off. Why? Is the shortage of water so acute that a few gallons cannot be spared for three hours each evening to give delight to all who pass by?

ANSWER: Perhaps the Utilities Commissioners feel that they should set an example, and also avoid aspersions, by keeping the fountain dry at a time when noses may not even be used on gardens. This does seem to me a little severe, and I greatly doubt that many people in Peterborough are so mean that they would begrudge a couple of hundred gallons, a drop in the bucket, to the fountain. In fact, to see a fountain playing freely and prettily when all else is dry should give people pleasure, not envy or malice of heart.

Incidentally, I note that the C.G.E. have stopped watering their lawns, even though their water has already been used for other purposes, and, if not applied to the lawns, merely goes uselessly down the drain.

DEAR ALPHA: How is the interest on War Savings Certificates computed? By and large it seems to work out to 3% but is subject to as many vagaries as the weather. For comparison I have worked the interest out at 3% compounded half-yearly. Here it is on a 4-dollar Certificate:

After	3% compounded half-yearly	Certif.	Int. Rate Certif.
6 mo.	$4.06	$4.00	0.00%
1 yr.	4.12	4.04	2.00
1½	4.18	4.07	1.49
2	4.25	4.11	1.97
2½	4.31	4.15	1.95
3	4.37	4.20	2.41
3½	4.44	4.25	2.38
4	4.51	4.31	2.82
4½	4.57	4.38	3.25
5	4.64	4.45	3.20
5½	4.71	4.53	3.60
6	4.78	4.61	3.53
6½	4.85	4.70	3.90
7	4.93	4.84	5.96
7½	5.00	5.00	6.94

I have subtracted and divided ad nauseam but cannot hit on any reason as to why the interest rate should oscillate so and am therefore turning the question over to you for your persusal.

ANSWER: Your puzzle looked so horrifyingly complicated to my simple mind that I forthwith consulted Experto Financico, my financial adviser. He jostled figures and decided that the basis of your computation is wrong. The interest rate is 3¼ per cent. simple, not 3 per cent. compound interest. He noted that the word on the reverse side of the certificates refers to the maturity date as subsequent to the 7½ year period. In 7½ years of elapsed time the interest yield would be 97.5 cents on a $4 certificate.

Your computation intrigues me. The fact that each half year figure in your final column is less than the whole (except at the end) suggests that Ottawa has not taken account of lesser periods than one fiscal year. The jiggery-pokery of financial wizards is beyond my comprehension, but I suggest to you that the War Savings Certificates were sold with the intention of discouraging people from cashing them in before the end of the maturity period. That is the way of life insurance issuers. As with insurance policy holders, anybody who wants to cash in his certificate earlier earns less on his money because the Ministry of Finance spent money in selling and issuing the certificates and did not do so that the holders might run back next day or year and get their capital back with full 3¼ per cent. interest on it.

I suspect that I have not answered your question at all. Anybody else like to have a try?

ALPHA: Where does the phrase "The ghost walks" originate, in its meaning that pay envelopes are being given out?

ANSWER: It is theatrical and journalistic jargon for "salaries are paid". An explanation is this: A company of English strolling players were rehearsing Shakespeare's 'Hamlet'. They had not been paid for a long while. (Theatrical companies have often had to exist on air and their actors on the hope of tomorrow.) The man playing the part of the Ghost said, in answer to Hamlet's exclamation 'Perchance 'twill walk again', shouted with the distress of an empty stomach and the frustration of an empty purse, "No, I'm damned if the Ghost walks any more until our salaries are paid!"

Do you note, by the way, a kind of inversion in the modern usage of the phrase "The ghost walks"? We use the phrase as if it were the Ghost who were delivering the pay envelopes, whereas, if the explanation given above has truth, the Ghost walking (the employee) is a sign that the pay has already been given out, and not, of course, by the Ghost, who was the one who originally complained about the lack of pay.

FOR THE RECORD: The record heat of June may have had something to do with it, for the heat drove people to seek surcease afar off from Peterborough's humid valley in the seven hills. And before they drove away they phoned. That is one explanation of the record number of long distance phone calls made on the Thursday, June 30th, before the July 1st week-end holiday. The number surpassed the record for any other day, even for Christmas. On that Thursday, 2,735 long distance calls were made out of the Peterborough telephone exchange.

CRAWFORD'S GROVE ASKS FOR ACTION

Sir: With the smell of the city's sewage strong in our nostrils let us say a phewwww words on the subject. There is no doubt that our present sewage disposal plant is inadequate if not entirely useless and has been in this same state since the day of its completion. It was supposed to be a wonderful thing that would eliminate the open drain at Rye's wharf but all it did was to move the outlet a little farther down the river and grind the sewage up a little finer so that it permeates the water in its entirety.

As a recent bacteria count showed, the water of the Otonabee is in good condition when it reaches the northern limits of our fair city but by the time it flows out the south end it is one of the filthiest rivers in Ontario. With the city boundaries well to the south of the sewage disposal plant and the growth of the city continuing in this direction, Peterborough will soon enjoy the doubtful distinction of being the only city in Canada that pours its sewage back into the centre of the city in its raw state.

People cannot be expected to put up with this fever breeding monstrosity in the heart of the city forever and now is the time to move the whole outfit some miles down the river and make it into a sewage disposal plant, not just an overgrown eggbeater that stirs up the smell.

Council, let's have some action. RIGHT NOW.

WAKE THE SLEEPERS

Sir: With regard to the sewage disposal question which should arouse to action all the thinking citizens of this town the stupid, callous indifference shown by the City Council is almost unbelievable.

The filthy, unsanitary conditions connected with the sewage disposal system are reminiscent of the Dark Ages and The Great Plague.

It has long been suspected in medical circles that one of the chief sources of contagion for the dread disease Infantile Paralysis is from human excrement. What a swell breeding ground Little Lake must be! Should an outbreak of disease be traced to that source, what a terrible indictment our council will have to answer.

This same noble body who 5 or 6 years ago, glibly assured the citizens of this town that a wonderful Memorial Centre must be built to honour our gallant soldiers and provide a recreational centre for our children, are not even willing to see that those children are given the chance to be raised in decent, sanitary surroundings.

They still hold on to the 300,000 thousand dollars collected from the citizens and appear to be accountable to no one. Certainly not to the people who donated the money.

I venture to say that any private individual indulging in such questionable practice with public funds would have been reposing in jail long ago.

Let them take the money provided by the people of this town and build a proper sewage disposal plant before the stink from Peterborough City Council is as great as that coming from Little Lake.

I am not a resident of the South End but I feel that every citizen in this town should join in the fight to wake the City Council from its deep sleep.

Yours very truly,
ALLAN BARNES.

GREEDY WATER USERS

Sir: Would you please print this in your paper as regards the water restriction. It looked like a joke in the paper the other night about the 1,000 informants. But if water is as scarce as they say in some parts of the city some people do not believe so as their hoses go night and morning and all day between rows. Thousands of gallons of water are consumed in that way.

I am a Britisher and I believe in fair play, so if you continue your restriction put some teeth in it and carry it out or let us all use it.

Yours,
FOR FAIR PLAY.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Now when Jesus was risen early the first day of the week, he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, out of whom he had cast seven devils. (Mark 16: 9.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Then the same day at evening, being the first day of the week, when the doors were shut where the disciples were assembled for fear of the Jews, came Jesus and stood in the midst, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you. (John 20: 19.)

After these things Jesus shewed himself again to the disciples at the sea of Tiberias; and on this wise shewed he himself. There were together Simon Peter, and Thomas called Didymus, and Nathanael of Cana in Galilee, and the sons of Zebedee, and two other of his disciples. Simon Peter saith unto them, I go a fishing. They say unto him, We also go with thee. They went forth, and entered into a ship immediately; and that night they caught nothing.

But when the morning was now come, Jesus stood on the shore: but the disciples knew not that it was Jesus. Then Jesus saith unto them, Children, have ye any meat? they answered him, No. And he said unto them, Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find. They cast therefore, and now they were not able to draw it for the multitude of fishes....

As soon as they were come to land, they saw a fire of coals there, and fish laid thereon, and bread.... Jesus saith unto them, Come and dine. And none of the disciples durst ask him, Who art thou? knowing that it was the Lord. (John 21: 1-6, 9, 12.)

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Any selfsatisfied athlete who feels he can safely pass up the British Empire Games trials in Toronto July 15 and 16 is going to miss the boat—the boat to New Zealand.

Tom Lord, chairman of the National Track and Field Committee of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, said Thursday at Montreal the previously-announced edict stands: no competition, no selection.

Indications are that the big athletic show in Toronto, combining the trials and the Dominion Track and Field Championships, will surpass in numbers the field of 130 that competed in the championships and Olympic trials at Montreal last year.

At New York, a reliable baseball source said Thursday a plan by Toronto Maple Leafs to hold a baseball "clinic" for youngsters in Ontario this summer appears to be a desirable project provided the club does not hold its own tryout camp at about the same time.

It is understood that the Leafs' plan has been approved by organized baseball with the understanding that the "clinic" will not be held during immediately before or immediately after the Toronto club's own tryout school.

It was feared earlier in Toronto that organized baseball's ruling that clubs are not allowed to scout players "under high-school age" (15) might whitewash plans for the proposed "clinic."

At Quebec Gene Letourneau, chief examiner of the Quebec Boxing Commission, said Thursday that Toronto boxer Teddy Swain had "run out" on a scheduled fight here against Ernesto Aguilar Mexican featherweight champion. Letourneau said Swain's manager Jack Allen of Toronto had sent promoter Ludger Lamon a wire Saturday stating Swain would not make the fight but giving no reason for pulling out. The boxing official said the Commission had suspended the Toronto boxer, No. 1 contender for Jean Richard's Canadian feather crown, for a period of six months.

At Toronto, the Ontario Cricket Association Thursday announced the team will represent Ontario in the inter-provincial test matches, starting in Calgary and Edmonton, Aug. 1. Darby Loney, with the Toronto Cricket Club will captain a squad composed of H. B. Robinson, Ottawa; Allan Percival, Toronto; Al Gerrard, Toronto; Les Stroud, Toronto; Frank Arrison, Toronto; Brian Magee, Toronto; Ken Langtn, Hamilton; H. Snipper, Ottawa; F. Booth, Peterborough; George MacLean, Toronto; Terry Boyden, Toronto; Vic Sandiford, Toronto and Lou Gunn, Toronto.

A noted horseman of Ontario's racing circuit, 39-year-old Harry Lahman died of a heart attack at his home at Toronto Thursday. He was president of the Canadian Automatic Confections Company and a director of the Horsemen's Benevolent Protective Association. Owner of eight horses, Mr. Lahman made his first King's Plate attempt when he entered Kanlee. The horse ran fourth.

Knights Drop 10-7 Tilt To Jewellers

Jewellers jolted the Knights deeper into third spot in the City Softball League last night at the Bowl by taking a 10-7 win in something of an upset. They played hurry-up ball, despite six miscues, with a catch by Byrnes and pickups by Pagett and Cornwell fielding features. Knights were loose afield, but they came on for five runs in the ninth to make it close with Jim Conlin having a four-run homer. Davis and Guilfoyle threw fairly steady ball but were bingled hard in spots. Cooper led the winners at bat with three for five, while Don Griffin topped Knights with four in five as O'Heron and Woods each hit safely three times.

The box score.

LAWN BOWLING

By SHAG MARTIN

To night the tournament will be for men's rinks. Draw from the board at 7:30 o'clock.

We were sitting on the verandah last evening with one of our most prominent bowlers watching the games, first on one green and then the other, and he says to us: "You know that this bowling game would be OK if it was not for the four-twos." We asked: "What do you mean by the four-twos?" He said: "The too longs—the too shorts, the too wides and the too narrows." And you know, when we come to think of it, he has something there.

There were two 7-ends scored last evening— Mrs. Yeotes from Mrs. Beatty and Percy Moore from Jim Woods.

To-day's thought: "Some people simply cannot unbend until some misfortune has taken the starch out of them."

Ralph Speck will play goal for the Petes tonight as they tangle with Mimico Mounties at 8.45 in Miller Bowl, an OLA senior "A" fixture. Yes, sir, Doug Miller finally got his release through from a reluctant St. Catharines' executive. So this classy cage guardian will hold the fort for the Creighton crew henceforth, and Whitey Frick will play forward. Only a week ago, Ab Frick told us St. Kitts would never release Speck, but it came through at last. It should be a rugged battle tonight as these teams don't like each other any more—following the last fracas at Mimico—and another whopping crowd is expected. The "father and son" Brampton-Petes night is here next Wednesday, with lots of prizes offered.

Saturday aft at three in Riverside sees those old COBL diamond rivals clashing, Oshawa Merchants vs. the Petes. With top spot in the league standing at stake. No doubt, the Merchants will throw their dipsy-doodle ace, Bill Gingerich—a U.S. import—at the Murphyites, and he holds three decisions to date over the Petes. Can't say which flinger will get the call for the homesters, likely either Gunner Whitehille or Lefty Dadson. Maybe a change or two in the lineup, also, as the Petes are most anxious to crack the Oshawa jinx and stay atop the pile. A dandy ball game assured and it rates a hefty turnout of fans.

Leafs' Pro Tryouts

Speaking of baseball, the Toronto Leafs (in conjunction with the Phillies) start their tryout camps next week. First one is in St. Catharines first half of this coming week and then Toronto's Viaduct Park next Thursday, Earlscourt Park on Friday, and Leafs' stadium on Saturday. Camp opens daily at 11 a.m. and goes till four p.m. and boys from 17 to 22 who are high school grads are eligible. This is in line with a strict American rule which forbids pro ball clubs to have anything to do with boys before they've finished high school. Except that if you quit school earlier, then your class must have graduated before you can try out. Bring your own uniforms, shoes and gloves. Competent pro coaches in charge.

Couple of interesting contests offered at the Bowl and in Riverside tomorrow evening, and fans may take their choice. Or even take 'em both in. At 6.30 in Riverside, it's a Lakeshore Baseball League tussle between Cobourg and the Young Petes. And at 8.30 under the Bowl lights, Oshawa Pedlar's have an exhibition with Knights of the City Softball League. The Pedlar team won the OASA intermediate "A" title last year, and we hear some good prizes will be drawn for at this one. Both games sound promising and will get their share of customers, if the weather is right.

Jewel Boys Sparkle

Cosmos took Uniteds 9-4 and Jewellers won from Knights 10-7 in two snappy men's softball scraps at the Bowl last eve before a hefty gallery. Akers' pitching and Dalton's hitting helped Cosmos go back in the lead again, along with a lot of safe bunts, while Jewellers (who have come close difefrent times) clicked okay in the nightcap to earn a win. Cooper led 'em at bat, and they all hustled throughout, though the K. of C.-ers threatened in the ninth. Oshawa Pedlar's play Knights an exhibition at 8.30 p.m. Saturday in the Bowl. Three loop tilts Tuesday: Uniteds vs. Outlaws, Uniteds vs. Jewellers, and Cosmos vs. Knights.

Ted Naish advises that the Church Softball League is winding up its playoffs. St. George's won midget honors, putting out Keene two games to one. Keene and St. George's juniors are even at two games each, meeting again Tuesday. Winner may pick an all-star squad and go into OASA junior playdowns. St. James seniors lead Knox two games to none in their three-of-five finals, tangling tonight in the Oval. All Saints won the peewee title, and St. James took the bantam crown recently. The circuit enjoyed a good season.

Eight of the winners went down on strikes, too, but they got 13 safe hits, including homers by Jensen and Robinson, who had three hits each. Teams:

Man To Catch

SANDWICH, England, July 8 (CP)—The man they all have to catch in the British Open is Sam King, 38-year-old Ryder Cup star from Kent County whose second-round 69 gave him a total of 140 going into today's final 36 holes of the 72-hole test. King was steady Thursday in compiling his impressive 69—the only one recorded in the wind and rain at the Royal St. George's course.

Cosmos Take Top Spot Over Uniteds

Cosmos took over first place alone in the City Softball League at the Bowl last night with a 9-4 win over Uniteds before a big crowd. They had a dozen safe bunts in the 19 hits gained off Lefty Reid as Uniteds played some loose ball. Ron Akers allowed but eight hits and no walks, fanning five, and his support was good. Each side pulled off a nice double play. Dalton led the winners at bat with four for six, as Akers hit three times in five. Carpenter got a homer. Wade led the Uniteds at the plate with a homer and single in four, Scriver also clouting a four-bagger. It was a snappy game, going little more than an hour. Spencer was ejected in the seventh for arguing too strenuously.

The box score.

Jimmy Creed Wins $25,000 Pacing Derby

WESTBURY, N.Y., July 8 (CP)—Jimmy Creed didn't crack the Roosevelt raceway track record Thursday night in winning the $25,000 National Pacing Derby. But some drivers think he may do it before the summer is ended. Jimmy Creed went twice around the harness track's half-mile oval in a sparkling 2.02 flat to nip Grattan McKlyo by a short nose and become the greatest money winner in his class among pacers actively racing. Jimmy Creed now has earned $97,734, counting the $11,250 for Thursday night's win.

The veteran Dr. Stanton, owned and driven by W. L. (Lindy) Fraser, of Forest, Ont., raced into third place.

They'll Do It Every Time

By Jimmy Hatlo

Orioles Dump Newark 5-3

By The Associated Press.

The Baltimore Oriole pitching staff apparently is comprised of three names—Albert Joseph Widmar.

The Orioles, in seventh place in International League standings, have won only 27 games and Widmar has picked up 12 of these, high for the league.

In addition to being the league's top winner, the 24 year old right-hander is No. 1 in strikeouts, 94, and in complete games, 12.

Widmar posted his 12th victory Thursday night, holding Newark Bears to four hits to win 5-3. His mates plucked eleven hits off three Newark hurlers, including home runs by Hank Arft and Glenn McQuillen.

Divide Doubleheader

The league-leading Buffalo Bisons and the second- place Montreal Royals divided a doubleheader at Montreal.

Buffalo won a wild opener 12-10, scoring four runs in the seventh inning on George Byam's home run with bases full. Montreal, behind Pat McGlothin's seven-hit pitching, captured the nightcap 7-4.

Jersey City Giants swept a doubleheader from Syracuse Chiefs, 7-3 and 10-7. Roger Bowman hurled five-hit ball to win the opener, while George Bamberger recorded his 10th triumph in the second game, though he needed help in the ninth.

Side-wheeling Nick Strincevich limited Rochester to four singles as Toronto Maple Leafs carved out a 6-1 victory over the Red Wings.

Chet Laabs, playing his first game for the leafs since his purchase from Buffalo, singled once in five tries. He struck out twice.

Pirates shut out St. Louis Cardinals with six hits, 2-0.

Yesterday's Stars

By the Associated Press.

Batting, Dave Koslo, Giants, hit first two home runs of major league career, driving in five runs, as he pitched New York to 11-3 victory over Philadelphia Phils who never have beaten him in nine games.

TORONTO, July 8 — (CP). — Cattle prices opened steady but closed easier on steers, heifers, and bulls on the Toronto Livestock Market this week, the Dominion Marketing Service reported to-day. Prices dropped 50 cents on cows and bulls.

The cattle run of 6,324 head was 628 more than for the preceding week and 2,582 more than the corresponding week last year. Stimulated by export buying, early trading was fairly active, but the market became very dull by Wednesday with a sizeable holdover anticipated.

Good to choice weighty steers closed at $21.50-$2.50. Good light steers were $21-$21.50 and good heifers mostly $20.50. Plain light steers and heifers sold as low as $16 a hundredweight. Good cows were $15-$16 at the close with canners and cutters from $10-$13.50. Good bulls were $18-$18.50, with the plain lights downward to $16. Fed yearlings closed at $20-$22.50, with tops at $23.

Move Slowly

Stockers moved slowly at about steady prices. Picked lots of light stockers sold at $18.25-$19, with plainer kinds downward to $15. Plain to medium quality milkers and springers sold at $140-$180 each.

Calf receipts totalled 2,610 head. Exporters took several loads of good to choice vealers at $22-$23 a hundredweight and made a strong market for top quality. Plain to medium quality calves were cleared at $15-$20 a hundredweight. A few grassers sold for slaughter at $14-$15.50.

Hogs were up $1 a hundredweight on a light run of 2,184 head. Grade A hogs closed at $32 a hundredweight, with the B1 variety at $31.60. Sows held steady at $21 dressed.

Sheep and lambs totalled 1,330 head. Lambs were steady at $28 for good ewes and wethers, with bucks at $1 a hundredweight discount. Good light sheep sold at $11-$13 a hundredweight, with culls downward to $5.

All districts except Middlesex and Lambton reported varying increases in the peach yield, with the preliminary total approximately 20 per cent over 1948.

An increase of about 47 per cent is indicated in the pear crop and if favorable conditions prevail in the Niagara district, an increase of some 12 per cent is anticipated in grapes.

TURNING THE PAGES OF "CANADA UNLIMITED"

The sight of carriages on rails was a source of much excitement in the little town of La Prairie, near Montreal, in 1836. Clanking and rattling on their way to St. John, Quebec, these horse-drawn cars were Canada's first railway.

A line from Montreal to Sarnia was finished in 1856. It covered 1,100 miles, and was at that time the world's longest railway. The first trans-Canada railway was built by the Canadian Pacific and completed in 1885. Overcoming great hazards, railroad men pushed across the prairies and foothills, through rugged moutain passes—then on to the Pacific coast.

Today Canadian trains travel on rails that would twice encircle the world, and carry more than 40 million travellers swiftly, safely and comfortably.

Canada has grown with the railways. With the appearance of diesel-electric locomotives and the gradual changeover to this more modern form of motive power, a new era of transportation is beginning. This new era offers vast opportunities for Canadians. Yes, there's room to grow—in Canada Unlimited.

Dartford Man Saves Two From Drowning

ROSENEATH, July 8—(ENS)—Mr. and Mrs. Jack Blakely of Castleton owe their lives to the bravery of Arthur Ward, Dartford farmer, as the result of a recent near double-drowning accident which occurred on Rice Lake.

The trio were crossing from Sandercock's Landing to White's Island, enroute to the cottage of George Ward of Peterborough, brother of Arthur Ward, when the small boat in which they were riding capsized, throwing all of its occupants into the water. The boat had a powerful motor and this is believed to have contributed to the accident.

Mr. Ward grabbed hold of Mr. Blakely, who had been overcome after swallowing considerable water, and laid him over the bottom of the upturned boat.

Then, noticing the upstretched arm of Mrs. Blakely, he seized it and swam with her to shore, where he soon secured the help of others in looking after Mrs. Blakely and in getting Mr. Blakely and the boat to shore.

35-Lb. Maskinonge Caught By Ohio Woman In Rice Lake

By NICK NICKELS

Mrs. Elmer Zingery of Beach City, O., hit this season's muskie jackpot before breakfast to-day in landing a 35-pound fish while trolling with her husband and son Richard. Guests of George Robertson's Elm Grove Camp at Hiawatha the Zingery family were trying a last fling at fishing in Rice Lake to wind up several days of mediocre sport. Landing this monster was a family affair, as Elmer helped his wife and Charles assembled the gaff. After being towed for a considerable distance for almost an hour, they brought it to the boat. The original strike was made just off the Lodge dock. They were so elated with their good luck, they decided to stay another day and perhaps catch its mate. It is said to be the largest fish caught in the Kawarthas during the past three years.

As fishermen warm up to their sport in the first eight days of the opening of the bass and muskie fishing, reports of some good catches are coming to light. They all seem to have had no great luck, especially with 'lunge, on opening day but things have since improved.

Catches 27-Pound Fish

H. E. Mott of Brantford, guest of Buckhorn Lodge for many seasons, tops the list with a 27-pound muskie that taped 48 inches. He caught it trolling on a double-jointed plug on Wednesday. A fish of the same length, but thinner, was taken at Rice Lake on Thursday evening by H. M. Groat of Alliance, O. In company with Alfred Crowe of Hiawatha, the strike was made near the old Cobourg Railway site. This is Mr. Groat's third year of fishing and his best trophy so far, 24 pounds

Pickerel are making the next best showing with a ten and one-half pounder being recorded by an American tourist at Jack's Lake. Eric Martin, 279 William St. took one nine pounder a mile north of McCracken's Landing on Lower Stony Lake on July 1. His brother Jack and father Fred and Ken Hill were in the party which also bagged eight small mouth bass and three other pickerel. One 'lunge was freed, not a keeper. D'Arcy Foster, 368 Water St., caught a pickerel that scaled almost nine pounds at Burleigh on Wednesday afternoon. It was his only strike.

The first green bass of note was taken from the Otonabee River on Wednesday evening by Alex Anderson, 198 Braidwood Ave. It weighed five pounds and measured 20 inches in length and 14½ in girth. Alex was fishing near Campbellford with Ken Gibson and Boris Watkins, also of the city.

In ratio to the step-up in fishing results comes the casualties to fishermen. Dr. A. L. Russell of Bailieboro had three cases of removing fish hooks from anglers' fingers and another man with a hook in his scalp, all since opening day in the Rice Lake area. Another call from a fisherman who gaffed his nose with a hook He was taken to the Port Hope Hospital for treatment before the doctor arrived.

The Utilities truck had a crumpled rear fender and broken tail light and the car driven by Miss Craig had a crumpled front fender, bent bumper and cracked grill.

Owner of the truck which caused Miss Craig to turn into the Utilities truck is unknown to the police. Constable D. Farthing investigated.

Costly, Needless Paving Plan Board Is Told

While the rest of the city is crying for new roads in Peterborough, residents and property owners of Burnham and Romaine Streets objected strenuously in a hearing of the Ontario Municipal Board against having their streets paved.

Their reason—it would add from $25 to $50 on their tax bills.

The streets except for a few minor repairs, were plenty good enough, they said.

Presiding over the hearing was W. J. Moore of the Municipal Board, who made no decision, but was authorized to make a report upon which the Municipal Board would reach a decision in the matter.

Twenty men and women formed the delegation representing the property owners concerned. Dr. Gordon R. Langley was the principal spokesman for the Burnham Street group, and Garfield Bryant read a prepared brief on behalf of the Romaine Street delegation. The city's case was presented by city solicitor W. F. Huycke, whose witnesses were Mayor M. J. Swanston, city engineer A. E. Chalmers and Alderman Hurrell Dodds.

Part of Programme

Mr. Huycke said the hearing resulted from three by-laws which had their first reading June 2, but had not yet passed a third reading in council. One by-law had not had any objectors, and covered portions of King, Parkhill and Water Streets. The second by-law dealt with Burnham Street from Park Street to Monaghan Road, between Hunter and Sophia Streets. The third covered proposed work on Burnham between Sophia and Charles.

Alderman Hurrell Dodds, chairman of the Board of Parks Committee, said the by-laws had been originated to cover the first steps in a five-year progressive road building programme. Burnham and Romaine Streets had been picked because of their conditions and the amount of traffic using them.

Mayor Swanston said Peterborough was "at least ten years behind in permanent roads" in comparison with other cities of the same size.

Engineer Chalmers said the first block of Burnham from Hunter to Robinson Street was in fairly good condition and nothing much was proposed for it However, he said, the second block was too narrow at 27 feet and he was recommending a 36-foot roadway.

City to Pay 55%

He said the street was a retreat road built in 1932 from general funds, but the curbs and gutters, except for the corners, had been paid for by the property owners having frontage there. Mr. Chalmers pointed out the new curbs and gutters required if the road were widened would be paid for by the city from the general fund. He had set the city share of payment as a result of the widening program at 55 per cent instead of the normal 40 per cent.

From Sophia to James the plan was to leave the road at 27 feet. He said this block was a surface treated road which had never been charged to land fronting on it. He had set an equal rate for the two sides of Burnham between James and Charles Sts. because only the west side had curbs and gutters. Land owners on the west side would assume 35 per cent of the cost to take care of curbs and gutters on their side and the west side would pay 25 per cent.

The engineer described Romaine St. between Park and Monaghan Rd. as very rough. He said he thought it would be "good business" to replace the surface treated road with a permanent road. He did not propose to widen it, but to leave it at 31½ feet. The plan was that the ratepayers' share of the cost would be the normal 60 per cent.

Good At 45 MPH

Mr. Langley as spokesman for the Burnham St. objectors, said the street was in "really excel-

HIT BY DROUGHT

Since May there have been only three showers in the Pickering Twp. area, and the usual green acreage has been transformed into a wilted yellow. Many of the dairy farmers are having to stable-feed their cattle because of the bare pasture pickings. Water is one of the chief concerns of dairymen; streams are drying up and the level in the wells is fast falling off. One Pickering business man has hauled more than 420,000 gallons of water to farmers over the past two months. And pessimists point out that the usual "dry weather" has not yet arrived.

80 Children At Bible School

A two-week Daily Vocational Bible School for children between four and 14 years is being held at the Full Gospel Pentescostal Church, Water St.

Every day, Monday through Friday, about 80 children assemble at the church at 9 a.m. for a variety of hendicraft work and a devotional period. It serves the dual purpose of taking the young ones off the hands of their harassed mothers and keeps them out of both mischief and danger by giving them something constructive to do.

The children are dismissed early so they can avoid the noon rush with the added hazard of motor traffic.

For handicrafts the girls have mainly cut-outs and needlework; the boys make wooden articles such as trays and bird houses. The younger lads also have cut-outs Singing and a devotional period round out each morning's activities.

The school is in charge of Miss Pearl Kennedy of Bobcaygeon. Assisting her are five others — Miss Marion McAllister of Toronto, Mrs. Don Kennedy, Mrs. Edwin Martin, Mrs. Ray Bishop and Miss Ruth Bertrand, all of Peterborough.

This morning school for children has become an annual event at the Full Gospel Pentecostal Church and the large attendance of children is an indication of its popularity.

Changed Seats? No, Court Thinks, Two Acquitted

After Provincial Constable R. A. Feely told city police court today that he saw Charles Taylor, Campbellford motor mechanic, driving a car while drunk and then saw him change places in the car with Claude Sherman, also of Campbellford and charged with careless driving, both men were acquitted.

The incident occurred on June 29 when Taylor and Sherman were returning to Campbellford on No. 7 Highway after attending a garage operators' meeting at Mt. Julian.

The constable said he saw the car proceeding in an erratic manner, going continually from the pavement to the shoulder for a distance of two miles. When he shone the spot light on the car, he saw Sherman, who had been sitting next to the driver, exchange places with Taylor whom, he maintained he had seen driving the car before.

Denied Driving

Taylor denied having driven the car at all that night and Sherman said he had been the only driver.

Constable Feeley had estimated, when cross examined by W. B. Gordon, defence counsel, that the exchange of seats had taken place while the car had travelled a distance of 300 feet at a speed of around 30 m.p.h. That meant, Mr. Gordon maintained, that the exchange took place in four seconds.

Mr. Philp said there was an element of doubt and he gave the benefit of that doubt to the two men. Taylor, who said he had had four pints of beer that night, denied having been drunk.

GatewayToNorth Bustling Port, Isolation Ended

By JACK AVESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CHURCHILL, Man., July 8 (CP)—Residents of this Hudson Bay port are making their annual prediction that the current summer will be the busiest ever experienced here and, as usual, they likely will be right.

Gateway to the Arctic and prey to stray Polar winds even in mid-summer, Churchill has been a centre of activity since the days when barter for furs first extended to the Canadian northland.

Today, with its civilian population of approximately 400 person engaged in a number of enterprises in addition to the fur trade, Churchill is taking a leading role in the growing momentum of northern development.

The wooden houses of the sprawling bay port grip the rock-studded earth in a land where stunted trees grow to the south and the flatness of Arctic desolation stretches more than 2,000 miles north to the pole. Their number may not exceed 100, but their residents will take issue indignantly with any suggestion that the town falls in the outpost category.

Ask Gunnar Ingebrigtson or Dave Croal of Arctic Wings, Churchill's own airplane company; or "Dad" Reid, proprietor of the Churchill Hotel; or Bernice Redpath MacIver, Churchill housewife and newspaper correspondent; and they will tell you the town is what the name denotes. no longer an outpost but a positive part of the Dominion.

Growing Importance

They point to the Hudson Bay Railway, which brings both passengers and freight to Churchill from the south, they refer to the air service Canadian Pacific air lines are establishing this summer between Winnipeg, The Pas and here; they mention the ocean steamers which dock in the well-dredged, 520,000 - square - yards harbor every summer after voyages from Europe.

Churchill, they say, no longer is the pin prick in isolation it was in 1619 when Capt. Jens Monck of Denmark became the first white man to set foot on its soil. Death stalked the locality that year, scurvy claiming the lives of 60 of the Danish mariner's men. Today a well-equipped hospital at the military base seven miles from the Churchill townsite is a major factor in keeping even minor diseases at a minimum.

To the majority of Canadians, the name Churchill is synonymous with that of the military base, where a variety of experiments are conducted year-round concerning problems of the Arctic.

Almost as well known is Churchill's seaport designation, with ships from the United Kingdom plowing through the chilly Hudson Bay waters during the navigation season—Aug. 5 to Oct. 10—bringing exports from Britain to Western Canada and returning with holds filled with grain from the Prairies.

Development of Churchill as a bustling seaport has been a rather drawn-out process, shortness of the northern navigation season being a major factor, but within recent years a steady campaign for increased use of the port has resulted in a boost in shipping activity.

Huge Grain Elevator

Last year the massive grain elevator here, a towering landmark straddling the tundra and capable of storing 2,500,000 bushels of grain, spilled 5,314,342 bushels of wheat into the holds of ship bound for the United Kingdom, a record in port exports for one season.

This year, with wheat-heavy freight trains already replenishing the elevator's supply, supporters of the port hope grain exports will reach the 16,000,000-bushel mark. The first ship from overseas will be augmented by 75-100 stevedores from the Prairies, on hand to look after loading and unloading.

There will be more unloading of incoming cargoes this summer than during any previous year, believes Frank Eliason of Saskatoon, secretary of the Hudson Bay Route Association, first organized in 1924 as the On-to-the-Bay Association. Purpose of the organization is to promote trade through the northern sea route.

Already United Kingdom firms have contracted to ship into Churchill 500 tons of window glass, 25 automobiles, 60 tons of window frames, nine tons of filing cabinets, three tons of war department material and 50 tons of various types of merchandise. Further imports are expected. Last year tractors, diesel-operated generators, automobiles, whisky, glass and china were imported from the United Kingdom.

May Export Lumber

Although the Hudson Bay Route Association is anxious to develop export lines in addition to wheat, the dollar shortage in Great Britain has restricted such plans. However, possibility is seen that lumber may be added to outgoing cargoes this summer.

Churchill also is in for fair activity in the construction line. The National Harbors Board project is the building of a staff house. New units to provide increased power are being placed in the power house. A number of homes are in process of construction, a motion picture theatre is nearing completion and one of the hotels is being enlarged in anticipation of a record tourist season.

Approximately 500 tourists from Canada and the United States have been visiting Churchill during each of the last few summers. This year, with a commercial air line operating from Winnipeg and an increased consciousness of the northland apparent elsewhere on the continent, Churchillians are expecting more visitors than ever before.

Among these visitors will be a number of scientists, who flock to Churchill every summer, studying the flora and fauna of the north.

One sport will be denied to visitors this summer — hunting the white whales which frolic in Hudson Bay. A federal order has restricted whale hunting. But the order will not affect a whaling company starting operations here this summer. Financed by Manitoba capital, the company hopes to catch 600 whales, selling the meat to fur ranchers.

Hope Era Of Jet Flying To Boost British Aviation

By H. L. Jones

LONDON, July 8—(CP)—British civil aviation, a hungry and ailing problem child of nationalization, hopes to thrive in the coming era of jet flying. The state-owned airlines learned expensive lessons in the rough - and - tumble of aviation competition immediately after the war. There was a sorry story of delays and failures in design.

Officials acknowledge that many of Britain's post-war "interim" types of commercial aircraft, designed to fill the gap until the advent of jet flying, "did not come up to expectations."

Britain now claims to be ahead in jet development. She is already flying the world's first approved prop-jet airliner, the short-range, 50-passenger Vickers Viscount which may shortly be purchased by British European Airways, one of the three state-owned lines.

The immense deficits of Britain's airlines have been the main criticism by opponents of nationalization. Government spokesmen reply, however, that privately-owned lines of other countries have to be heavily subsidized. Flying, they say, won't pay off until further advances are made, until fares come down and more people become air-minded.

3-Way Monopoly

Britain's airlines, completely nationalized in 1946, hold a three-way monopoly on civil flying. No other British company is allowed to compete with British Overseas Airways Corporation on Empire or Atlantic routes, with BEA., on internal and continental services or with British South American Airways in their sphere.

But aviation has proved a tough business. Competition was stiff, there were initial organization difficulties and the nationalized lines became over-staffed. One post-war aircraft on which they counted, the Tudor, was a £10,000,000 ($40,000,000) failure eventually withdrawn from passenger-carrying service.

The "Fly British" policy had to be abandoned when BOAC bought 22 Canadian-built Canadairs. Later American Skymasters were brought and giant stratocruisers ordered from the United States to keep Britain in the competitive race.

Costs have been soaring. In 1946-47, the first year of combined operation the three corporations had a joint deficit of more than £10,000,000. In 1947-48 it was more than £11,000,000. Aviation Minister Lord Packenham has told the state-owned lines their 1949-50 losses must not exceed £5,500,000, though it is doubtful if it can be held to that figure.

But optimists know that despite it all airline mileage has grown steadily, financial interests have been obtained in aviation in other countries and more passenger business has been handled.

A retrenchment has begun, designed to bring about an operational saving. Biggest move was the recent decision to amalgamate BSAA into the BOAC organization as a South American branch.

Child Hanged Testing Cellar Scaffold

CHICAGO, July 8.—(AP)—A member of the teen-age "Hang Noose Club" told police Thursday a three-year-old neighbor boy was accidentally hanged in a test of a cellar scaffold for a club initiation.

The oral statement given Detective Chief Timothy O'Connor by Robert Munday, 15, was the second account police obtained about the killing of Thomas (Whitey) Laux.

A few hours earlier, Robert's 13-year-old brother, Charles, gave a statement that he strangled and hanged Tommy and stuffed his body into a sack where it was found this morning.

Both pupils of a school for backward children, Robert and Charles are being held without charge at the juvenile detention home. O'Connor said Charles had been classified as a juvenile delinquent.

The Munday boys were picked up Thursday after the discovery of Tommy's body ended an all-night search of the neighborhood where the Munday and Laux families share a two-flat frame house on Chicago's south side.

Conflicting Statements

Confronted by the two conflicting statements of the killing, O'Connor said:

"I believe Bobby's story because the finding of the rope corroborates it Charles' story does not stand up."

The boys' parents took tests under a lie detector and O'Connor said they failed to show anything. The Chief said the father showed effects of drinking last night and the mother is suffering from asthma.

O'Connor said police will continue to hold the parents without charge.

Find Lawson Little Threatens Snead Lead

READING, Pa, July (AP)—Sammy Snead, as usual, was out in front today in the $15,000 Reading Open Golf tournament, but the story of the first round came from his nearest rivals.

Since the beginning of the 1949 tour, Snead has won four tournaments, including the Masters and the P.G.A. championship, and he gave Carry Middelcoff a real run for the United States open title. So it was no surprise to find Sammy shooting 30-33-63, seven strokes under par for the 6,0001 yard Reading Country Club course to lead the field.

But it was surprising that Lawson Little, a veteran who hasn't been close to the top recently, finished only one stroke behind.

Remember When—

John L. Sullivan fought his last bare knuckle fight 60 years ago today when he stopped Jake Kilrain at Richburg, Miss., in 75 rounds. NEW BRUINS COACH — George (Buck) Boucher, once a bruising defenceman with Ottawa in the National Hockey League, returns to the N.H.L. next winter as coach of Boston Bruins. Buck, who coached Ottawa Senators to the Allan Cup last season, is a brother of Frank Boucher, famed centre of New York Rangers, and of Billy and Bobby, who once played for Montreal Canadiens.

DOUBLE WHAMMY — Tennis enthusiasts hope Lorne Mann's two-fisted style will win some Davis Cup matches for Canada soon. The 19-year-old Vancouverite made his bid for this year's team at the trials in Montreal this week. Railbirds thought the sixth-ranking Canadian had an excellent chance.

Indians Smother Chicago As Detroit Mauls Browns

By JACK HAND,
Associated Press Sport Writer.

How about Casey Stengel for manager of the year?

While the wise guys wait for New York Yankees to wilt, they continue to knock off the contenders, one by one. Connie Mack's Philadelphia A's were the latest and dropped five full games behind the Yanks by Thursday night's 6-2 setback.

The boys shed a tear for "good old Case" when he stepped into Bucky Harris' job last winter. The Yanks were aging, coming apart at the seams.

Casey seems to have performed a minor miracle of rebuilding. He juggled youngsters and brittle veterans without ever dropping from first place.

Allie Reynolds' route-going performance against the A's must have been encouraging to Stengel who kept "Wahoo" in his regular starting turn despite his many knockouts. Reynolds required relief help from Joe Page so often that wags joined their names and called "Reynolds-Page" the Yankees' best pitcher.

Reynolds' 9-1 record is deceiving but there was nothing phony about his five-hitter at Shibe Park. A two-run homer by Hank Bauer broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth to give Allie a working margin over Lou Brissie. It was his first complete game since May 10 and his second of the year.

Cleveland making another move crept to within a game and a half of the A's by smothering Chicago 8-2 with a 17-hit attack. Bob Lemon coasted home with his ninth victory.

Boston Red Sox trampled Washington 8-3 and chased Mickey Haefner right off the Senators' ball club. Owner Clark Griffith, dissatisfied with Haefner's "indifferent" performance, gave the pint-sized lefty his walking papers after a bad first inning.

Haefner walked five, messed up a grounder and allowed one hit as the Sox rolled up a five-run lead. That was more than enough for young Chuck Botts in the game that was called at the end of the sixth to permit the Sox to catch a train home.

Detroit teed off on Red Embree for six runs in the first inning to snap its five-game losing streak with a 9-2 romp over St. Louis Browns. Lou Kretlow walked six but he struck out seven to nail down his second win.

Brooklyn boosted its National League lead to two games by trimming the Boston Braves 5-2 in a night game after runner-up St. Louis bowed to Pittsburgh 2-0 in the afternoon.

Joe Hatton survived a threatening ninth inning to record his seventh victory on the strength of a three-run Dodger attack on Warren Spahn in the first inning.

Ernie Bonham shut out the Cardinals with six hits for Pittsburgh's sixth straight victory.

Lefty Dave Koslo had a night he'll never forget as he hit his first two major league home runs, driving in five runs, in the New York Giants' 11-3 slaughter of the Phillies. Johnny Mize hit a two-run homer in the first for the Giants.

Despite 17 Chicago hits, Cincinnati eked out a 7-6 edge over the Cubs on Ted Kluszewski's single following Bobby Adams' triple in the last of the ninth. Walker Cooper continued his hitting streak with two hits, including his fourth homer in two days. It was No. 11 for Cooper, who has hit seven since he left New York June 14.

Unknown Leading In Golf Title Race

KITCHENER, July 8 (CP) — A comparative unknown, straight-hitting Don Varey, today led a field of 32 golfers over the tricky par-71 Kitchener Westmount course in the hunt for the Ontario amateur golf title. But several highly-regarded shotsmiths won't be chasing him.

The young Brantford golfer was scheduled to tee off against Geoffrey Fairbrother of Toronto Summit on the first championship flight today Varey shot a one-over par 72 in the qualifying round Thursday.

Montreal Model Mother of Four

MONTREAL, July 8—(CP)—Having a husband and four boys to look after just wasn't enough for Mrs. Florence Kay. She likes clothes and she wanted a job so she went out and got one. Now she is becoming one of Montreal's better known models.

Mrs. Kay is 36, a blue-eyed brunette who is a perfect size 14, five feet eight inches tall.

Fashion writers have described her as "not the pretty type, nor a classic beauty but decidedly attractive."

Her boys, Gary 17, Robert 16, David, seven, and Teddy, six, are proud of their model mother. So is her bank accountant husband.

"When I started working last fall I planned to have a working housekeeper come in to look after the family but the boys wouldn't hear of it," she said. "The two older boys took over and looked after the younger ones and teh assistance and co-operation I get from my family enables me to do this seasonal work—I love it."

TOMORROW'S NEWSPAPER— As expert rivermen direct traffic, the Mississagi river is shown carrying a consignment of logs toward the mill for eventual transformation into newsprint or other pulp products. Most of the logs headed down-river to the northern Lake Huron port of Blind River, Ont., were salvaged from the vast Mississagi Forest area which was swept by forest fires last summer. Lumbermen have saved 30,000,000 feet of red and white pine and hope to bring out a similar quantity from the burned-out area next summer.

Boys Have No Set Formula Don't Always Pick Beauties

DEAR MISS DIX: Please print a list of qualities that boys desire in girls. I am not so popular.

JANEY.

ANSWER: There are no standardized thirty-seven varieties of charms that appeal to the taste of all boys, so nobody can give you any hard and fast rule for achieving popularity with the choosey and hard - to-please sex.

Dorothy Dix

The very quality for which one boy falls leaves another boy cold. Some boys like 'em tall and others like 'em short. Some like 'em athletic and others Alice-sit-by-the-fires. Some are all for the vivacious girl, and others are swept off their feet by prim little maidens who have never a word to say for themselves. So there you are, and there are the boys and probably not one in a hundred could tell you to save his life just what he saw in some particular girl that made him prefer her to all the balance.

Of course, we think of beauty as the most potent attraction that a girl can have for a man. Probably it is, but beauty lies in the eye of the beholder and men cannot even agree on that point, for many a man sees a swan in what others consider an ugly duckling.

At any rate, however, good looks are a bet that no girl can afford to overlook, and she should do the best she can to improve her personal appearance if she wants to make a hit with men. Fortunately for her, men never differentiate between a girl and her clothes, and good grooming and a pretty frock will make any girl at least passably attractive, even if she would not take a prize in a beauty show.

Boys like girls who are intellistener and who has the knack of drawing them out and getting them to talk about themselves, and what a wow they are with the flappers and what a wild party they went on and what they said to their employers and their employers said to them.

Then boys like a girl to know how to do things. Any girl to be popular in these days must be a good dancer. She must know how to swim and play tennis a bit golf and play a good game of bridge. Otherwise she will be out of the picture.

Boys like girls who oare intelligent, but they prefer plain commonsense to brilliancy. They like a girl who reads enough to talk about subjects of current interest, but they steer clear of a highbrow who wants to discuss the Einstein theory. And they dread and fear the girl who is a wisecracker and the one who makes sarcastic remarks about people, for they fear they may be next and they have a holy horror of being held up for derision.

Boys like girls who are good-natured and jolly and kind-hearted. They are not catty themselves aid it repels them when the little sweeties scratch each other's eyes out.

Boys like girls who are appreciative and who repay them for the money they spend when they take them out by showing that they have a good time. And especially do they like girls who go easy on their pocketbooks and who do not order everything expensive on the menu when they go to a restaurant or insist on high-priced night clubs when they step out of an evening. They like the girls who like them, but they resent being pursued and hunted down over the telephone.

And they like girls for a thousand other reasons and just because they are girls.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a 10-year-old child who runs to her grandparents when mother says "no," and they give her just what she wants. Instead of helping me obtain obedience from her they encourage her in disobedience, and when I try to reason with them I am told I am unappreciative and narrow and stubborn and asked whom I would lay things on if it was not for grandma or grandpa. I fully appreciate all my parents have done for us, but I feel they are ruining my daughter. What must I do?

MOTHER.

ANSWER: Move away from the sphere of grandmother's influence if you can, but it is a queer thing that your mother has not intelligence enough to see what harm she is doing the child.

In these days when heaven knows it is hard enough to establish any sort of authority over children anyway, all of the grown-ups should stand together and back each other up. Children are quick enough to learn when they can appeal from one decision to another and slip out of doing anything that they don't want to.

Grandparents regard the grandchildren just as toys to be played with and seem utterly oblivious to the fact that their injudicious spoiling may be forming habits in the children that wil wreck their whole lives.

DOROTHY DIX.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you think I will be happy if I marry a man who is so jealous that he suspects me of every sort of horrible crime and sulks for a week if I even speak to another man?

JANE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: No. You will certainly be miserable if you marry him. Jealousy will wreck any marriage on earth.

DOROTHY DIX.

Social Situations

SITUATION: You have taken a young child into a restaurant for a meal.

WRONG WAY: Let him wander around the restaurant while you are waiting to be served.

RIGHT WAY: Keep him in his chair at your table, so that he will not be in the way of the waiters.

Ice Shows Stars Barbara Ann Across Canada

OTTAWA, July 8—(CP)—An all-Canadian ice show, created for Barbara Ann Scott and starring the famous 21-year-old figure skater, will go on a 44-city tour of the Dominion starting this fall.

Barbara Ann flew to Ottawa Thursday from St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, N.B., to sign contracts for the show, biggest ever produced in Canada.

Rt Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, former prime minister, wished Miss Scott luck on her latest venture at a gathering held to announce formation of the show.

T. P (Tommy) Gorman, Ottawa promoter who heads the new company known as National Sports Enterprises which is sponsoring the tour, made the announcement. He said it would have a cast of 80, mostly Canadian figure skaters, travelling aboard a special train.

The show opens in Winnipeg Oct. 10 and then heads for Vancouver before working back to the east coast.

Among the cities the show will appear in are: Sudbury, Sault Ste Marie, Chatham, Sarnia, Stratford, Waterloo, Owen Sound, Guelph, Galt, St. Catharines, North Bay, Schumacher, Oshawa, Belleville and Cornwall

Stand On Own Feet

TORONTO, July 8 (CP)—The church should stand on its own feet as a church, and should not have to attract people by giving them entertainment, Dr. Daniel A. Poling, of New York, president of the World's Christian Endeavor Union, said Thursday. Addressing delegates to the Christian Endeavor Conference here, he said: "entertainment has a part in the church's program, but it should not overshadow the religious part and should not try to compete with other recreational facilities."

Milton Berle Irked By Comic's Jibes

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, July 8 (AP).—Here's Milton Berle's answer to an attack by Fred Allen:

"Allen still has the first penny ever thrown at him."

"Mr. Television" was irked by the Boston comic's words in Life magazine.

Commenting on Berle's top TV rating, Allen added: "You can go so long when you get your laughs by running out in front of an audience wearing a pair of lady's drawers."

"Mr. Allen is a very wealthy and successful comedian," Berle said seriously. "I think he makes himself look bad by knocking another member of the profession. What is he trying to prove?"

Berle has been attacked by other comedians.

All the attacks stem from jealousy, he declared.

"Anyone who gets on top becomes a target . . . You should have heard the things they said about Bob Hope when he first came out here

"And Joe DiMaggio. He was a bum when he was hurt. Then he comes back and slugs four homers in three games — so he's a hero again. Was he any different before?"

I told the comic about visiting Bob Hope's new office and seeing the vault where the Hope gags are filed. "Let Berle try to get in here," Hope remarked.

Biggest File

"I'll bet I've got a bigger gag file than Hope," Berle answered. "Back in New York I've 850,000 gags indexed and cross-indexed.

Although he says he should be taking a rest from the 78-show yearly grind, he is making a movie here

It's called "Always Leave Them Laughing" and that's what he did. A studio messenger reported with new pages of script and asked, "Are you Milton Berle?"

"If I'm not, I've sure been having a lot of fun with his wife," was the answer.

6—In Memoriams

McQUARRIE—In loving memory of dear Allan, who was killed in action July 8, 1944.
You left me beautiful memories,
Often silent tears,
But you will always be with me
As I journey through the years.
You are always in my mind Allan
No matter what I do,
Never for a moment
Are you very far away,
Absent, yet near, you seem
But dearer every day.
—Ever remembered by Mother, Father, brothers and sister, and his wife in London, England.

WEYER—In loving memory of our little girl, Marjorie Ann Weyer, who passed away three years ago today, July 8, 1946
She was only a little white rosebud,
A sweet little flower from birth,
God took her home to heaven
Before she was soiled on earth.
—Sadly missed by mamma, daddy, Raymond and Marion

WEYER—In loving memory of dear Marjorie Ann Weyer, who passed away three years ago today, July 8th, 1946.
Oh bless little sunbeam,
Oh child of love,
And pray,
We give thee to the keeping
Of the tender Shepherd's care.
—Remembered by aunt, uncle and cousins Margaret Rose and Bobby and Betty.

WEYER — In loving memory of our granddaughter, Marjorie Ann Weyer, who passed away July 8, 1946.
The depths of sorrow we can not tell
Of the loss of one we loved so well;
And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep
Her memory we shall always keep.
—Ever remembered by Grandma, Grandpa, and Aunt Mary.

Costly Paving

lent condition." He said he had driven his car down the street at 45 miles per hour one night last week to test its condition and had had no trouble controlling his car at that speed.

He said one spot only needed repairing. Apparently the foundation under the road had been damaged by poor drainage.

The only heavy traffic on the street was in the evenings from the baseball fans who attended games in Riverside Park. He invited the Municipal Board officials to examine the road, because he said, five minutes' observation would show there was no need for new pavement.

Other Burnham street residents who spoke in support of Mr. Langley's arguments were Fred Flaherty and Charles A. Stenton. Mr. Stenton said he was one of several pensioners on the street and higher taxes would drive him out of his home.

A petition against the proposed paving program sent to the Municipal Board was signed by all land owners in the blocks concerned except Wm. Tinker who was in England and had cabled his objections from there.

High-handed

The objections of Romaine St. residents and land owners were presented by Mr. Bryant who said the city council should have first consulted the landowners on the street because the street was not a main artery. He thought they had been treated in a very "high-handed manner" by the council.

Much more important streets, Park and Monaghan Rd. which Romaine connects were in considerably worse condition than their residential street was, he charged. He said the maintenance costs of the street to the city were negligible, because he and other old time residents had seen it oiled only twice that they could remember in the past 20 years.

He said there were 46 objectors to paving the street, with only one person not signing the petition.

When he had heard all arguments on both sides and made notes, Mr. Moore went to the streets in question so that he could make a first hand report to the Municipal Board which will make the ruling probably within a week.

Two Men Acquitted Of Careless Driving

William Richard, 558 McCannon St. and Adrian Devlin, 474 Park St., whose cars crashed on Park St. at Elm St. June 12, were both acquitted today in city police court by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, of careless driving.

Each driver was called in turn by the prosecution to give evidence against the other at hearings on June 28 and 30.

Both cars had damaged fenders, bumpers and other parts of the body damaged after the vehicles had sideswiped when travelling north and south on Park St.

The magistrate decided that there was no definite evidence as to whether one or the other had been driving on the wrong side of the road. It had been said that both men were drinking but neither was intoxicated.

Gordon Beatty, 438 Wolsley St. who had been standing on the sidewalk, had given evidence in court.

Both drivers were defended by W. J. A. Fair, KC.

Caused Disturbance

Thomas Bass, 304 Louis St., who was arrested Thursday evening outside his home, was today fined $10 with $2.50 costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in city police court for causing a disturbance.

Wallace Steenburgh, RR 6, Peterborough, was fined $15 with $2.50 costs when he pleaded guilty to illegal possession of liquor, which was found in his car.

BRAMWELL FLETCHER PLAYS—in the Peterborough Summer Theatre's coming production of the thriller "Angel Street." Mr. Fletcher has a wide and distinguished experience on the New York and London stages. He is flying from New York Saturday to join final rehearsals of Angel Street, in the part of the Police Inspector which has played several seasons in New York.

Thrilling Play Angel Street For Next Week

Angel Street, next week's Peterborough Summer Theatre production, will be a complete change from the first two plays the company has put on.

Angel Street is jammed with suspense and horror, which builds up to a series of psychological climaxes as a young wife tries desperately to escape insanity.

The play was called Gaslight when produced for the first time in London, England. It was brought to New York in 1940 and played two years on Broadway under the title Angel Street. Starring in the Broadway production were Vincent Price, Judith Evelyn and Leo Carroll.

Since then it has been produced by companies throughout the United States and is still a favorite in England.

Fletcher To Play Lead

Bramwell Fletcher, who plays the Scotland Yard Inspector, has played the party many times. This week he is acting in a play in New Jersey and is flying to Toronto and motoring on to Peterborough Sunday morning for rehearsals. In the meantime the actors here have been rehearsing since Monday.

Mr. Fletcher has had a distinguished career on the American stage and has played in many Hollywood movies. He was born in England and got his early stage training there.

In New York he has played opposite the top leading actresses of the American stage: Lillian Gish, Telen Hayes and with aKtherine Cornell in Show's Doctors' Dilemma.

Margaret Feury, who plays the young wife, comes to Peterborough with the high recommendation of the chief of the talent department of Twenty Century-Fox in New York. She trained at the Yale School of Drama and has been appearing in television shows this year as a member of Actors' Studio.

Anna Cameron who has appeared in both Summer Theatre productions, as Venessa in Fortune My Foe and the maid, Gladys, in George and Margaret, will reappear in Angel Street. John Primm who played the drunk in Fortunt My Foe and the father in George and Margaret, will make a complete switch to appear as the husband in Angel Street.

Three other newcomers are Patricia Atkinson of Toronto, an apprentice with the company with considerable experience in Hart House plays and in the Toronto New Stage Society, and Ace Hardy of Chicago, and Hugh Tachereau.

Business manager, Graham Ferguson, has announced Blithe Spirit by Noel Coward will replace The Voice of The Turtle as the theatre's production the week after Angel Street.

Tank Wrecks Bridge At Meaford

Does Job Too Well On Manoeuvres; Big Detour For Cars

MEAFORD, July 9—(CP)—As a result of damage it suffered when struck by a 46-ton tank on Friday evening the large concrete bridge situated on Highway 26 in the heart of Meaford has been closed to all heavy traffic. A police guard with blockade is on duty slowing all traffic as it is feared the huge bridge may topple into the Big Head river 30 feet below.

On weekly manoeuvres the tank suddenly left the highway as it rumbled through town. Under command of Lt. George Abercrombie and driven by Bombadier Bert Gardiner the tank narrowly averted crushing completely through the cement pillars to the river bed below.

A locked track is blamed for the accident which caused the tank to suddenly crash through the curbing on the left hand side of the bridge and smash off a large pillar. The track appeared to catch and the tank careened wildly to the other side of the road and smashed into the pillars at that side ripping up another large section of curbing. The pillars held although they are badly cracked.

Town officails immediately got in touch with headquarters at Camp Borden. All heavy traffic will have to detour many miles through the country as the other bridge across the river will not take care of a heavy load.

"It was fortunate that no one was on the bridge or they would have been killed," said councillor Robert Irving, chairman of the police committee. The only protection between pedestrians and the traffic is a low curbing on each side. No estimate of damage is available.

THE FORM OF SERGEANT JEAN BAYLISS (right) is stretched out on the parade grounds of Shrewsbury Castle, Shropshire, England, as Princess Elizabeth inspects the honor guard of the Women's Royal Army Corps. Sgt. Bayliss fainted as the Princess (left) passed along the ranks of the women soldiers. The occasion was the opening of the Shrewsbury agricultural show.

Open Air Route To Australia

VANCOUVER, July 9.—(CP).—Another step in Canada's expanding aviation takes place today when a big, four-engined Canadair aircraft leaves Vancouver's international airport on its inaugural flight to Australia.

The shiny new Empress of Vancouver is starting the Canadian Pacific Air Lines' service to the dominion "down under."

Aboard on the inaugural flight will be 30 passengers—half aviation and communications officials and half newspaper men.

The aircraft is scheduled to arrive in Sydney on Thursday and the plane's passengers will have luncheon with Sydney's Lord Mayor.

On the out trip the travellers are to attend functions in Honolulu and the Fiji Islands.

For Grant McConnachie, C.P.A. president, the service to Australia will culminate a dream created about the time he was a "short pants" flier on the prairies. It was he who started the first air service from Edmonton to Whitehorse and built the first crude airports along that route.

10,000 Orangemen To March In Guelph

GUELPH, July 9—(CP)—Western Ontario Orangemen 10,000 strong poured into Guelph today for a mammoth celebration marknig the 259th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne. It was the largest Glorious Twelfth observance Guelph has witnessed for 14 years.

More than 200 lodges from 12 counties were represented in the contingents which arrived during the morning by train, bus and motor car and the city was gay with bunting, banners and flags for the occasion.

Downtown streets resounded to the music of fife and drum bands and gaily attired groups of Orangemen and sister lodges went through their paces in preparation for a monster parade. Perhaps the most colorful of the paraders was the band from the Oschwegan Indian Reserve at Brantford, its members dressed in tribal costume.

Court Confirms Life Sentence For Mindszenty

BUDAPEST, Hungary, July 9 (AP) — Hungary's appeal court today confirmed the life imprisonment of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty. The court approved 8 to 2 the verdict of the People's Court and refused to commute the penalty.

Three of the Cardinal's co-defendants received reduced sentences, the sentences of three others were confirmed.

The Cardinal was convicted Feb. 8 of treason, espionage and black market currency dealings. The five-man People's Court sentenced him to life imprisonment.

Canada, the United States and other countries charged before the United Nations that human rights were violated. The UN General Assembly approved in April an American backed plan to take up the conduct of the trial under terms of the Hungarian peace treaty.

The case will come up again next fall.

During and after the trial it was often stated, but never authentically substantiated, that the Prelate of Hungary had been drugged in order to make him a pawn in the hands of his prosecutors.

Communists Release U.S. Vice-Consul

SHANGHAI, July 9 (AP)—The Communists today released Vice-Consul William B. Olive of the United States. He was arrested Wednesday in a minor traffic incident and beaten by police.

Olive was closeted immediately after his release with Consul General John Cabot. Olive was not permitted to comment upon his four days in jail because, Cabot said, it "might endanger him."

Cabot would not say whether Olive had been injured at the hands of the Red police, but the Vice-Consul was able to leave the jail without aid. He seemed to bear no marks of violence.

The Communist press said he "admitted his offences" and had apologized to police after being "educated."

Cripps Finishes Explaining Difficulties To U.S. Officials

LONDON, July 9—(CP)—Top financial officers of the United Kingdom, Canada and the United States today wind up a two-day question-and-answer session of the topic: "What to do about Britain's dwindling dollar and gold reserves?" John W. Snyder, United States Secretary of the Treasury, is understood to have asked a few questions, then sat back and let Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, explain Britain's plight during Friday's four-hour session. The atmosphere at Friday's meeting was oficially described as "excellent."

The three-power economic trade experts ranged over the whole field of the sterling area's gold and dollar position and its import and export trade with the dollar countries.

Informed sources said the ministers Friday had an analytical discussion of factors which have upset the balance of world trade, causing the gold and dollar reserves of the sterling area to drop by £65,000,000 to £406,000,000 ($1,624,000,000) during the last three months.

May Ease Loan Rule

London's morning papers today speculated that Snyder and Sir Stafford were talking over chances of easing upon a section of the loan agreement signed in 1945 which forbids Britain setting up any discriminating import quota against the United States.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed by official government sources in London that Britain has signed a new one-year barter trade agreement with Russia.

It calls for Britain to exchange machinery for nearly a million tons of Russian coarse grains and a big quantity of wheat. British officials said as a "matter of course" they would send no goods with military potential to the Soviets.

Exeter Sure It Has 'Quake

EXETER, Ont., July 9 (CP) — A possible pocket-sized earthquake rumbled through the centre of this western Ontario town Friday but left no clear indication of its origin.

Residents reported that buildings swayed shortly after noon to the accompaniment of loud subterranean rumblings, but the fact neighboring communities experienced no such disturbances left doubt that a quake actually had occurred.

No damage was reported.

The freak tremor—if it was a tremor—apparently was confined to the centre of the town. Nothing was felt at nearby Centralia Air Station, nor at a store a mile from the business section. Several construction gangs were at work in the area, but none was blasting.

Buried Under Sand Cat Has 8 Lives Left

TORONTO, July 9 (CP—Kitty, a brown cat owned by the Reeves family here, has only eight lives left.

Kitty often spends hours in a cool culvert in front of the Reeves home. Thursday, while taking a cat-nap, she was buried under five feet of sand, dumped on the culvert by a construction company installing sewers on the street. The Reeves became alarmed when their pet didn't come home that night and convinced the construction company foreman that his crew had unwittingly buried their cat. It was only a few minutes before quitting time, but six men and a bulldozer went back to the culvert and began to dig.

Sure enough, five feet of earth and a lot of sweat later, out jumped Kitty.

Dennis Admits Robberies Of $150,000 In Canada

MONTREAL, July 9—(CP) — Solution to 11 burglaries involving valuables worth about $150,000 is in the hands of Montreal police following an interview with Gerard Dennis, Canadian-born gem thief now held by United States police.

Three Montreal and district police officials who spent two days questioning Dennis in the warden's office at Westchester county jail, New York said Friday night that, "he had talked freely."

His confession cleared up robberies which have gone unsolved since they were committed in the Montreal area four years ago.

"Dennis confessed to having participated in the thefts and he supplied us with valuable information that will probably lead us to recovery of part of the stolen goods and a few arrests," police reported.

The dapper, 30-year-old Dennis, who became a legendary figure in Canada and the United States as the "hooded bandit," had refused to talk on two previous occasions.

Dennis was sai dto have admitted his part in seven "jobs" involving about $120,000 in Westmount alone, including an $80,000 robbery from the home of Mrs. Noah Timmins, widow of a mining magnate.

"Dennis appeared in excellent health and his morale was exceptionally good for a man behind the eight-ball," Sgt. Bond said.

Say Soviets Inside Allied Zone

Berlin-Bound Trucks Halted by Reds In New Blockade

FRANKFURT, Germany, July 9 —(AP)—The United States army today reported that an American officer shot and killed a Russian soldier in a border clash near Coburg yesterday.

The announcement said an American patrol was "fired on" while checking markings along the American-Soviet zone border.

"The patrol was forced to hit the dirt and then withdraw, returning shortly after with two officers," the report said. "They were fired on again and returned fire. One officer's bullet instantly killed a Russian soldier."

The army declined to identify the officer. It said the Russian was "at least 200 yards inside the American zone" when he was shot.

His body was left where it fell pending official contact with Russian authorities.

Soldiers Stand By

The Army announcement said the dead man was a private "of approximately 18 or 19 years."

Lt.-Col. E. S. Thomas, commander of the 15th Constabulary Squadron, and Capt. E. A. Hamilton, Chief of the American-Russian section of the constabulary, arrived at the scene shortly after the shooting.

The announcement said the two officers "saw numerous Russian soldiers behind trees and under other cover and decided to let the body remain until some contact was made to them by the Russian Command."

The shooting occurred at Rothenbach, north of Coburg.

New Blockade

BERLIN July 9 (AP)—Soviet troops at three frontier crossings from Western Germany today imposed a new "little blockade" on Berlin-bound cargo trucks.

British-zone officials accused the Russians of violating the Big Four Paris agreement on raising the Berlin blockade.

German police reported fruit and vegetable trucks were turned back at Hof-Gutenfuerst and Coburg-Falkenstein, near the Baltic coast.

The crossing point at Herrenburg, also in the British zone, consignments.

Other frontier posts, including Helmstedt on the main autobahn from Berlin to the American zone, have not been affected.

Report 9 Killed In Plane Crash

BALBOA, Canal Zone, July 9 (AP)—A United States Navy patrol plane with nine persons aboard caught fire in mid-air and crashed into the sea Friday near Coco Solo in the Canal Zone. At least one body was seen near the wreckage.

The crash occurred in the Caribbean Sea, about 20 miles northwest of a United States naval air station. Rescue operations were under way within 15 minutes. Crash boats and other surface craft and planes were dispatched to the scene.

Wire Breaks Stunt Man Dies

AGAWAM, Mass., July 9 (AP) —A man booked under the name of Eddy Polo was killed Friday night in a fall from a tight rope which broke during his act at Riverside Amusement Park.

Operators at the park at first identified him as the former star of the silent movies and carnival stunt man.

But the real Eddy Polo was located at his home in Los Angeles Calif.

Polo said he never saw the man using his name.

He said he had checked with a theatrical agency, however, and learned the man was an actor "trying to struggle along, so I just let him use my name." Polo didn't know the man's real name.

Hunt Fur Poachers

TORONTO, July 9—(CP)—Officials of the Ontario Provincial Police and the Fish and Game Department Friday launched a widespread search, extending into Quebec, for fur poachers loaded with beaver pelts. Police said two men left Cochrane, with thousands of dollars worth of pelts trapped out of season. The furs, they said, were destined for Toronto, Cornwall, or Montreal.

Jury Deadlocked New Trial Held For Hiss

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP) — The perjury trial of Alger Hiss ended in a deadlocked jury Friday night, and the government ordered a new trial.

The jury, split eight to four in favor of a conviction was dismissed after nearly 29 hours of effort to reach an agreement.

Shortly thereafter, Attorney-General Tom Clark announced in Washington:

"The Department of Justice will vigorously prosecute the Hiss case again as quickly as the docket of the court will permit."

At the earliest, that would not be before next autumn.

Failure of the jury to reach a verdict left still in doubt the role—if any—that Hiss had played in an alleged prewar betrayal of the United States.

Jurors said that almost from the outset, they had been deadlocked eight to four for conviction of the brilliant, 44-year-old Harvard graduate whom the State Department sent to Dumbarton Oaks, Yalta, and the San Francisco conference where the United Nations was founded.

His face haggard, Hiss managed a weak smile as the jury was discharged.

Harsh Blow

It was a harsh blow for him if he had expected acquittal.

It left him under the cloud that arose last summer when Whittaker Chambers told the House of Representatives un-American activities committee that Hiss gave him State Department secrets for a Soviet spy ring.

Hiss, who left the State Department in 1947 for a $20,000 a year private post, denied giving Chambers secrets and said he had not seen his pudgy accuser since Jan. 1, 1937.

These denials led to the two perjury counts, handed up late last year by the New York investigating espionage.

Order Additional Troops To Unload Food As More Dockers Strike

Calling Mass Meeting Monday To Decide About Gov't. Ultimatum; Charge Strikers Directed From Abroad

LONDON, July 8—(Reuters)—Additional troops moved into the port of London today to unload food cargoes as groups of idle workers asembled at the dock gates to discuss the government's threat to proclaim a state of emergency unless they return to work Monday. The order was announced by Home Secretary James Chuter Ede. More than 1,700 soldiers and sailors were deployed on 14 ships to unload meat, fruit and dairy produce as against 1,000 at work Friday.

By Friday night, more than 10,200 dockers were involved in the dispute which started over the refusal of some men to handle two Canadian ships, strikebound for the last two months by the Canadian Seamen's Union dispute. The employers claimed that this was a breach of contract. Union officials have opposed the men's action.

If the men do not resume work Monday "without discrimination" —that is including the unloading of the Canadian ships—the government will use powers to take control of the port, employ troops for unloading of all cargoes and to arrest and prosecute anyone obstructing or interfering with the emergency measures.

Despite the strong action threatened by the government, 400 lightermen, key workers in the port, Friday night decided to stop work tonight in support of the dockers. Two thousand meat truck drivers also decided to refuse cargoes handled by troops.

Call Mass Meeting

The dockers agreed today to call a mass meeting of the strikers Monday morning to decide their future course.

About 1,000 men, members of the Transport and General Workers Union, decided by a majority of seven to one to return to work Monday.

Sir Hartley Shawcross, British Attorney-General, said today the men leading the London dock strikers were "under instructions from abroad."

"There is no doubt of it. They have announced their deliberate intention to smash the Marshall Plan for the recovery of Europe and in all countries they are pursuing the same methods," he said.

Chiang Discusses Pacific Pact With Philippines

MANILA, July 9 (AP)— Reliable diplomatic sources said today Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek will arrive here tomorrow to confer with Philippine President Elpidio Quirino.

These sources said the Chinese Nationalist leader was flying to Manila from Formosa and would return to the big island off the southeastern China coast Monday. Chiang has converted Formosa into a last-stand Nationalist bastion against the Chinese Communists.

Subject of the Chiang-Quirino meeting was not disclosed but two general topics are expected to come under consideration:

1. A Pacific alliance which Quirino has proposed as an anti-Communist economic and cultural front of Asian nations to be led by the United States.

2. Possibility of establishment of a home in exile for Chiang.

Chiang has been pressing for more American aid to continue the Chinese Nationalists' civil war against the Communists.

President Syngman Rhee of the Republic of Korea likewise has been calling for more aid to bulwark his infant southern regime against possible aggression by the Communist north Korean regime.

Rhee has come out in support of Quirino's suggestion for a Pacific counterpart of the Atlantic Pact to oppose Communist aggression.

The newspaper's account said that a representative of General MacArthur's headquarters would attend the meeting along with top Philippine military officials.

Steel Workers Reject Pension

PITTSBURGH, July 9 (AP) — Inland Steel Company of Chicago Friday night offered its 19,000 workers a pension and insurance plan but the United Steelworkers' Union (CIO) said they would turn it down.

The Inland Steel offer was the only departure from United States Steel Corporation's flat "no" on both wage raises and pensions. Other companies joining to reject the steelworkers' demands were Wheeling Steel Corporation, Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, Crucible Steel Company of America, and Bethlehem Steel Company.

The union announcement that it would reject Inland's offer, which did not include a pay raise still made a strike of about 500,000 employees of 189 steel producing companies likely July 16 unless the government takes action to avert it.

May Make New Attempt At Tax Agreement Between Ontario, Ottawa

Frost Corresponds With Federal Government On Low-Rental Housing, Hopeful Some Solution Will Be Forthcoming

OTTAWA, July 9—(CP)—Possibility of a new attempt by Ontario and the Federal government to reach a taxation agreement was raised Friday following the visit by Premier Frost to Prime Minister St. Laurent. While informed sources said there is no chance of a renewal of the Dominion-Provincial conference this year, it is known the cabinet plans to give priority to discussions on general relations with the provinces.

Premier Frost visited the Prime Minister Friday. Mr. St. Laurent left Friday for a three-week holiday in New Brunswick without disclosing what happened at the meeting.

On the prime minister's return to the capital the cabinet is expected to get down to serious business preparatory to a probable fall session of the new parliament.

One matter that will likely be on the agenda is the trans-Canada highway.

Will Co-operate

On housing the St. Laurent government has committed itself to active financial co-operation with both the provincial and municipal governments on low-rental housing projects to be worked out by the junior governments with administration and supervision to remain in their hands.

Housing may have been one of the matters discussed by Premier Frost and the Prime Minister.

Premier Frost said Friday correspondence has been exchanged this week between the Dominion and the province in respect to low-rental housing and he was hopeful that some solution to the problem may be arrived at.

While reluctant to give details as to the nature of the letters exchanged between his government and Reconstruction Minister Winters, Mr. Frost recalled the representations that Toronto and Hamilton made to Ottawa some weeks ago.

At that time, Mayors McCallum and Lawrence petitioned the federal government to relieve their cities of the burden they have been carrying by suggesting Ottawa provide land for this type of home and pay half the cost of supplying services. This expense is now borne by the municipalities.

The Ontario government, in support of the suggestion, agreed to continue to pay its half-share of the services cost. At the same time the municipalities asked for the right to level normal taxation on these houses. On those already built, the Dominion-owned Central Mortgage Corp. collects the rents and pays the municipalities a fixed amount in lieu of taxes.

Dr. Ralph Clark Heads Cottagers

Dr Ralph Clark was elected president of the Chemong Park Cottagers Association in the election of the new executive Friday night at the cottage of Cecil Wasson.

Other elected members of the executive were secretary, Dr. A. G. Howson treasurer, Ross Pulkinghorn, and vice-president Mrs. Cecil Wasson.

The new board of directors is Allan Heideman, Reg Faryon and W. B Gordon.

Several residents complained of the garbage collecting service they were getting. One cottager said he never knew where to expect to find his emptied garbage can somewhere down the road, or up in a tree.

Turning the park into a police village was discussed at length and a committee was appointed under W. B. Gordon to investigate the matter. The committee will report at a meeting called for the last Friday in July.

A petition to the Smith township council asking that the road at the lower end of the park in front of Dr. Howson's cottage not be straightened was denied by the council in a letter received this week. Cottagers felt taking the curve out of the road would merely invite car drivers to speed through the park faster than ever.

A membership committee was elected consisted of Harry Dinsdale, convener Norris Williamson, Clare Collins, George Wilde, and Mrs Keith Mitchell.

Contract Awarded For Waterworks Job

NORWOOD, July 9 (ENS) — Work on the municipal waterworks—long a subject of local controversy—will begin in about a week's time, it was learned at the Council meeting Friday night.

The tender of the Wainright Construction Co. of Toronto to build the waterworks was accepted at the special meeting of Council called on Friday.

It is understood that the Company is prepared to begin work in about a week.

The advisability of going ahead with construction of a waterworks has been hotly debated at the last several municipal elections. It was one main plank in the platform of Reeve Rork Ferguson this year when he defeated W. E. Packenham, ex-Reeve, in a rousing campaign.

Hay Retailing At $35 A Ton, Supply Is Short

Similar to most other counties in Ontario, Peterborough faces the prospects of a drastically reduced hay crop this summer. Already agricultural experts say that the first crop is only a quarter to half of the normal, and unless the second is particularly well favored by the weather hay will be at a premium when winter comes.

Figures are ample proof of the lack of moisture: during June this year there was only .72 inches of rain compared with 3.15 inches in 1948. And to make matters worse the temperature was five degrees higher, on an average, than the year before.

Henry Sharpe of RR 4 Peterborough estimated that the first cutting would yield at best only half the normal crop.

"Generally the hay is better north of the city," he told the Examiner. "Parts of Smith are OK and there is good hay north of Selwyn."

Most of Otonabee and regions to the south will have a "pretty light crop," he predicted. And he singled out the Springville district as being particularly poor.

It is reported that there is a bumper crop in the eastern Ottawa Valley, and that region is likely to be exporting hay this winter. The Ottawa Valley has received more rain than most parts of Ontario recently.

No Stable Feeding

Mr. Sharpe said he had not heard of any local farmers having to stable feed their cattle as has happened in some counties, but he added that enquiries had been made by several farmers as to purchasing hay.

At the moment a ton of baled hay will sell anywhere from $30 to $35 a ton, with a top price of $40 "if the purchaser is stuck for it." This compares with a pre-season price of $20.

He emphasized that predictions as to the price of hay this winter and the demand for it depend largely on the second crop. If good it might ease the situation considerably.

"It's my own opinion, though, that the second crop will largely be taken up for pasture," he stated.

If used for pasture it will still further reduce the winter supply. Because of this Mr. Sharpe contended that hay is almost certain to be at a premium this winter.

Dry weather is also affecting the dairy industry.

"The milk supply has fallen off very rapidly," William Ovens of Campbell's Dairy told the Examiner. "Nevertheless there is an ample supply of milk coming in to take care of requirements."

But although the supply is down it does not mean an immediate jump in the price of milk. The contract with the present milk producers does not expire until Oct. 1, he said.

He was of the opinion that dairy farmers, if pressed for feed, could probably buy some of the hay crop from Belleville, Napanee and the Prince Edward districts.

Fuselage Of Bomber Becomes Trailer

Exciting much interest on the streets of Peterborough Friday was a new kind of trailer, which at one time did yeoman service as part of an airplane bomber fuselage. It is the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Hine and daughter, who arrived here a few days ago from Manitoba and are registered at Nick's Camp, River Rd.

The former airplane fuselage makes a more elongated trailer than the usual type, it being 35 feet in length. It still has the original door and windows, but the wings and tail assembly have been sheared off. The trailer also still carries the original aircraft tires and landing wheels, although they have been redesigned.

Court Stacked With Bottles For Liquor Case

COBOURG, July 9 (ENS). — Charles Sequire of Brighton Township appeared in Police Court yesterday on charges of keeping liquor for sale and of having liquor in his possession illegally. The charges were laid after a raid conducted by Corpl. Douglas Wilson of the Provincial Police, Cobourg, and Provincial Constable A. Kellogg of Hastings on June 5. The hearing was adjourned for completion of evidence.

The court room looked like a combined brewers' warehouse and liquor store, with 248 bottles of beer and 35 bottles of hard liquor and wine as exhibits. Constable Kellogg said that when he and Cpl. Wilson raided Sequire's premises, they found nine full cases of beer, three full cartons of empties, and one case with 21 empties. These were in a room in which there was a bottle opener on the wall with a tin to catch the tops as they came off, a chair without a back, and an empty crate. In the cupboard were one bottle of rum, one bottle of brandy, three of gin, three of whisky, three ginger ale, and 25 bottles of wine. Three permits were taken, made out to Jessie Sequire, Lyle Jones and Charles Sequire. Some of the cases had Sequire's name on them, some had Jones', and some Anne Morrow, he said.

Paul Jones, driver for the brewers' warehouse in Trenton, identified brewery slips produced in evidence. They were deliveries which he had made to the Sequire home. From April 14 to May 31, 36 cases were delivered on orders signed by Sequire. From April 14 to June 2, 44 cases were delivered on orders signed by Jessie Sequire. In Lyle Jones' name were 20 cases delivered from April 19 to June 2. In Anne Morrow's name, from April 29 to May 31 28 cases were delivered.

OUSTED PROFESSOR— Dr. George Hunter, head of the biochemistry department at the University of Alberta for the last 20 years, was recently dismissed from his post. University officials said they had received complaints that Hunter, head of the Edmonton Peace Council, had used class rooms to propagate his political views, but said the reason for his dismissal had been "culminating dissatisfaction."

Misplaced Buoys Ground Ship

LITTLE CURRENT, Ont., July 9 — (CP) — Misplaced channel markings were credited Friday with the grounding last Thursday night of the freighter New York News at the eastern entrance to Little Current harbor. No serious damage was suffered when the ship ran onto a rock shoal at midnight, her captain, R. J. Brown of Montreal, reported. The tug "Favorite" and a lighter were on their way from Sault Ste. Marie to free the ship by taking off her cargo of 3,680 tons of coal. They expect to arrive today.

The 250-foot canal-size vessel was bound from Chicago to Little Current. She is owned by the Quebec and Ontario Transportation Company, Montreal.

All efforts to free her were useless. She was well up on the underwater shoal with her decks slanted about 15 degrees to port.

The crew of 26 are enjoying their enforced holiday. The slanted decks make a convenient diving platform.

Admits Guilt On Charges Taking Cement

COBOURG, July 9 — (ENS)— Harry Payne, former construction superintendent here, pleaded guilty in police court yesterday to two charges of theft of cement from his former employer and was placed on suspended sentence and a $500 bond for two years. He was charged with theft of 21 bags of cement in May and with theft of 75 bags on June 10.

Chief W. J. Carey testified that he received a complaint about the theft of cement from the company doing the cement work on the new sewage disposal plant here and 84 out of 95 bags were recovered. Three bags were recovered out of 40 more that were stolen and all of another 30 were recovered. The cement was sold by Frank Linton who was put on suspended sentence when he appeared last week on theft charges.

To defence counsel J. C. M. Germen, Chief Carey said that Payne had told him the cement had been borrowed from him by Linton and that it had not been returned. This was in reference to the second charge. However, in connection with the first charge, Linton had nothing to do with the 21 bags, he said.

Crown Attorney Harry Deyman said that, in view of his agreeing to suspended sentence on the Linton charge, he could do nothing else than agree to the same disposition of Payne's case.

WASHINGTON, July 9—(AP) —President Truman will set a lofty production goal for the United States in his forthcoming message to Congress, it was reported Friday. Persons in close touch with the framing of economic policy predict he will call for the output of some $300,000,000,000 in goods and services a year. This would be 18 per cent above the present rate.

LONDON POLITICAL CIRCLES think one factor in Russia's recent moderate policy is the weakness of the Soviet Communist Party in strategic areas of western Russia. Map shows these seven republics, all comparative newcomers in the Soviet Union. Kremlin is particularly concerned over scarcity of party members in agricultural districts. On most collective farms there is not a single Communist. In Latvia, only 1.6 of the collectives have party organizations. Moscow, said to fear that in any war there would be real danger of large-scale guerilla activity against Soviet troops in these rural areas, is intensifying a campaign to increase Communist Party strength there.

Troops Unload Ships

Men enlist in peace or war to defend their country against foreign assault and to protect it at home in times of riot or civil disorder. Judging from the number of times British troops have been called on to unload ships in place of men who are striking, the British army has become a sort of chore boy when workers whose job it is decide not to do the job. About a hundred ships in the Port of London were strike-bound yesterday, and troops were again called in to unload needed food from them. They were not asked to maintain law and order at the docks, or stand over the dock-workers while they did the job. The dock-workers stood over the soldiers.

* * *

The food had to be unloadad. It seems, however, that strikers have no obligation to the people who need the food, and that the government of the country is perfectly amenable to allowing soldiers to be taken from their proper work and to allowing strikers to disregard their duty as citizens in an emergency. If there is enough justification for calling in troops, is there not enough for demanding that civilian workers accept the responsibilities of their citizenship and their jobs?

* * *

When men at the Kingston aluminum factory struck, enough union members remained on the job to prevent the works being scuppered and to finish processing goods of national importance.

* * *

We recollect wryly that the ships and docks in London are strike-bound because of an abortive Canadian Seamen's Union strike. Is the jovial regard which British workers had for Canadian men in uniform resulting now in a too generous and misplaced sympathy for a Canadian union which the majority of Canadian seamen themselves seem to have spurned?

Osler Centenary

Sir William Osler was a great Canadian, and Canadians in this year, the centenary of his birth, honour him and revere his memory. He was a great doctor, and the Canadian Medical Association together with doctors the world over pay him homage. He was a great humanitarian, not only because of his medical work, his teaching and his culture, but because as a person he had the warm touch of genuine humanity.

Many stories are told of his kindness, his sharp but not bitter wit, his dealings with patients and pupils, his concern that medicine be an art, not a cold science. He wrote that "To study the phenomena of disease without books is to sail an uncharted sea, while to study books without patients is not to go to sea at all". And he advised the general practitioner that "a well-used library is one of the few correctives of the premature senility which is so apt to overtake him".

Osler was born in the village of Tecumseh outside Windsor, where his father was a clergyman. He attended Ontario schools and McGill University. He was educated at Trinity College School, Port Hope, at Trinity College, Toronto, and took his doctorate of medicine at McGill, at the age of 23. His medical studies took him to London, Leipzig and Vienna, before he became Professor of Medicine at McGill for a decade, at the University of Pennsylvania for five years, and at Johns Hopkins for another five. He became Regius Professor of Medicine at Oxford in 1905, where he remained until his death in 1919.

He is celebrated for his scientific study of diseases of the spleen and blood, of angina pectoris, malaria and tuberculosis. But his most valuable contributions to this profession were perhaps in his teaching, his efforts to raise the standards of medical schools and doctors, and in his advanced recognition that disease is not merely physical. In this regard he was a forerunner in psycho-somatic medicine. He shocked traditionalists by writing in his first textbook: "Pneumonia is a self-limited disease and runs its course uninfluenced in any way by medicne It can neither be aborted nor cut short by any known means at our command." Sulfa drugs and penicillin have been known to doctors only in recent years.

Osler was born on July 12th, 1849. His birth, though in a small Ontario village, was not humble. He did not work his way through college. His education was as good as the continent provided, his professional training the best the world afforded. It is a North American myth that humble origins and the school of hard knocks are essential to greatness. It can be doubted that if Osler had "come up the hard way" his culture which distinguished him from so many members of his profession, and the depth of his medical knowledge would have been so great. He died thirty years ago at the age of seventy, a baronet, an eminent man of letters, and among the most distinguished physicians of his era.

A Word of Disagreement

During the past few weeks we have seen an editorial from the Saint John Telegraph-Journal reprinted several times, in which that newspaper asserts that it is no longer necessary or desirable that people should write neatly. We quote the nub of the argument:

> Are beauty and clarity of handwriting as important an attribute for a person to possess today as they were half a century ago? Few people will argue that they are. A generation or two past, life moved at a more leisurely pace.

We are among the few who will argue that beauty and clarity of handwriting are as desirable as they ever were. And we think that it is a delusion to think that life was more leisurely a few generations ago.

It is shameful and slovenly to do badly anything which is as intimate and personal as handwriting. There are some people who cannot write well, just as they may not be able to sing well. But most men and women can write legibly and neatly, if not elegantly, and we think that they should do so. To perform any handiwork less than our best is bad for the character. To write a sprawling, ill-formed hand is as objectionable and unnecesary as to talk without opening the mouth, or to mispronounce and mangle one's words. People possessed of a decent self-respect do not permit themselves to fall into such nasty habits.

We protest also against the notion that our ancestors had less to do than ourselves. Their days were just as full as ours, and they lived in stirring times, as we do. The notion that they wrote elegantly because they had no other way of passing the time is nonsense. They wrote well because they took pains to do so, knowing that handwriting and speech are both highly characteristic of the individual. They did not wish to be looked upon as slack-witted muddlers, and so they wrote neatly. We suggest that they might be copied with advantage in that respect.

Marlene Gives Offence

In hot weather strange things creep into the news. A recent dispatch from London tells how Marlene Dietrich gave offence at a public dinner by smoking before the toast to the King. She was rebuked by the toastmaster and she apologised.

Trivial? Yes, certainly, but it calls to our attention the habit which many people have of smoking during their meals—a habit which we think is a curious one. Food is one of the greatest of God's good gifts; not only is it nourishment, but it is possessed of an infinite variety of subtle and entertaining flavours. In order to appreciate these flavours one must have a clean palate. We should not like to be dogmatic on this matter, but we question whether anyone can really appreciate food to the fullest if he insists on smoking between courses.

Smoking is itself a pleasure, and like all pleasures it is increased if it is not overdone. Smoking while eating is, we feel, overdoing a good thing. And to smoke at the table, blowing into the faces of the other guests, can hardly be said to increase their enjoyment of what they are eating.

The custom of not smoking until after the Royal Toast is a matter of common sense. Toasts do not begin until eating is finished. And, in our opinion, that is the proper time to smoke. To mingle both pleasures is to miss the best of both.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Examiner's advice to young girls: It is better to be hard to get than hard to take.

A report from London says that several people have seen a cat which has two well-developed wings. If this marks a trend, it's bad news for the bird world.

English Pottery And Porcelain

By R. J. CHARLESTON

ALTHOUGH pots have been made in England since neolithic times, it is not until the thirteenth century that there emerges a style of pottery which can be said to be truly English. Differing subtly in shape from their Continental equivalents, sometimes of plain clay and sometimes thinly covered with green or yellow glaze, these tall slender pitchers demand admiration for their robust yet graceful proportions. Yet, admirable as they are when so regarded, by contemporary opinion they were held in low esteem. To pottery were relegated the menial offices of the kitchen, whilst metal or horn enjoyed the privilege of service at the high table. It was otherwise on the Continent in the later Middle Ages and early Renaissance. In fifteenth century Italy was perfected the ware known as "maiolica", which was to revolutionise the status of pottery. This ware was characterised by the use of tin-enamel, giving a smooth opaque-white surface which not only invited the addition of painted decoration, but was itself both cleaner and cleaner-looking than that of common lead-glazed ware. It soon achieved a European vogue, spreading successively to France, Holland, Germany and, in the middle of the sixteenth century, to England, where it is known anomalously as "delftware". The earliest English delftware is undecorated, but about 1600 painted decoration appears, in a style which may be considered the anglicised version of Netherlands maiolica-painting, itself derived from the Italian. Later in the seventeenth century, however, English delftware fell under the sway of an influence which was to dominate the whole of European pottery-decoration.

* * *

ISOLATED specimens of Chinese porcelain had been known in Europe since the late Middle Ages, but with the formation of the Dutch East India Company in 1602 chinawares began to make the journey West in ever-increasing quantities, the trade finally attaining enormous proportions when the Chinese began deliberately to manufacture for the European market. Chinese porcelain, looked upon with positive awe in the middle ages, was regarded in the seventeenth century with hardly less mystification, on account of its marvellous whiteness, hardness and translucency. "We are not thoroughly resolved concerning Porcellane or China dishes", wrote Sir Thomas Browne in 1646, "that according to common belief they are made of Earth". The threat to European pottery of this superior ware was self-evident, and the reaction of the potters immediate. The only way to survive was to copy, and from Delft in Holland especially there issued a stream of wares imitating the Chinese blue-and-white porcelain or red stoneware. The English potters followed suit, and the Chinese style of decoration predominates in the eighteenth century, although more homely themes, such as naval victories, theatre scenes, or balloon ascents were not wholly neglected.

* * *

JUST as delftware by its surface brilliance and the style of its decoration emulated the superficial character of Chinese porcelain, so in stoneware the potters attempted to imitate its hardness and translucence. The stoneware-potters of Staffordshire had different aims. Inspired on the one hand by porcelain, they worked towards a refined white material, which was frequently embellished with enamelling in the Oriental famille rose style but employing a characteristic brilliant palette; on the other, they exploited the manipulative clay-techniques traditional in their area, and by means of applied and moulded decoration achieved a vigorous and original style of their own. The prevalance of moulding had far-reaching consequences, for about 1740 the tendency towards standardisation was carried a long stage further by the introduction of the plaster mould, by means of which an indefinite number of pieces could be made from a single master-block. At the same time, the movement towards refinement of body-material had produced a fine white earthenware which was destined to set a ceramic standard for many years to come. The new spirit abroad in the pottery districts of Staffordshire found its greatest representative in Josiah Wedgwood of Burslem.

* * *

BY tireless industry and close observation Wedgwood obtained a complete mastery over his materials, and to them he applied a rationalised method of manufacture which effected great economies, enabling him to compete successfully in any market. He was an early convert to the neo-classical style, and although himself more particularly concerned with its embodiment in the coloured stonewares with white relief-decorations which are most readily associated with his name, it was perhaps the combination of this rising fashionable style with the supreme utility of his "cream-coloured" earthenware which was the basis of his fortune and his latter-day fame. This hard, durable and clean-looking earthenware—from about 1765 named "Queen's ware" from the patronage of Queen Charlotte—eventually drove the softer earthenware and the more brittle stoneware off the English market, and had a great vogue on the Continent.

* * *

THE introduction of Chinese porcelain into Europe not only spurred the existing potteries to copy as far as they could the outward appearance of the new and fashionable ware, but stimulated the enquiring spirit of the age to discover the secret of its composition. The hope of fabulous profit added a powerful incentive to scientific research. The experimental stage, however, was costly, and it is not surprising that the discovery was first made in the service of a ruler with great resources—Augustus the Strong, Elector of Saxony. This was in 1709, and Saxon porcelain soon became the rage. The secret of making true porcelain was gradually disseminated and new factories were set up which made hard-paste porcelain in rivalry with Meissen. Most of the manufacturers, however, were forced to content themselves with imitations of true porcelain. The earliest English factories—Chelsea, Bow and Derby—which came into existence from about 1745, used exclusively "soft-pastes" of this type, and it was not until 1768 that hard-paste porcelain was independently evolved in England. The English factories worked mostly in the styles of Meissen, and later of Sevres, but their wares have a provincial charm which endears them to English people. These factories produced for the most part both figures and "useful wares", the figures being at first for table-decoration in the fashion set by Dresden, where porcelain figures had displaced those of wax or sugar previously used for the purpose.

* * *

THE nineteenth century was an era of great technical innovation, but in the arts suffered greatly from the theory that style was a garment which could be selected and put on at will. The pottery and porcelain of what has been well termed the Museum age has for the most part little merit in contemporary eyes, and it is likely that the future will regard it as the product of an intellectual aberration rather than of an artistic movement. Towards the end of the century, however, particularly with the growing awareness of Oriental ceramics of a simpler type than had hitherto caught the notice of the West, the attention of some English potters became focussed on shapes and glazes and the other peculiarly ceramic qualities of pots rather than on the superficial integuments of pattern, which might be thrown about them. This emphasis on the potter rather than the painter has produced the modern phenomenon of the studio-potter, whose work, although seldom supplying everyday needs at everyday prices, is frequently distinguished by nobility of form and beauty of glaze. Within the mass-producing pottery industry itself there has been a notable tendency toward a functional simplicity of shapes, evolved on the drawing-board rather than the potter's wheel, and a frank acceptance of the implication of mass production. The wares so produced have an honest appeal reminiscent of Wedgwood's cream-coloured pottery, conceived as it was in much the same spirit.

STILL "WATCHING AT THE DOOR"

The Byng Incident

(WINDSOR STAR)

DEATH of Viscountess Byng of Vimy in England recalls a political campaign of more than two decades ago. In 1926 Viscount Byng, then Governor-General, had refused to accept the recommendation of Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King that parliament be dissolved and an election called. Rather he called upon Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, to form a government. It was the "shadow government" that lasted but a few weeks.

In the 1926 campaign Mr. King made Viscount Byng a pawn in the game of politics, and fought the campaign on the constitutional issue that a Governor-General must accept the advice of the prime minister, which Mr. King was when he made the recommendation. It was somewhat of a phoney issue, to cover up the Customs scandal, but it was a winning one.

There always was a difference of interpretation, by Mr. King and Lord Byng, as to the exact words used in a conversation they had when Mr. King made the recommendation. But Lord Byng's lips were sealed during the campaign, by his position. Lady Byng, in a book she published a couple of years ago, gave quite a different version of the incident than Mr. King had done.

Lady Byng had a great love for Canada. Apart from her period in Ottawa at Government House from 1921 to 1926, she spent most of the war years in our capital. She never forgave Mr. King for the issue in which he had involved her husband, but for this country and Canadians generally, she had a great affection.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

So when they had dined, Jesus saith to Simon Peter, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me more than these? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, Feed my lambs.

He saith to him again the second time, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, Feed my sheep.

He saith unto him the third time, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me? Peter was grieved because he said unto him the third time, Lovest thou me? And he said unto him, Lord, thou knowest all things; thou knowest that I love thee. Jesus saith unto him, Feed my sheep. (John 21: 15-17.)

* * *

And there were dwelling at Jerusalem Jews, devout men, out of every nation under heaven....Then Peter said unto them, Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost....Then they that glady received his word were baptized: and the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls....

And they, continuing daily with one accord in the temple, and breaking bread from house to house, did eat their meat with gladness and singleness of heart, praising God, and having favour with all the people. And the Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved. (Acts 2: 5, 38, 41, 46, 47.)

And by the hands of the apostles were many signs and wonders wrought among the people....There came also a multitude out of the cities round about unto Jerusalem, bringing sick folks, and them which were vexed with unclean spirits: and they were healed every one. (Acts 5: 12, 16.)

Letter To The Editor

OLD PARTY VINDICTIVENESS

Sir: Personally, I can see Mr. Holman's point of view in some of his regard for the Liberal party, but think that he expressed the reason for Conservative defeat when he says that Conservatism will sweep Liberalism into the garbage cans and gutters of the Dominion.

Here in Ontario we have had an example of just such kind of Conservative sweeping in the Charities Act. They even give their broom straws of retroactiveness to reach the proper corners.

No party broom belongs in the hands of vindictive sweepers. The people of Canada have shown that if they are going to be swept, they prefer any broom, but the broom of vindictiveness.

If both the old parties took a good look at the dirtiness of their brooms, they would see why, in these days of advancement, some of us prefer the broom of the C.C.F.

Yours truly,
RALPH G. KILBON.

A BRITISH OPINION

"Oi don't see as how we can go much slower on our line unless we walk backuds."

Centenary Of Sir Wm. Osler Canada's Renowned Doctor

By JOHN F. C. ANDERSON, MD (President, Canadian Medical Association)

Sir William Osler, the world's best known teacher of medicine, president of the Canadian Medical Association 64 years ago, was born 100 years ago July 12. He attained top academic distinction and a baronetcy but remained a Canadian of simplicity.

The birth of the eighth child to Canon and Mrs. Featherstone Osler at Tecumseh, Ont., had repercussions felt over the continent and across the sea. He lived for a time in Toronto and in Montreal, served his apprenticeship in medicine and graduated from McGill University. In 1882 he was made a Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians—a singular honor for so young a Canadian.

Osler left this country for the United States to win world acclaim when he was 35. But he always strove to raise the level of medical teaching in his native land. To his work we credit much of the high standard of medical training prevailing in Canada today.

For a time the only thing a lot of people knew about Osler was the misquotation that he believed men should be chloroformed when they reached the age of 50. Records show Osler was a "bit of a card" in spite of his erudition. He was a player of practical jokes but also a man who esteemed and loved the aged.

What was Osler like? His personal magnetism has been stressed as contributing to his worldly success. The answer seems to be that Osler was a mixture of a number of things, including the old-fashioned virtues.

Native ability he possessed. (The Osler family were distinguished in other professional fields). His intellect was brilliant. He was a man of industry and had a zeal for service. He loved books. He lacked prejudice. Transcending all, he respected his fellow men. He loved children. Every Canadian child should know his story—read the exquisite bits of prose he was forever mailing to hundreds of young friends.

As a child, Osler roamed the Ontario countryside developing intense curiosity into natural phenomena. Later, he was revolutionary in methods of teaching and practising medicine, and confident, believing one must always be a student. He treated man as well as disease. He accepted the fact that the poor are with us and was concerned they must be considered above others.

On the surface, Osler was merry. Only his writings reveal a joke. A laugh, a whistled tune were often a desperate attempt to cover tears. When his only son was killed in battle this habit of life was his staff upon which to lean.

Osler's interests led him into all fields of medicine but his fame rests on two major contributions. He was the leader in bringing the microscope and laboratory to the bedside, in using all available aids in diagnosing illness of an individual patient. He was also a forerunner of present-day psychiatrists in that he pioneered, in treatment, by delving into the patient's personal problems. Sharply, he cut down on prescribing medicine in a day when the cry was for more drugs.

Osler aroused his own profession to the need for higher standards in public health. He crusaded to awaken public opinion from existing indifference and ignorance which he felt were largely responsible for the tragic death rate from tuberculosis and typhoid fever.

Osler pointed out that he performed 1,000 autopsies in Montreal; of these 216 had died from tuberculosis. He noted that one-quarter of the autopsies showed the patient had had tuberculosis and recovered spontaneously—this at a time when it was a prevalent idea, even among the medical profession, that pulmonary consumption was a hopeless malady.

And so, this July 12, Canadians honor the man described by the London Lancet as "the Nestor of British medicine." His ashes rest in his own library of medical richness at McGill University. They are in an alcove behind the bronze medallion bearing his portrait. In whimsy, he wanted it that way: his astral self peeking at books he loved and at those finding delight in them. From such things Canadian medicine grew for greater benefit.

His spirit must rejoice at least in one thing which has happened in this year of his centenary. The Canadian medical profession at their recent annual meeting at Saskatoon, reached a decision of great importance. They agreed amongst themselves on a plan to help in making the burden of medical costs less heavy for Canadians. They went on record as believing this can be done in two ways.

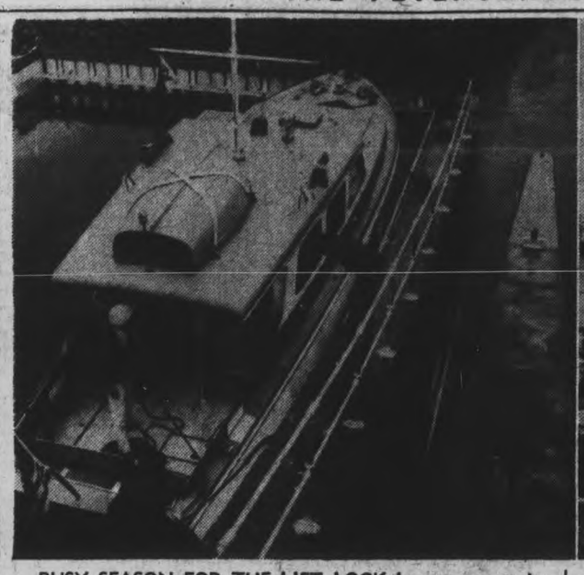
First, prepaid medical care plans should be developed as much as possible. Those who cannot afford to pay anything towards these plans should be paid for by the government.

Secondly, it is proposed that hospital bills should be paid by the government. These bills are very heavy, as Canadians know, often much heavier than the doctor's bill. In British Columbia cost of hospital care now is being borne by the provincial government.

Canadian medicine continues to draw strength from ideals of Canadian Osler, great physician of North America.

Perennial Journeys

My granddad, viewing earth's worn cogs,
Said things were going to the dogs;
His granddad in his house of logs
Said things were going to the dogs;
His granddad in the Flemish bogs
Said things were going to the dogs;
His granddad in his old skin togs,
Said things were going to the dogs;
There's one thing that I have to state—
The dogs have had a good long wait.



BUSY SEASON FOR THE LIFT LOCK has come again. Never very busy these years, even at its busiest, many tourists and local residents have never seen the Lift Lock in operation. The photos above show it ready to hoist and drop, and busy last Wednesday afternoon. Three vessels are being dealt with in one operation, Lockmaster Bruce Clark at the controls. Shown LEFT is the 39-foot cabin-cruiser Sarabelle of Cleveland in the upper and east pontoon, heading south and down the river. It is being lowered, and when this was taking place, the two launches shown RIGHT were in the lower, western pontoon, rising up to the level at which both pictures were taken. The left photo was clicked at the beginning of the lift, the right at the end, when the Sarabelle was already below. The Windsong, from Herkimer, N.Y., is leading its cousin from Dolgeville, N.Y., north through the upper Kawarthas towards Georgian Bay. The first of the two launches is owned by W. J. Hubbard, the second by William Menge. Each carried four passengers.

The Hefty Lift Lock Lift Is Still A World Wonder

When the Trent Valley Canal system was being developed, the Otonabee River at Peterborough was found to have too many rapids, so a four-mile artificial channel was dug east of the river. The change in elevation had still to be overcome by locks. So the Peterborough Lift Lock was built, the highest hydraulic lock in the world. It was opened in 1904.

As an official handbook explains: "Two large chambers, 140 feet long and 33 feet wide, are balanced on two huge plungers working in deep presswells in such a manner that when one chamber is up and opening into the upper reach of the canal the other is down and opening into the lower. The two chambers are so arranged that the depth of water in the descending chamber is greater than that in the ascending chamber. It is this greater depth and, consequently, greater weight of water in the descending chamber which causes the lock to operate. After the gates at the ends of the chambers and at the ends of the adjoining reaches have been closed, the simple opening of a valve between the two presswells allows the water to flow freely between them, permitting the lighter-laden ascending chamber to be lifted on its plunger by the heavier descending chamber. In this way the lift of sixty-five feet may be accomplished by a vessel in about seven minutes."

Epitaph

A Zealous Lock-Smith dyed of late
And did arrive at heaven gate
He stood without and would not knocke,
Because he meant to picke the locke.

—William Camden (1551-1623)

Visitors to the Lift Lock may read the factual data on a board on the wall of the road-bed tunnel underneath. The Lift Lock is an automatic machine, and the descent of one pontoon causes the rise of the other. The lift is 65 feet. The chambers are 139 feet long and 33 1-3 feet wide, having a navigable depth of six feet. The diameter of the rams is 7½ feet. In the massive structure are 26,000 cubic yards of concrete. However, all is not concrete; there are 1,400 tons of metal work as well.

The weight lifted totals 1,500 tons, of which 1,000 tons are water and 500 tons are metal. The water pressure controlled by the central valve between the two large pistons on which the pontoons rest is 680 pounds a square inch. The height of the towers from the rock is 100 feet.

The Lift Lock is locally considered one of the seven wonders of the world; but it would be a safe bet to say that there are some Peterborough residents who have never bothered to go to see the Lift Lock, to which visitors from afar make an immediate pilgrimage.

Norwood Inspector's Report Tells Of Schools In 1856

(Mrs. Helen Marryat of Hastings has forwarded a letter written by "Anglo-Israel" Poole when he was superintendent of Norwood schools. This letter was published in the first edition of the Colborne Transcript of Saturday, January 19, 1856. It is of considerable interest as a record of what pupils read and how teachers taught nearly a century ago. Anglo-Israel Poole, so called because of his belief in British Israelite theories, was a brother of Dr. Poole, the author of the first and only original history of Peterborough. He was one time pastor of the Methodist church, now George Street United. Following is a transcript of the letter.)

"The examination of the Norwood Grammar and Common Schools was held on Wednesday, the 19th inst. Your space and my time will not suffer any minute details. Suffice it to say that in the many and varied subjects in which the classes were examined, they acquitted themselves most creditably, and reflected the highest honor upon the excellent teachers under whose care they have had the good fortune to be placed. The existence of such a school is a boon of inestimable value to those residing in a remote section of the country, placing them, in an educational point of view, upon an equality with the more favoured residents of the frontier townships.

"The new school-house, built of brick, and resembling in size and appearance the Town Hall of Peterborough, is rapidly approaching completion; and from the increased accommodation thus provided, and a continuation of the valuable services of Mr. and Mrs Daunt, we have reason to expect a still more auspicious future."

"Here my remarks might close, and should do so, were it not that the mind is led, involuntarily, to contrast the present efficient system of teaching with that which prevailed only a few years ago in our country schools. Many of your readers can call to mind the time when Walker's dictionary was placed in their hands, and they commenced the hopeless task of committing it to memory.

"Visions of the well-thumbed Mayor and the perpetual English Reader, sandwiched with certain rude hieroglyphics, bedimmed with the falling tear and overshadowed by the awful birch, still haunt the mind of those who have survived those melancholy hours. What wonder that school was voted a gloomy place and learning a drudgery. But the scene has changed, and with far less labor and much greater efficiency, we have learned—

" 'To pour the fresh instruction o'er the mind.' "

"We rejoice to know that other 'branches' besides those of the willow, are now appreciated in our schools, and trust that the portrait of

'The whining school-boy with his satchel,
And shining morning face, creeping like the snail
Unwillingly to school.'

will be found to be only a portrait of the past, and that its original will be very seldom seen in the future."

(Signed) T. W. Poole,
Local Superintendent.

Happiness is beneficial for the body but it is grief that develops the powers of the mind.

WITH NICK NICKELS

Here is an appeal to the Minister of Travel and Publicity, the Hon. Louis P. Cecile, K.C.: Tourist bureaus of small municipalities need a guiding hand in operating their booths more intelligently for the general betterment of Ontario's tourist industry. Many small associations were unable, financially, to send a delegate to the first ONTARIO TOURISTS CONFERENCE, early last March. Might I suggest, on their behalf, that one or two representatives representing each bureau be taken by bus to Queen's Park for an educational tour and later to, say, Gananoque to observe your staff in action. Such a trip would draw on Peterborough, Lakefield, Havelock, Marmora, Cobourg, Port Hope, Belleville, Smith Falls and Perth and from it a delegate could be chosen to attend his region at the second tourist conference in 1950.

Game Association Meeting

The Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association held their last meeting of the season a week ago Monday and regardless of the heat and excitement of Election Night, had a bang-up meeting. ARNOLD BUTCHER of 526 Stewart St., came home the richer for having attended, with a brand new outboard motor, the Association membership draw prize. Past club projects were reviewed and new ones given tentative thought, such as, the part they hoped to play in polution control in the Kawarthas. They regretted, too, that in view of the fact this year's deer hunting season (Nov. 14-23) is of only ten days' duration, one day is Sunday. A day taken from a short shooting season may make the difference between bringing home the venison, or not. NORMAN BRADLEY brought members up to date on their reforestation program. President CAM ROWATT closed the meeting with a message to all that in drafting resolutions for conservation that legislations be in consideration of the majority of sportsmen, not the few. May I offer a summer conservation program?

• • • •

If you have any funds in the kitty, boys, how about mass week-end snapping turtle hunts, a token payment for each LIVE specimen brought into a specified pooling place and a substantial one for large snappers. You could work on the Lake Katchewanooka marshes all summer, believe me, and make quite a collection, and a monstrous conservation effort in your own district, at the same time.

• • • •

After putting up with a lot of inconveniences at our home in LAKEFIELD for three seasons of the year to enjoy summer outdoor living in full, I overlooked one thing, our closeness to the Otonabee River. Our children and their numerous friends have turned the home into a public bath house. Children are either dressing or undressing at any time between dawn and dusk, leaving damp piles of bathing suits and towels in every room and trails of wet footprints on the rugs. Living would be just as private if we pitched a tent in the rotunda of a hotel with at least the advantage of dry floors. Even to escape outside to work at several necessary jobs, there are pleas from at least one moppet per hour to come down to the dock for a demonstration of latest efforts in dog paddling and belly floppers. There's nothing but chaos at WITS' END.

The Order of the Kawartha Muskie

C of C's manager, JIM FRASER, is launching a jolly good scheme to promote fishing in the Kawarthas for tourists from outside the immediate area. It works like this. Those who catch a muskie 15 pounds or over and report it to the Chamber of Commerce, will be able to take home not only the big specimen but an engraved certificate "The Order of Kawartha Muskie." There will also be a felt crest to go with it with the current year's date on it. He is thinking, too, of extending the idea for tourists who come up with the largest bass and pickerel. Since the project is sponsored by the Resort Operators section of the C of C, this three-way Order will take in all districts. An excellent promotional scheme, Jim.

• • • •

Tourist fishermen are coming in on a wing, and a prayer, when they attempt to land their land planes on our so-called airports. ROBERT YOUNG, pilot, and HOWARD GRAY, both of Lodi, O., flew up from their hometown in mid-Ohio to do a spot of fishing at Rice Lake last week-end. The field at Campbellford looked unsafe and Skyboro doubtful, but they landed at the latter, nevertheless. They spent a couple of days at HAROLD WILSON'S Highland View Lodge near Keene and caught both pickerel and green bass. They were quite satisfied with the fishing and were acting as vanguard for members of the LODI FLYING CLUB who hop to make mass flights to the Kawarthas this summer, landing fields permitting. City and County funds would be well spent to improve Skyboro and cater to this type of air tourist.

• • • •

Seaplane owners, on the other hand, find natural landings almost anywhere. EARL LAFEAN and friend flew up from Pittsburgh on the week-end, landed on Upper Chemong Lake and stayed at Elliott's Lodge. They somewhat startled local people by an innovation of trolling from the aircraft by outboard engine attached to a pontoon. Their fishing luck was fair and they are now air tourist boosters for the area and promise to recommend it to others of their kind.

Fishermen Vs. Fish, First Week

Edward Brown, Alliance, O., a 49-pound sturgeon at Percy Boom, east of Campbellford. . . Frank Samis, Bowmanville, a seven-pound whitefish and Bob Freeman, Young's Point, a 20-pound 'lunge, both from Lake Katchewanooka. . . . W. Blodgett, Ed. Simmons, Dick Hazlitt, all of Nassau, three muskies from 12 lbs. to "just a keeper", on Indian River, north of Warsaw. . . . Johnnie Russelle and his boys, an eight-pound 'lunge and 14 bass on the Otonabee River below the Filtration Dam. . . . Gordon Ray and sons, Bridgenorth, 15 bass from the Chemong Causeway. . . . Mrs. Robert Johnston, Toronto, a three-pound black bass from Paudash Lake. . . . Mrs. Ross Bedore, Agincourt, a 17½-inch brown trout from a stream in the Norwood area.

✧ ✧ ✧

Another case of the keen regard American tourists hold for the Kawarthas: DON HENDREN of Lakefield was talking to a man in the village street the other night who had driven 800 miles in 24 hours en route to Buckhorn for ONE day's fishing. We hope this man got his full limit of pickerel and will come back again, to stay longer and bring his friends.

Mimico Noses Out Petes In Close Senior Contest

Mimico Mountaineers finished a bit stronger than the Petes at Miller Bowl last night to grab a 13-12 OLA senior "A" victory before more than 2,000 fans. The third-place Mounties trailed all the way till out in the fourth but had the punch to pull out the verdice. The Petes led 4-0 the first first quarter, 5-4 at the half and 11-9 to end the third heat. They were outscored 4-1 in the final chukker.

It was a clean, close and speedy fray most of the distance, though Chuck Simpson and Jim McNulty drew majors in the third period for fighting. But six penalties were handed out, with the Petes guilty three times. Both sides were shy a few regulars, the Vitarelli brothers of the Creighton crew being side-lined for suspensions. But the teams battled hard and gave both goalies lots to do. The Mounties drove hard in both the second and fourth frames just when it looked like the locals had a pretty safe lead.

Led the Way

Bob Thorpe was the scoring star for the Petes with four goals and three assists. Jack Foote was close behind with two markers and four assists. Em Creighton and Mick Magee were each in on three, as Leo Teatero and Jim McNulty counted a goal apiece, Jack Howse had two assists and Whitey Frick aided on a pair. Don McPhail led the Mounties with some fine shifty running to tally three and aid on two more, with Ken Dixon scoring three and helping on one. McKay had two goals and an assist, Beatty two counters, with Archie Dixon, McDonald and Simpson scoring one each. Hayes aided on two, as did A. Dixon, and Pritchard on one.

The teams:
Mimico. Goal, Mortimer; defence, A. Dixon and McDonald; centre, Banks; wings, K. Dixon and McPhail; rover, Gair; alternates, Beatty, Pritchard, McKay, Simpson and Hayes.

Outboards Get Close One Over Woollens

Outboard Marines copped a 5-2 win over Woollens at the Bowl last night in a neat Girls' Sortball League struggle. It was a fast game before a fair crowd, and Marines were lucky to gain the verdict as Woollens' errors and some dumb plays hurt. Their twirler, M. Laing, threw seven-hit ball and fanned nine in a fine slab showing but she didn't get the backing. Marines, on the other hand, cashed in on chances and went well behind E. Whittaker and M. Downer, who took over in the sixth. They had six and three whiffs respectively.

E. Smith and A. LaPointe looked good for the Outboards, while S. Johnston and S. Harris, along with M. Laing, were the pick of the losers. A. LaPointe led them at bat with two hits, and H. Anderson banged out a homer. S. Wakeford topped her side at the plate with three singles in four appearances, S. Harris hitting a three-bagger.

The teams:
Woollens—J. McIlwain ss, J. Walling 3b, C. Ferguson lf, M. Laing p, E. Humphries cf, S. Harris 1b, S. Wakeford c, L. Pearson 2b, S. Johnston rf.

Anne Sharp, from lookout Point Golf Club at Fonthill, Ont., Friday, won the International Women's Golf Tournament at Kingston Cataraqui Golf and Country Club. Her gross score of 82, four over par for the course, was matched by her playing partner, Mrs. J. B. Seawright, of Scarborough, but Miss Sharpe won top prize on the basis of her one-point edge in the last nine holes. Her handicap was four.

Jockey Johnny Longden returned to Los Angeles from a fishing jaunt to Ensenada, Max., Friday, in time to deny in court he had any part in alleged race-fixing deal February 15, 1947. Longden was called as a prosecution witness against Lloyd Arthur Hargis. Mrs. Mary Lewis, 72, claims Hargis induced her to give him $2,500 so he could "fix" a race at Santa Anita.

Bangaway, co-favourite for the Hambletonian trotting classic next month verified his high esteem Friday by racing to victory in the $10,000 historic Dickerson Cup in two straight heats a Goshen, N.Y. The three-year-old flyer from the stable of Saunders Mills Toledo, Ohio, won the first heat of the Grand Circuit event without difficulty but was forced to step off a snappy 2.05 1-5 mile to defeat Buy Ambassador in the clincher.

Charlie (Chuck) Boswell, former Alabama football star who lost his eyesight in the Battle of the Bulge, fired a 52-56--108 over a tough Plymouth country club course at Norristown, Pa., Friday to take the lead in the 36-hole United States blind golf championship. Boswell held an eight-stroke lead over a field of 18 contestants at the halfway mark.

George Eluck, of Windsor, and Don Varey, of Brantford, are tied with 531 points each in their battle for a place on the Ontario Willingdon Cup team. The announcement was made by Harold Banks, secretary-manager of the O.G.A., following the close of the second day's play in the Ontario Amateur Championship at Kitchener Westmount. Gerry Kesselring, of Kitchener, and Phil Farley, of Toronto, are first and second in points with 512 and 528 respectively. The winner of the Ontario Amateur automatically becomes a member of the team.

Outcome of English county cricket matches concluded Friday night made little difference to the county championship standing. The first four counties, Middlesex, Yorkshire, Worcestershire and Glamorgan, remain unchanged, but at the bottom Hampshire moved ahead of Leicestershire, now at the bottom of the standing.

Robinson, the first negro to break into the major leagues, has been invited by the House of Representatives Committee on Un-American Activities to appear before it next week.

The King Will Rule

Word out of Montreal is that King Clancy will have supervisory and instructional functions added to his NHL chief referee's role. He won't referee so many games but will head the staff, pick new refs and linesmen and in general be a trouble shooter for the league. Last year's referees were Clancy, Bill Chadwick, George Gravel, Butch Keeling, Ray Getcliffe and Jim Primeau. Linesmen were Herb Gallagher, Sam Babcock, Bill Scherr, Syb and Ernie Munday, Ed Mepham, Doug Young, George Hayes and Mush March. It is thought that Bill (Squeak) Morrison of Oshawa may get a bid to work as an NHL linesman next winter.

Spoke Out Of Turn

One often hears of a hot ball player but probably none was as heated as the lad mentioned in this UP dispatch from Oakland, Calif.: "Thirteen-year-old Norman Lawrence is a very hot right fielder. When Elmhurst Junior High hit a home run ball out Norman's way with the bases loaded he started to run. As he ran, the friction lighted matches and firecrackers in his right hip pocket. As he frantically fanned his own personal right field, the Elmhurst players collapsed on their bases with laughter, scoring not one run. The game was called on a technicality." A good job he wasn't toting skyrockets around, huh?

Girls' softball executive will meet shortly to deal with a forfeit game last night when Lock Co. lost to Lindsay 9-0. One of the lasses got a bit abusive, we hear, and was ejected and the team didn't have a replacement, so had to forfeit in the ninth. It was 23-8 for Lindsay at the time, anyway, so didn't make much difference. But we'd like to see the Lock lasses get back in the battle, as they've got some good players, and the team might go places yet ere season's end. Marines were fairly fortunate to yank out a 5-2 win o'er the hustling Woollens in a neat number, Woollens' miscues spoiling it for their good pitcher. Games Monday: CGE vs. Lock Co., and Lindsay vs. Woollens.

Petes' lacrossers just can't stand prosperity. Had a whopping big crowd on hand at Miller Bowl last e'en, and a lead for more than three quarters of the game, yet kicked away the margin to be edged 13-12 by Mimico. When they come that close we can't figure it, though the loss of Lou and Dootch Vitarelli—suspended for fighting—might have made the difference. Couldn't blame Goalie Ralph Speck, as he looked real good. Nor Bob Thorpe and Jack Foote, who led the scorers. Em Creighton went okay, too, he and Mick Magee being in on three each. A pretty clean tilt, and that often happens when you expect a rough go. It turns up a pink tea party. Some simple tussle maybe brings on mayhem.

Peterboro Pair Captures Lincoln Trophy

Playing under ideal weather conditions the ladies of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club, held their annual open doubles tournament for the Lincoln Trophy Friday morning and Friday afternoon, and when all the score cards were returned, Mrs. Welbaume and Mrs. Wilson of the local club, were declared the winners with three wins and the greatest number of points. The next three game winners were Mrs. Burns and Mrs. Staunton, also from the local club, while last year's winners from Port Hope, Mrs. McLaughlin and Mrs. McTaggart, came third with three wins.

The 26 pairs commenced play around 10:30 a.m. played one game and then had lunch. Played two games during the afternoon and were all through around 6.30 p.m.

The games were well contested and the bowling was real good.

During the rest period between the second and third games tea was served by the local ladies.

Although the entry was not as large as last year, and maybe the committee was a little disappointed, it was a good tournament and after the prizes had been distributed they all left for home sun-burned and tired.

The tournament committee which worked hard to make the tournament a success was Mrs. L. Bearne, Mrs. D. Anedrson, Mrs J. Coursey, Mrs. N. Killingbeck, and Mrs. H. Wilson.

Don't forget the Family Hour tournament this evening at 7:30 o'clock Remember the good time and the big crowd last Saturday night?

TORONTO, July 9 (CP)—Rich Ferguson, 17, from the North Toronto Track Club almost stole the show as nine records were broken at the Canadian Junior track and field championships at Varsity Stadium here Friday. Without apparent effort, Ferguson ran the three-mile race in the fastest time ever clocked by a Canadian. His time was 14 minutes, 58 seconds —14 seconds less than the Canadian native senior men's record set by C. Frankton, of McGill University, in 1937.

Lock Co. Loses By Forfeit To Lindsay, 9-0

Lindsay defeated Lock Co. 9-0 at the Bowl last night when the latter were short a player and had to forfeit in the first of the ninth when a player was ejected for abusive language. The score at the time was 23-8 for Lindsay in a slow scrap, with the visitors earning the decision though not by such a score. M. Owen pitched fair ball and her side hit the throwing of D. Westlake and J. Black hard all the way. The executive will meet to deal with this game.

P. Graham led the winners at bat with a homer, double and four singles in seven times up. as M. Vanstone, H. Deyell, D. Wakelin and A. McDonald each had four safe blows. R. Roberts, C. Michard, D. Westlake and B. Ayotte each got two hits for the losers, one of the latter's being a four-bagger. R. Roberts, B. McMahon, D. Wakelin and M. Chase went best in the field. No lineups or summary are required in case of a forfeit.

Henry Cotton sloughed his way through a violent storm to win the British open golf title 12 years ago today at Carnoustie, Scotland. The tall Englishman, favored to win over one of the classiest field ever assembled, toured the rain-sodden course in 290 strokes, two better than Reg Whitcombe who finished second in the 72-hole event. The victory was Cotton's second in three years.

Leafs Trample Rochester In 8-3 Triumph

By the Associated Press.

Ed Sanicki appears certain to become the first Toronto player to lead the International League in home runs since Dale Alexander performed the feat for the 1928 Leafs.

Sanicki, who has never hit less than 20 homers a season since he broke into organized ball with Wilmington of the Interstate League in 1946, boomed his 23rd and 24th homers of the season on Friday night. He now is five in front of runner-up Russ Derry of Rochester.

The blows featured the Leafs' 8-3 conquest of the Rochester Red Wings and moved them to within a half-game of the third-place Jersey City Giants. The Giants bowed 3-2 to the Syracuse Chiefs.

Sanicki, who celebrated his 25th birthday Thursday, socked his first homer of the game in the fourth inning to tie the score at 2-2. He hit his second during a two-run-sixth-inning drive that gave the Leafs a 4-3 lead. The Leafs sewed it up with four more runs in the eighth.

Scatters 10 Hits

Veteran Ed Wright scattered 10 Rochester hits to post his 10th victory. Tom Polosky was tagged with his fifth setback.

Sam Meeks blasted a 360-foot homer in the ninth inning to break a 2-2 tie and give Syracuse the edge over Jersey City. The blow was Meek's ninth of the season and gave Jim Prendrgast his first victory and Andy Tomasic his scond loss against eight triumphs.

The league-leading Buffalo Bisons edged the runner-up Montreal Royals 5-4 in 11 innings to increase their lead to five games.

Baltimore Orioles took a doubleheader from the last-place Newark Bears 5-2 and 3-1.

Braves Edge Phillies 4-3 After Four Hour Battle

By Jack Hand
Associated Press Sports Writer

Good old night baseball. How the customers love it.

A full-scale programme of eight night games Friday brought out a buhper crop of 198,170 paid admissions.

Even at 1 o'clock in the morning, they love it in Philadelphia where some 11,238 watched the Boston Braves wrangle a 16-inning decision from the Phillies, 4-3, in a four-hour, 16-minute struggle.

It looked as though the Braves and Phils never would finish before the deadline but they finally managed to wind up matters on rookie catcher Del Crandall's fly ball, scoring Marv Rickert from third base. No inning can start after 12.50 a.m. local time.

Boston shortstop Alvin Dark was carried off the field after he was hit on the head by a ball thrown by Gran Hammer in the 13th inning. Doctors said his condition was not serious.

Seventh Victory

Largest and most enthusiastic night crowd was at Pittsburgh Pirates ring up their seventh where 36,366 saw Bill Meyer's straight victory 2-1 over Chicago. Meyer, manager of the year in 1948, finally has his Pirates moving toward the first division after weeks of groping in seventh and eighth place. With the pitching staff straightened out, they may make the grade. Vic Lombardi, the half-pint southpaw, earned his fourth straight important victory with a six-hitter that defeated Dutch Leonard.

While the Pirates continued their delayed climb, Brooklyn and St. Louis carried on their savage battle for the lead. Both contenders won leaving the Dodgers with a two-game edge.

Brooklyn just escaped with a 4-3 edge over the slugging New York Giants by using three pitchers to whip Clint Hartung for the first time. The Giants' "Phenom" never had lost to the Dodgers' until he bowed to reliefer Rex Barney before 34,468, largest Ebbets Field night crowd this year.

Pee Wee's Reese's triple and Duke Snider's long fly broke a 3-3 tie in the sixth inning.

Howie Pollet, enjoying his greatest year since 1946, posted his 11th triumph. He yielded 10 Cincinnati hits but allowed only one run in a 6-1 Cardinal triumph.

Joe Page's 12th inning single backed up a fine job of relief pitching for a 4-3 edge over Washington that boosted the New York Yankee's American league lead to six games. The Yankee stadium crowd numbered 35,845.

Fireman Joe now has won seven games, all on relief.

Back in friendly Fenway Park, Vern Stephens banged his 20th homer in the Boston Red Sox 7-1 romp over the Philadelphia A's.

Cleveland now only a half game back of the second place A's, staved off two St. Louis Brown's rallies to escape with a 6-5 decision. Larry Doby's two-run homer in the first inning off Cliff Fannin supplied the victory margin.

Young Walt Pierce turned in a five-hit game against his old Detroit mates for a 3-1 win.

FAVORED TO WIN MARTHON

Gerard Cote, of St. Hyacinthe, Que., who represented Canada at the last Olympic Games, is highly favoured to win today's British Empire Games marathon test at Hamilton over a rough, hilly route of 26 miles, 385 yards. Others scheduled to start include: A. Morton, Galt, Ont., and L. Lawrence, Niagara Falls, Ont.

AAU Officials Charge Games Run By Clique

EDMONTON, July 9 (CP)—Two top Alberta officials of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada Friday night charged that the Dominion's British Empire games trials are run by an eastern clique which isn't giving the west a fair deal.

The officials were Cameron W. (Red) McNicoll, president of the Alberta branch of the A.A.U.C., and A. R. Lawrence, member of the Dominion committee in his capacity as chairman of the track and field committee of the Alberta branch.

"The east runs the B.E. games trials and there's not a darned thing we westerners can do about it," McNichol, an Edmonton policeman, said.

Prime Minister Finds Name Kicked Around

By DOUGLAS HOW.

OTTAWA, July 9 (CP) — Canadians, Democrats to the core, still are revelling in their inherent right to murder the name of their Prime Minister. And no record Commons majority for his government, no coast-to-coast campaign tour is going to shake them.

For months in all 10 provinces they murdered it on the hustings. Now they're murdering it by mail.

In little places and big places, chairmen of political gatherings introduced him as "Saint Lowrent" or "San Lahraunt" or almost anything but "San Loraw." One man, quietly but bravely desperate, took final refuge in a lightning pronunciation that was safe in that it was utterly unintelligible.

On another tack, one called him "Sir Wilfrid St. Laurent" and still another capping a peroration about his fighting qualities, called him "Joe Louis St. Laurent."

The Prime Minister bore it all with stoic and political calm.

Letter Writers

Now the letter-writers are after him.

The kids write him and say "you might or might not remember meeting me when you visited Heifer Gulch and you said you didn't have time to sign all the autographs then but if I wrote you, care of Ottawa, you would send me your autograph, so I'm writing you."

He's had dozens of letters like that, nice, brief, respectful letters and he's answered them all.

And the kids' spelling isn't too bad.

LONDON, July 9—(Reuters)—Women living in Britain whose husbands desert them and go aboard will be able to apply for divorce if a private member's bill, passed Friday in the House of Commons, is approved by the House of Lords.

WASHINGTON, July 9—(AP) Congress Friday approved the Truman administration's gigantic housing bill—a country-wide project designed to help provide better homes for "millions of families." It awaits President Truman's signature.

AKRON BAPTIST TEMPLE: A babyland and parking for 1,500 cars

Ex-Rubber Worker Builds Two Million Dollar Temple

By NEA Service

AKRON, O—(NEA)—Dallas F. Billington migrated here in 1925 with a lot of other Dixie workers to take a job in one of Akron's rubber factories.

In 1928, after three years of looking over the city's activities, he described Akron as "the wickedest city this side of hell."

There are not accurate means of determining how much Billington has been able to do about changing Akron's moral standards. There is about $2,000,000 worth of evidence that Billington, now Dr. Billington, has been making considerable progress.

A good share of the evidence is embodied in a recently-erected million-dollar Akron Baptist Temple which Dr. Billington's press agent described as 'truly one of the great miracles of 20th Century Christianity." The Temple regularly is filled on Sunday with 5000 followers.

✧ ✧ ✧

A self-styled "Abe Lincoln boy" who preaches hellfire and brimstone, Dr. Billington combines Billy Sunday fervor with sharp business acumen. He belongs to neither the Northern nor Southern Baptist Associations, because, he says, he wants to spend his money as he sees fit.

A violent foe of the Community Chest operations, Dr. Billington unwittingly made himself the Akron chest's biggest contributor in 1948 when he asked "all the Temple's members and followers to give their money to the Temple instead of the Chest."

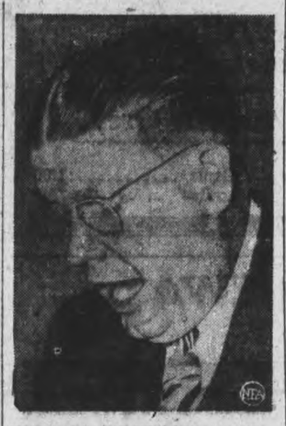
How much extra the Temple got is uncertain but the Chest contributions promptly skyrocketed, giving much satisfaction to Dr. Billington's numerous local detractors.

Before he came to Akron, Dr. Billington was a shoe factory worker and a taxicab driver in Paducah, Ky. He was ordained a Baptist minister in Muray, Ky., in 1934 and received his doctor's degree in 1946 at the Bible Baptist Seminary in Fort Worth, Tex.

✧ ✧ ✧

Dr. Billington's Temple is as modern as tomorrow, including even a glass-enclosed, sound-proof babyland. "After all," points out Dr. Billington, "if the baby can be carried downtown for shopping, it can be carried to church."

The Temple's main auditorium is 160 feet long, 92 feet wide and 84 fet high. The choir loft seats 250 and there is a Temple parking lot with space for 1500 cars. The Temple's public address system includes 96 speakers and 21 outlets for microphones.



DALLAS BILLINGTON: "The baby can be carried to church."

Serious Repercussions

JOHANNESBURG, July 9 — (AP)—South Africa's Congress of Dutch Churches backed tribal leaders Friday in opposition to a white queen for the Bawangmatos of Southern Rhodesia. The tribe's acceptance of Ruth Williams, former London typist, as wife of its premier chief may have "serious repercussions" in race relations throughout South Africa, the congress declared in a resolution delivered to the union government.

Psalms Exemplify Joy To Be Had In Praise And Worship

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

"I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go unto the house of the Lord."

So writes the Psalmist in Psalm 122. That note of joy in praise and worship is expressed in many Psalms, and is typical of them all. The Psalmists knew how to emphasize duty, fortitude in the face of danger and distress, sadness in the realization of enemies, and grim strength of faith under suffering and the certainty of death; but beneath all this, religion was a matter of joy.

This joy was in the certainty concerning God and the spiritual foundations of the world and life. It had its deepest expression in the 46th Psalm, in which the writer was sure of God as a refuge, a "very present help in trouble," even "though the earth were removed, and the mountains carried into the midst of the sea."

That note of joy in religion is, of course, uppermost in the Christain experience. Paul constantly proclaims it, and it was exemplified in that scene in the darkness of a Philippian jail (Acts 16), when at midnight, in the inner prison, with their feet fast in the stocks, he and his companions, Silas, prayed and sang praises unto God.

That joy, irrepressible even in danger and discomfort, was the full flowering of that Hebrew heritage of joy in religions which Paul, as a Jew thoroughly trained in the Scriptures, knew and loved so well.

The New Testament counterpart of the 46th Psalm—of enduring and incorruptible faith—is found in the closing verses of Romans 8, where Paul, having listed all possible human experiences, and then all possible powers and forces, says that none of these "shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord."

The devout Christian had the advantage of the example of the Master, Jesus Christ, and the faith in the Resurrection in its triumph over death and the cross, so that the depth of the note of joy in the Psalms, written many years earlier, is all the more remarkable.

Whence came this strong faith, and this triumphant joy?

Its deep foundation was in a sense of right and wrong, a faith in the integrity of the universe. "There are set thrones of judgment." "Shall not the judge of al the earth do right?"

This was enforced by a sense of God's call, and the destiny of individuals accepting the call, and of a chosen people, as well as of a saving remnant who had not failed in response to that call. Some of the finest Psalms came out of the experience of Babylonian exile.

The many who have never discovered the joy of going to church should read these Psalms of worship; but churches, too, have their needful part in making religion a matter of inspiration and joy.

Protest Barring UAW Delegates

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 9 — (AP)—The United Automobile Workers' Union (CIO) Friday protested to President Truman about the immigration service's refusal to let seven Canadian delegates to the UAW convention into the United States.

"It is preposterous," said a union executive board telegram, "to claim that any danger to the security of this country is involved in the entry of seven Canadian citizens for seven days."

The executive board also sent a protest to Attorney-General Tom Clark as it wound up a two-day meeting preceding the start of the convention here Sunday.

The telegrams attributed the immigration service's action to "hysteria."

Refused entry into the United States were Aulay Miller, Clifford Getty, Ted Oana and Adam Jacobsen of Windsor, and Steve Anco, Christopher Ellis and Reginald Screen of Toronto.

Report Bootleg Gold Getting Record Price

TIMMINS, July 9 (CP)—Bootleg gold, stolen from mines in the Porcupine area, was reported Friday to be commanding the highest prices in the history of high-grading.

Buttons of the crudely-refined ore were said to be bringing prices as high as $29 an ounce from illegal dealers against a one-time price of between $20 and $22 an ounce. The official fixed price of gold purchased by the United States Treasury is $35 an ounce.

Much of the bootleg product from here, it was said, is being sold in Europe and the middle east. The rise in prices is attributed to unsettled currencies in those areas.

Mining authorities estimate that at least $1,000,000 in gold is stolen each year from the mines. The high-graders, they say, now use aircraft to get the product out of the area.

Get $10,000 Raises

WASHINGTON, July 9—(AP) —The House of Representatives Friday approved $10,000-a-year pay raises for the cabinet and boosts for 236 other high United States government officials.

115,257 Persons Joined United Church In 4 Years

TORONTO — A new all-time high record in the number of persons received into United Church of Canada membership on profession of faith is reported by presbyteries and conferences of that church, according to Rev. Dr. J. R. Mutchmor, secretary of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service.

In four years 115,257 persons have been received into the church. No previous four years in the history of the United Church shows such a record, Dr. Mutchmor said.

He pointed out that these professions of faith have been won at a time when there is a shortage of ministers in the church.

Also, over half of the new members are adults.

By years the figures show: 1945 25,457; 1946 32,728; 1947 28,642; 1948 28,430.

Conferences on evangelism are now being planned by the United Church of Canada in order to encourage stronger allegiance to the church. At Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, September 8 and 9, an evangelistic conference will be held, with Rev. Dr. James Semple chairman, and Rev. Dr. R. C. Chalmers, secretary. Leaders will be Rev. Dr. William Warren Sweet, of Southern Methodist University; Rev. Dr. Arthur Wentworth Hewitt, Northfield, Vermont, and Rev. A. E. Kewley of Toronto. Dr. Hewitt is author of "God's Back Pastures."

A Protestant Witness Mission is to be conducted by Rev. C. M. Nicholson, DD, Principal of Pine Hill Divinity Hall, Halifax, NS, between November 20 and 27, at Windsor, Chatham, Sarnia, St. Thomas, Stratford, Woodstock, and London.

VOL. XCIX, No. 7 SATURDAY, JULY 9, 1949

120 Gals. Water Citizens Daily Average

By HAZEL PAULL.

Citizens of Peterborough are the cleanest people in Canada if their daily consumption of water is any indication of the number of baths they take. Whatever the reason, the fact remains that the city uses more water in relation to its population than any other city or town.

Every day each member of the community uses 120 gallons of water—water which has been pumped from the river Otonabee and purified. Every person may not be responsible individually for turning on the tap—a great deal is used in industry—but the daily consumption per capita throughout the city is 120 gallons.

Jim Harrison, the man responsible for seeing enough water is pumped out of the river every day to meet the city's needs, says the people in other places are usually content with around 80 or perhaps 90 gallons a day. He cannot account for Peterborough's liberal use of water. As superintendent of the filtration plant he is kept too busy maintaining a steady supply of purified water to fathom such conundrums.

Low water pressure this summer has not been caused so much by shortage of river water—although the river is at a low level—as by the expansion of the city since the war. Demands on the water supply have increased but there have been no increased facilities for getting the water to the houses.

Things should be much better in two or three weeks time when the new 24-inch pipe from the filtration plant at the extreme north of Peterborough to the southern section of the city is ready for use. A second water main will give a higher pressure and when this costly innovation is completed, there should be a stronger flow of water.

Mr. Harrison estimates that 3,800 feet of piping is being laid at a cost of around $13 a foot.

Allows For No Margin

The filtration plant is able to supply around six million gallons of water to the city every day.

Islinda, Manita and Youngs Four Generations Of Cap'ns

By NICK NICKELS

One of the nicest spots to spend a pleasant afternoon, that we know of, is Young's Point. Nestled between Clear and Katchewanooka Lakes in a lush bush of white pines and maples, the boiling white water from the base of the cement dam curves under a sturdy iron bridge. The canal locks which bypass the rapids is crossed on narrow swing structure and, after passing a straggling block of houses and stores, you are once again in the open country.

According to the Voters List, hanging in the Post Office, the hamlet of Young's Point is made up of about 75 people, swelled to more than twice that number in summer. The predominating name on the list is Young, 16 of them eligible for the franchise.

Master Watermen

If you are fortunate enough to know any of the Youngs personally, you may sit on the spacious verandah of their old homestead, in a comfortable rocking chair with Captain Pat for company. And he is a mighty kind host. Perhaps his brother Fred will wander "downtown" for the afternoon mail and sit in for a chat, or Captain Harold, who lives next door to Pat, might be at home for the day. Sister Irene, who keeps house for Pat, will join the group and in a few minutes the talk will get around to steamboating.

One and all, including Miss Irene, they are master watermen of the Kawarthas, a tradition with the Young family since great-grandfather Francis came out from Tipperary, Ireland, in 1825.

The old gentleman, a widower with nine children, did not fancy land settlement deep in Douro in company with other Irish settlers of the period. He liked the woods, lakes and running water and chose his tract of land between the two lakes. In three years' time he had a saw and grist mill operating and, with lumbering the greatest industry of the times passing his door, it was natural that log driving and towing was the work dearest to his heart.

Old Steamers

The love of the Kawarthas and steamboating was handed down through four generations until the march of the machine age called a halt, about four years ago. The decaying hulks of the steamers Islinda and Manita lie on their ways in the sawmill bay. They will float no more. They take on a certain grandeur in summer as wild grape vines grow along their upper structures. But there is a graveyard silence surrounding them, broken occasionally by the splash of a leaping bass in the reeds below the dry rusting rudders.

You can picture the site of the first settlement quite clearly from the shade of the Dutchman's Pipe vines on Pat's verandah, the site of the original mill and log dam in the middle foreground and the white pine woods on the east bank of the river that was once a cleared wheat field. The canal locks are not more than 20 feet from where you are sitting.

In the neat front yard filled with Miss Irene's showy beds of perennial sweet peas and shasta daisies, a cast iron figure of a Negro, two feet high, holds a small flag. Did it come from one of the numerous Young steamboats? It certainly did; the first one called the "Fairy."

Convincing proof of how deeply attached the Young family is to this beautiful watercourse is contained in the fact that the youngest of the three living brothers, Cap'n Harold, now skipper of the Department of Transport patrol boat "Bessie Butler," returned to plying the waters of river and canal after a spell of working in a savings bank in an Ontario city. He just couldn't get to like the life of the money-changer quite as well as the feel of the steering wheel in his hands and the churning engines beneath his feet.

Cairn Erected

Reminder to posterity of the major role played by the original Youngs of Young's Point in the colonization of the area greets the visitor in the form of a cairn erected between the canal and the dam in front of the old homestead. The cairn bears the following inscription:—

"To commemorate the founding of Young's Point by Francis Young and family who located here August, 1825, from Tipperary, Ireland. The Young family, William, John, Samuel, Frank, Robert, Patrick, Matthew, Nora, and Elizabeth." The cairn was erected some 15 or 20 years ago.

The advent of the highway transport truck is largely responsible for bringing this colorful saga of the riverboats to a close, that and the fact that the Second Great War lured away most of the potential crew men to factories in the big cities, where many of them still remain.

Cap'n Pat recalled wistfully the days when the boats were the only means of freighting in supplies to cottagers on some 1,100 islands in Stony Lake. In addition the boats used to carry passengers on pleasure excursions, as well as haul logs or ship lumber down the river to mill or warehouse.

Some of the Old Boats

The first of the line of riverboats to go into service was the Fairy, a steamboat which was built in Kingston and which came into possession of the Youngs in 1885. In its engine room was installed the old type of upright boiler and it was freighted up to Lakefield on a flat car. After being in operation for some years, the Fairy finally ran aground in a gale and was abandoned.

The Fairy was succeeded by the Mary Ellen, which was built in Young's Point; she was 78 feet long, 14 feet wide, and 83 feet overall. Some time later the Mary Ellen was rebuilt from the keel up and renamed the Majestic. The Mary Ellen was in service for nine years and the Majestic 20 years.

Next of the line was the Stoney Lake, which was built in Toronto in 1902. She had a steel frame and hull of wood and was shipped by train to Lakefield in parts and assembled at Young's Point, the pieces being transported from Lakefield on sleighs.

Around about this time the Majestic was stripped down to her keel, to be rebuilt and renamed the Islinda, one of the two boats now rotting away opposite the old sawmill. The Young brothers were assisted in the work of rebuilding by William Hickey, a ship's carpenter from Port Hope. Incidentally, Cap'n Pat told your reporter that ship's carpenters were hard to come by these days; "there are lots of ordinary carpenters, but not many good ship's carpenters today," said he.

The Islinda remained in service until 1945. Two other boats which plied the river in recent years were the Manita, which is now keeping the Islinda company on shore, and the Empress originally built by Captain Reynolds of Lakefield, and which burned at Mount Julian. The Islinda was burned down to the hull in 1917 after being in service only three years. She was rebuilt again shortly afterwards. The Manita was built by the Trent Navigation Company and was at one time owned by Mr. Robertson of the old Peterborough Times.

The Stoney Lake was sold to the Thousand Island Navigation Company a few years ago and has been re-named the Island Queen. She now operates out of Lachine, Quebec.

PROLIFIC—WHAT?

Within six days Maurice Ketcheson of Queen St. was father-in-law, great grandfather, and grandfather. Here is the rapidly changing family record: July 2—his youngest son Maxwell was married; July 6—his granddaughter, Mrs. Raymond Boomhour, the former Helen Watson, gave birth to a son; July 8—his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Melvin Ketcheson, gave birth to a daughter. Not too satisfied with the role of spectator in this fast-moving family drama, Mr. Ketcheson made this half-regretful comment: "A younger man could possibly have been father as well...and that would have been the climax."

2 Rover Scouts To Attend Moot In Norway

Next Thursday two Peterborough Rover Scouts will leave Peterborough to attend the World Rover Moot held this year at Skyjak, central Norway. It meets every four years but this is the first since 1939 when Rovers from all over the world went to Scotland.

The two local Rovers who will be away for about seven weeks are James Webb, 21, Charlotte St., and Jack White, 21, Sherbrooke St. W., both of the All Saints' Rover Crew.

About 50 countries will be represented with at least a couple of thousand delegates. Altogether 28 Canadian Rovers will attend—only two are from outside Ontario. The Peterborough youths will be the only delegates from Eastern Ontario.

Leaving Peterborough on Thursday the two boys will travel by train to Quebec and sail on the SS Samaria for England, two days later. The return voyage will be on the SS Aquitania which will dock at Halifax.

3 Days in London

On the trip to Norway they expect to stay over in London for about three days, and then stay in the Scandinavian country for two weeks. Afterwards Jim and Jack will return to England and join a trio from Port Credit, London and Brantford. The five Canadian youths will spend about another two weeks travelling through the British Isles.

Other parties have arranged for junkets through France, Switzerland and other European countries.

The Norwegian Rover Scouts are sponsoring the 1949 Moot and there are rumors that the next one, scheduled for 1954, will be held in Canada.

Promote Friendship

Purpose of the Moot is to promote international friendship and form an even closer bond among the various national scouting organizations. One of the major events will be a three-day hike through the nearby mountains; heavy clothing must be packed by the two local Rovers as the temperature is low in the high altitude of the mountain range.

One of the chief difficulties they encountered was the financing of the trip. By dint of much hard work the All Saints' Crew saved enough money ($500) to pay transportation costs and Moot fees of one Rover. The balance was made up by contributions from the local Association and various Service Clubs.

Their equipment is worth about $150, and they must provide their own spending money.

Heading the Canadian Rovers will be Commissioner Harold Taylor of Delhi, Ont., Chief Scout of Canada Maj. Gen. Spry will meet the boys in Norway.

Babies Not Fish Big Attraction To One Tourist

Babies not fish, were the most outstanding feature of Peterborough and district for one of the few American tourists found shopping downtown Friday afternoon who was visiting the district for the first time.

This was the startling observation of Mrs. Clyde Megown, of Beaver Falls, Pennsylvania. However, her husband and other members of the party have been making good catches of bass and some muskies in Pigeon Lake since last sunday. She said she had never seen so many babies or so many well-dressed babies in one place.

Every American seemed to have been in Peterborough before and intended to come back again for the fishing and because he had found Canada restful and the people kind and courteous without being obsequious.

Spending 10th Summer

Typical of many is C. J. Huot, of Pittsburg, Penna., who was spending his tenth summer holidays at Deer Bay. His children grew up during the years the family was coming to the Kawarthas for their summers. The scenery is providing the background for his latest hobby, taking moving pictures. He is in great demand as a photographer because two people he posed fishing caught fish while he was taking their pictures.

The fish have proved a little too fierce for some of the visitors. Mrs. James Ivan, of Salem, Ohio, panicked when she caught her first bass. She was fishing from a dock at Buckhorn and when she saw the fish break water, she dropped the $30 fishing tackle and ran. Both the tackle and the three-pound bass were recovered. Mrs. Ivan recovered enough to help eat her catch.

Mr. Ivan lost a muskie when it broke four of the prongs and bent the rest straight on his bait. He wasn't so sure he wanted that one in the boat with him.

Teen-aged Bill Cover, of Mount Gillan, Ohio, here for first time said he found Canada not as lively as his home, nor quite as wild as he expected. He was with a party of friends who had been coming to Hastings to fish the Trent river quite a few years.

A quarter-century man, A. H. Bowker, is spending his twenty-fifth year in this district at Lakefield. He's still as crazy about the country now as he was 25 years ago. One of his fondest memories concerns a fish he caught in the Otonabee three years ago—a 27-lb. muskie that

Increase Shown In June Births

Perhaps it was too hot in June to walk up the aisle. Whether or not that was the explanation, the fact is that six less marriages took place this year during the month of June than last. The figures were 54 in 1948 and 48 in 1949.

The death rate was also less this year. In June 1948, 43 people died, and 35 in 1949. The birth rate took a jump from 129 to 140, and increase of 11. So even with the marriage rate declining, the population of the city increased.

The above are the official figures released from the city clerk's office.

Suffering From Shock Following Crash

Mrs. Annie Ferguson, 154 London St., is suffering badly from shock after her car was involved in a collision Friday evening at the corner of George and McDonnel streets. Her head and hand were cut and she had other minor abrasions and spent Friday night at Civic Hospital where she is said to be fairly comfortable.

Blinded by the sun, David MacCullum, 505 Aylmer, told city police sergeant Leo Murphy and Constable Grant Gillespie that he did not see Mrs. Ferguson's car until it was too late to avoid the accident.

Mr. MacCullum was turning west from George to McDonnel St. as Mrs. Ferguson was proceeding along George St.

Pea Crop Pack Reduced 75 p.c.

A scarcity of canned peas and perhaps tomatoes was predicted Friday by a Canada Packers official.

Two factors are responsible for the prediction. In some places the yield has been only 25 per cent of the normal and the acreage planted in the spring was 32 per cent below last year. Many canners, including the Peterborough branch of Canada Packers, are not canning this year at all. The company said no men had been laid off as a result.

In 1948 the yield of peas was almost double normal. Tomatoes were also a bumper crop. Much of this crop carried over to 1949. Consequently canners did not contract with farmers to plant as much acreage as other years. Now with the poor yield, there will probably not be enough of the old pack to supply the demand until the 1950 crop can be put on the market.

Acreage Cut

It is still too early to predict the tomato yield. But the acreage planted in Canada was cut 42 per cent from last year. The Canned Foods Association advised canners to cut their acreage contracts so that the surplus would be absorbed.

Canada Packers is experimenting with growing corn which could be relied upon to ripen before frosts killed it in this district. Eight different varieties were planted from hybrid seed imported from the United States. Three varieties are showing promise and should ripen before the end of August. If the experiment is successful in finding a variety suitable for the Peterborough district, the company proposes to can corn here.

Thousands of accidents happen every day in and around the home. Many of them involve people in personal liability law suits. More and more such suits are being brought by an increasingly claim-conscious public. At best, law suits mean worry, loss of time and lawyers' fees, and they may mean serious financial loss if the defendant is found guilty.

FIRE GUTS CHURCH—Hamilton police are investigating the possibility that a firebug set the blaze that destroyed New Westminster Presbyterian Church Thursday. Damage was estimated at $150,000, only half of which was covered by insurance. Firemen are shown fighting the fire in the main body of the church, dangerously close to the flames shooting out of the small tower on which they stand.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Time Blurs Life Hardships Heals All Ancient Wounds

Dorothy Dix

We all think of Time as our enemy. Especially do women regard it as their most malevolent foe, for does not Time rob them of their beauty? Does it not steal the roses from their cheeks and dull the lustre of their hair and fade the color from their eyes and take from their forms their lissome grace? Would not most women rather be accused of a scandal than of growing old? Is it not against Time that we fight a ceaseless battle in which we are always vanquished in the end?

How foolish. For, in reality, Time is not our enemy but our friend. It is our greatest benefactor. It is an anodyne for our suffering. It is a philosopher's staff on which to lean. It is the magic that lifts the crushing burden from our shoulders and makes smooth the rough places in life.

Even to women Time is kinder than they think. It offers itself to them as an ally instead of an adversary if they will meet it in the right spirit, and if it takes from them the fleeting beauty of youth, it will give them in place of it a charm that will never fade. For no women are so fascinating as those whom age and experience have ripened and perfected and given sophistication and taught every art of pleasing. Compared to them, the prettiest flapper is as a hard and knotty little bud to the full-blown rose.

And age gives beauty to many women who never had it in their youth. Time is a sculptor that chisels the rough features of many a girl into symmetry. It hardens many a flabby girl's figure into flowing lines of grace. It gives poise and dignity to many an overgrown, hobbledehoy girl. Many an old woman's face is simply luminous with the goodness of her soul that shines through it like a light through an alabaster vase.

Time is the greatest solver of all our problems, if we only had intelligence enough to trust it and leave them to it. All of us have difficulties that we cannot settle, and that we lie awake at night and worry over wondering, if this or that contingency happened, what would be the best way to act. Should we take this course? Or would it be wiser to take that? We cannot tell because we do not know what lies behind the veil of the future.

How much anxiety, how much sleeplessness we might spare ourselves, if we would only lay our problems on the knees of Time; for when the hour comes, we find that Time has solved it all and our course is perfectly obvious. There is only one thing to do, and we do it.

Time is the strengthener. Sometimes our lines are cast in uncongenial places. Sometimes we are confronted with conditions that turn our very souls sick with loathing. Sometimes the tasks appointed us seem more onerous than we can perform. At first our hearts faint within us and our courage ebbs to the last drop and we feel that we must curse God and die.

Then Time begins somehow mysteriously to blur the harsh outlines of the background against which we must live, to strengthen our backs to bear the burdens that have been laid upon them, and to breathe into us new hope and spirit that enables us to carry on. It is Time that adjusts us to conditions, that forms new tastes and habits, so that we come not only to endure but to enjoy the life that was once intolerable to us.

Time brings with it the blessedness of forgetfulness, which is not the least of the benefactions it bestows upon us. It turns the memory of hardships we have endured into piquant reminiscences. It washes the scarlet from our sins. It makes our mistakes and blunders something to laugh over instead of cry over, and makes our fellow creatures condone our faults because our transgressions were committed so long ago.

And it is Time that is the great peacemaker. Time robs old feuds of their enmity and old hatreds of their bitterness and makes us forgive those who have wronged us; those who have cheated us and misused us, the Judases who have betrayed us; those we had stored up anger against and had thought to be revenged upon.

Time taught us how senseless it was to sour our own lives with a grudge, and so our enemies just gradually faded out of the picture.

Best of all, Time is the great consoler. When we lose those we love, we feel that the sun has set for us and that forever-more the earth will be shrouded in blackness. We find no cheer in anything, no interest in anything. Our horizon ends in a grave.

No WORDS, no sympathy, no philosophy can lighten our sorrow. Nothing can help us but Time. For it has been mercifully ordained that the wound must heal and the ache and the pain grow less poignant, so slowly and insidiously that we do not realize it, Time brings us fresh interests, other joys,; it thrusts our duties to other people upon us; it gives us work that absorbs us, and so by degrees it turns the grief that rended us into the sorrow that can be borne.

BLESSED be Time that heals us.

odated Sir William Penn in that house.

A great grandson, Isaac, inherited the property but after the War of Independence he freed his slaves, leased his property, and came to Canada along with other United Empire Loyalists. Isaac packed his possession in an ox-cart and with his 12-year-old son Samuel walking all the way beside the wagon, travelled to York County. He eventually settled near Sharon.

In 1866 Samuel's grandson, Andrew Pegg, decided to go to the unsettled country of the Red River, only a year after the execution of Louis Riel. Eight years later—two years after obtaining his own farm—he married Essie Hill from Churchill, a hamlet on Yonge St.

After experiencing six years of pioneer hardship they got a farm 14 miles from Winnipeg. The city proved a good market for dairy produce, chickens and eggs. Together they worked for a school and their efforts were finally rewarded.

By 1910 they had saved enough to buy the farm in Ontario, near Greenwood, where Mrs. Pegg is now writing this extensive family history.

First Toronto Chapel

Mrs. Pegg's great grandfather, James Lever, built the first Methodist chapel in Toronto at King and Indian Sts, later the site of George Brown's Globe. James and his wife had been converted to Methodism by John Wesley, the famous religious reformer.

Churchill is named for the Hill family. Mrs. Pegg's father donated the land for the first Methodist church there, and Mrs. Pegg played the organ for that church and the nearby Christian church as well.

Because of the active part they and their forebears have played in the history of the making of Canada Mrs. Pegg feels this record should be kept for posterity —and partitcularly for her own family.

Farm Woman, 76 Writing Story Pioneering Days

A 76-year-old resident of Greenwood, Ontario County, formerly a pioneering farm wife in the Red River Valley of Manitoba, is writing a novel on pioneer life in the West.

She is Mrs Andrew Pegg, mother of nine children. Not content, even at her age, to limit her activities to knitting and small talk, she has already written hundreds of pages on the activities of her late husband's forebears and also of her own family.

The tracing of her husband's family tree covers a sizeable portion of Canadian-United States history extending back to 1684 when Daniel Pegg was granted a Crown deed in Philadelphia. Daniel built the first brick house in what was later the state of Pennsylvania and at one time accom-

Broken Leg Costs Reagan $100,000 In '49

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, July 9 (AP).—Now I've done everything—including a bedside interview with Ronald Reagan.

The actor busted his gam above the knee when George Tobias bumped him at first base in a charity baseball game. That event bumped him out of a fast $100,000 which he was to earn in a picture now starting without him.

Reagan reported he will be in a traction cast for four weeks, a a plaster cast for a couple more, and then in a leg brace until about October. That means his yearly income will be half what it would have been.

And Now This

"It's a strange thing how that little accident put me out," he said. "The week before I was taking a four-foot jump on one of my horses. We took a fall and rolled over and over, like something in the newsreels of the Grand National Steeplechase. And I walked away with just a swollen ankle.

"So then this happens, just when I am enjoying life after a winter in England."

A Good Talker

Even when flat on his back, he is still a good talker. An alert press agent remarked that his "Girl From Jones Beach" will open soon. That started him off.

THEY'RE CANADIANS, TOO—Captured on a stormy Triangle Island, 30 miles northwest of Vancouver Island, these weird British Columbians will make their new home in Vancouver's Stanley Park Zoo. Provincial museum scientists, visiting the island to find new zoo specimens, came up with a Pacific murrel, left, and a tufted puffin.

"I'd like to be there opening day. Like to go to the theatre with the public and hear what they think....

"In theatres you hear the truth and it always gripes me to have the actor take the rap for something that isn't his fault..."

Lady-In-Waiting Carries Cash For Royal Family

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

LONDON, July 9 — (CP) — One of the first rules learned by a new lady-in-waiting at Buckingham Palace is "never go out without money in your pocket."

Why? Because Royalty never carries cash. If Princess Elizabeth, her mother or sister wish to make a purchase they turn to their lady-in-waiting for funds. If they go to a theatre or a movie they walk ahead while the lady-in-waiting buys tickets at the box office.

Handling of money by the Royal Family is simply "not done". Queen Victoria, maker of many rules for British Royalty, was adamant on that point.

The lady-in-waiting is not, however, expected to carry her own money. She draws an allowance from the palace treasury in anticipation of likely expenditures.

Two Newcomers

Two newcomers to this routine are Lady Alice Egerton and Lady Palmer, 35-year-old war widow, recently appointed ladies-in-waiting to Princess Elizabeth. Both have spent several weeks studying their responsibilities.

Each of Elizabeth's four ladies-in-waiting is required to do a month's duty at a stretch. She must either live in at the palace (the quarters are adequate), or be within phone call day and night, ready to be in attendance within at least an hour.

It's fairly strenuous work for well-to-do young women who are not working for a living, but doing a small-pay job chiefly for the honor of it.

Broadly, she acts as a feminine private secretary, though palace etiquette draws a sharp line between what the lady-in-waiting may do and what must be left to the office secretary.

The toughest part of the job is appearing in public day after day without showing any trace of boredom or fatigue—which would be fatal.

Feet Hurting? Prop Them Up

Prop your feet higher than your head at least once daily—good for circulation, especially on those muggy days when ankles are inclined to swell. Give them a soak in next-to-hot water to which has been added a dash of salt or soda, then plunge them into a cold water bath. Dry well (a good time to rub away some of those callouses) and rub down with cologne or witch hazel. Wonderful after a tough day shopping down town or tending to sight-seeing guests.

This season's very open shoes, if suited to your type of foot, will afford hot-weather comfort, particularly if you've picked up that summer pest, athlete's foot. The air - conditioning promoted by open-toe, naked-looking sandal styles, relieves perspiration problems which aggravate the condition. Always be sure to dry thoroughly between the toes after tubbing and apply a good talcum powder, preferably one with antiseptic qualities, such as is used for babies.

Social Situations

SITUATION: You are a house guest in a home without servants.

WRONG WAY: Make no attempt to help with the housework since you are a guest.

RIGHT WAY: Care for your own room, making your bed, etc., and lend your hostess a helping hand wherever you can.

International Congress

TORONTO, July 9—(CP)—An international Roman Catholic Lay Congress, first of its kind, is under way here with 300 delegates from Canada and the United States attending.

2 More Shows Closing Down

By PAT USSHER.

NEW YORK, July 9 (CP). — Two more Broadway stage shows black out this week-end.

Michael Todd's musical hit, "As the Girls Go," is closing temporarily due to the illness of its exuberant star, Bobby Clark. The 61-year-old comedian has been feeling unwell and is going into hospital for a medical check-up.

Producer Todd says he hopes to re-open the musical within six or eight weeks, depending on how soon Clark is permitted to resume his stage capers.

"Born Yesterday," the Garson Kanin comedy about a wealthy junk dealer and a dumb blonde, closes this Saturday night after a run of 1,442 performances —the eighth longest in Broadway stage history.

New York's relentless heat wave which has affected business in a number of box offices is believed to have decided producer Max Gordon to end the run of "Born Yesterday."

120 Gallons Water

Unless people use it for watering their lawns, that is sufficient for ordinary needs of the community, although it does not allow a margin. As soon as an extra drain is made, the water flows from the thousands of city taps at a greater speed than fresh water can be taken from the river.

That is what happened one Sunday last month, when so many hoses were being played on so many lawns that some parts of the city were entirely without water. On that day the filtration plant was worked harder than ever before. No less than ten million gallons of water was pumped and purified. The level of the water in the reservoir was far below the safety mark—the position was so acute that Mr. Harrison will not disclose exactly how low the water level sank.

The city's demand have reached and almost exceeded the capacity of the plant only 27 years after it was built. Were is not for the war an extension would have been built before now, Mr. Harrison says. Materials are now becoming more readily available and Mr. Harrison expected work to begin on enlarging the plant this fall.

Six Filter Beds

If an extension to the present infiltration plant commences in the fall, the supply of water to city residents can be doubled in three years, officials say. An additional six filter beds to be installed by extending the plant north along the highway is at present under consideration.

Such an undertaking would be a major construction job. The six filter beds used at present are made up of eight layers of sand, gravel and pebbles which act as a screen for separating foreign matter from the water before it is disinfected.

After being pumped from the river, the water flows along a pipe and into a large tank known as the sedimentation basin, where it stands for a while, to allow the sediment to drop to the bottom. It then flows into the filter beds and seeps through the top layer of sand, through several layers of gravel and pebbles, leaving the particles of dirt in the filter.

Chlorene Added

The last stage of cleansing the water before it goes into the cities watermains, is the addition of chlorine. Only a minimum amount is used to disinfect the water in Peterborough.

Peterborough is fortunate in having a river which provides comparatively clean water, free from dangerous bacteria. While many districts throughout the country use as many as three grains of chlorine to one gallon of water, only .23 grains are used to the gallon in Peterborough.

Alum, which is put into the river at the point where the water is pumped for purification, sinks 90 per cent of the bacteria contained in the river water. By the time it has gone through the filter plant only one per cent of the original bacteria content remains.

The sand, which acts as such a fine filter, is no ordinary sand such as might be taken from a sand pit in Ontario. It was brought 27 years ago from Quebec and is still effective.

In order to ensure that no contaminated water gets into the mains, Mr. Harrison tests samples four times a day. Rarely does he find any variation but two years ago a new inhabitant of the river known as Daphinia was discovered. This is bacteria of no danger and the only difference it made was that Mr. Harrison was able to add another species to his collection.

Landscaped Garden Pool Gives Yard Natural Effect

An interesting way to landscape the yard to obtain a woodland effect is to build an informal pool. It may be built to any size desired, depending on the space available, preferably simulating the natural and comforming with the topography of the land.

A pool in a natural setting offers a wide range of opportunity for landscape treatment. A sunken or usually an irregularly excavated portion of the yard serves for the pool. It is well to use concrete with an exposed surface of small pebbles and rocks, or other type of water-resistant masonry for the bottom and around the pool to the top level of the water.

Along the edge of the water rocks and natural formations can be used, or a gently sloping terrace covered with grass can extend to the water edge. There should be an inlet for supplying fresh water to the pool and an outlet drain for removing stagnant water or surplus water that accumulates following a rain. Clean sand, gravel, and rocks can be used to cover the bottom of the pool to give a naturalistic effect. water can be brought in flowing over rocks to give the appearance of a supply of spring water.

Make It Safe For Children

The pool itself and the soil immediately surrounding it offers splendid opportunities for growing various kinds of beautiful water lillies, ferns, grasses, and other plants that like damp feet. If the pool is sufficiently deep so that a child might drown in it, a heavy wire netting or small iron rods fastened in a criss-cross pattern can be placed just below the surface of the water. The visibility of the netting or rods will soon become obscured by the large leaves of water lilies and other plants. Further, they will not prevent gold fish or other forms of aquarian life from swimming to the surface of the water.

A natural rock garden can be built to one side of the pool and the space between the rocks used to grow numerous kinds of woods flowers, ferns, and rock plants so well adapted to an informal garden.

Frame Pool With Flowers

Surrounding and forming a frame for the pool may be planted various kinds of hardy, flowering shrubs and low-growing evergreens, irregular in spacing and placement, such as spirea, syrina, cotoneaster, deutzia, azelia, mugho pine, dwarf juniper and such trees as flowering dogwood, redbud, and Japanese maple. A hemlock or odd-shaped pine can often be picturesquely placed near the pool, giving interesting accent of dark green foliage.

Walks or paths leading to the pool can be water-worn or irregular flagstones or other material will give a natural effect.

OVER-PRODUCTION

About 180 of the 400 workers at the Port Hope Sanitary Manufacturing plant have been placed on a three-day week due to overproduction in certain departments, plant officials said Friday. The layoff is not expected to last long.

DIES IN VANCOUVER

Miss Margaret Davidson, 643 Water St., has received the sad news of the death of her sister, Miss Elsie Davidson in Vancouver on Thursday. Two other sisters also survive, Mrs. W. H. Middleton, Belleville and Miss Lillian Davidson of Vancouver. The funeral takes place today in Vancouver.

RECEIVE MANY CALLS

Firemen received no less than seven calls for a single outbreak early Friday night. And it wasn't the city building up in flames that stirred up all this interest. It was a relatively harmless grass fire on the CNR right of way, west of Monaghan Road.

WOOD SHEDS BLAZE

Fire damaged two small woodsheds Friday afternoon at the rear of the residence of George Martin, 775 Monaghan Rd. Cause of the fire is not known. Firemen used a two and a half inch line to kill the flames which threatened to burn a store of wood kept in both of the sheds. Although both roofs were damaged and sides of both sheds, the contents were not harmed.

Babies, Not Fish

rated a spot in the Vacation Edition. Mr. Bowker, a newspaperman from Youngstown, Ohio, is here with his wife, their two daughters, husbands and families.

Another man from Youngstown, Ted Blair, has 32 lbs. of bass put away in a locker plant to take back with him. He is here with Glen Garwig, also of Youngstown, and their families. They are staying at Buckhorn, and have found the fishing fair.

Not Too Hot

Three men from Washington, Penna., disparaged the heat wave we have gone through, and said that them 96 degrees was nothing.

Two of them, Carl Rush and Ray Shaw, are on their first trip up here with a veteran, John Wilson. They are "tickled to death" with the country and would like to stay longer. They have been stayingat Bewdley and have their limit in pickerel. Two others in their party of five have returned already and they are heading back Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Teece and her mother, Mrs. H. P. Fleming, from Newcastle, Pa, are staying at Bobcaygeon, and although the fishing has only been fair, they are having a wonderful time. This is Mrs. Fleming's first trip in this district, and she would like to stay all summer. Mr. Teece has been coming here for 21 years and bemoans the fact that every year the fish seem harder to get.

Two men from Cleveland, Grant Noble and Paul Lenz, started back at Temagami and have worked their way down to here on their way home. They intended to stay for two weeks, but the fishing has been so poor that they are leaving early. Visitors for years, they are not discouraged by the lack of good fish, and will be back again.

Unless people use it for watering their lawns, that is sufficient for ordinary needs of the community, although it does not allow a margin. As soon as an extra drain is made, the water flows from the thousands of city taps at a greater speed than fresh water can be taken from the river.

That is what happened one Sunday last month, when so many hoses were being played on so many lawns that some parts of the city were entirely without water. On that day the filtration plant was worked harder than ever before. No less than ten million gallons of water was pumped and purified. The level of the water in the reservoir was far below the safety mark—the position was so acute that Mr. Harrison will not disclose exactly how low the water level sank.

The city's demand have reached and almost exceeded the capacity of the plant only 27 years after it was built. Were is not for the war an extension would have been built before now, Mr. Harrison says. Materials are now becoming more readily available and Mr. Harrison expected work to begin on enlarging the plant this fall.

Six Filter Beds

If an extension to the present infiltration plant commences in the fall, the supply of water to city residents can be doubled in three years, officials say. An additional six filter beds to be installed by extending the plant north along the highway is at present under consideration.

Such an undertaking would be a major construction job. The six filter beds used at present are made up of eight layers of sand, gravel and pebbles which act as a screen for separating foreign matter from the water before it is disinfected.

After being pumped from the river, the water flows along a pipe and into a large tank known as the sedimentation basin, where it stands for a while, to allow the sediment to drop to the bottom. It then flows into the filter beds and seeps through the top layer of sand, through several layers of gravel and pebbles, leaving the particles of dirt in the filter.

Chlorene Added

The last stage of cleansing the water before it goes into the cities watermains, is the addition of chlorine. Only a minimum amount is used to disinfect the water in Peterborough.

Peterborough is fortunate in having a river which provides comparatively clean water, free from dangerous bacteria. While many districts throughout the country use as many as three grains of chlorine to one gallon of water, only .23 grains are used to the gallon in Peterborough.

Alum, which is put into the river at the point where the water is pumped for purification, sinks 90 per cent of the bacteria contained in the river water. By the time it has gone through the filter plant only one per cent of the original bacteria content remains.

The sand, which acts as such a fine filter, is no ordinary sand such as might be taken from a sand pit in Ontario. It was brought 27 years ago from Quebec and is still effective.

In order to ensure that no contaminated water gets into the mains, Mr. Harrison tests samples four times a day. Rarely does he find any variation but two years ago a new inhabitant of the river known as Daphinia was discovered. This is bacteria of no danger and the only difference it made was that Mr. Harrison was able to add another species to his collection.

Landscaped Garden Pool Gives Yard Natural Effect

An interesting way to landscape the yard to obtain a woodland effect is to build an informal pool. It may be built to any size desired, depending on the space available, preferably simulating the natural and comforming with the topography of the land.

A pool in a natural setting offers a wide range of opportunity for landscape treatment. A sunken or usually an irregularly excavated portion of the yard serves for the pool. It is well to use concrete with an exposed surface of small pebbles and rocks, or other type of water-resistant masonry for the bottom and around the pool to the top level of the water.

Along the edge of the water rocks and natural formations can be used, or a gently sloping terrace covered with grass can extend to the water edge. There should be an inlet for supplying fresh water to the pool and an outlet drain for removing stagnant water or surplus water that accumulates following a rain. Clean sand, gravel, and rocks can be used to cover the bottom of the pool to give a naturalistic effect. water can be brought in flowing over rocks to give the appearance of a supply of spring water.

Make It Safe For Children

The pool itself and the soil immediately surrounding it offers splendid opportunities for growing various kinds of beautiful water lillies, ferns, grasses, and other plants that like damp feet. If the pool is sufficiently deep so that a child might drown in it, a heavy wire netting or small iron rods fastened in a criss-cross pattern can be placed just below the surface of the water. The visibility of the netting or rods will soon become obscured by the large leaves of water lilies and other plants. Further, they will not prevent gold fish or other forms of aquarian life from swimming to the surface of the water.

A natural rock garden can be built to one side of the pool and the space between the rocks used to grow numerous kinds of woods flowers, ferns, and rock plants so well adapted to an informal garden.

Frame Pool With Flowers

Surrounding and forming a frame for the pool may be planted various kinds of hardy, flowering shrubs and low-growing evergreens, irregular in spacing and placement, such as spirea, syrina, cotoneaster, deutzia, azelia, mugho pine, dwarf juniper and such trees as flowering dogwood, redbud, and Japanese maple. A hemlock or odd-shaped pine can often be picturesquely placed near the pool, giving interesting accent of dark green foliage.

Walks or paths leading to the pool can be water-worn or irregular flagstones or other material will give a natural effect.

About 180 of the 400 workers at the Port Hope Sanitary Manufacturing plant have been placed on a three-day week due to over-production in certain departments, plant officials said Friday. The layoff is not expected to last long.

DIES IN VANCOUVER

RECEIVE MANY CALLS

Firemen received no less than seven calls for a single outbreak early Friday night. And it wasn't the city building up in flames that stirred up all this interest. It was a relatively harmless grass fire on the CNR right of way, west of Monaghan Road.

WOOD SHEDS BLAZE

Fire damaged two small woodsheds Friday afternoon at the rear of the residence of George Martin, 775 Monaghan Rd. Cause of the fire is not known. Firemen used a two and a half inch line to kill the flames which threatened to burn a store of wood kept in both of the sheds. Although both roofs were damaged and sides of both sheds, the contents were not harmed.

Babies, Not Fish

rated a spot in the Vacation Edition. Mr. Bowker, a newspaperman from Youngstown, Ohio, is here with his wife, their two daughters, husbands and families.

Another man from Youngstown, Ted Blair, has 32 lbs. of bass put away in a locker plant to take back with him. He is here with Glen Garwig, also of Youngstown, and their families. They are staying at Buckhorn, and have found the fishing fair.

Not Too Hot

Three men from Washington, Penna., disparaged the heat wave we have gone through, and said that them 96 degrees was nothing.

Two of them, Carl Rush and Ray Shaw, are on their first trip up here with a veteran, John Wilson. They are "tickled to death" with the country and would like to stay longer. They have been stayingat Bewdley and have their limit in pickerel. Two others in their party of five have returned already and they are heading back Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Teece and her mother, Mrs. H. P. Fleming, from Newcastle, Pa, are staying at Bobcaygeon, and although the fishing has only been fair, they are having a wonderful time. This is Mrs. Fleming's first trip in this district, and she would like to stay all summer. Mr. Teece has been coming here for 21 years and bemoans the fact that every year the fish seem harder to get.

Two men from Cleveland, Grant Noble and Paul Lenz, started back at Temagami and have worked their way down to here on their way home. They intended to stay for two weeks, but the fishing has been so poor that they are leaving early. Visitors for years, they are not discouraged by the lack of good fish, and will be back again.

45 Head of Cattle Average $950
At Year's Best Dispersal Sale

The dispersal sale of the Holstein herd of W. H. C. Ruthven, Alliston, June 20, realized $42,780 for 45 head, averaging $950, highest average of the year in Canada.

Twenty-five milking females averaged $932; six bred heifers $645; five open yearlings $485; six heifer calves $612. Top female price was reached twice at $1,300.

Feature of the sale was purchase at $17,100 of the three year old Holstein bull, Glenafton Enchanter, by a group of 35 Lambton county farmers who presumably intend to use it for artificial breeding. This was the highest price paid at a Canadian cttle sale for the last two years.

"Enchanter" is a Marksman son. His dam Abbekerk Dutchland Monogram has been classified as Very Good in selective registration, and has a six-year-old, 365 day, three times a day milking record of 25,329 lbs. milk, containing 1204 lbs. fat; test average 4.75; and a five lacation total production to date of 105,878 lbs. milk containing 4556 lbs. fat; average test 4.31% butter fat.

I.F.A.P. DELEGATES ON COAST

Expenditures to May 31 this year, authorized by the Prices Support Act, were less than $10 million, J. F. Booth, chief of the economics division, federal Department of Agriculture, told the Agricultural Institute of Canada in convention at Vancouver a few days ago.

Support had been directed to dried skim milk, butter, honey, white beans, apples and potatoes.

Hero. H. Hannam, new president of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers, said: "We are beginning to wonder whether the Agricultural Prices Support Act will do what it set out to do, that is, maintain farmers' income on the level of most other industries. We find that it is just a stop-loss measure. We have not in our present legislation attempted to hold agricultural prices up on a balanced level with other prices."

The problem of farm prices could not be settled entirely by the farmers themselves, Mr. Hannam said. He explained that in times of falling prices farmers frequently must expand their production in order to meet their cost of operation. In that way, surpluses increase, thereby aggravating the problem.

"Thus falling prices do not discourage production as they are supposed to do. There should be a minimum stabilizing measure, not only for the benefit of the farmer, but for the benefit of society as a whole. We should consider stability of farm income as we do full employment, as a benefit to the entire community."

TECHNICAL FARMERS MEET

"Man may bring about his own destruction by increasing in such numbers that the soil resources of the world will not be capable of carrying the burden, and a worldwide famine may result."

Thus spoke R. D. Sinclair, president and dean of agriculture at the University of Alberta to the members of the Agricultural Institute of Canada at their convention in Vancouver a few days ago.

He was visualizing a remote possibility, far beyond the dusty orbit of the season's harvest operations now beginning in Ontario.

Further on in his address Dean Sinclair pointed to a ray of hope in discoveries about photo-synthesis.

"There is reason to suspect that in the not too distant future enough will be understood about the process of photo-synthesis in the green plant, extremely complicated though it is to make it possible to liberate the world from almost complete dependence on agriculture as a source of food supply."

It is unlikely that the implement manufacturers will begin worrying about the dire prediction and the Sinclair ray of hope.

Mare Halts Train

TORONTO, July 8 (CP) — A dapple grey mare Thursday halted a passenger train for 25 minutes while police, Humane Society officials and railway men released her hoofs from the track ties. The horse was being taken to pasture by a 14-year-old boy when she bolted and ran across a railway trestle, wedging her hoofs so solidly that workmen had to chop her free with an axe. Railway officials stopped the train until the job was finished.

Truman Sees No Depression But Warns Business To Begin Lowering Prices

Demands Domestic Production Boosted Also Greater Investments Abroad; Declares U.S. Economy Strong, Healthy

WASHINGTON, July 11—(AP)—President Truman today advised United States business to stop worrying about a depression and instead concentrate on turning out more goods at lower prices to insure world-wide prosperity. "The whole world is watching developments in the American economy," he said in his mid-year economic-report to Congress.

To back up his words, he presented a 11-point "anti-depression" program designed to check the downward trend in the country's economy by boosting domestic production, foreign imports and investments abroad.

Crisis action isn't needed, Truman said, because the economy still is strong and healthy.

"But there is nothing healthy about more unemployment or less production," Congress was told, "such trends can and must be reversed by positive action, private and public . . ."

Optimistic Report

The president's council of economic advisers, in an accompanying report, was somewhat more optimistic in general tone than Truman. It found the business outlook reassuring. But agreed that federal action is called for.

Mr. Truman urged American business men to lower prices where possible, to keep sales and production higher. "But don't cut wages in order to reduce prices," he advised; "that cripples the worker's buying power and everyone gets hurt."

These were his requests to Congress—they are of "vital importance," he said:

1. Shun any major tax boost.
2. Lengthen the time limit for repayment of loans made to business by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.
3. Launch a study of the investment and development needed for an expansion of the economy.
4. Adopt "an improved program" of farm income supports.
5. Raise the minimum wage from 40 cents on hour to at least 75.
6. Bring more industries under unemployment compensation. Increase the benefits.
7. Extend for one year—to July 25, 1950—the Veterans' Readjustment allowances.

Dunbar Blames Management For Jail Riot

TORONTO, July 11—(CP)—Reforms Minister George Dunbar said today that carelessness and inefficiency on the part of the management of Toronto's Don jail were responsible for an attempted jailbreak last week.

He said he was writing to Sheriff J. D. Conover to point out that Governor Allan Armstrong should have taken more care in handling the 16 prisoners involved in a scuffle with two jail guards in the shower room. One of the guards was slugged unconscious with a piece of iron pipe from a radiator.

Mr. Dunbar, who issued a statement following receipt of a report on the attempted escape, said a third guard should have been posted outside the glass door of the shower room for added protection.

"That's what the glass in the door is for," he said, "and besides, it is only common sense that such precautions be taken. These 16 prisoners were waiting to go to penitentiary and it should have been realized they had little to lose by an attempt to escape."

No charges of attempted escape will be laid against the prisoners, Mr. Dunbar said, but they will be "disciplined" by the sheriff. This means the prisoners involved will receive corporal punishment, but the number of lashes will be determined by the physical condition of each.

Plane Hits Rock 9 Get Wet Feet

ROUYN, Que., July 11 (CP)—An amphibian plane of Canadian Pacific Airlines was holed by a submerged rock in nearby Lake Osisko Saturday afternoon but the nine passengers and four crew members escaped with nothing more serious than wet feet.

The plane was taking off shore for take-off when the sharp rock tore a hole through the hull. Capt. Leslie Shears, the pilot, immediately sent out a radio message for help and drove his plane toward shore.

Stewardess Phyllis Renous helped passengers out on the wings of the beached craft as the hull began to fill. They sang songs there until C.P.A. agents ashore sent out two launches to take them off. Later the Montreal-bound passengers were sent off to their destinations by train.

Almost Buried Alive Operating Shovel

ESPANOLA, July 11 (CP) — Otos Taylor, 53, is expected to recover from a harrowing experience at McKerrow Saturday afternoon, when he was almost buried alive under tons of sand and gravel.

Dozens of men, trucks, a power shovel and a bulldozer worked desperately for more than an hour before extricating Taylor from his power shovel.

Taylor was engulfed in the slide at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon and was finally rescued an hour later, badly battered but conscious. Only the fact that he was inside the huge power shovel he was operating at the time is believed to have saved him from being crushed and suffocated.

2,000 Indians Take Part In Sun Dance

EDMONTON, July 11 (CP)—The white men can have their marathon dances, popular in many U.S. cities.

The Redskins prefer their sun dances. To hear an Indian brave tell it, the marathons are just a white man's imitation of the sun dances.

The sun dance is no recent Saturday night hoe-down fad. The Redskins could toe their way through a neat shuffle long before the white men brought their native dance to the prairies.

For untold years, Indian tribes have congregated on the banks of the Battle River, about 60 miles south of Edmonton, to stage one of their most colorful religious rituals. The sun dance, which went on last week every hour of three consecutive days, is symbolic of Indian worship of the sun.

Nearly 2,000 Indians from all parts of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Montana engaged in the primitive ceremony. The women on the right, the men on the left, the dancers parade hour after hour in an endless circle around a sun dance lodge built of poplar boughs and willows. The din of the drummers, rattleshakers is supplemented by dancers blowing on gaily decorated whistles made from the wing bones of geese.

Once started the dance goes on rain or shine. The participants neither eat nor drink from start to finish. When it rains, one section of the drummers will continue playing while the others dry their 20-inch rawhide drums over a fire.

While the dance is in progress a group of young braves ride around the sun dance lodge on horseback. They chant and sing as their horses, often reaching 40 abreast, move at a walk.

Algonquins Ignore Visiting Iroquois

MANIWAKI, Que., July 11 (CP)—The Iroquois are in town and the Algonquins aren't much friendlier toward their ancient foes than they used to be.

The Iroquois, about 20 of them from the so-called barrier country between the Ottawa and Gatineau Rivers, 200 miles north of here, have set up their tents in the rear of the Roman Catholic Church, on an Algonquin reservation. The two Indian tribes ignore one another.

The visitors, hunters, fishermen and guides, come down by canoe every few years to "do" the town, to stock up on clothes, radios and phonographs and swing records.

Ontario Shares Spotlight In Rip-Snorting Stampede

CALGARY, July 11.—(CP) — Eager-eyed Torontonians—25 0of them—piled off their "goodwill special" train today ready for two days of fun at Calgary's wild and woolly stampede

The group, headed by Mayor H. E. (Buck) McCallum of Toronto, grabbed a large share of limelight from cowboys and Indians thronging city streets in readiness to take part later today in the opening of the week-long, colorful Western show. Mayor McCallum is scheduled to open it.

The Eastern "tenderfeet" were goggle-eyed as they caught what was for many of them their first glimpse of cowboys and of Indians in full war-paint and feathered headdress.

The big stampede week was scheduled to get under way later this morning witha mammoth parade through flag - bedecked downtown streets Hundreds of men, women and children were lining the parade route several hours before it was scheduled to start. An estimated 50,000 persons may watch the parade.

The big Ontario contingent had a place of honor already assigned to them in the parade.

Calgary was a real cowtown today—and mighty proud of it.

High-booted cowboys clumped about the street in 10-gallon Stetsons and gaudy cowboys shirts or weaved nonchalantly through heavy traffic on their high-stepping range ponies They had no parking or feed problems for their mounts. Along both sides of the main business street, Eighth Avenue, wooden feed troughs, filled with sweet-smelling hay, were at their disposal.

FO Marshall Locates 6 Surveyors

Geological Party Lost Four Days In Yellowknife Area

OTTAWA, July 11 (CP)—The R.C.A.F. today reported that a geological survey party of six men, lost for four days in the Northwest Territories vast Yellowknife Park area, has been found by an air force photo survey plane, piloted by F.O. S. Allan Marshall of Peterborough.

This was the first information that the geological survey party had been reported missing. Names of the men rescued were not immediately known. They were located apparently in good health on a hilltop, living on a diet of fish and squirrels.

A signal received from No. 10 R.C.A.F. photo survey detachment, now doing field work in the Yellowknife area, said regular food supplies were being flown to the party by aircraft.

Lost Week Ago

The men, working in the Lockhart Lake district, about 300 miles north of the N.W.T.-Saskatchewan border, became lost last Tuesday. Air force headquarters said Dr. A. H. Lang of Ottawa, senior resources department representative in the Yellowknife area, immediately appealed to the detachment to help find the party.

Air force planes missed a rendezvous with other civilian aircraft pressed into the search. A subsequent search by the civilian aircraft indicated no trace of the party.

Find Party

However, a photo survey Norseman aircraft piloted by FO. Marshall was dispatched into the area last Saturday. In the plane with FO. Marshall was Leading Aircraftsman J. S. McEgan of Ottawa.

FO Marshall is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Marshall, 285 Reid St. He has been stationed at Yellowknife with the Geodetic Survey Squadron since June 15. A fighter pilot during the last war, FO Marshall re-enlisted in October 1948.

Their attention was attracted to the hilltop by means of a heliograph signal, a sun-reflector signalling device. The Norseman landed and except for depleted food supplies, found the men in good shape.

A civil aircraft later was dispatched from the Yellowknife area with regular food supplies for the six men.

Oil Slick Traps Hundreds Ducks

TORONTO, July 11 (CP) — Hundreds of ducks were killed Sunday by a giant oil slick which drifted into a lagoon on Centre Island in Toronto harbor. Harbor Commission officials expressed belief that the oil came from a ship.

A veteran lifesaver said sparks from a cigaret could have touched off a roaring blaze in a few seconds in the 300-yard stretch between the Snake Island inlet

A bucketful of water and oil dipped from the floating sludge burst into flames when a match was dropped on it. Lifesavers immediately called city police for help and six constables were dispatched to form a cordon around the threatened area.

The Toronto Harbor Commission, notified shortly before 11 a.m., sent out a hasty call for pumpers to clear the oil from the water. Two British American oil trucks with suction pumps were loaded on a harbor commission barge and taken to the island. By 7 a.m. they had sucked an estimated 400 gallons of oil from the water and the fire danger was believed to have passed.

Ducks drifting into the affected area had no chance. The oil drenched their feathers and they sank. Some were taken from the water by nearby householders, who tried to wash the oil off them in kitchen sinks. All, however, had swallowed some of the oil and died.

2 Union Leaders Jailed For Year

SYDNEY, Australia July 11—(CP)—Two leaders of the Australian Miners' Federation today were sentenced to one-year terms in prison for contempt of court and their union fined £2,000 ($6,400) as the country-wide coal strike began its third week with prospects of a settlement dim.

The officials, Idris Williams, president of the Miners' Federation, and G. W. S. Grant, Federation Secretary, were held in contempt by an arbitration court on charges of stemming from the refusal of the Federation and its leaders to pay to the court sums of money withdrawn from banks, allegedly to prolong the coal strike.

The government had passed an emergency law soon after the coal strike started, making it illegal to withdraw union funds from banks for the purpose of aiding striking workers.

The latest government crackdown on the mine union came only 24 hours after miners, meeting in the New South Wales coalfields, voted almost unanimously to continue the walkout. The miners passed resolutions demanding the release of other union officials arrested last week.

Russians Choke Off Berlin Truck Cargoes

BERLIN, July 11—(AP)—The Russians have choked off truck cargoes for West Berlin to four an hour—96 a day—on the Helmstedt Autobahn. All other highways to the city have been completely closed.

A report to the United States military government that all trucks must be completely unloaded for inspection indicated that this figure might be further reduced. An average of 300 trucks a day had been travelling the Helmstedt road lately.

A British military government source said the Western powers would take "vigorous action" in the new blockade situation.

Some Allied officials indicated they believed the stoppage was a Russian move to force the Allies to meet Soviet trade terms in forthcoming East-West negotiations.

Five In One Family Killed In Truck-Car Collision

SCHOMBERG, Ont., July 11—(CP)—Five members of one Hamilton family were killed and three other persons suffered injuries in a head-on collision between an automobile and a truck late Saturday on Cemetery Hill. Dead are: Robert Hamilton, 49; his wife, Barbara, 45; their daughter, Margaret, 12, Mr. Hamilton's mother, Margaret Hibbard, 72; and Mrs. Hamilton's father, Patrick Tuohy, 75.

Injured are Adam Blandy, 37 of Holland Marsh, Ont., described by police as the driver of the three- on truck with which the Hamilton car collided; Blandy's seven-year-old daughter, Marlene; and Oswald Legault, 45, of Penetanguishene.

Three of the victims were killed outright when the smash locked the vehicles together and crushed the 1949-model Hamilton car like an accordion. Crowbars were used to pry the bodiesf rom the wreckage. Hamilton and his daughter died soon afterwards in hospital at Newmarket.

Truck Skids

The Hamilton car had just travelled over the crest of the hill a half-mile east of this community, 28 miles northwest of Toronto, when it swung over toward the centre of the road and smashed into a truck. The truck driver said he applied his brakes but the truck skidded on rain-slicked pavement. Police said a dip on the roadway might have caused the car to veer toward the centre line.

Hamilton and his relatives were driving home from a cottage at Orr lake in the Muskoka district. Blandy had gone to Guelph to take his daughter home after a week's holiday there.

Hamilton's son, Robert, 22, and an elder daughter, Elizabeth, 16, reached Newmarket late Saturday night. The youth said his father had planned to leave the cottage Sunday night. He added:

"I can't understand why he changed his mind, especially when the weather was so bad."

Tito Plans To Seal Border Of Greece, Yugoslavia

BELGRADE, YUGOSLAVIA, July 11—(AP)—Premier - Marshall Tito Sunday night said Yugoslavia plans to seal it border with Greece.

He said the object would be to protect Yugoslavs from the Greek civil war.

Tito spoke before 40,000 persons in the Adriatic port city of Pola, taken over from Italy at the end of the war. The text of his address was made public here this morning.

Tito said "it has come to this: that we must gradually close this frontier and safeguard the lives of our workingmen in this part of our country."

(Western diplomats had speculated recently that Tito might cut off aid to the Greek guerillas as retaliation for the economic war being waged against him by the Communist countries of Eastern Europe.)

In the face of the economic blockade laid down by the Cominform (Communist Internatoinal Information Bureau), Tito admitted frankly he was seeking a loan from the West.

"'It is true," he said, "that we are asking for and we shall take a loan if a loan is given to us because we need it, while also the giving of the loan would be useful to those who give it to us."

He emphasized such a loan must be given without political concessions. He said the world knows Yugoslavia sells copper "and that we do not sell our conscience and our souls but copper alone."

He gibed at leaders of Communist parties in Eastern Europe who, he said, were "alarmed and flabbergaster" because Yugoslavia's living standard was rising instead of falling.

U.K. Strikers Defy Government

King Declares State Of Emergency, Attlee Gets Free Hand

LONDON, July 11. (CP)—King today proclaimed a state of emergency to deal with a crippling strike on the London docks.

The King acted on the recommendation of the cabinet after wildcat dock strikers defied a back to work call by the government.

A mass meeting of 5,000 dockers had voted earlier to continue their stoppage. More than 10,000 dockers are on strike.

The Cabinet decision set the stage for what is potentially the most serious industrial dispute since Britain's great general strike in 1926.

From midnight the Privy Council, with the advice of the cabinet, will be able to act with a free hand to make emergency regulations to speed the handling of cargoes held up in the port of London by the dispute, to draft in more troops, and to arrest without warrant or to prosecute any who are considered to be acting against the national interest.

Prepares Draft

Home Secretary James Chuter Ede already was engaged on the preparation of these regulations this afternoon. Their object will be to safeguard food, water, transport and other essential services.

It was considered probable that reinforcements would be drafted to the port immediately to join the 1,700 troops already at work. Some 112 ships today were idle along the Thames.

Among them were the 9,034-ton Beaverbrae and the 7,168-ton Ar-

Plan 4-Point Anti-Red Pact

BAGUIO, PHILIPPINES, July 11—(AP)—An informed diplomatic source said today president Elpidio Quirino and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek had reached agreement on a four point anti-communist program.

The points listed as having been agreed upon by the Philippines president and the "retired" president of Nationalist China were:

Formation of a Pacific union, a united front against Communism, economic collaboration and further strengthening of ties between China and the Philippines.

The Philippines, China and Korea would form the nucleus of the proposed union. The plan is to get the union into working order as soon as possible and to extend invitations to other Pacific countries and Asiatic countries to participate.

Military aid was ruled out in the discussions between Quirino and Chiang.

Franz Johnston Dies Great Arctic Painter

TORONTO, July 11 (CP) — Franz Johnston, 61, Canadian artist whose paintings of Arctic scenes and Eskimos won him international renown, died Saturday night in a Toronto hospital he entered two weeks ago for a rest.

The painter, who held that Canada offers Canadian artists their greatest opportunity for expression, journeyed to the Arctic to find subjects With his brush he caught the weird flicker of the northern lights, the lonely grandeur of Arctic rivers and strange lighting effects on ice and sky.

Northern lights, one of his most striking Arctic canvases, was a feature of an exhibition of a Canadian painting in Wembley, England.

Born in Toronto, he studied in New York and Philadelphia. Shortly before the outbreak of the First World War, he returned to Canada and became a member of the group of seven, who used a vivid and original style of painting to impress upon Canadians the beauties of their country. He was a close friend of the late Tom Thomson.

Rain Ends Drought, Better Crops

Raspberry Growers Delighted, Fruit Crop Saved

TORONTO, July 11 — (CP) — Week-end rain has given crops in many sections of Southern Ontario a new lease on life.

It came just in time to ensure a good corn crop, it gave pastures a second chance and it revived tobacco, tomatoes and many other crops which had been wilting from hot, dry weater. But it came too late to help winter wheat and hayfields in drought-parched areas.

The 1.66 inches of rain which well in the Toronto area was 27 times as much as that recorded in the district for the whole month of June. Rainfall measured 1.65 inches at Rockcliffe, near Ottawa, and 1.4 inches at St. Thomas.

But no more rain is expected in the immediate future. For most of Ontario, clear and warm weather is forecast for today, with temperatures ranging from the mid-70s to the low 80s.

No Price On Rainfall

Said Agriculture Minister Kennedy, who has a farm at Dixie, just west of Toronto:

"You just can't put a value on that rain. It was wonderful. It would, of course, have been more wonderful if it had come three weeks ago, but it was wonderful just the same".

Benefits the farmers received from the downpour extended beyond the fields and pasturelands. Water supplies improved in sections where wells were running low, cisterns were almost empty and streams had dwindled to a trickle.

Raspberry growers said they were thankful for the rain. The dry spell had set back the crop and growers had begun to fear that raspberries, like this year's strawberries, would yield one of the lightest harvest in recent years.

U.S. Vice-Consul Brutally Beaten

SHANGHAI, July 11 (AP) — A United States vice-consul, released by police of this Communist-controlled city after three days in jail, was brutally beaten, Consul-General John Cabot said Saturday.

Cabot, who is Olive's superior, told a press conference Saturday that "any statement such as that which appeared in the Liberation Daily was obtained from him (Olive) as a result of the barbarous treatment he received."

Cabot said Olive was released Saturday after being brutally beaten, handcuffed incommunicado in a cell for three days, and forced to sign several statements a "confession," and an "apology."

Forest Ranger 5 Miles Within To Have Phone

County Council's Reforestation committee has recommended the installation of a telephone line to the residence of the County Forest Area caretaker. The chairman was empowered to proceed with the work immediately. At the last session of the Council two possible plans for the installation were read from correspondence with the Bell Telephone Co. Both seemed too costly and members threw the problem back into the lap of the Reforestation committee.

The caretaker, Roger Rodgers, resides in the county-owned house inside the Forest Area. Distance from the last Bell post to his house is about five miles. Members felt that it was desirable he should be in closer touch with the outside community in order that his work could be carried out with the utmost efficiency.

It was pointed out that otherwise it was difficult to communicate with him, particularly if the matter were urgent. And if a fire broke out in the area it was imperative that there be no delay in reporting it.

The committee decided that the Bell estimates could be drastically pared if the county used its own poles for the telephone line and planted them with its own workmen. Timber from the Forest Area could be used for the job.

Exact cost of the installation is not known.

Police Smash Suicide Fight

WILCOX LAKE, Ont., July 11. —Police officers broke up a fight between teen-agers and vacationers here Sunday following an alleged suicide attempt by a Toronto youth. Wilcox Lake is a summer resort 24 miles northeast of Toronto.

Police said the trouble started when the youth, identified as Robert (Scotty) Bryson of Toronto, threw himself face downward into the lake. Rescued unconscious by 17-year-old Bill Beazer, Bryson was taken to a secluded spot by his friends.

When an elderly man and other vacationists offered assistance, police said, the youths attacked them. When police arrived nearly 30 persons were involved in the fight.

Arrested on charges of obstructing police and disturbing the peace are Charles O'Hara of Toronto and Mario Ruffolo of North York township.

This is the upshot of a three-day, closed-door conference here between Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer; Douglas Abbott, Canada's finance minister, and John Snyder, treasury secretary of the United States.

A joint communique promised fact-finding discussions right away and more ministerial talks in Washington in September.

The communique emphasized that "remedies (for Britain's plight) other than financial assistance such as that provided by the United States and Canada must be explored."

No Devaluation

"No suggestion was made that sterling be devalued," the statement said.

London morning newspapers were acidly critical of the meagreness of the communique. The Conservative Daily Mail, in an editorial titled "no lead here," said the communique "reads like the report of a discussion group on the economic condition of Mars."

The communique urged all countries concerned to review their policies to obtain a wider, many-sided trade.

Britain, running out of dollars, has been making exclusive barter deals with countries like Argentina where she needn't pay in the scarce currency.

The policies to be reviewed, unidentified in the communique, presumably would include such bilateral deals dollar purchase cuts and possibly United States tariffs which many Britons claim keep their country from earning dollars.

Clocks stopped and electric cookers were unable to provide hot breakfasts during the busy Sunday morning breakfast time.

A short quake rocked Inglewood, Calif., and several other communities in the Los Angeles area about the same time seismographs on the east coast recorded the tremors.

A San Diego, Calif., seismologist, Fred Robinson, reported that a quake started "somewhere, probably in the Pacific Ocean" at 8:12 p.m., PST, and continued strong until 9.04.

COBOURG, July 11 (ENS)—Wilfred McMahon, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. McMahon, King St. West, was missing for several hours Saturday night while police and neighbours searched along the creek, but he was safe all the time in his bedroom—but under the bed.

The theory is that he stayed out later than he should have and decided te safest place was under the bed. He had his night clothing on.

(It is illegal under the National Emergency Coal Strike Act rushed through parliament last week to extend financial aid to Australia's 23,000 striking miners.)

Dampish Picnic At Orillia Brinton Carpet

Rain started to fall just as 700 joy-seeking Brinton Carpet picnickers piled off their special train at a Champlain Park siding, Orillia, for the annual outing sponsored by the Employees' Club.

The coaches were busy with children playing hide-and-seek between the seats, and with sing-songing led by Clarence Corbett Mrs. Lillian Rawson on the accordion and Mrs. Ruth Jennings on the violin setting the tunes.

Skies were blue when Lake Couchiching was sighted, but the deluge came as the train pulled into the siding at lakeside Champlin Park. The morning program was washed out, but when a momentary break in the clouds at one p.m. gave officials hope that at least races could be run off, The hope was short-lived; anyway the grass was too slippery.

Two clowns, Hod and Olly kept the children and adults amused with their antics both on the train and at Champlain Park.

Bail Of $1,000 In Assault Case

Stanley Bebee, 122 Hilliard St. was remanded on $1,000 bail today by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in city police court when charged with assaulting and causing bodily harm to James McAlpine of N. Milesburgh Twp., Prince Edward County.

Crown Attorney John Bradshaw said McAlpine was in hospital and was expected to remain there for two weeks.

When Joseph Levick asked the magistrate for permission to withdraw a charge of assault which he had laid against John Keating, 496 Brioux Ave., the magistrate agreed after Levick consented to paying $2.50 court costs.

The Crown Attorney said that too many people were laying charges and then asking for them to be withdrawn and asked payment of court costs be the condition of the withdrawal.

John Whaley, 317 Park St. pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance June 17 on Aylmer St. and was fined $5 with $2.50 costs.

Beautiful Friendship

BUENOS AIRES, July 11 — (AP) — Police Sunday broke up a fast friendship between an elephant and an Italian immigrant at the Buenos Aires zoo.

The Italian, Eduardo Nissi, 45, stopped in front of the elephant's cage and began stroking the pachyderm's trunk. The elephant, a female, liked her new friend so well she pulled the cage bars aside and lifted Nissi to her shoulders.

At Nissi's whispered commands, the elephant performed for a crowd of spectators. Zoo guards finally dislodged the Italian with long poles, and police took him off to jail. As he departed, the elephant trumpeted loudly and ripped her cage bars loose in an attempt to follow.

Beggar Did Not Leave Gets Fine Or 5 Days

"I'll get out of town by noon even if I have to walk the highway," Melville Jackson told Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, today in city police court when he pleaded guilty to begging.

Jackson said he had been released from custody on Thursday with only a few coppers in his pocket. He had gone from door to door asking for work. He did not call it begging if he accepted money offered to him. He said he had brothers and sisters in Hamilton and could get a job there.

The magistrate imposed a fine of $5 with $2.50 costs or five days in jail.

Crown Attorney John Bradshaw said that last time Jackson had appeared in court he had been told to leave town and had failed to do so.

The milk truck was thrown into the fence corner on the south side of the road and the light truck piled up in the north ditch.

Hagerman was treated for shock cuts and bruises by Dr. J. R. Anderson of Campbellford. Wallace miraculously escaped serious injury. Damage to both vehicles was estimated at about $900.

Ostracized Nations

Spain and Yugoslavia are the loneliest nations in Europe today. Both have been ostracized by their respective neighbours, but for different reasons and by different nations. Yugoslavia has been rebuffed by the communistic eastern countries, Spain by the western democracies.

* * *

Russia and the Cominform have been shocked by the independent attitude of Tito and his apparent willingness to look westward while leaning east. For its sins of communist omission, eastern Europe is boycotting Yugoslavia and making Yugoslavia's economy increasingly difficult to sustain healthily. Thus far Yugoslavia, although standing up gamely to the rebuff, has shown no great eagerness to lean as well as look to the west. Nor have the western democracies rushed to the support of the economically and politically teetering country, and with good reason. Tito and Yugoslavia are communistic in profession, though not devout worshippers at the Cominform shrine.

* * *

Spain was ostracized by democratic peoples during the war, though courted for military reasons by some of their governments. Russia has, of course, been a sharp antagonist of the Franco regime ever since it was set up. The General Assembly of U.N. considered a Polish resolution in December, 1946 that had three principal recommendations:

That the Franco Government should be debarred from international agencies and from participation in conferences or other activities established or arranged by the United Nations;

That, if within a reasonable time a democratic government was not established in Spain, the Security Council should consider adequate measures to remedy the situation; and

That all members of the United Nations should immediately recall from Spain their Ambassadors and Ministers Plenipotentary.

* * *

This extraordinarily strong proposal to reform Spain or break it was not approved by the next Assembly. By that time the western democracies, viewing the east-west split, considered that Franco's Spain had better not be pushed too far lest the eastern camp be willing to receive it. At the recent Assembly of U.N. four Latin-American countries proposed that members of U.N. be permitted full freedom to give diplomatic recognition to Spain as they saw fit. The U.S.S.R. bitterly attacked the proposal. The joint Latin-American resolution was defeated. Spain is still an outsider and alone, but the west is looking on it more kindly than at any other time since the war.

* * *

Neither Yugoslavia nor Spain can be welcomed into a society of democratic nations because of their past and divergent records, and because both are dictatorships. They may be tolerated, but not be received as friends.

The Bitter And The Sweet

Canada, geographically and historically, is a link between the United Kingdom and the United States. At times that has been an advantageous position and at other times it has been a difficult one. This is one of the times when the position is beset with many difficulties, and when we must take the the bitter with the sweet.

Britain's present economic difficulties are many and in the opinion of Sir Stafford Cripps they must be met by cutting down trade with dollar countries and increasing it with sterling countries. This could be a heavy blow for Canada, and it would be a source of irritation in the U.S.A. The American position is easily understandable; by means of E.R.P. the U.S.A. is giving Europe assistance which in this year alone will be more than seven and a quarter billions of dollars. Already Britain has made an agreement with the Argentine which strikes at U.S. trade in that country, and it looks as though Britain meant to close the gates against American goods in several sterling countries. Why would the U.S. not be annoyed?

The people of the U.S.A. are paying heavier taxes than ever before (though not, it must be said, taxes which compare with those in Britain or Canada) and a considerable part of their taxmoney is going to Britain in the form of assistance. That is to say, it is being disposed of by a socialist government in many ways which do not appeal to the strongly capitalist people of the U.S.A. Many U.S. leaders, like Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, think that Britain should change its system of government or expect no more U.S. aid. Both Britain and the U.S. are intransigent in their attitudes, and Canada is, to some extent, squeezed between the two.

Canada can, to some degree, act as a mediator; she has done so before. It is not out of the question that Mr. Abbott may be able to pour oil on the troubled waters, thereby serving Canada and her two powerful friends, as well. And it must be pointed out that if Canada can do anything to heal this breach, she will be helping greatly in the struggle against Communism. A split, and consequent bad blood, between the U.S.A. and Great Britain would give great satisfaction to Communists everywhere.

U.S. Senator McCarran And The D.P.'s

Mr. Patrick McCarran, the senior United States Senator from Nevada, is a grim watchdog of his country's expenditures in Europe and on Europeans, insofar as he is able to play that part. As chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, he is able to play it by dilatory handling of measures which would mean spending money to bring displaced persons into the United States. The measures have been approved by the House of Representatives, but have not been even scheduled for hearing by Senator McCarran's committee. In the meantime, the Senator has reiterated his belief that too much money is spent, and unwisely, on Europeans.

Now, however, the gentleman from Nevada has seen the light—over Nevada. Senator McCarran's committee has approved a bill introduced by him, calling for the immediate admission of a specified number of immigrants from Europe. It would be an altogether pleasant story of enlightenment if the bill recommended admission of victims of Nazis who have lived in D.P. camps for years, or of victims of the Communists in similar circumstances, or of still other victims of the war and its aftermath, but with the exception of a niggardly minor concession, the bill does not so recommend.

It emphatically recommends that 250 Basques be admitted at once, with perhaps a few Greek shepherds as well. It seems the nation's sheep-raising industry is endangered by a shortage of shepherds—at least the Nevada section of the industry is. And while it is true there are 5,000 shepherds among the 390,000 displaced persons to whom the House bill would give quota priority, they probably lack the national reputation the Basque justly enjoys as a shepherd. So Senator McCarran responded to the national emergency in Nevada.

The wisdom of selecting men reputedly best qualified for a job can hardly be questioned, and it may be argued that criticism of Senator McCarran's attitude toward displaced persons is otuside the province of a Canadian newspaper. Be that as it may, it is a strange feature of a form of democratic government which allows one legislator to thwart the expressed will of a majority of hundreds of other legislators.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Terminology for hot weather: Animals sweat, men perspire, ladies gleam.

A news note says that in a single month 1200 penholders and 7200 nibs were stolen from London post offices. Ah, the craze for antiques!

The Quebec Chronicle Telegraph says, with much justice, that it is becoming harder and harder to support a wife, a family and a Government on one income.

A gas works in Indianapolis "causes air pollution which makes houses half a mile away turn purple", says a news report. That's nothing. We have river pollution here in Peterborough which makes citizens turn black in the face as far south as Bewdley.

Czechoslovakia's Communist Government has introduced "mobile" courts; judges go right into the factories and fields to settle disputes. A news report says that "the announced purpose is to eliminate loss of working hours of people invilvel in trials". This merely supports our belief that there always has been something odd about Communist justice.

Of Cabbages And Kings

By PETER ELIOT

SHAKESPEARE'S famous "Seven Ages of Man", translated into Chinese and back again into English, is quoted by George Lawton in his Aging Successfully. This unusual translation was made by Commander Alan McCracken, U.S.N., during the thirty-three months he spent in three Japanese camps in the Philippines:

All the world a stage and all men and women mere play ac'ors
Have exit, have entrance. One man during lifetime play on the stage many part
Acts of play designated Seven Ages
First New-born Infant—wail loudly—vomiting inside wet nurse arms.
Next Schoolboy—morning face shine—drag foot towards schoolhouse—imitate snail.
Next Lover—signing resemble furnace—compose poetry dedicated beautiful woman eyebrows.
Next Soldier—curse—quarrel—seek reputation's bubble inside cannon mouth.
Next Judge—well-fed stomach grow fleshy—expression of eyes severe—mouth spout out wise saying.
Sixth age, Declining years—spectacles above nose—stocking plenty oversize — skin sarink—big strong man voice return child's voice—thin whistle sound.
Last act end this strange eventful history—Second childhood — teeth go — sight go — taste go—everything go.

❖ ❖ ❖

THAT brings back a story about Oliver Wendell Holmes, Junior. When Holmes was still on the Bench of the United States Supreme Court he took walks with Justice Brandeis every afternoon. On one of these walks, Holmes, who was then 92, paused to gaze in frank admiration at a beautiful young girl on the same street. He even turned to watch her till she passed out of sight, then, turning to Brandeis, he sighed: "Oh, What wouldn't I give to be 70 again!"

❖ ❖ ❖

SOME readers may remember an incident which took place in Toronto twenty years ago or more. It happened when George S. Holmstead, K.C., then eighty-two years of age, was superannuated from the post of Senior Registrar of the High Court. He was beloved of the profession and he set a high standard. He was also well known as an author and poet. So at the time of his retirement it was natural that the newspapers should seek his photograph for publication.

❖ ❖ ❖

HOWEVER, old Mr. Holmstead was determined that there should be no invasion of his privacy and no photographs taken or printed. So the Daily Star used in its columns a drawing of the venerable lawyer, author and poet, which it had made. Holmsted was furious. He cried to his friends that he would make the paper apologize publicly. They wondered how this could be done, since it was obvious that the paper had in no way libelled him. They were to find out shortly, when the old man had his revenge.

❖ ❖ ❖

IT was only a few weeks later that the editor of the column entitled "A Little Bit of Everything" was delighted to find in his mail a little poem dedicated to The First Spring Flowers. It was signed LYDIA STRATHE. It was published at the very top of the column, and this is how it read:

D rear winter's past and gone
E arth's labour has begun,
T he stream of life breaks forth
S o bravely in the north.
E 'en through ice and snow
M ost tender flowerlets blow.
L ook, here's the snowdrop sweet
O ut, smiling at our feet
H er modest garb of white

R obes her like bridal maid
M ost gracefully arranged.
D ear harbinger of spring;
E arth hath no fairer thing.
L et each returning year

L eave me the mem'ry dear,
E 'en though another's eyes
B efore me found the prize,
I first did sing thy praise
L ike one who all his days

E nchanted by her grace
W oos some fair maid.

❖ ❖ ❖

THE editor had not examined the poem with sufficient care. The same signed to the poem "Lydia Strathe" becomes "The Daily Star" when the letters are transposed, and the initials letters of the lines, read from bottom upwards, form the candid admission which was desired: "WE LIBELLED MR. HOLMSTED."

❖ ❖ ❖

WHERE does the word "snob" come from? There are two plausible derivations. The first is that list of students at Cambridge had Nobs, i.e., Nobiles, apended to their names if they came of noble family. If not, it was S. Nobs, i.e., sine nobilate.

The other is that young men themselves added "fil nob" (son of a lord) to their names and that imitators were known as Quasi-nobs, which became s-nobs, and finally snob.

Pea Harvest

In Southwestern Ontario the pea harvest is in full swing. Despite the dry weather the crop is fairly good, and the price of $50 per ton is not bad. These peas, of course, are for canning purposes, as distinct from peas grown for fodder grain in some other parts of the province.

One has but to scan the pictures of the modern machinery in use, in cutting and threshing these peas, to recall other days when more primitive equipment was used. That was when canning was not the business it now is, and peas were grown as a grain crop.

The old pea rake would pull up the ripened stalks, rolling them into a coil. Pitching these on to the wagon was no easy job. Nor was it easy to pull this tang'ed mass from the mow in the barn when they were being threshed. The dust accumulated in the coils didn't make it any more pleasant.

Then there was the problem of what do with the old pea straw. It was dry and hard and by no stretch of the imagination could be regarded as fodder.—Windsor Star.

A SHOT IN THE ARM

Malan At Home

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

DR. D. P. MALAN, the amiable, elderly gentleman at the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' meeting in London, and Nationalist Malan, the boss of South Africa, have provided the world with a startling contract. All other Commonwealth countries were pleased with Dr. Malan's announcement in May that South Africans were united in their wish to remain within the Commonwealth; they are less pleased with legislation he has seen fit to bring before the parliament in which his party holds power.

The Nationalist leader, once known as the rabid foe of association with Britain, does not seem to have wiped out all his old ideas despite his new-found affection for the brotherhood of free nations. He has brought down a South African Citizenship Bill with the effect of making British subjects from other parts of the Commonwealth into aliens.

The Canadian Citizenship Act, brought into force in 1947, made all the other Dominions look to their citizenship laws, although the Canadian legislation did not change or infringe the rights of non-Canadian British subjects, who continue to have the right to vote, to obtain old age pensions and the right of permanent entry after five years' residence in Canada.

When Malan started tinkering with citizenship regulations he forgot his fine words about Commonwealth association. The new South African legislation will prevent anyone who immigrated in the last two years from voting until 1952, and to become citizens in future they must register and also be certified by the minister of the interior as having knowledge "of the duties and responsibilities of South African citizenship". The suspicion is that the last clause may involve some kind of loyalty test devised by Malan supporters who have indicated little favour for liberal ideas. They have been unable to see any solution of the race problem in South Africa apart from their theory of continued subjection of the majority Negro race and the creation of a kind of super-race of whites loyal to the Malan ideas and not necessarily inclusive of those who have absorbed the British traditions of freedom.

The Malan program will not help the unity of South Africa, where there are signs of strain between the two white races more pronounced than anything Canada has known for generations. The South African situation in all its gravity is thus summarized by the Johannesburg correspondent of the London Economist:

"The dangerous substance in the Nationalist argument is that after 40 years of Union, the white population really is almost as sharply divided as in 1899, when two British colonies confronted two Afrikaner republics. In the Transvaal and the Cape, English and Afrikaners are in numbers fairly evenly matched; and the Nationalists won the Transvaal (in the last election) by a barely workable majority, while the United party did exactly the same in the Cape. In the predominantly Afrikaner Free State, however, the Nationalists got a solid majority; and so did the United party in predominantly English Natal. Political polarization in terms of racial division seems almost complete."

Memories Of Ottawa

Those who have known Ottawa in the recent past will be startled by the news that Canada is to have a new capital. They may be reassured somewhat by the additional fact that the name of the new capital will be Ottawa. Further consolation is available in the fact that this city will be exactly where Ottawa now stands. But by the end of the century you won't know the old place, so they say.

Slums are going. New highways and thoroughfares are coming. Familiar bridges are to be displaced by modern traffic arteries. Railroad lines are going to be moved. Factories are scheduled for extinction.

But it's good to know that Parliament Hill is to remain unchanged, with its stone Gothic buildings and the circular library that survived the burning of the parliament buildings years ago and now smells of old leather bookbacks as no up-to-date library could. Things like that, as the Romans knew, are neither built nor scented in a day.

Surely, too, the dramatic, living, striving monument to the soldiers of World War I will ever utter its cry within earshot of Chateau Laurier.

We hope the club at which statesmen and newsmen so often meet won't throw out the old-fashioned oak dining chairs for something less uncomfortable or more esthetic, and that citizens will continue playing guide to visitors along tree-lined streets where one comes upon the Mackenzie King house, as commodious and comfortably undistinguished as one could hope.

Doubtless, as in any old town, there are things that can be improved in Ottawa. But then, there are things that can't.

Unconsidered Trifles

The Latin teacher was in fine humour after lunch and instead of settling right down to Latin, he decided to tell the class a couple of jokes he'd heard the night before. Everybody laughed and laughed—except one girl in the first row.

"What's the matter?" asked the Latin teacher. "Haven't you got a sense of humour?"

"I don't have to laugh," said the girl, "I'm transferring to another school Friday."

Breaks Bottes In Attempt To Destroy Evidence

Clutching a case of beer as he was standing on Water St. shortly after midnight Frank Grisdale of 376½ Water St. suddenly saw two police officers approaching. Grisdale knew that he was offending the law by having the liquor because he had previously been placed on the interdicted list.

Apparently in an attempt to make the beer vanish, he proceeded to smash the case, which contained 24 pints of ale. His hand was cut in the process, but there was still ample evidence that he was in possession of beer when he should not have been.

"I got it from a friend", Grisdale told Sgt. Percy Sexsmith and Constable Ed. Niziol.

As a result of this admission, Grisdale was charged Saturday in city police court with having liquor which was not purchased against his permit. Minimum penalty for this offence is a $100 fine.

In the absence of Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., court does not sit officially on Saturdays—James Fleming, J.P. remanded Grisdale on $300 bail until Monday.

Mishaps Claim 15 Lives During Weekend

By The Canadian Press

Five Ontario residents were killed on Cemetery Hill when their automobile, in which they were returning from a Muskoka district cottage, crashed head-on into a truck, 20 miles northwest of Toronto. The collision late Saturday near Schomberg, was gravest of the mishaps which claimed 15 lives in Ontario during the weekend.

Victims of the Schomberg crash were Robert Hamilton, his wife and 12-year-old daughter, Margaret, his mother, Mrs. James Hibbert and Mrs. Hamilton's father, Patrick Tuohy. All the victims were from Hamilton.

Scott Tomenson, 18, was killed near Roche's Point when his automobile rolled over into a ditch. A companion, Harry Keenan, 16, was taken to hospital. At London, Dan McDaniels, 19, of London, was killed when his taxi was struck by a passenger train at a level crossing. A passenger, Matthew Monteith, about 25, of London was taken to hospital in serious condition.

In Ontario's second truck-automobile collision, 61-year-old Ira Jackson of Kitchener was killed when his car was sideswiped by a heavy dump truck. The two vehicles, locked together by the impact, skidded 40 feet before crashing into a ditch.

Donald McLeod, 21, of Bayfield, driver of the truck, and his two passengers were uninjured.

Hit By Truck

Struck by a truck while riding a bicycle near his Clear Creek home, Bruce E. Loucks, 13, died while being rushed to a doctor. Driver of the truck, Earl Ball, also of Clear Creek, escaped injury although his truck crashed into the ditch and snapped off a telephone pole.

In the first six months of this year, 323 persons have been reported killed in traffic accidents in Ontario. This is 79 more than during the corresponding period of 1948. There were 44 traffic deaths in May of this year and 65 deaths were reported for June.

Two drownings were reported during the cool Ontario weekend. Allan Wood, 10, was drowned in Lake Erie, near Chatham, while chasing a beach ball in the water. At Leamington, Clarence Popkey, 19, was drowned while swimming in Lake Erie at Point Pele national park.

Four deaths due to miscellaneous causes were reported in Ontario. At St. Thomas, John Blakely, 52, died from injuries suffered when the team of horses, pulling a mower he was driving, bolted, throwing him into the arm of the mower blades and dragging him halfway across a field. In a freak accident at Ipperwash, Robert Lattimore, seven, was killed when a bolt of lightning struck him while he was running along the beach at the Lake Huron resort. Douglas Fairbairn, 25, Ottawa Hydro worker was electrocuted while trimming a tree. At Ontario, William Cronin, 69, died from injuries suffered when he fell from a ladder while painting his home.

Catholic Priest Believe Spirit Writes Answers

LIVELY GROVE, Ill., July 11. (CP).—A Roman Catholic priest expressed belief Sunday that mysterious happenings at a farm near here were centring around 11-year - old Jerome Greten "might have been the work of his guardian angel." Rev. Edward Dahmus, parish priest at nearby St. Libory, said in reply to a question: "I couldn't say it was a miracle, only that it was very unusual."

The priest made an investigation and reported a "spirit" on several occasions wrote brief answers to question he asked in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Greten and several neighbors.

The priest said the messages were written on paper in Jerome's room. None of the messages were written while persons in the room were looking at the paper and pencil, he added.

Father Dahmus said the spirit wrote that it loved "Mary, the mother of God" and when asked whether it had ever been on earth in bodily form, answers "X-yes."

The pencil was thrown across the floor on several occasions, the priest said, when questions that might be considered improper were asked.

Mrs. J. E. Roxburgh Buried At Norwood

Funeral service for Mrs. John Ewing Roxburgh (Laetitia Meharry) were conducted this afternoon in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at Norwood by the minister, the Rev. R. D. Duncanson.

Mrs. Roxburgh's death occurred on Friday, July 8, shortly after admittance to the Peterborough Civic Hospital, following a lingering illness. She was the beloved wife of the late John Ewing Roxburgh of "Cessnock", Norwood, and is the last to bear the name of this prominent family in the district. Her parents were the late Hugh Blackstock Meharry and his wife Anna Fletcher of Fairmount, Cavan, and she was a granddaughter of the late Robert Meharry and Laetitia Blackstock who were pioneers of Cavan township.

Keep Careful Guard On Russian Freighter

PHILADELPHIA, July 11 (CP)—Secrecy and conflicting reports and actions today veiled the carefully-guarded Russian freighter Dmitry Donsky which is anchored in the Delaware river.

Immigration officials said the Soviet crew members were free to come ashore. A coast guard boat, however, kept constant vigil on the foreign ship, preventing anyone from disembarking.

The Philadelphia Inquirer quoted a Federal spokesman who asked anonymity as saying the ship is being guarded to bar a possible attempt by Valentin Gubitchev to leave the country.

Gubitchev, a Soviet engineer employed by the United Nations, is free on bail awaiting trial with Judith Coplon in New York on charges of spying for Russia. Miss Coplon recently was convicted in Washington on a charge of having transmitted government documents to unauthorized persons.

Petes Defeated In OLA Tilt By Owen Sound

OWEN SOUND, July 11—The sharp-shooting Owen Sound Crescents had little trouble subduing the tail-end Peterborough Lumberjacks, 18-5, here Saturday night in an OLA senior "A" contest The win put the Crescents back in sole possession of first place in the loop.

After that the Peterborough defense slipped and the Crescents punched home three goals in the third quarter and nine in the last session while holding the Petes to one goal in the last minute of play.

Don Ashbee scored four goals for the Crescents to lead the sniping parade, while Don Campbell and Harry Kazarian each nicked two and two assists. Russ Slater and Don McWhirter scored twice each with single counters going to Jack Mason, Bun White, Doug Gillespie, Fred Smith, Bill Allum and Marlow Woods.

Kesselring Wins Ont. Golf Crown

KITCHENER, July 11 (CP)—Tall, easy-going Gerry Kesselring, Kitchener, is the new Ontario amateur golf champion.

His victory in the final, played over the par-71 Westmount course here Sunday also earned him a place on Ontario's 1949 Willingdon cup team.

The 21-year-old Kesselring was tied with George Eluck, of Windsor after the regulation 36-hole final and he went to the 38th before winning out. His deciding shot was a 15-foot putt which he sunk for a birdie two.

It was sweet victory for the former Canadian and Ontario junior champion. He started his drive on the 35th tee—when he was one hole down—and followed up with four consecutive birdies for the title.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

You like bargains, huh? Well, go to the Bowl d'Ashburnham tomorrow night at 6.45—it's 1845 hours army time—and for two bits you can see three men's softball games. Not exhibitions, mind you, but three important seven-inning scraps with the playoffs just ahead. In fact, top spot is at stake tonight, and OASA certificates go out after this evening for playdowns, so these tilts are highly important. Uniteds play Outlaws and then the Jewellers, in the first two, making it a busy eve for the Hancock-Fontaine fellows. Cosmos tackle knights in the nightcap.

Cobourg ballsters declined to keep their Lakeshore Baseball League date with the Young Petes on Saturday, saying all Saturday games are afternoon affairs. They were advised by the locals that it was agreed verbally at the schedule meeting that when COBL teams were performing at home—like Oshawa or the Petes—then the lakeshore tilts would be evening affairs. But they replied that it wasn't in writing in the minutes. Pretty crumby, we think, and just an excuse as some of their players weren't available for Saturday eve. So, the tilt was switched to this evening at 6.30 in Riverside. We trust it draws well.

More Wretched Luck

No senior ball game in Riverside on Saturday. Folks have been wanting rain for more than a month, but did it have to sprinkle steadily for just an hour or so before a COBL contest here? Anyway, they celled it off, and fans would have seen a nifty number between Oshawa and the Petes. The local club has run into heavy grief financially this season between minor sprinkles just before game time, redhot weather on open-air bleachers, and such like. The Petes are leading the loop but well in the hole financially. A tough break. The answer? Lights in Riverside for night games.

Bill Sweetman is back on a visit from Flint, Michigan, and we are glad to see him. Bill lived here quite a spell when his dad was in charge at the Brinton Co. The family moved back to the States during the 30s and Bill—who married a local lass—does his stuff now in Flint. He shone in the old EPL when gents like Bill Kay, Art Primeau, Phonse Brioux, Bill Prindible, Charlie Curtis and others, ran a good loop. Later, he moved up to senior ball company along with Tommy Foley, Fred Ash, Russ Kitchen, Red Hollingsworth and others. Bill is as keen on ball today as when he played short for the Petes, and he still follows the team's doings.

Lasses Looking Ahead

Let's see what's doing in the Girls' Softball League, which uses the Bowl over east every Monday, Wednesday and Friday eve. They've got a little better than three weeks to go yet in their schedule, and then the playoffs. Prexy Bill Bennett will be announcing the playoff setup shortly, with a couple of the winners hitting into PWSU playdowns in August. It's been a good season generally for the lasses so far, and it should be plenty interesting the rest of the route as they scramble for playoff spots. Tonight, CGE plays Lock Co. at the Bowl at seven, followed by Lindsay vs. Woollens. Wednesday sees Woollens meeting Electrics, as Lindsay tackles Marines.

Owen Sound Crescents went back on top of the OLA senior "A" heap Saturday night at home when they defeated the Petes 18-5. It was a tight 6-4 tussle the first half, but the Petes' defence cracked under the steady second-half pressure applied by the leaders and it turned into a scoring parade for the Sounders. The loss of Leo Teatero early in the second quarter, with a bruised knee, hurt, and Lou Vitarelli was still side-lined through a suspension—which must be about up now. Horton and Shortridge tangled in the third quarter, and Foote and Mason mixed it in the fourth. The Petes play Brampton here Wednesday p.m. in a "father and son" fray.

Electrics Tied In Soccer By O'Hallorans

CGE lost a valuable league point Saturday afternoon to O'Halloran's in a soccer game at King Edward Park with the final count one-all. Art Jones, from Cobourg, gave a superb exhibition in goal for O'Halloran's, being backed up with Hutchinson and Smart on the defense. Best for CGE were Cotton and Craig.

Despite rain both teams started with men short but CGE rounded up their full quota against the O'Halloran nine men while Art Downer refused to play with the referee appointed. It was evident that the Electrics would have to battle to the limit to beat Art Jones, who gave one of the best exhibitions of goal-keeping seen in the city. O'Hallorans relied upon breakaways to harass their over-anxious opponents. Eventually Henry Foster beat two men and drove hard for goal where Chamberlain saved but Foster got the re-bound to register the only goal in the first half.

On resuming, CGE bombarded the O'Halloran citadel from all angles without success. Cotton manoeuvred positions time and again in an effort to find an opening and he was successful after 20 minutes of play when he gathered up a loose ball to find the inside corner of the upright to equalise the count. O'Halloran's went right back to score through Smith who got the ball off McGann to pick the inside of the goal posts, but is was disallowed on an infringement previous to that play.

The teams:

O'Halloran's Garage—A. Jones, goal; C. B. Smart, and J. Hutchinson, full backs; H. Murduff, C. E. Smith, A. Langley, half backs; H. Foster, F. Dyer, E. L. Duffus, and H. Latham, forwards.

CGE—J. Chamberlain, goal; S. McGann, and J. Titchell, full backs; H. Steel, J. Craig and C. Murduff, half backs; R. Strong, F. Attard, R. Tollington, D. Gourley and E. Cotton, forwards.

Referee, J. Adams; Linesmen, R. Wilson and R. Hannah.

ALL-AMERICAN HONEYMOON—Frank Tripucka, Notre Dame quarterback, rides with his bride, the former Randy Jewkes, at Lake Louise, high in the Canadian Rockies. Both are from Bloomfield, N.J.

Report Joe DiMaggio May Play All-Star

BROOKLYN, July 11 (AP) — Joe DiMaggio may be in the starting line-up tomorrow when the American League's star-studded array faces the National League's best in the 16th annual all-star game at Ebbets Field.

The way was paved for DiMaggio's appearance as a starter when Tommy Henrich, his New York Yankee teammate, and No. 1 choice for the starting right fielder berth, said he did not think he would be fit to play. Henrich suffered a knee injury a week ago and has been out of the lineup since.

Manager Lou Boudreau of the Americans has given no indication as to who will take Henrich's place, but it would come as no surprise to see Joltin' Joe patrol the right-field sector.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP is a lot of little things

TEACH THE CHILDREN TO SWIM

Swimming days are here again! It's a wonderful sport . . . but it can be a dangerous one, particularly for the kiddies. You can help remove this danger. For example, never let the youngsters go into the water except under the supervision of an adult swimmer—and as soon as they are ready, teach them to swim! Next time the kiddies want to go for a dip, round up the gang and go with them: You can guide them—guard them . . . and surely that is "Good Citizenship".

You can help this public service effort. Make a note of some of the little things which, in your opinion, contribute to Good Citizenship.

Leafs Divide Twin Bill With Montreal

By The Associated Press

Husky Steve Bilko is living up to his reputation as a "right handed Johnny Mize."

The 19-year-old rookie first baseman of Rochester Red Wings is belting some of the longest home runs in the memory of International League scribes and fans.

Bilko slammed his 17th and 18th home runs of the season Sunday. The blows featured Rochester's 12-0 victory over the league-leading Buffalo Bisons in the second game of a double-header. The Bisons won the opener, 11-5.

The Wings slammed five homers in their 15-hit drive against three Buffalo pitchers. Bilko, Russ Derry and Ralph Lapointe homered in the third. Derry's blast was his 20th of the season. Bilko and Ed Miercowicz connected for the distance in the fourth.

Montreal Royals and Toronto Maple Leafs also divided a double-header. Leafs took the opener 3-1 behind the seven-hit pitching of Al Porto and the Royals the nightcap, 7-1.

Bill Glynn drove home two runs with his 17th homer and single while George Schmees accounted for Montreal's marker with his ninth homer of the season.

Clyde King stopped the Leafs on five safeties in gaining his 12th win against only one loss in the windup. The Royals decided matters with a five-run blast against Lefty Oscar Judd in the second.

Robinson Sparks Dodgers To 7-3 Win Over Giants

By RALPH RODEN,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Pennants are won by great pitching staffs but Brooklyn Dodgers haven't got one so they're basing their hopes on a crackerjack infield—Gil Hodges, Jackie Robinson, Pee Wee Reese and Billy Cox.

Robinson especially is singled out as the man that is doing the most to keep the citizens of Flatbush happy.

Jackie, first Negro to play in the majors, is the Dodgers' chief offensive threat. The all-star second baseman leads the majors in hitting with a lofty .362 mark and is tops in other departments. Robinson came through in the clutch twice in the rain and mud at Ebbett's Field Sunday to help beat New York Giants 7-3 and keep the Dodgers in first place.

Robbie singled with the bases loaded in the third to give the Dodgers a 2-1 lead. Sid Gordon poled his 16th homer with a mate aboard in the fourth to put the Giants ahead again. Gene Hermanski snarled the count with a homer in the fifth. Then Duke Snider opened the seventh with a triple and Robinson sent him home with a single for the winning run.

A defeat would have dropped the Dodgers into second place as the runner-up St. Louis Cardinals scored a double triumph over the Reds.

Harry (The Cat) Brecheen pitched the Red Birds to a 4-2 triumph in the opener and Lefty Al Brazle downed the Reds 7-4 in the finale.

Smash Lucky Streak

The last-place Chicago Cubs smashed Pittsburgh's eight-game winning streak, blasting the Pirates 8-6 and 9-6.

Phil Cavarretta was the batting star in the opener, driving home five runs on a pair of triples, a double and a single. Ralph Kiner socked two four baggers for the Pirates to increase his total to 28, best in the majors.

Bobby Feller received credit for a 7-4 triumph over St. Louis Browns in a game called at the end of six frames because of rain. Jackie Graham caused Feller the most grief, driving home all the St. Louis runs with a pair of homers.

Boston Red Sox took both ends of a twin bill from Philadelphia Athletics 8-5 and 11-10 to stretch their winning streak to seven games.

Dom DiMaggio decided the opener when he highlighted a five-run fourth inning uprising with a three-run circuit belt. Sam Chapman clouted two homers and Hank Majeski one off Ellis Kinder to account for all of Philadelphia's markers. In the second game, Ted Williams poled his 20th homer during a game-winning three-run rally in the fourth.

Detroit and Chicago split a pair of games, the White Sox taking the opener 4-2 and the Tigers the nightcap 1-0.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

A broad hint that Central Ontario may become the permanent location for national track and field championships and trials was was given Saturday at Montreal by George Machum, president of the British Empire Games Association of Canada. The hint was coupled with a sharp reply to western critics who charge that selection of Toronto as this year's venue for the B. E. games trials is another example of the east hogging the show.

Machum termed it "an approach to commonsense" and "thinking on a national basis" to put championships and trials "within the easiest reach of the majority" of athletes rather than force the majority "to travel the longest distance." For that reason "it is obvious that the best place for all tournaments in Canada is Central Ontario, and this may be the case in the future."

Machum stressed that venue selection does not rest with his association or games committee; it is the responsibility of the AAU of C's national committee governing each sport concerned.

Pete Collins, a slight, bespectacled music teacher from Acadia University, Wolfville, N. S., Saturday took top honors in the British Empire Games marathon trial over the 26-mile route at Hamilton. He did the distance in 2:48.47.2. Collins made his successful bid for victory at the 24-mile mark when he pulled away from Gerard Cote of St. Hyacinthe, Que., with a terrific burst of speed. Cote, who finished third, was beaten out in the last mile by George Norman of Toronto.

Dan Thornton, wealthy Colorado cattleman, said Sunday night he'd like to buy the world champion Cleveland Indians Baseball Club "if the price is right." but, he added, "any deal is just in the negotiation stage." At Chicago, President Bill Veeck of the Indians said he has never heard of Thornton or any deal involving him.

In a tournament decided on the last green, Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Sunday won the $15,000 Reading, (Pa.) open golf tournament with a 72-hole score of 266. Middlecoff, the national open champion, finished one stroke ahead of the P. G. A. titleholder, Sammy Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Welterweight champion Ray Robinson, still struggling to make the weight after three weeks of training risks his crown tonight against hustling young Kid Gavilan of Cuba in a 15-rounder in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium. The 23-year-old Gavilan is rated as at least 25 per cent better than last September when Robinson beat him in a non-title bout.

Will Harridge, American League President, has suspended George Vico, Detroit first baseman, for 10 days and fined him $100 for throwing his bat into a box seat during an argument with an umpire at Chicago Friday night.

James D. Norris, young Detroit millionaire, has been named president of the International Boxing Club it was announced Saturday.

Calumet Farm's Duchess Peg, two-year-old daughter of Whirlaway, three-year-old champion of 1941, Saturday snatched the six-furlong $56,375 Arlington Lassie Stakes at Arlington Park in a photo finish over P. A. Markey's fast closing Baby Comet.

The National Boxing Association said today it will recognize the winner of the forthcoming British heavyweight championship bout between Lee Savold and Bruce Woodcock as the leading contender for Ezzard Charles' NBA heavyweight crown. Fred J. Saddy, chairman of the NBA rating committee, announcing the NBA quarterly ratings, noted that Savold and Woodcock were rated just below Charles in view of the impending British title clash.

T. P. (Tommy) Gorman, Ottawa promoter, said Saturday that Barbara Ann Scott should earn $100,000 or more" as star in a 10,000 mile cross country skating show. Gorman heads National Sports Enterprises, a company formed to sponsor the tour, starting in Winnipeg next October. He said in an interview that advance bookings indicated that the show would sell out in the 44 cities to be played, thus indicating at least $100,000.

Fans Demanding MaleCheesecake From Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS,

HOLLYWOOD, July 11 (AP)—Here's the newest thing under the Hollywood sun—male cheesecake.

Ever since Mack Sennett's bathing girls, Hollywood cheesecake has sold like—well, cheesecake. Now it is getting another gender, reports Robert Ryan.

The actor discovered this after starring as the punchy fighter in "The Set-up." It is his first post-war film in which he showed his naked chest. Since then a vast amount of his fan mail asks for his photo specifying he should be as undraped as possible.

And when he tours the country, photographers have been asking him to do a Gypsy Rose Lee before the shutters click. All this amazes big Bob.

Please Customers

"Heck, I'm no Tarzan," he says, adding with a canny eye to business, "but if that's what they want I'll give it to 'em."

Ryan hinted the male cheesecake trend might come from a belief that male stars wear falsies too.

"I think the public has an idea we're blown up with air," he said. "Actually, film actors have better builds than the average American male. They have to; it's part of their business."

To prove his theory, Ryan offered the perfect Hollywood male, composed of the best parts of the community:

Neck—Lex Barker.
Shoulders—Alan Ladd.
Chest—Kirk Douglas.
Arms—Robert Mitchum.
Mid-section and hips—Sterling Hayden.
Legs—Errol Flynn.

Ryan mentioned others with good all-round shapes: Bill Williams, Vic Mature, Donald O'Connor, Guy Madison, and in the small, handy size, Mickey Rooney.

Weekend Pilgrimage Held To Shrine

MIDLAND, July 11 (CP)—Services were held Sunday at the Martyr's Shrine here as part of a weekend pilgrimage marking the 300th anniversary of the deaths of Jean de Brebeuf and Gcabriel Lalemant, Jesuit missionaries to the Hurons, burned at the stake here.

Bishop R. H. Dignan, of the Roman Catholic diocese of Sault Ste. Marie, sang solemn High Mass during the portion of the tercentenary devoted to the Indian nations of old Huronia. Father Michael Jacobs, of Caughnawaga, near Montreal, who claims to be the only Iroquois priest in the world, addressed Indian pilgrims in the native tongue.

Cuts Off Imports

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, July 11 (CP)—Trinidad, Canada's biggest customer in the British West Indies, Saturday suspended all imports from dollar areas. Thus, the flow of exports—notably grains and manufactured goods—from the Dominion to Trinidad ceases immediately. The island's purchases in Canada last year totalled $30,000,000.

VOL. XCIX, No. 8 — MONDAY, JULY 11, 1949 — PRICE FIVE CENTS

UE Suspension Upheld By Pat Conroy

OTTAWA, July 11 — (CP) — Pat Conroy, secretary-treasurer, of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said today the recent suspension of officers of the United Electrical Workers was in no way an invasion of democratic rights.

Mr. Conroy sent a telegram replying to C. S. Jackson, president of District No. 5 Council of the UEW, who had protested that the executive council of the CCL was interfering with autonomous rights of his union.

The CCL executive council last week suspended Jackson and four other officials of the Communist-tinged UEW for "slanderous and misleading" statements which have appeared in the UEW official newspaper. The suspension meant that the five men, whose names appeared in the masthead of the paper, will be denied voice or vote in any convention, federation or council of the CCL.

Mr. Jackson said the council was interfering with the autonomous rights of the union and protested against what he called an invasion of the democratic right of the membership to decide who should represent them at congress bodies.

In the telegram of reply Mr. Conroy said "democratic rights are in no way invaded by the imposition of restrictions upon those who seek to vilify their associates on every conceivable occasion."

Democratic rights, he added, could not properly be used as "a cloak to carry on a campaign of sabotage and character assassination."

He referred to a story in the UEW publication which started the series of investigations leading to the suspension, and threat of suspension for the whole union if publication of such stories continued.

An editorial appearing in the paper referred to federation officers in such terms as "union-splitting," "war-mongering," and accused them of using "Hitler-like tactics."

NEW ADDITIONS TO ZOO—The above pictures are reproduced today to introduce to the citizens of Peterborough Sarah, new mate of Cephas, the male swan, and Peter, young buck deer, which have just been added to the growing population of the wildlife sanctuary in Moore Park otherwise known as the Utilities Commission's filtration plant property. Cephas (left) and Sarah are swimming around happily in the enclosed pool which is now the home of both, while at the right caretaker Purdy Young is shown feeding Peter (right) and Betty, the doe which has been in the park for the past 12 years or so.

5000 Orangemen Walk In Oshawa

OSHAWA, July 11—Orangemen 5,000 strong from Belleville, Peterborough, Trenton, Toronto, and other Ontario points Saturday formed Oshawa's biggest July 12th parade in the past 17 years.

A morning parade to the city cenotaph started the observances, and a wreath was laid and memorial service held in honor of Orangemen who fell in two world wars.

In the afternoon the main parade was held to Alexandra Park, where the marchers were officially welcomed by Mayor Michael Starr. Heavy rainfall during the afternoon did not dampen spirits of the celebrating lodge members.

Gordon Crawford, Ontario county marshal, portrayed King William III.

Travel Via Bancroft From Camp Petawawa

Hamilton's Eight Field Regiment, made up of batteries from Hamilton and Dundas, passed through Peterborough early Sunday morning returning from a week at Camp Petawawa. In the convoy were 11 troop carrying vehicles, four 25-pounders with ammunition trailers, and two jeeps.

They left camp on Saturday stopping at Bancroft for the night. The convoy was trying to reach Hamilton by nightfall.

Batteries in the Regiment are the 11th and 40th from Hamilton and the 102nd from Dundas.

Gasoline Sales Permitted Until Midnight

An agreement between the Peterborough Garage Operators' Association and the City Council the 15 per cent of the garage operators, who are given a permit each week to stay open until 10 p.m. are now allowed to remain open until midnight if they so desire.

Under the existing bylaw, which has been contested by non-members of the Garage Operators' Association the hours for the stations to remain open are from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. Fifteen per cent of the garage operators are given permission to stay open until 10 p.m. daily every week and be open from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Sunday. Under the new agreement they also can remain open on Sundays until midnight.

The present agreement is only good for the months of July and August.

The City Council realized earlier in June that something should be done during the summer months to have stations open to provide service to tourists and authorized Mayor M. J. Swanston to make some arrangements with the Association without interfering with the bylaw. With the result Mayor Swanston met with the directors of the Association and solicitors for both parties who agreed to the new hours suggested.

Varied Activities On Playgrounds

Doll Wagon parades, pet shows, radio broadcasts and a weekly newspaper are included on the menu of the city playgrounds supervised by the Recreation Commission. Playground supervisors and specialists reported Saturday on the first week's activities.

At Fleming Place Wednesday the children will be broadcasting to the neighborhood. Star talent has been lined up for the mock program. Under Amy Curtis at Hamilton Park a pet show will be conducted Wednesday. On the same day a play day will be held at Inverlea Park. Points for the summer program's annual competition will be the prizes. Doll wagons will be on display at the McKellar totlot Wednesday, and field day will be held at King Edward Park with points to count for competition.

Under Patsy Martyn at Fleming Place playground a weekly paper will be published each week. The first edition will be off the press this weekend.

Zoo, Aviary, Lawns, Trees Filtration Park Pleasures

Peterborough's zoo, located on the well-kept grounds of the Utilities Commission's filtration plant, is steadily increasing, in population and popularity. Contributing to the former is the arrival within the past few days of an additional young buck deer, a mate for "Cephas", the zoo's male swan, and three pea fowl (one cock and two hens). It is hoped that in the near future the population will be still further increased, as the sanctuary has also just received three dozen assorted pheasant eggs, which have been placed in an incubator in the cellar of Foreman Tom Miller's home on the grounds.

The filtration plant grounds have become more popular with Peterborough citizens for another reason, the setting up of picnic tables in the northern part of the propery, many improvements to which have been made this year. A week ago Sunday when the city was still sweltering in a record heat wave, the park was jammed with cars and people cooling off under the trees.

Provincial Department Helps

The citizens have the Honorable Harold R. Scott, minister of Lands and Forests, to thank for the zoo additions, as it was through his good offices that they were obtained from the Provincial Reforestation Division at Midhurst, five miles north of Barrie. The Hon. Mr. Scott has taken a considerable interest in the sanctuary, and has been instrumental in securing many other additions from time to time.

"Cephas" looked very proud and happy swimming around with his new mate, when an Examiner reporter and photographer paid a visit over the week-end to "Moore Park," as the grounds are officially designated. The pool in which the swans reside has in its centre a floating, roofed-over home with a nest built inside, so perhaps before long the park may also be able to boast of several cygnets.

Just to the north of the swans' home, "Peter," the newly-arrived buck deer, was making himself very much at home with "Betty," the doe which has been in the park for the past 12 years or so. In celebration of "Peter's" arrival, Mr. Miller has just installed a new fountain in the pen, which will make the job of quenching the beautiful animals' thirst much easier for both them and Mr. Miller.

Needless to say, in view of the continuing drought, the water in it is turned on very low at present. "Peter" is very friendly and tame, having a penchant for picking screwdrivers out of Mr. Miller's pockets. Four more deer live in the northern section of the park, which is a much larger home and is kept as far as possible in its natural state. Twin deer were born here about three weeks ago, shortly before the arrival of "Peter."

Deodorized Skunk

The new pea fowl are housed in a pen just north of the filtration plant. Peterborough folk will have to wait a while, however, to feast upon their multi-coloured plumage, as it will take about three years for it to develop completely.

Not to be outdone in keeping up with the park's population increase, "Jerry the Skunk," a 2½-months-old specimen of that at times odoriferous creature, has also joined the sanctuary's numbers. Mr. Miller says that "Jerry" is behaving very well, though, not causing any offence to anyone. He is deodorized.

Just in case anyone has forgotten, here is a recapitulation of the other and older residents of the zoo: black ,mallard, Muscovy, and wood ducks, blue and Canada geese, golden, Japanese, ring-neck, silver, and Lady Amhurst pheasants, "Bo-Bo," African monkey, four racoons, two foxes, one black bear, three white Angora rabbits, two ring-neck, white doves, and three guinea pigs.

Scarce Wood-Ducks

The wood ducks are becoming scarcer all the time, according to Mr. Miller, and he is finding it difficult to get the ones in the park to lay. He read in a magazine that they might lay eggs if nests were built inside two nail kegs in the ground, and he is trying this method out to see how it works.

Among improvements planned in the newly-opened northern section of the park is a cedar hedge, to replace the Chinese elm one presently there. Many new trees have been planted, including elm, maple, spruce, pine, and larch.

Fountain Off

Filtration Plant officials deeply regret the necessity of keeping the park's beautiful colored fountain shut off at the present time, but they feel that they can hardly do otherwise when the Utilities Commission has prohibited citizens from watering their lawns until it really rains hard. An exception was made the other day to please an American tourist, who had made several trips to the park just to see the fountain in action, only to be disappointed each time. When James Harrison, chief operator of the plant, turned it on for him and his family for a few minutes they were much delighted and went away singing the praises of Peterborough and its attractions.

Sell Uranium Mines?

BERLIN, July 11 (Reuters)—Uranium mines in the Soviet zone of Germany may soon pass to German ownership, the British-controlled newspaper Welt Am Sonntag said Sunday. The newspaper reported the Soviet military administration is negotiating to sell the mines to the government of the province of Saxony. The Saxon government would undertake to deliver to the Soviet Union in monthly shipments.

Toronto Man Drowned At Birds' Creek

BANCROFT, July 11—(ENS)—E. J Cook, 46, of 49 Pine Crescent, Toronto, was drowned Sunday evening while fishing with his family at Bird's Creek, five miles north of here. Cottagers at Lake Baptiste, they went fishing along the creek early in the afternoon. Mr. Cooks went further along the stream bank and first indications that something was wrong was when one of his children noticed his hat floating on the water.

Mrs. Cooke investigated immediately and found her husband in the water. Word was sent immediately to Bancroft and Coroner Dr. O. W. Anderson and Provincial Constable Douglas Ketchison drove to the scene of the tragedy, the former pronouncing death due to drowning.

In communication with Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan of Belleville, it was decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The body is being taken to Cannington for burial. Mrs. Cooke, the former Alice Amey, and two children, ages 7 and 12 years survive.

Nathaniel Pearson, 91 Dies At Buckhorn

A well-known figure in the Buckhorn district, Nathaniel Pearson, died on Sunday at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Vernon Graham in his 92nd year. He was born in Rochester, NY, son of the late Harvey Pearson and Elizabeth Freeburn, and came to Buckhorn about 40 years ago from Scott's Mills. His wife, the former Jane Mooney, predeceased him 33 years ago.

He leaves two daughters in Buckhorn, Mrs. Vernon Graham (Minnie) and Mrs. Robert Fulton (Gladys) and a brother, Harvey Pearson of Colborne. There are seven grand and five great-grandchildren.

Mr. Pearson managed the Windsor Hotel in Buckhorn for a number of years and was of the Presbyterian faith.

Funeral service will be held at the Graham residence on Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. The Rev. Kenneth Stewart, assisted by Mr. Samuel Wood, will officiate and burial will be at Lakefield Cemetery.

Rev. Ivan C. Morgan Fifth Generation Of Founder Of Church Preaches Anniversary

DENFIELD, July 11.—(CP).—The 115th anniversary of Denfield Baptist church was marked Sunday with special services preached by Rev. Ivan C. Morgan of Peterborough, a great-great-grandson of the original Morgan family which settled here in 1818.

The Morgan family was one of three original Welsh families which founded this community and called it Brecon village.

The present brick church, considered one of the largest rural churches in the district, was built in 1890 — the third edifice in which Baptists worshipped here.

The three Welsh families found that only Wesleyan Methodist ministers toured the area, and under the influence of Calvanist preacher, founded a Baptist log church in 1834—the first of its kind in London township—with 42 members.

Future Of Elm Threatened By Dutch Beetle

Elm trees in the Peterborough district are not yet infested with the Dutch Elm Disease beetle, according to Frank Paterson, local agricultural representative. And that's something to be thankul for.

Since the dark little beetle arrived in the eastern United States 14 years ago the disease has wiped out about 25 per cent of the elms in the New England States. About six years ago the insects reached Canada, transported to the Montreal docks by means of wooden elm packing cases.

Already they have ravaged parts of Quebec and reached into eastern Ontario.

But the mere fact the disease is not in this locality is no cause for complacency. Mr. Paterson is pessimistic about the future of the elm tree on this continent, including those of Peterborough.

"I predict that within 100 years there will not be an elm tree in North America," he said. "It will work through the continent."

Fate of the Chestnut

The Dutch Elm Disease and other diseases that prey on that tree would complete the continental sweep, eliminating the elm similar to the sweet chestnut tree.

At one time, he recalled, there were hundreds of thousands of feet of sweet chestnut in this country—particularly in Norfolk, Elgin and Middlesex counties. Then it was struck by a disease that could not be controlled.

The result: 15 years ago the last whole tree was cut; and 10 years ago the last infested one. According to this pessimistic view a similar fate awaits the elm.

Mr. Paterson was skeptical of a Canadian Press report that some of the stately elm trees of St. Thomas have fallen victim to the insidious little beetle. To the best of his knowledge the limit of the pest's progress was the Ontario boundary, and he doubted that it had got as far as St. Thomas.

There is no sure means of visual identification, he told the Examiner. Specimens have to be sent to the Division of Entomology, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, for examination. A culture must be prepared before there can be any degree of surety.

Many people hear about the disease and immediately assume that any ailing elm tree must be inflicted if they themselves cannot diagnose the trouble, he stated. Hence a great deal of false alarm.

At St. Thomas the elm trees around the YWCA are infested with grubs. Thousands of small yellow caterpillars from a quarter to a half inch in length have attacked them, and they are reported to be in small piles and clusters on the ground below.

Specimens of both caterpillars and infected leaves have been sent to the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, where H. W. Goble, Professor of Entomology, has suggested it might be caused by the Dutch Elm Disease.

Tacks On Poles Fret Hydro Men

Hydro poles studded with tacks and nails have become a menace to hydro workers in Peterborough and other cities and towns where posters are tacked up.

Peterborough Utilities Commission manager Ross Dobbin said several of his men have contracted blood poisoning after scraping their hands on the tacks while climbing the poles in past years.

There are still quite a few election posters on poles although many of them were put up in spite of a bylaw, Mr. Dobbin said. Official posters issued by Returning Officer Arthur J. McClellan could legally be tacked up until the day after the election when they were supposed to have been taken down.

In Windsor where election posters were plastered on every pole in sight, the general manager of the Utilities Commission has ordered all candidates to tear down the posters. He said one hydro lineman fell from the pole when one of his climbing spikes struck a nail and slipped.

Lad Swims River When Discovered In Club House

One lad swam the river and two others ran along the river bank when they realized they had been discovered breaking into the Quaker Oats tennis club house Saturday evening by two city police officers.

The three lads, in their early teens, were found by Sgt. Leo Murphy and Constable Grant Gillespie in the club house around 8 p.m. after it had been closed by members owing to the wet weather. They ran to the river bank when they found their prank had been discovered and one swam the river and got out on the west bank.

Sgt. Murphy, who has told the boys to report to Chief Constable John Thompson today, when they will be reprimanded, says the lads admit stealing six tennis balls from the club house.

Men, Not Coins, Tossed On Bet

A 50-cent bet between two young men that one could not throw the other over his shoulder resulted in an amusing description in city police court today.

Donald Cowan, 318 Elias Ave., and Ted Bosley, 96 Lynch St., were both charged with causing a disturbance in the yard behind Kingan's Hardware Store. Bosley failed to appear in court but Cowan described the incident and was acquitted by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC.

After placing the bet, the two boys went behind the store with a group of friends and while Bosley tried to throw Cowan a number of other spectators gathered round to see the fun.

Cowan told the magistrate that Bosley was lighter than he but managed to lift him off the ground without being able to throw him. Eventually they both fell on the ground which was muddy—it was a wet evening—but they did not fight and there was no bad language.

Constable Claire McGillen said that the incident resulted in two 'phone calls to the police station and when he brought the boys to the station, neither was in very good shape.

Raybestos-UE Dispute Goes To Conciliation

A Conciliation Board has been appointed by the Labor Minister in an attempt to end the deadlock in negotiations between the Canadian Raybestos Co. Ltd., and Local 527 UE-CIO. Talks have been going on since April when the contract expired, according to the original terms of the agreement.

The contract was then extended to April 16 and by mutual agreement will now remain in force until seven days after the report of the Conciliation Board.

Raybestos workers through their union are asking for a 40-hour week with the same take-home pay, improved union security, namely a union shop; a general wage increase; vacations of two weeks after two years' service, and three weeks after 10 years (at present it is for two weeks after four years and three weeks after 20 years); and also a general tightening of the contract.

The Board will have its first sitting Tuesday at the Public Library with His Honor Judge W. S. Lane of Picton as chairman. J. L. Cohen is the union nominee and E. MacAulay Dillon, K. C., of Toronto will appear for the company.

Carley-Langley Nuptials Held In St. Luke's Church

St. Luke's Anglican Church was the scene of a largely attended wedding ceremony on Saturday afternoon when Margaret Grace Langley became the bride of Mr. Robert Hamilton Carley. She is the younger daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Gordon R. Langley. The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Carley.

Baskets of pink snapdragon with delphinium and gypsophila were at the altar. The Rev. Walter J. Gilling performed the marriage and Mr. Morley Coombes played the wedding music. While the register was signed Mrs. Walter Perry, sister of the bride, sang "Grieg's "I Love Thee."

The bride wore a gown of white slipper satin that was fashioned on simple lines with a cameo neckline on the moulded bodice and long fitted sleeves. The richly gathered skirt fell from a scalloped hipline into a sweeping train. Her full length veil of white tulle was edged with a wide border of heirloom Spanish lace which framed her face and was caught on each side with tiny knots of pearls that came from her mother's wedding dress. She carried a cascade bouquet of Killarney roses and pink sweet peas. Dr. Langley gave his daughter in marriage.

Attendants were Miss Mary Blaiklock maid of honor, Miss Joan Carley, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Frank Walkling of Toronto, bridesmaids. They were in frocks of summer pique in pastel shades of lavender, daffodil yellow and blue, similarly styled on princess lines with a full flared skirt, cap sleeves and a square neckline that was edged with a wide collar of white eyelet lace. Each wore ruffles of matching eyelet lace on her wrists and a circlet of roses, gladioli and delphinium in pastel shades in her hair. They carried cascade bouquets of the same flowers.

Mr. Gerald Monkman was groomsman. Mr. John Langley, Mr. Kenneth Duncan, Mr. Walter Perry and Mr. Thomas Sloan ushered.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 239 Burnham St. Mrs. Langley was gowned in mist grey crepe with a wide white picture hat trimmed with mist tulle and grey and pink roses and she wore a corsage of Briarcliffe roses. Mrs. Carley, mother of the groom, wore a gown of Gainsborough blue crepe with a matching crepe hat and her corsage was of Bettertime roses.

When going away the bride was wearing an elf brown taffeta dress, natural accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Tour of Salmon Cannery Brings Many Fine Recipes

By MARY MOORE.

These folks around home have to be reminded to treat me with proper respect, for I am a seasoned traveller and not without honour in a far country.

In my summer travels in the West, I visited two salmon canneries; one of them our group of one hundred or more newspaper women, which included many Canadian food editors, were taken on a tour through the factory,—right from the wharf where the salmon are brought by the fishermen to the shipping room where the filled, labelled and boxed cans of salmon are ready for sale.

Canning salmon is a most ingenious operation. We saw the fish automatically cleaned and beheaded and de-tailed (what is the word for cutting off a tail?) and scaled and washed and cut into slices for different sizes of tins, be they ¼-lb., ½-lb., or 1-lb. capacity.

We saw the complete operation, during the afternoon of our tour, for filling, seaming, processing, cooling, labelling and boxing one-quarter pound tins.

Then we were invited into the board room of the company and the manager, Mr. Fraser, our host, and the dietition, Miss Daphne McColl, gave us the most beautiful buffet luncheon—featuring canned salmon in a great variety of delicious ways.

There were salmon aspic, salmon loaf, casseroles of salmon with vegetables such as new peas or asparagus or kernel corn; salmon salads, salmon canapes and sandwiches, and salmon and seafood cocktails.

One salmon specialty that I noted down was a large platterful of what looked like salmon steaks, carefully turned out of their tins onto pale green lettuce leaves and becomingly garnished with lemon wedges and parsley and radishes. I certainly intend to remember this idea when a quick company supper is the order of the day.

From time to time during the summer and fall I will print some of these special salmon recipes, so watch for them, for Miss McColl has done an immense amount of work on salmon recipes that Canadian housewives should learn.

Because Jellied Salmon Consomme Salad was one of the most attractive dishes on display I am giving it to you today, for you might want to use it for your week-end guests, for it may be prepared in the 'coolth" of the evening of the day before it is to be served.

Jellied Salmon and Consomme Mould

Salmon Part—Soak 1¼ tablespoons gelatin in ¼ cup cold water for 5 minutes; add 1 cup boiling water and stir until dissolved. Mix together 1 cup diced celery, 1½ lb. can salmon flaked, 1 tablespoon grated onion or chopped chives, ½ cup tart mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon French mustard, ½ teaspoon salt. Add this salmon mixture to the gelatine liquid and pour into loaf pan or round mould. Chill.

Consomme layer—Soften gelatine in cold water for 5 minutes—using 1¼ tablespoons gelatine to ¼ cup cold water. Add 1 10-oz. tin condensed clear consomme which has been heated to boiling point, and stir until gelatine is dissolved. Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice and shake of tabasco sauce. Cool, but before it sets, pour it over the firm salmon mixture. Chill until very firm. Turn all out on large platter, garnished with greens and ripe and stuffed olives. Cut in thin slices with very sharp knife to serve.

This is lovely served with cucumber-cream dressing which is made by putting 1 medium-sized peeled cucumber through food chopper and draining well. To this add ¼ cup heavy cream whipped and ¼ cup mayonnaise and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. That dressing is good with any cold fish dish.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I have problem that I hope you will be able to help me with.

When I went to use my canned raspberries last winter, I found that in nearly all of the jars (pints and quarts) that the fruit had turned dark in color about an inch from the top. Not only did it spoil the appearance but the flavor too. I certainly do not want it to happen again this year as fruit is expensive enough without having to throw it away.

I pack the fruit cold into the jars and then use the hot water bath method, cooking it 20 minutes from the time the water starts to boil. The pints were completely covered during cooking process, but the quarts just to the neck of jar as my cooker is not deep enough to allow the quarts to be covered. I have used this method other years but never had this trouble before. I also had some peaches turn dark on top. I did 12 quarts of blueberries and they were perfect.

I certainly would appreciate it if you could help me. Would you kindly reply as soon as possible as raspberries will soon be on the market.—Mrs. G. M.

ANSWER: Darkening of fruit at the top of the jar is due to only one factor—that is contact with air. Now this statement requires some explanation for you might say to me that the fruit was fully covered with syrup. This may be true, but the fruit itself contains oxygen, and when this is freed from the fruit it makes its way to the top, as a consequence the syrup level is lowered—and may be below level of fruit. So—that is why canners use a practise called "exhausting"; exhausting also preheats product to raise temperature for "closing" can or jar—which gives a better "vacuum-seal" to finished product.

So this means that you will continue to pack your raspberries and peaches in hot sterile jars with sterile rubbers and tops and rings. You fill the jars to almost overflowing with boiling hot syrup and then stand jars in pan of boiling hot water, with rubber and glasses on jars. When all jars are filled with boiling syrup, go back to the first jar and add more boiling syrup if possible—being careful when you handle the glass that your fingers do not touch the edge which comes in contact with the rubber. Now seal to within one-eight turn of tight. Process same time as you have been doing, starting in boiling water.

But let me make another suggestion. Try processing some of your fruit on a pan containing water in the oven—only increase time by one-half—and be very careful to allow oven temperature to drop somewhat before removing fruit—or glass will crack with a draft. This permits you to do more fruit at one time and in my opinion eliminates the hazard of scalding burns and the necessity for so much big equipment.

I would be glad to know when berry canning season is over—if these suggestions cured your trouble.

DEAR MISS DIX: It was a young married man who fell in love with a girl in the office where I worked. We had an affair that lasted for several years.

Then about one year ago my wife died and this girl and I plan to be married, but now without any reason she has thrown me over for a man she used to know, and whom she had promised me she would never see again. My friends had warned me against this girl and I broke with them over her. One friend told me that she was no good and that if she had no more principle than to go with a married man she would do anything and that she was a gold-digger. What I want to know is this: Are my friends right? Am I better off getting rid of this girl or should I fight to take her away from this other man?—X.

ANSWER: What have you to fight for? The girl evidently prefers the other man to you, or she would not abandon you for him with the end of your devious romance in sight and the wedding day drawing near. Certainly the best you can say for her is that she does not know her own mind, and a husband is not likely to have much happiness out of a wife so fickle.

There are a lot of girls who get a particular kick out of having love affairs with married men. It appeals to their spirit of adventure to have secret meetings and to know that they are risking their good names. There is danger in it. Like big-game hunting. Having an ordinary date is as tame as rabbit shooting. Likewise, they get a cruel delight out of hurting a sister woman, breaking up her home, and taking her husband from her and knowing how they make her writhe in helpless jealousy.

Evidently this girl belongs to this tigress type of woman, and when your wife died and she coud have you for the taking, she did not want you. You were as commonplace as any other man.

As for the lack of principle of a girl who goes with a married man, it ill befits him to criticize her for that. It is like the pot reproaching the kettle for its blackness.

But my advice to you is let the other man have the leavings and to find some other girl with a stronger sense of right and wrong. And when you do find her, be faithful to her yourself.

DOROTHY DIX.

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR MISS DIX: Don't you think brothers should treat their sisters as if they were human beings? Brothers seem to be different people when they are around their girls. They are smiling and chatty and help them into cars and over curbs, while they never have a word to say to their sisters and they can climb over a wheel the best way they can. Of course, I don't expect my brother to treat me as though I were his best girl, but I would like him to talk to me once in a while and take me out occasionally and I think he might introduce his friend to me and when he goes out get a date for me.

A BEWILDERED SISTER.

ANSWER: It has been said that no brother can ever imagine what any other man ever sees in his sister to make him fall in love with her, but I don't think the disillusion of brothers is quite as bad as that. I think most brothers are very fond of their sisters, only they don't feel that they have to go to any trouble to make things pleasant for them.

Of course, a brother can do a lot for a sister if he wants to. He can bring nice boys to the house and give her a chance to get acquainted with them. And he can take her to places and give her a good time. Above all, he can give her a lot of hints about how to make herself popular with the boys and he can be the best chaperon in the world because they are in the same crowd and he knows what the young ones do, and he is always Johnny on the spot.

But from the boy's side of the question it must be admitted that they frequently don't get much encouragement from their sisters. The girls think brother is trying to boss them if he tells them not to go with certain boys or to certain places and they resent his criticism of the way they dress and the amount of rouge and lipstick they use and so brothers say, "Oh, what's the use," and leave sister to paddle her own canoe.

The relationship between brothers and sisters can be one of the most beautiful and comforting ones in life and it is a pity that so many men and women miss it.

DOROTHY DIX.

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR MISS DIX: Please tell me a way in which I may test my girl and by friends to see if they are really true friends.

BETTY CATHERINE.

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: Better not put them to the test, my dear. In a lifetime you will not find more than one or two friends who are the kind that will stick to you through thick and thin. You will have many fair-weather friends who will be friends only so long as the sun of your prosperity shines and who will fall away in your day of adversity.

But don't undervalue these fair-weather friends. They make life pleasant and agreeable for you and they probably think just as much of you as you do of them.

Richly dressed dolls in a designer's globe-circling tour supply these style cues for fall fashions.

From a Siamese dancing doll (left) this green wool gabardine dress picks up a swag of swinging pleats, a belt ornamented with buckle and "shiva," tiny Hindu symbol.

Japanese kimono (right) stages a comeback in pure silk brocade trimmed with gold insignia and sashed like the geisha girl doll (right above).

Fall Fashions Mimic Dolls From Japan and Siam

By EPSIE KINARD

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The exotic flavor that spices up Mrs. America's fall wardrobe comes from the Far East and from countries as far west, north and south as a globe-trotting designer could travel.

Tina Leser is the gypsy who circled the world and came back with dolls, paintings, ceremonial robes, peasant costumes and ideas for a rich, colorful and inspired collection.

Results are fashions influenced by people, scenery, customs, priceless objects of art and native costumes seen in Italy, France, England, Ireland, India, China, Japan, Siam and other countries of the Far East.

The geisha girl's kimono, the Japanese woman's "mompi," and Japanese ceremonial robes inspired the at-home fashions which Miss Leser launches in sumptuous fabrics. One Japanese-styled kimono which stages its come-back in pure silk brocade is wrapped with an obi sash and is bosom-embroidered with circles of gold thread. Such decorative motifs come courtesy of handsome Japanese gift wrappings which Miss Leser brought back.

From Siam—in particular from the costumes of Siamese dancers—come ideas for swag drapery and side pleats in plump clusters and unusual details which Miss Leser uses to create distinctive coats and dresses.

Borrowed from the satin skirt of a Siamese dancer, for example, is a swag of pleats which is swung to the side of a skirt of a green wool gabardine dress. The belt of this otherwise simply styled one-piecer fastens with a big copper buckle, and is ornamented with a copper "shiva" a little Hindu symbol which caught Miss Leser's fancy on her Far East travels.

Woman Geologist Enjoys Oilfields' Work

CALGARY, July 11—(CP)—Tough oilfield roughnecks invariably snicker when they see a woman at work around a drilling rig. But to Diane Loranger, being a fully qualified petroleum geologist is "the only life." What's more she is a good one.

Today at 27, the attractive Edmonton-born Diane holds a responsible senior position with one of Canada's largest oil companies. She has the awe-inspiring title of micropalaentologist at the Calgary headquarters of Imperial Oil Co. Ltd.

Her girlish size and appearance seem best suited to afternoon tea parties and dances at the country club. Instead Dianne thinks nothing of walking 13 to 20 miles a day at field work. She has been resident geologist at the site of the drilling wells. She also holds a private pilot's license and is an expert at tearing down and repairing second-hand jalopies.

The brown-haired miss moved to northern Ontario when her family left Edmonton. She obtained most of her early schooling at the mining centre of Red Lake before entering the University of Manitoba where she was the first woman to graduate in geology.

Since then Diane, whose parents Mr. and Mrs. B. Loranger reside in Vancouver, has tramped across hundreds of acres in Alberta and Saskatchewan following her chosen profession.

Doesn't Shirk Tasks

She shirked none of the tasks assigned to male geologists until her company decided to take advantage of her special training and experience and placed her in charge of its sub surface laboratories here.

Now she concentrated on her specialty, fossils, the little snails and bugs that got caught in ocean sediments as rocks were being formed thousands of years ago.

The petrified skeletons of these fossils give the chief clue to the age of the rock—a key factor in the hunt for oil.

That makes her a palaeontologist, and because her extra specialty is microscopic study of these fossils she is a micropalaeontologist.

Diane says she has never had to contend with resentment from male geologists against a woman entering their ranks although the oil industry has long been regarded as one of the last strongholds of the males.

"But the roughnecks (crews working on drilling rigs) always look amazed when they see me working in the field. They think geologists are mostly stuffed shirts anyway and a woman—well."

Architect Sees Big Kitchens Staging Comeback in Homes

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP) — Big, spacious kitchens, where all the family can congregate for food and talk are making a comeback.

For a long time it looked as though the roomy kitchen, exuding appetizing odors and comfortable warmth, was slated for extinction. Architects with space-saving on their minds, were squeezing stove, sink and ice box into wall closets, cabinets and similar cubicles.

Now along comes architect Harvey Wiley Corbett, who says the kitchen is the most important room in the house—and should be one of the most spacious. Even if you have to cut down the living room to achieve it, make a big kitchen, he urges.

"Watch the way things go at any informal party," Corbett says. Where do the people tend to gather and talk for hours? In the kitchen. It's a natural gathering place."

The New York architect also believes that the prize view from the house should be reserved for big kitchen windows.

"After all," he reasons, "the housewife spends more of the day in her kitchen than in any other room. Why shouldn't she have something attractive to look out on? Or, if there are young children, she's probably happier to have a view of the play yard, so she can keep an eye on the kids."

Make It Comfortable

If Corbett has his way, the kitchen will be furnished with comfortable chairs, a divan and a fireplace.

"A fireplace makes a room more attractive," he said. "But that isn't all. We are so completely dependent on public utilities that in event of an electricity or gas shut off, we are pretty helpless. With a fireplace in the kitchen and a supply of wood in the cellar, a family can cook and keep warm in the same place."

He favors such accessories as magazine racks, pictures and flowers in the modern kitchen, but he's not sold on radio and television sets in the room.

"This is a personal opinion," he says, "but I think people should be interested in what they're doing and not take their minds off the job at hand with radio or television."

Social Situations

SITUATION: A woman who has no children is in conversation with a mother of several.

WRONG WAY: The woman without children talks about how the children of some of her friends misbehave.

RIGHT WAY: The woman without children is careful not to be critical of a friend's children in such a situation since it is likely to make the mother think: "She probably talks the same way about my children."

That lies within the heart concealed.

We did not see him die,
We only know he passed away
And never said goodbye.

Found Guilty Of Punching Two Policemen

MONTREAL, July 11—(CP)—A near-riot at Blue Bonnets race track had its sequel in court today when Raphael Laberge, 35, pleaded guilty to assaulting two provincial policemen and was fined $5 on each charge with an alternative of eight days in jail.

Laberge, who spent the week-end in jail, punched Constable A. Smith in the jaw and Constable Marcel Pare on the nose in the midst of the melee.

A crowd of 350 fans, holding tickets on Donna Dale, favorite in the eighth race, claimed the starting gate did not open for Donna Dale, in No. 1 position on the inside, when the bell rang.

A program note says a bet is refunded when a horse does not start because of a defective gate.

The crowd stormed the parimutuel wickets, broke an adding machine, damaged wooden counters and did not disperse until police arrived.

Track operators said they could not give a refund until an official ruling was obtained from the judges.

The judges, barricaded in their quarters, sent word that the gate had swung open in front of Donna Dale but that the horse, known as a bad starter, refused to run.

Assistant Inspector William T. Minogue, in charge of the 20-man police reinforcement squad, said when they arrived "the whole crowd—certainly 350 of them—was in the betting ring, shouting and pushing against the wickets, while nowhere in sight were any of the special constables hired by the track to look after things.

Convention In Michigan

TORONTO, July 11—(CP)—The 1951 convention of the International Society of Christian Endeavor Union will be held in Grand Rapids, Mich., July 3-8, it was announced Sunday at the closing sessions of this year's gathering here. The International Society, comprising delegates from Canada and United States meets biannually.

Lightning Bolt Kills Boy Playing On Beach

IPPERWASH, Ont., July 11 — (CP)—Struck by lightning while running along the beach of this Lake Huron resort during a thunderstorm, seven-year-old Robert Lattimore was killed late Saturday.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lattimore of Komoka, who witnessed the bolt that killed him. They were some 150 feet away. The flash blinded them momentarily and because the heavy rain reduced visibility, they did not know their son had been hit.

The blinding light also prevented three other persons from being actual witnesses. They were Roy B. McKay, and his wife Margaret, who were numbed when the same bolt that struck the boy seemed to splatter against their cottage, and Dr. Harold A. Mercer, of Alpena ,Mich., Mr. McKay's stepson.

Mr. McKay said he was struck on the left shoulder and arm, and that numbness still bothered him 24 hours later. He was sitting on the verandah of his cottage. Mrs. McKay was standing in the front doorway of the cottage.

"I felt as though I had been hit on the top of the head," she said. The shock set her shoulders and arms tingling.

Dr. Mercer was sitting on the other side of the verandah opposite Mr. McKay and was not affected. Dr. Mercer was the first to reach the boy but found him dead.

Dollar Talks Please Abbott

LONDON, July 11 (CP)—Finance Minister Douglas Abbott, of Canada, today told correspondents that he considers "some considerable measure of success" was achieved at the three-power talks on Britain's dollar problem.

During an informal press conference at Canada House, Abbott described the communique issued Sunday as "reiteration of faith" in the ultimate one-world system of trade.

"I consider the communique very heartening," Abbott said. "I place great faith in the sincerity of the ministers involved in the discussions."

The communique to which Abbott referred pledged Canada, the United Kingdom and the United States to review their economic policies with the aim of achieving a world trade pattern on a "single multilateral system."

"No one should expect full and final solution immediately," Abbott said. "The really hopeful thing is that the discussions are continuing."

Orange Lodges Parade To Lakefield Church

LAKEFIELD, July 11—(ENS) Members of LOL 122 and Northern Light Lodge 831, LOBA, paraded on Sunday morning to the Baptist Church. Headed by the Peterborough Kiltie Band visitors from all Peterborough LOL and LOBA lodges took part in the parade.

The parade started at the Orange Hall and it was in charge of Roland Darling, grand lecturer of the order for Ontario East, and Cephas Bullock, master of Lakefield Lodge.

Rev. W. W. Watson, pastor of the church, gave an inspirational address in keeping with the event and Mrs. Guy Peel sang a solo.

After the service the parade formed up again and its participants marched to the cenotaph, where wreaths were placed. The parade then proceeded back to the Orange Hall where it was dispersed.

BURIED TOWN—A heap of rock marks the site of the town of Frank, near the entrance to Crowsnest Pass in southwestern Alberta, which was buried in a slide that took the lives of 66 residents in 1903. A section 1,300 feet high, 4,000 feet wide and 500 feet thick crashed on the town from the slope of Turtle Mountain.

Turtle Mountain Threatens Slide Disasters

FRANK, Alta., July 7 (CP)—There's still an atmosphere of fear surrounding Turtle mountain, in this Crow's Nest pass country.

And residents of this coal-mining town will tell you that in the spring "old Turtle" still roars its warning.

Forty-six years ago the side of the mountain fell on Frank and buried alive 66 persons. Those who escaped in that early morning of April 20, 1903, from the avalanche of rock thundering down more than 3,000 feet still recall the disaster with dread.

Not until 1931 was the area condemned and the town of Frank moved several miles away. Only a few, so accustomed to danger that they discount it, still live in the shadow of Turtle mountain.

What caused the slide is still a matter of dispute. Mining engineers say that the removal of thousands of tons of coal from the mountain caused wide fissures—still visible at the mountain top. Others say the cracks were caused by a slight earthquake and that spring rains caused natural erosion which weakened the support of the overhanging rock above Frank.

Danger Persists

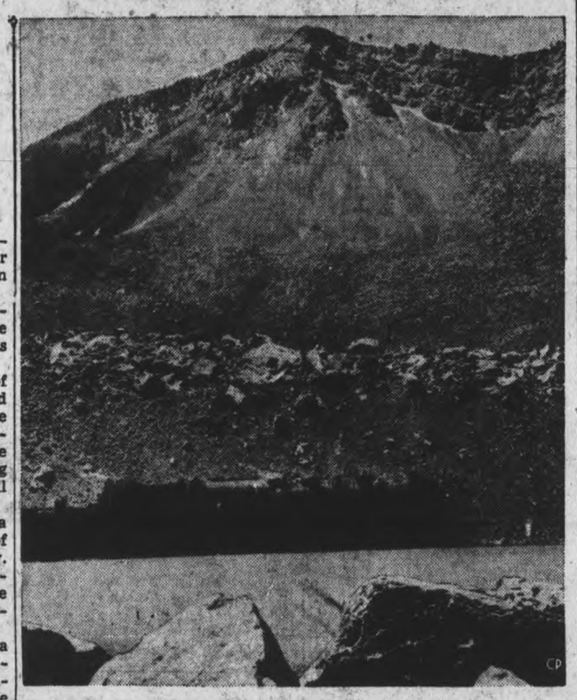
The fissures are 150 deep and 14 feet across in places. Geologists say they are unable to understand why another slice is not dislodged from the Turtle's back.

One of those who escaped the landslide — and remembers — is Mrs. Enoch Williams, wife of the mayor of nearby Blairmore. She recalls that the disaster struck She recals that the disaster struck at 4 a.m. when everyone but the men in the mines were in bed. She and her husband, with their four children, crawled out of the rubble of their home. Her collar bone was broken and her son's legs were broken. But they all escaped.

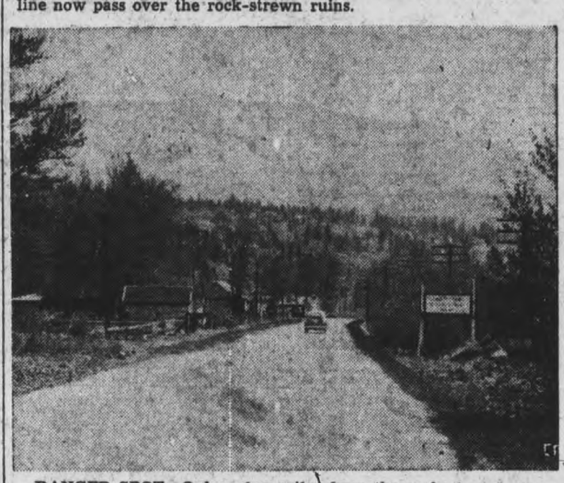
This year for the first time tourists will be taken on a conducted horseback ride to the top of old Turtle to look down the long scar on the mountainside to the pile of rubble that was once Frank.

Mrs. Williams is not happy unless she is in the mountains. But she fears for those still living beneath those threatening fissures.

"I wouldn't give you a penny for the life of anyone who lives there," she says.



HIGHWAY CROSSES RUINS—A broad roadway and a railway line now pass over the rock-strewn ruins.



DANGER SPOT—Only a few miles from the rock-strewn grave of its predecessor and namesake, the village of Frank lies at the base of Turtle Mountain. Some district residents fear further slides down the fissured slope of the mountain.

Hospitality Given Tourists Commended

Praise of the hospitality of Peterborough and the Kawartha Lakes district generally was extended in a post card which James M. Fraser, Chamber of Commerce manager, received over the week-end from "The Dindens and the Cooleys" of Bessemer, Alabama. They were members of a party of six tourists for whom accommodation was secured last week at Gail Park, Buckhorn, by Mr. Fraser after one of the party visited the Chamber's offices.

The post card read as follows: "Many thanks to you for your kindness in directing us to Gail Park. Our stay has been delightful and we shall never forget the hospitality shown us by those whom we have met. You have a wonderful country and wonderful people. We hope to return some day. If you are ever down Alabama way, we hope to return your hospitality 'a la south."

Further indication of how much American tourists are enjoying themselves in this part of Canada was received by Mr. Fraser when a Peterborough resident told him about a conversation he had recently with an American visitor while on a trip "up north." The Peterburian said that when he informed the American where he was from, the latter responded with a glowing tribute to the hospitality of Peterborough residents.

Bang, Bang Fire Car Accidents Family Series

Walter Purdy, 551 Reid St suffered compound fractures of both ankles and severe shock when the car he was driving was in collision with another car driven by Clarence Markwick, Lakefield Park, just north of the Drive-In Theatre on Highway 28 at 5:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Markwick escaped with painful body bruises; both cars were badly damaged.

Mr. Markwick sustained further misfortune Sunday morning when his wrecked car caught fire back of Russelle's Garage, Water St., where it had been towed following the accident. Firemen were called and they were successful in confining the blaze to damaged upholstery. Cause of the fire is unknown.

There were no passengers in the Markwick car, but Mr. Purdy had picked up two hitchhikers, Frank Shulist and B. Coulas of Craigmont, shortly before the crash. Shulist received a cut on the head and Coulas a deep cut on the arm. All of those involved in the accident were taken to Civic Hospital in another car commandeered by Mr. Markwick. All except Mr. Purdy were released shortly afterwards.

The accident occurred when Mr. Markwick stopped his car behind a bus which had halted to let off a passenger. The highway had been rendered slippery by rain and the car skidded, with the result that the Purdy car, coming from the opposite direction, crashed into it. Provincial Constable R. A. Feely investigated the accident. Mr. Purdy's car sustained about $800 damage and the Markwick car about $500 damage.

Father In Accident

Shortly before this accident, Markwick's father, Fred Markwick Euclid Ave., Peterborough, was involved in another accident at Bridgenorth, near the entrance to the Chemong Causeway, when his car was in collision with a truck driven by Donald Nelson, 364 Parkhill Rd., and owned by the plumbing firm of Nelson Brothers. Neither driver was hurt in the crash and damage to both vehicles was slight. Slippery driving conditions were also blamed for this accident, which was investigated by Provincial Constable H. E. Bonisteel.

Mr. Markwick had his other son Verdun with him in his car, and he was likewise unhurt. The accident occurred when Mr. Markwick attempted to pull out of a side road on to the causeway, on which the truck was travelling.

Dominion Woollens Picnic At Cobourg

More than 300 employees of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Ltd. went by train Saturday morning to Victoria Park, Cobourg, for their annual picnic. The train left at 9:15, and returned from Cobourg at 7 in the evening.

Rain halted the race program halfway through, and the rest of the day and evening were spent in dancing in the pavilion. It is undecided as yet when and where the balance of the races will be held, because of the plant holiday shutdown starting at the end of this week.

Bimbo, Well-Behaved Little Elephant Dies Few Hours After Arrival From Africa

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP).—Bimbo was a well-behaved elephant — for such a little elephant, so far away from his native Africa.

When the plane landed at the international airport, Bimbo walked down the ramp without a bit of help.

It just took a little push to persuade him to lift his 190 pounds into the back seat of a car.

Believed to be the youngest—five months old—and smallest—30 inches high—ever to come to the United States, Bimbo was an elephant of distinction. And he behaved with distinction.

But at the animal store where he was taken to wait for shipment to his final home in the St. Louis zoo, Bimb found America too much for him. He collapsed in his cage, breathing too loudly, his heat beat too weak.

A police emergency squad gave Bimbo 1,600 cubic feet of pure oxygen before a trained ambulance crew arrived to administer pencillin and adrenalin injections.

But Bimbo died—less than 12 hours after he arrived.

Leo Grisdale, 152 Dufferin St., failed to appear on two charges of drunkenness, both having been adjourned within the past week. The magistrate issued a bench warrant.

Pleading guilty to having liquor in a place other than his residence, William Dennis Monahan, 231 Armour Road, was fined $10 with $2.50 costs.

Fishermen Rescue 8 After Tug Sinks

POINT TRAVERSE, Ont. July 11—(CP)—Eight men were rescued by fishermen Sunday some two hours after their tug sank three miles off this Prince Edward county community. The men were huddled aboard a flat-bottomed scow which they had been towing.

Captain John Gillem, 71, skipper of the tug, said the boat was swamped by heavy waves almost 25 feet high which stove in a bulkhead. When the tug sank, the scantily-clad crew threw a line about a pile driver and anchored their scow near the spot.

They had no means of signalling for help and were not noticed until two Point Traverse fishermen spotted them.

The tug was towing the scow from Port Weller to Kingston. It is believed to have sunk on a shoal in the shipping lanes. The funnel and one railing are still above water. The scow was towed to shore when the storm abated.

Rain Big Help To Vegetables

"What a relief" was the general comment on the change of weather over the weekend as half an inch of rain fell from early Saturday afternoon, intermittently through the night. It dropped the temperature from a sultry 82 to an average of 78 degrees and for the first night in many weeks fretful citizens were able to get their first good night of rest. Low on Saturday night was 48 degrees and 58 on Sunday.

Home owners were especially delighted to see their parched flower gardens and lawns perk up after the rainfall and more important to their next winter's food bills, market gardeners everywhere pronounced it a "million dollar rain." According to Herbert Doig it will help all late crops of vegetables, grasses and grains but more rain is needed as quickly as possible. Although it was a great help the moisture did not get far down into the ground, much less in sod. Farmers estimated it dampened down about three inches.

The rain, although too late for grains will revive pasturage and corn. Wheat is being cut now in most districts and it isestimated that this year's yield will be a little better than 20 bushels to the acre as against an average of 30 in 1948. Some farmers are cutting green oats for fodder to supplement the scanty hay crop which is estimated to average about three-quarters of a ton per acre.

WHEATON ASHTON, Staffordshire, England CP)—This little village has 6,000 population, 300 cows, 700 pigeons, a maypole and street lighting. It also has a fine musical reputation, but in living memory there has never been a good tenor in the local choir.

Mediator Ready To Discuss Steel Trouble

WASHINGTON, July 11—(AP)—The steel labor crisis swept into Washington today in its rush toward a possible country-wide strike next Saturday.

Seeking to avert a vast steel shutdown, Cyrus S. Ching, Canadian-born director of the United States Mediation and Conciliation Service, prepared to hash over the dispute with both sides this afternoon.

He invited to the conference Philip Murray, president of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO), and officials of several large companies including the pace-setting United States Steel Corporation.

Before the negotiations between the union and US Steel fell apart last week in Pittsburgh, the Union argued that the company could raise wages as much as 20 cents an hour and still reduce prices and make a substantial profit.

Refuses Increase

The company said higher wages would mean higher prices, and it refused any wage increase at all. Disputes over pensions and insurance benefits were deadlocked too.

The union has never formally demanded a specific wage figure. But Arthur Goldberg, the union's general counsel, said in an interview that a 20-cent figure was used in the negotiations by way of illustration. US Steel says the average basic hourly wage now is $1.69.

Tuesday Murray goes back to Pittsburgh to preside over the Steelworkers' policy committee as it considers ordering a July 16 strike.

Such a strike would immediately involve about 500,000 workers covered by contracts whose "no-strike" clauses expire July 16. It might eventually involve about 750,000 workers in basic steel mills and steel fabricating firms.

U.S. Inside Job Amateurs Costly As Pro Thieves

By LAWRENCE L. ELDRED.

CHICAGO, July 11 (AP)—Inside job "amateurs" are costing United States businessmen fully as much in annual thievery as are the "pros."

So say the Continental Casualty Company in telling of causes and cures for the businessmen's annual crime cost of $1,000,000,000 or so.

In a booklet called "crime loss prevention," the company says "crimes committed by dishonest employees, estimated at more than $500,000,000 annually, have increased sharply the last two years and, from present indications, are far from having reached a peak."

Employee or "inside" crimes include embezzlement, fraudulent conversion, theft and so forth. "Professional" crimes, such as robbery and burglary, run to around $200,000,000 a year, and forgery to some $300,000,000 the company estimates.

Continental describes the "average dishonest employee' as 35 years of age and, in 93 per cent of the cases, a man. He has been employed on the average of 9¼ years, the last three years and two months of which covered the term of stealing before discovery.

Faithful Service

"Usually he has advanced to a position of trust by above average dishonest employee" as 35 and willingness to accept responsibility, coupled with faithful application to duty over a long period of employment. His background, both business and personal, is without indication of instability to act as a warning against dishonesty.

"Yet due to some 'emergency' need for money, this employee succumbs to temptation. The first misstep is usually a relatively small matter, a 'temporary loan' which he expects to repay when he receives his next pay cheque, but having stolen once it becomes easier to do so again and in time he is unable to extricate himself from the vicious cycle.

"Eventually the theft is discovered and rarely can restitution be effected."

"While some employees actually are so industrious that they do not want to take their regular vacation," the company noted, "it is advisable for the protection of management that they do so. Many cases of default, often involving large sums, have been discovered during vacation. If the employee refuses to take his due vacation, suspicion is justified.

Two Inspectors Get Promotion

TORONTO, July 11—(CP)—William Stringer, Ontario Provincial Police Commissioner, Friday announced the retirement of his deputy, William C. Killing, and the promotion of two staff inspectors to deputy status.

The new deputies are Edward T. Doyle, known for his work as head of the force's anti-gambling squad, and Arthur Moss, who has been active in the weapons permit branch and has lectured at various police training schools in the province. Both joined the force in 1925.

The commissioner also announced that Staff Inspector Frank B. Creasy has been promoted to senior staff inspector in charge of administrative staff responsible for inspection of police personnel in the field. He was formerly in charge of the Sudbury detachment.

Inspector Killing joined the Provincial Police in 1921. He served with the metropolitan police in London, England, from 1901 to 1907 and was former chief of police at Woodstock

Commissioner Stringer said appointment of two deputies was made necessary by administrative problems resulting from rapid growth of the force.

30 Passengers Hurt In Smash-Up In California Pass

LOS ANGELES, July 12. — (AP).—A Los Angeles police radio car broadcast today that 11 persons were killed and 30 injured in the flaming crash of a Standard Airlines plane near the summit of Santa Susana Pass.

The crash occurred shortly after the pilot reported that a fight had broken out among passengers on the New York-to-Long Beach, Calif., unscheduled flight. There were 48 persons aboard.

The Air Traffic Control Bureau at Burbank received a radio message from the pilot, Roy White 25 minutes before the report of the crash, saying that a violent fight had broken out aboard the ship.

Two of the passengers started fighting over Riverside," said the message. "I want police at the airport at Burbank and I want one of the men arrested. One man is badly beaten."

The pilot requested permission to set down at Burbank. The plane was scheduled to land at Long Beach.

Stanley Weiss, president of Standard Airlines, flew over the wrecked plane in a cabin monoplane and said the pilot's cabin appeared to be burned out "but the rest of the plane doesn't look so bad."

The injured passengers were taken to Birmingham Veterans' Hospital in Van Nuys.

Harold Tucker was the co-pilot of the plane, a converted C-46.

Got Call for Help

The Los Angeles air route traffic control bureau received the report from the pilot for police aid at the airport.

It was only a short time later that the sheriff received a call that a big airliner had crashed one mile north of the Chatworth Reservoir. Reports said the craft burst into flames immediately. A call then was received in North Hollywood for three ambulances.

The civil aeronautics authority verified that the pilot had been cleared for a landing at Lockheed air terminal, Burbank after making a report of the fight aboard.

Burbank police had been notified to stand by at the airport.

Police Raid Red Firms In Australia

SYDNEY, Australia, July 12 — (CP)—Police today made simultaneous raids on the offices and printing plant of a firm which prints Communist material, including the Communist newspaper, the Tribune.

Hundreds of persons watched the raids but there were no demonstrations. The police seized account books, pamphlets and galley proofs of newspaper articles.

But police apparently did not find money which they allege the Communist party has withdrawn from its bank account to help prolong the country-wide strike of coal miners.

Spokesmen for the police indicated the documents they seized may be the basis for further charges against Communist party members of violating the federal government's emergency legislation "freezing" union funds. The legislation makes it illegal to use union funds to support the strike of coal miners which began June 27 over demands for higher wages and shorter hours.

Twenty-three prominent Australian Communists are due to appear in court Wednesday to answer charges that they are helping financially to prolong the coal strike.

Fear 60 Refugees On Tiny Ship Lost

HALIFAX, July 12 (CP)—Fear that a tiny ship carrying some 60 refugees bound for Canada may have sunk in the Atlantic was expressed here today by Secretary Ilmars Andrejsons of the Latvian Relief Commission.

Mr. Andrejsons said he had received no word from the group since the ship left Sweden June 9. "I fear they may be on the bottom."

The vessel—the Swedish ship Birljantin built to accommodate only 18 passengers—carried few supplies. Ships of a similar size cross the Atlantic in two to three weeks, said Mr. Andrejsons.

The refugees were Latvians and Estonians who had been living in Sweden since the Russian occupation of their homeland.

Police Seeking Baronet Slayer

TORONTO, July 12 — (CP) — Police acting on a routine circular joined today in the search for the slayers of a baronet killed in Germany on the off-chance that the criminals may have come to Canada on false passports.

The police circular identified the baronet only as Sir John Sheehy and said he was shot to death in his home at Vlotho, Germany, last May by men who also are believed to have escaped with jewelry and other property.

City, Ontario and Royal Canadian Mounted Police are on the look-out for the men.

Ban Now Reimposed On Imported Pears

OTTAWA, July 12 — (CP) — First signs that Canada was putting new pressure on her dollar-saving campaign appeared Monday.

A note went out to customs points from the Revenue Department banning the import of fresh pears, starting tomorrow.

Pears were among the import commodities which Canada cut off under emergency dollar-saving regulations in November, 1947. Imports were restored last May as a temporary measure to provide Canada with fresh pears from the non-dollar area. Reimposition of restrictions may mean that Canadians will be without fresh pears until the Canadian crop is ready.

Won't Handle Meat Off Ships

LONDON, July 12—(CP)—Meat porters at London's great Smithfield Market unanimously decided at a meeting today not to deal with any meat handled by troops working in the docks under the "State of Emergency." Defiant dockers by the hundreds ceased work earlier in the day as troops and navy men moved in to unload food ships. The Cabinet assumed virtual wartime powers to break up the stoppage officially blamed on Communist agitation.

The Army and Navy sent 2,380 soldiers and sailors to the wharves to unload food.

But the strikers, who numbered 10,222 Monday, were joined by another 2,728 men today. Fewer than 13,000 of the 25,000 who make up the London dock labor force reported for work.

The National Dock Labor Board said 127 ships were idle and eight under-manned.

Mounted policemen were ordered into the Thames waterfront area to enforce a state of near martial law.

Strikers showed resentment as the government took over Dockland under the Emergency Act of 1920. Many who had stayed on the job ever since the unofficial strike began June 27 walked off after a series of meetings at the various dock gates this morning.

Meanwhile the Cabinet picked an emergency committee to run the docks for the government while the state of emergency, proclaimed yesterday, continues.

No call for labor was made this morning at the Royal Group of Docks, where thousands of men gathered, discussing the government's steps to maintain vital services under the emergency regulations.

Dockers claimed they had been "locked out" for refusing to discharge the Canadian ships Beaverbrae and Argomont.

The men's unofficial "lockout committee" said dockers were prepared to work all ships except the two Canadian vessels.

Find Youngster 2, Hanging Half Dead From Rafter

OTTAWA, July 12—(CP)—Police today said they hoped to get a clue from 28-month-old Giselle Lachance to the person who ravished and beat her and suspended her nude body from a rafter in a shed behind her home. The child was the victim of what Inspector Ubald Sauv of the morality squad said was "one of the most brutal sex attacks in the history of the city."

The attack occurred Monday a few blocks from the heart of the city. The girl, still unable to utter more than a few words, was reported recovering in hospital today.

The only child of Mr. and Mrs. Telesphore Lachance, the baby was put out to play by her mother who was busy with the Monday wash. Mrs. Lachance said she noticed later the child was missing and went to look for her.

The youngster was found some three hours later by a seven-year-old neighbourhood boy who was led to the shed by his barking dog. Meanwhile Mrs. Lachance asked neighbours if they had seen her daughter.

Suffering badly from shock, the infant was taken to hospital by ambulance, and placed at once in an oxygen tent. She later regained consciousness and hospital attendants said she was improving.

Her clothes were found in the shed and scattered behind it.

Residents of the Bryere Street community continued to keep vigil from their verandahs late Monday night despite police assurances the area would be well patrolled until the attacker is apprehended.

BC Forest Fire Hazard Grows

VANCOUVER, July 12.—(CP).—British Columbia logging operators today are awaiting the "stop work" order from provincial forest service officials which will tell them that fire hazards have reached the "extremely dangerous stage."

A number of operators already have voluntarily suspended operations as flames lick through some B.C. timber stands and a scorching sun blazes down fiercely on other timber areas.

A blaze believed started by friction caused when a guy-line broke on the Stoltze Logging Company operations 13 miles west of Duncan, on Vancouver Island, is giving B.C. fire fighters the most worry.

One hundred men and four tractors are fighting the Stoltze fire, which has eaten away an estimated 1,000,000 board feet of bucked and felled timber while racing through 400 acres.

Baby Buried 15 Hours

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 12 (AP)—A baby buried for 15 hours immediately after its birth died Monday—a day and a half after rescued from its earthen tomb. The unwed mother, Ida Roberts, 20, a farm worker, was held in a hospital on suspicion while a grand jury investigated the burial and death.

Farm Experts Laud Methods In Britain

LONDON, July 12 (CP)—Seven Canadian farm experts, returning to Canada aboard the Aquitania Wednesday, said today they were impressed by the British Agriculture Ministry's advisory service to farmers.

Ending a two-month study of agricultural methods in the United Kingdom, a party spokesman said they had formed the opinion that the government's advisory services were manned by "very competent people."

"British farmers seem imbued with the importance of preserving the fertility and productivity of their soils," Professor G. N. Ruhnke Director of Agricultural Research in Ontario, told The Canadian Press.

"My impression is that they look on livestock, crops and soils as being closely related and this scientific approach to the problem evidently reflects the Ministry's policy."

Murray Prepared To Order 500,000 Steelmen Strike

PITTSBURGH, July 12 (AP)—President Philip Murray, of the C.I.O., stood ready today to flash a strike order to 500,000 C.I.O. affiliated united steelworkers in the United States.

Murray said Monday night he will recommend the strike start this week-end.

His recommendations are expected to be approved speedily by the steelworkers' 170-man wage policy committee. It scheduled a meeting here today.

Murray, after a fruitless 2½-hour conference at Washington with Cyrus S. Ching, Federal conciliation director, said contract negotiations with United States Steel Corporation and other basic steel producers are "hopelessly deadlocked."

The tight-lipped Scotsman hinted only presidential intervention could avert the walkout.

Ching later said he had reported to the White House without making any recommendation as to what action should be taken. There was some belief, however, any White House action might come before the steelworkers' policy committee votes on Murray's strike recommendation.

President Truman has the power to declare the proposed strike a danger to the country's safety and welfare. He could appoint a fact-finding board and a walkout could be averted for 80 days.

Toronto Nurse Saves 13 In Blazing House

ROCHE'S POINT, Ont., July 12 (CP)—Mildred Holt, 49, a Toronto nurse, was credited today with saving 13 persons Monday night when fire destroyed the $100,000 summer home of David Dunkelman of Toronto.

Miss Holt, awakened by smoke when the fire broke out, rescued Lawrence Wilner, Mr. Dunkelman's two-year-old grandson, and aroused the rest of the household by her screams. She was taken to Toronto hospital suffering a twisted ankle and facial burns.

Neighbors and volunteer firemen recruited by telephone could do little more than keep the fire from spreading. The flames, roaring 75 feet into the air when they arrived, were visible more than five miles away. The house was aflame minutes after the alarm was given.

Cause of the fire is not known.

The Dunkelman estate, situated just south of here on Lake Simcoe, was regarded as one of the finest private homes on the lake. The owner is president and general manager of Tip Top Tailors, Ltd.

Request Committees

MILAN, Italy, July 12—(AP)—The Communist-dominated World Federation of Trade Unions has appealed to workers to set up committees in the United States, Britain and other countries where it has been blackballed, it was learned Monday night. WFTU sources disclosed an appeal they said was sent out by the second congress of the federation, which closed Sunday.

Dutch Plane Wrecked In Bad Rain Storm Trying To Land In India; 18 Others Perish In French Morocco

By The Canadian Press

Sixty-three people perished in two air crashes overseas, it was announced today. A Royal Dutch Airlines (K.L.M.) plane carrying 45 persons crashed today on a rocky hilltop 20 miles north of Bombay. All aboard the Constellation were reported killed. A French military plane crashed, killing 18 persons, Agence France-Presse reported. The wreckage of a Junkers 52, flying from Agadir to Dakar with 12 passengers and six crew members, was found on a beach south of here. It had plunged into the sea just offshore.

(At The Hague, the Royal Dutch Airlines office said that only 44 persons were aboard the Constellation.)

The plane was carrying 14 American newspaper men and women.

The plane crashed in a driving rainstorm while approaching the Santa Cruz airfield, 15 miles north of Bombay. It hit a hill near Ghatkopar, on the opposite side of the 30-mile-long island from Santa Cruz.

Search parties reported the wreckage was strewn over a two-mile area some two miles above sea level and that the wreckage was partly charred.

The newspaper reporters aboard the plane were returning from a tour of Indonesia sponsored by the Netherlands government.

Worst in History

The accident was said to be the worst in India's aviation history. The rain had been coming down incessantly since Monday.

The Constellation was said to have circled the vicinity of Santa Cruz airdrome for about two hours. But because of poor visibility it could not locate the airport. It seemed to have come

Doesn't Think Patient Hurt At Hospital

TORONTO, July 12.—(CP).—A patient at the Whitby mental hospital, who was allegedly abused by hospital attendants last week, was able to play in a baseball game the next day and hit three home runs, Health Minister Kelley said today.

The patient, identified as Shirley O'Hearn, had been caught smoking in bed, Dr. Kelley said, and an attendant had tried unsuccessfully to take the cigarettes from him. The protesting patient was then taken to the hospital basement and the matches were seized.

"It is evidently true there were some marks on his body," the Health Minister said, "but it can easily be understood that it was difficult to obtain the dangerous matches from him, and moreover these marks would not necessarily indicate he was badly treated."

Court Orders U.S. Currency Given Farmer

OTTAWA, July 12 (CP)—Herb Cuthbertson of Perth, farmer and cattle dealer, will be reimbursed the $154 in United States currency taken from him Aug. 26, 1947, by Canadian Customs officials while he was moving cattle across the border.

An Exchequer Court judgment issued today ruled that the money should not be forfeited to the Federal Government because Cuthbertson had acted in good faith in having the money in his possession. He ordered the Federal government to pay costs of the court case.

The seizure ocurred when Cuthbertson was passing cattle, purchased by American dealers, through a Canadian customs port. He was asked by the port authorities to declare the United States currency in his possession.

Cuthbertson said he threw everything he had in his pocket on the counter and this amounted to $164 in United States currency and $15 in Canadian currency. The port authorities seized $154 of the American currency and returned him $10, the amount of U. S. funds a Canadian is entitled to carry without a permit.

Have 2nd Man In Bank Holdup

MONTREAL, July 12 (CP)—A second man has been arrested in the attempted holdup last Tuesday of the Banque Provinciale Du Canada branch at Papineauville, Que., and provincial police said today they are seeking at least one or two others.

Police said Aurel Robillard, 21, of Ottawa will be arraigned in Hull today or Wednesday.

He made the announcement on the heels of the arraignment of the first suspect, Cleophas Givoque, 19, also of Ottawa. Givoque pleaded guilty to the two charges laid against him—attempted armed robbery of the bank, and armed robbery of $10 and two watches from the manager, Medard Lalonde.

Patenaude said the same charges will be laid against Robillard at his arraignment. Sentence will be handed down on Givoque on Monday.

The three bandits escaped last Tuesday after striking the bank manager's wife in the face, and after firing three bullets at pursuers.

Ask Red-Dominated Unions Lose Charter

U.A.W. Convention Condemns U.S. Barring of Canadian Delegates

MILWAUKEE, July 12 (CP)—By an almost unanimous vote, 2,400 delegates to the 12th convention of the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) Monday asked the Congress of Industrial Organizations to revoke charters of all affiliated unions dominated by Communist party members.

Adoption of the resolution was regarded as a major victory for Walter Reuther, U.A.W. president, who is opposed for re-election today by W. B. Grant, former president of Ford Rouge Local 600. Grant was nominated by a left-wing caucus.

The convention condemned refusal of the United States Immigration Service to permit seven Canadian delegates to enter the U.S. to attend the deliberations.

Reuther said the anti-Communist resolution was the strongest ever adopted by a C.I.O. union. It said that unions controlled by Reds had failed to organize workers within their jurisdiction. It urged that organizing committees be set up to bring into the C.I.O. said workers it claimed were betrayed by Communists.

11 Blacklisted

Eleven C.I.O. unions have been listed by national officers as under Red domination Three of them—United Office and Professional Workers, the United Public Workers and the Food and Tobacco Workers—were singled out by Reuther as the ones which had fallen down most in organizing.

Reuther urged a similar drive at last year's C.I.O. convention, but it did not materialize. This action gave him renewed fuel for use at the Cleveland convention next October. The U.A.W., with a million members, is the largest C.I.O. affiliate.

"The C.I.O. is being sabotaged by Communists," Reuther shouted when that issue hit the convention floor for the first time. "The union can't survive with some of its affiliates in control of Communists."

Condemn Ban

The resolution on exclusion of the seven Canadians, passed unanimously, said "We condemn as unworthy of the world's foremost champion of democracy the exaggerated and hysterical fear that exclusion of our Canadian brothers appears to represent."

The measure, presented by Hom H. Walsh of Brantford, added that "we consider the action of the immigration service as a manifestation of hysteria, highly prejudicial to the maintenance of democratic principles both of our union and our country."

George Burt of Windsor, the union's Canadian regional director, said "this fine-toothed-comb examination is directed at the labor movement."

"I can say with surety," Burt added, "that none of those denied admission were subversive or members of the Communist party. And even if they were, certainly none of them could, within the one week of this convention have overthrown the United States government."

Union Head Warns Higher Pay Unlikely

SCARBOROUGH, England, July 12 (AP)—The head of Britain's largest labor union told its members today they cannot expect higher wages while the country is going through its present economic crisis.

Arthur Deakin, general secretary of the 1,300,000-htrong Transport and General Workers Union, said at its biennial conference:

"I am going to be brutally frank. I doubt whether at this time we can get wage increases at all.

"I am going to be no party to leading members of this organization into the belief that we can do those things in the face of the circumstances now confronting this country."

Test Northwest Defences In Biggest Manoeuvres Ever Held In Peacetime

Princess Pats Try Out Airborne Fighting With No Holds Barred, RCAF, Glider Troops To Probe Weaknesses

OTTAWA, July 12—(CP)—Keynoted by paratroop and airborne assaults, Canada will stage her biggest peacetime land-air defence exercise across 120 miles of her northwest next month, it was announced today. The area includes the first 50 miles of the Alaska Highway. From Aug. 4 to 7, more than 1,000 men will be thrown into assault and defence manoeuvres designed to test plans for guarding the country.

They will include: The Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, emerging in its new role as an airborne fighting battalion. The Pats are the first of Canada's three regular force infantry battalions to complete paratroop and glider training to fit them for a place in the airborne brigade.

Elements of six auixiliary and regular RCAF Squadrons of fighters, bombers and transport planes will also take part.

The men involved would be key figures in defence against any raid upon Canadian territory in the foreseeable future.

Use All Tactics

The exercise will be launched from an operational base at Grande Prairie, Alta., about 250 air miles northwest of Edmonton. It will embrace a clash for air superiority, a paratroop and air-transported assault on Fort St. John, B. C., a glider attack on the Peace River bridge and final airborne capture of Dawson Creek, B. C. The RCAF will play both a supporting and opposition role.

Reporters will be flown to the area to cover the operation but present plans do not call for any foreign military observers. Umpires will judge results and discuss them when the operation is over.

Photo reconnaissance planes will probe defences of the battle area Aug. 5 while fighter planes duel for air supremacy.

The Pats will drop 150 paratroops early Aug. 6 to seize Fort St. John's airport. Behind them will come more Pats in big RCAF transport planes with jeeps, guns and equipment to secure the ground.

At the same time, glider troops will be sent in against the Peace River bridge.

Orange Parades Across Canada

By The Canadian Press

Orangemen marched today to celebrate the 259th anniversary of the triumph of William of Orange at the Battle of the Boyne.

Almost everywhere in Canada where parades, picnics and speeches were scheduled, good weather—sunny but not too hot—was on tap for the "Glorious Twelfth," the biggest day of the year for the Protestant order.

At the head of each parade, a marshal riding a white horse represented King William, whose victory over James II at the Boyne crushed Roman Catholic ambitions for the English throne.

Newfoundland declares a public holiday for "The Twelfth". Neither the Morning News nor the Evening Telegraph, the newspapers in its capital of St. John's, were published today.

Other areas took on a holiday air as fife and drum led lodge members in colorful regalia. In some centres, Orangemen from adjacent sections of the United States joined in the celebration.

Two Drunks Fined

Peter Kearns, 96 Stewart St., who was arrested on a warrant after failing to answer a charge of vagrancy, was fined $10 with $2.50 costs, with an alternative of 10 days in jail.

NEW YORK, July 12—(AP) — Two of the newspaper correspondents aboard the K.L.M. plane which crashed near Bombay today were Pulitzer prize-winners.

H. R. Knickerbocker, 51, foreign correspondent and lecturer, won the Pulitzer prize for reporting in 1930 for a series of articles on "The Red Trade Menace." He began newspaper work on the Newark, N.J., Morning Ledger. In 1925 he went to Moscow for two years as correspondent for the International News Service.

In 1928 he returned to Berlin as correspondent for INS and the Philadelphia Public Ledger. Campers' Chapel At Clear Lake To Be Dedicated Dedication of the new chapel at the Y's Men's Club's Boys' Camp on Clear Lake will take place Sunday, July 17. The Rev. William Moorhead will make the dedication. Mr. Moorhead is a former camper having been there shortly after the old chapel was built. Counsellors David Fanning, Terry Clifton and Senior Counsellor George Phillips are in charge of arrangements for the service.

Last week 63 boys were in camp with 23 of the boys coming from Lindsay. Of the 63 boys there were only 29 boys who passed the swimmer's tests the first day of camp.

Train Drags Car 100 Feet, Driver Escapes

A CNR section man had a miraculous escape from death Monday when his car and a train collided at a crossing between Port Hope and Campbellcroft.

The car had travelled part way across the track before the rear end was struck by the engine of the train.

W. F. Huycke, K.C., Peterborough barrister who was travelling on the train, told the Examiner he saw the car dragged nearly 100 feet before it came to rest upside down.

The driver of the car was injured but able to walk and talk with the engine driver and refused an offer to be taken to Peterborough for treatment.

The motorist told the engine driver that he did not see the train until it was too late to avoid the collision.

Protest U.S. Ban On Union Men

TORONTO, July 12.—(CP). — The Toronto Labor Council (C.C.L.) Monday night protested United States action in barring certain trade unionists from crossing the border on union business.

A resolution which described the action as "discriminatory" asked the Canadian Congress of Labor to take up the matter with the committee of industrial organizations in the United States.

The border has been closed to unionists suspected of Communistic leanings but union men claim the ban also has been applied to some anti-Communists.

James Robertson, organizing director for the United Steel Workers of America (C.I.O.), urged members of the United Electrical Workers (CIO), to cast off pro-Communist leadership.

Murray Cotterill, council president, ruled that Robertson must withdraw his remark or retire from the meeting. Robertson left.

Robertson's attack on the electrical union leadership was prompted bp a speech by William Repka, a U.E.W. delegate, who held that the Labor Council should not have linked its fortunes with the C.C.F. in the election but instead should have backed a "Farmer-Labor" party.

down to about 400 feet searching for a landing place when it crashed.

The plane left Batavia, Java, July 10 and was scheduled to arrive in the Netherlands tomorrow.

At a reception Monday night, some newspaper men said they had made the request that the plane be allowed to land in India in order to avoid the long overwater hop to the island of Mauritius. While in New Delhi, the correspondents had the opportunity of interviewing Prime Minister Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru.

Hits Hillside

Dutch planes had not been allowed to land in India since the conflict between the Netherlands government and the Indonesian Republic, but a special request from the correspondents that the restriction be relaxed was approved by Nehru.

Aviation authorities in Bombay said evidence showed that the left wing-tip of the plane brushed against the hillside tilting the machine which then swung violently and crashed, breaking in two.

A reporter on the spot said the plane had been located on the opposite side of the hill which made it appear that the plane crashed almost at the peak and had then broken in two.

About 200 tall forest trees in a rough circle around the wreckage were charred by the blazing plane.

A stretcher bearer who returned to Ghatkobar said one woman passenger was alive and groaning when the first rescue party reached the spot. But almost immediately she collapsed and died.

The wreckage blazed for 1½ hours despite the downpour of the heavy monsoon rains.

Newspaper Casualties

A revised list of the newspaper correspondents abroad the plane was issued in New Delhi. They were:

Charles Gratke, Christian Science Monitor; William Newton, Scripps Howard Newspaper Alliance; Bertram Hulen, New York Times; Vincent Mahoney, San Francisco Chronicle; James Branyon, Houston Post; Nat Barrows, Chicago Daily News; H. R. Knickerbocker, Radio Station WCR; John Werkley, Time Magazine; Elsie Dick, Mutual Broadcasting System; Tom Falco, Business Week; S. Burton Heath, Newspaper Enterprise Association; Fred Colvgi, Denver Post; George Moorad, Portland Oregonian; L. Y. Mahan, of the Swanson Public Relations Company, representing the Netherlands Government.

K.L.M. officials said Mrs. Dorothy Brandon of the New York Herald-Tribune, and William Matthews of the Arizona Star were not aboard the plane.

Mrs. Brandon and Matthews belonged to the group that had visited Batavia. No reason was given why they were not aboard the plane.

(In Manila, William R. Matthews, Tuscon, Ariz., publisher, said Miss Brandon had refused to return aboard the plane for fear it would be sabotaged.

(Mathews quoted Miss Brandon as saying the plane would be "sabotaged as sure as your life."

(So far no evidence that the plane was sabotaged has been uncovered.)

The aircraft had not been heard from for some time by flying control at the airport. Then a telephone call came from the hydraulic engineer of Bombay municipality at Ghatkopar saying that the Constellation had crashed in the hills there killing all the passengers and crew.

The engineer later said that the bodies of the victims tumbled out of the smashed aircraft and were strewn about the hillside.

A Reuters News Agency correspondent who rushed to the scene of the crash reported that the bodies of the victims were charred and completely unrecognizable.

He confirmed there were no survivors.

Emergency Squad

Immediately after the crash some farm workers, who were the only eye-witnesses, ran towards the wreckage.

The hydraulic engineer telephoned the news to Santa Cruz airdrome where there was waiting a reception party which included officials of the United States Consulate in Bombay.

The engineer organized an emergency squad of stretcher bearers from adjacent Ghatkopar village.

Emergency calls were sent out for doctors.

An emergency squad which returned to Ghatkopar after a two-hour trek through drenching rain and torrential streams running down the hill-side reported that the bodies were burnt, mutilated, or destroyed beyond recognition

Police Fear Bear May Have Eaten Child

NOTRE DAME DE LA SALLETTE, Que., July 12 (CP) — Dog-tired searchers, returning from a night-long hunt through thick, swampy woodland, expressed fear today that seven-year-old Monique Boucher may have been devoured by a bear or some other wild animal.

Wolves and bears abound in the heavily-wooded mountain region, 30 miles north of Ottawa, where the little girl disappeared last Friday while out fetching the family cows from pasture.

A blood-stained leaf was found early today, a mile east of where Monique was last seen, by Edmond Pedneaud, one of the searchers. He turned it over to Provincial police who will analyze it to determine whether the blood is human.

Monique, one of 13 children, disappeared Friday when she and her cousin, Annette Boucher, went to bring some cows in from pasture. Monique said she would return by herself but never arrived at the farm home in rolling, wooded country 30 miles north of Ottawa.

Scores of volunteer searchers combed the countryside for her during the week-end and found only two sets of footprints and a flannelette slip. The footprints apparently had been made since a heavy rain in the area Saturday.

Find Egg Prices Jump 12 Cents

TORONTO, July 12.—(CP).—Egg prices continued their upward swing Monday and at day's end had recorded a five-cent increase on top grades over Saturday. This brought the gain for the last 10 days to 12 cents.

Retailers reported Grade A large eggs selling at 73 cents a dozen compared to 67 cents in most stores on Saturday. Retailers are allowed a six-cent profit margin.

One dealer predicted the price might advance by the day, and eventually hit the ceiling. Production has fallen off to such an extent, he said, that there will not be enough to supply the demand "even if they go to a dollar a dozen."

A wholesaler, who said the price was up by five cents from the morning's quotation (based on Saturday's trading), and by an even dime from a week ago, felt the price would hold within three and four cents of the present level. A decrease could not be expected for about a month.

Senior, Junior Golds Show Slow Gains

TORONTO, July 12.—(CP). — Activity began to pick up slowly as the session progressed here today with prices continuing to move in a narrow range. A few industrials mixed fractional gains and losses while senior and junior golds producers advanced slowly. Base metals recovered an early loss.

Industrial issues fluctuated irregularly with some opening losses disappearing in mid-session and several key issues slipping into the minus column. All changes were held to fractions.

Constructions were strong as building activity in the Dominion continues brisk. Some steels and papers eased.

Senior golds brightened under the leadership of McIntyre while junior producers began to advance at the half-way mark on gains ranging up to 10 cents.

Base metals also climbed in mid-session. Consolidated Smelters marked up $1 at $92 and Waite Amulet jumped 25 cents at $9.. Quebec Labrador was very active for a five-cent loss.

Crowds Gather Orange Walk Fenelon Falls

A jovial throng, estimated at 300, set out by bus early today for the annual Orange walk held this year at Fenelon Falls. More than 50 lodges from Peterborough West, Victoria and Haliburton Counties helped celebrate the victory of the Battle of the Boyne.

Buses carried the men, women and children who will take part in the walk from the Orange Hall, Peterborough, to Fenelon. As they waited the drummers beat a steady "rat-tat" on their drums and others got in last-minute practice on their flutes.

White shirts and orange and blue sashes, with varied kinds of headgear was the men's dress. The women stuck chiefly to white dresses relieved by orange colored ribbons. And the younger girls had orange dutch caps and capes.

Evening Parade

After returning from Fenelon Falls the Orangemen will fall in at the CNR station for the walk in Peterborough. The parade will leave the station at 8 p.m. The route of the walk is along Charlotte to George St., up to Brock St., across to Water St., up Water St. to London St., west on London to George St., down George St. to the Orange Hall. The CGE Kiltie Band will lead the parade.

Accident Spoils Fishing Trip

A fishing trip and a honeymoon were marred for a party of American tourists from East Liverpool, Ohio; on Saturday afternoon when the car in which they were travelling was in collision with another car on the Chemong road. As a result of the accident Millard Blithe is in Civic Hospital with a fractured pelvis and Harland Finlay is confined to his room in the Empress Hotel suffering from a strained back.

Driver of the American car was Theodore Gamas and the other occupants were Captain and Mrs. James Alexander, the honeymoon couple, all of whom escaped unhurt.

Since Mr. Blithe has been told by his doctor that it will likely be several months before he will be able to walk again, arrangements have been made by his friends to have him taken back to his home. He will leave Peterborough Friday by ambulance for Oshawa, from where he will proceed by plane to East Liverpool. Attempts were made to fly him direct from Peterborough, but lack of an airport precluded this.

The accident happened when another car suddenly loomed up in front of Mr. Gamas, who said it was skidding toward him on the road, which had been rendered slippery by rain. Mr. Gamas headed for the ditch in an effort to avoid a collision, but didn't quite succeed in this, the other car side swiping his near the rear. The second car was driven by Robert Muirhead, believed to be from Toronto, who was uninjured.

Says Transportation Policies Should Encourage Enterprise

By JOHN LEBLANC

HALIFAX, July 12—(CP)—Transportation policies should make for equal opportunity of enterprise across the country, Premier Macdonald of Nova Scotia told the Royal Commission on Transportation today.

The Premier was appearing before the opening Maritime sitting of the Commission, which is investigating Canada's transportation problems. The three-man body under Hon. W. F. A. Turgeon is on a three weeks' swing through the Maritimes after sessions in the west.

Premier Macdonald aligned himself with Alberta in its proposals for freight-rate "equalization."

Premier Macdonald said he agreed with Premier Manning of Alberta when that Premier said before the Commission:

"Transportation policy should not necessarily accept conditions as they are, but should be designed to assure an essential equality of conditions for economic enterprise insofar as man-made conditions are concerned."

Need Broader Powers

That task, the Premier said, was beyond the scope of the Board of Transport Commissioners, the regulatory body of the railways. It could be successfully approached only by a commission with board powers such as the Turgeon body.

"The suggestion of the Canadian Pacific Railway seems to be that matters of this sort should be dealt with by the Board of Transport Commissioners as a final tribunal. One of he criticisms offered by this government and by the other Provincial governments of the Board of Transport Commissioners was that it was bound absolutely by the terms of the Railway Act and by its own judgments . . .

"It was for that reason that we felt that the broad aspects of the (transportation) problem should be atacked by a new body not bound by the precedents of the Board of Transport Commissioners nor by the provisions of the Railway Act."

Cheesemakers Told Product Now of Higher Quality

TRENT RIVER, July 12 (ENS)—The production of higher quality milk was stressed at the July meeting of the Campbellford and Peterborough Cheesemakers Association, held at the Trent Bridge cheese factory with seventy-five patronh, cheesemakers and their wives present.

That cheese manufactured in Ontario since December 1, 1948, is grading higher, and the quality is greater was revealed by R. Gillen, Federal Produce Grader, Belleville. In the six month period just passed there were 30,899 boxes graded, compared to 20,846 boxes in the same period of 1948. There were 1,793 boxes of undegrrade cheese so far in Central Ontario this season compared with 2,337 undergrades in the same period of 1948, a reduction of 11½%. There have been ten million pounds of cheese exported so far this season.

J. M. Bain, Chief Instructor for Central and Western Ontario, spoke on extraneous matter in milk and cheese. The United States will not accept cheese that is not clean and fairly clean. Tests in Central Ontario factories reveal two with clean cheese, 140 fairly clean, 41 dirty and 3 very dirty, 76% passable. The Campbellford and Peterborough record was better with 95% clean and fairly clean. Mr. Bain also stressed the proper care of milk and keeping the factories clean and attractive.

M. Martin, assistant produce grader, Belleville, spoke briefly on the marking and boxing of cheese.

Mr. Darling, president of Morganston cheese factory, invited the cheesemakers to hold a future meeting at their factory.

W. P. Moore, local instructor, said co-operation is esntial if high quality milk and cheese are to be produced. Mr. Moore displayed samples of sediment tests from patrons' milk, urging better quality.

US Tobacco Crop To Be Higher

WASHINGTON July 12 (AP)—The indicated tobacco crop for the United States this year is 2,025,000,000 pounds, or two per cent greater than the 1,982,000,000 pounds of last year, the Agriculture Department reported Monday.

The increase is due to flue-cured production which is estimated at 1,155,000,000 pounds. The flue-cured crop last year was 1,090,000,000 pounds.

The burley crop is estimated at 595,000,000 pounds, about one per cent below 1948. Fire-cured and dark air-cured are down 12 and up two per cent respectively.

Production of cigar tobaccos of 136,700,000 pounds is about six per cent below last year. This was brought about by a reduction in the prospective crop of fillers, which is estimated at 62,400,000 pounds as compared to 70,400,000 pounds last year, the report said.

Binders are down about four per cent while wrappers are up about six per cent from last year.

Time To Paint Jail

COBOURG, July 12 (ENS)—George De Luca of Trenton, house painter, was sentenced to 20 days in jail, dating from July 4, when he pleaded guilty in court yesterday to theft of $10 from a Brighton tourist camp.

"Twenty days," said Magistrate W. Gee.

"That leaves me a chance to paint the jailhouse," commented the accused.

Freed On Charge Of Theft Of Fence Wire

COBOURG, July 12 (ENS)—Robert Spry was found not guilty in police court yesterday on a charge of theft of fence wire, under the value of $25, from the yard of a local hardware store. Spry, who with his sons runs a farm, has a mail route and delivery service and is night watchman at the railway section house, was defended by Arthur Greer, K.C., of Oshawa.

Defence counsel and Crown Attorney Harry Deyman tangled at some length after the Crown produced a second charge, not yet read. The charge on which he was tried was dated June 1 and the one not read was dated May 11. When the Crown sought to question Spry as to whether he had atken any wire from the hardware store yard earlier than June 1, defence counsel objected strenuously and his objection was sustained by Magistrate W. Gee.

Eugene Bailey, workman on a construction job just south of the hardware store, said he saw a car leave the yard early in the afternoon of Wednesday, June 1. In the trunk compartment, with the lid open, were two rolls of fence wire. As a saw had been stolen some time before from the construction company, he jotted down the license number of the car, the number being that of a car owned by the accused. At this stage of his evidence Crown Attorney Deyman informed the court that another man not Spry, was convicted of theft of the saw.

Frank Benedict, farmer neighbour of Spry, said that he and Spry had agreed on the erection of a fence with each paying half and that on June 1, Spry had called him and told him he had the wire. The wire was left at his place and he proceeded to put the fence up. On June 2, the police called.

Rolls Missing

Walter Grieve, employee of the hardware store, said that two 20 rod rolls of wire were missing from the yard. He told of accompanying Chief Carey to Spry's home on June 2, where they saw two rolls of fence wire in the lane. Spry told the chief that he had picked up the wire at Allen's hardware store on Wednehday afternoon and it was his intention to go down next day and pay for it.

Chief Carey testified that after he brought Spry to the police station Spry said, "I'm guilty of it and want to pay a fine."

Jack Allen, owner of the store, said that Spry had a charge account at the store.

The accused said that he was late getting to the store and it had closed for the afternoon. He said he got the wire at the back, put it in the car and left a note in the back door of the store saying that he had taken the wire and to charge it to him.

The owner of the store and the clerks were called in rebuttal and each said that he had not seen any note as mentioned by Spry.

New Menace Threatening Prairie Crops

WINNIPEG, July 12—(CP)—Latest hazard to which Prairie crops are being subjected sounds like a throw-back from the early days of the wild and woolly west—the crops are being vamped by painted ladies.

Only in this case the "painted ladies" are caterpillar-type insects which have attacked 25,000 acres of sunflowers in the Altona-Winkler area of south-central Manitoba.

Already farmers have swung into action to repel their advances. The repellant is a spray known as toxaphene. Provincial agriculture department officials say farmers have been spraying with such prompt determination that the "painted ladies" are being routed before extensive damage can be caused to the sunflower crop.

Toxaphene is described by entomologists as being equally effective against grasshopper or the new blight.

Early this season wide damage from grasshoppers was predicted throughout the west. The insects have lowered the yields in some fields, but preventive methods have kept damage well below its potential.

Another problem is the green aphid insect which made its appearance recently in oats and barley stands. Hon. Errick Willis, Manitoba's public works minister, said Monday night that the aphids now are turning their attention to wheat.

This is contrary to the expectations of entomologists, who had predicted the aphids would stick to a diet of oats and barley. Agriculture department officials have confirmed the insects' widening interests, saying that reports of infected wheat fields are increasing.

How To Lose Friends

Upon a number of occasions last summer we carried news stories which told of American pleasure boats which had got into difficulties on the Trent Canal near Peterborough. It was obvious that the buoys which mark the navigable channels in the system were badly out of position, and that some of them made nonsense of the charts which the navigators were using. We reprint a comment which appears in the July issue of Boating Magazine, a Canadian publication devoted to the interests of those whose hobby is cruising:

To cruising men, the Trent and Rideau systems should be dream waterways. Speaking of the Trent, however, recent reports would indicate that this great tourist attraction is becoming the nightmare waterway of the American Continent. A trip through the Trent's 250 miles of lake, river and canal, is no longer a pleasure cruise, we are told, but an ordeal! The entire system of buoyage—at best always a complicated one on the Trent—is in disgraceful condition. Reports tell of missing buoys, buoys weatherbeaten and left unpainted to be not only valueless as a navigational aid but utterly dangerous, while other markers are hardly recognizable from floating deadheads or debris.

Last season, one Canadian boat owner, we understand, went to the aid of motor cruisers from the United States on four different occasions, their skippers had become utterly confused and run aground; by their interpretation of the navigational aids they were in the centre of the channel. In another section of the system, a boat yard advises us of the busiest season in the company's history on propeller shaft changes—mostly on tourist craft from the United States. These skippers all went home mad—ambassadors of ill-will for Canada's tourist trade.

The Trent Waterway system is under the jurisdiction of the Federal Department of Transport and we would strongly urge the engineers of this Department to change these deplorable conditions at once. And also consider the early adoption of a numbered buoy system of navigation to end the confusing, haphazard system now in use.

* * *

Such accidents make bad friends for Canada and lose tourists for Peterborough. What is the good of giving wide publicity to the Trent Canal in the U.S.A., to attract cruisers, if they are to be subjected to annoyance, expense and some danger when they come here? How long will it be before the buoys on the Trent are overhauled and brought into agreement with the charts?

Who Says We Don't Believe In Robin Hood?

In a recent issue our old sparring-partner, the Brantford Expositor makes reference to a renewal of the dispute as to whether such a person as Robin Hood ever lived. The Expositor thinks that Robin was probably a real person, and says very sensibly that he lives in the minds of millions of children, and is therefore at least as real as Don Quixote, Ali Baba, and half a dozen other notables who are decidedly more real than most of the people we meet every day. And it concludes its argument thus: "This may bring the usual pained protest from the Peterborough Examiner, but what does that matter?" Now where did the Expositor get the notion that we are opposed to legends?

Who the real Robin Hood was is a matter of conjecture. He was probably a very bad character, for he was a robber, he lived in the woods with a lady who was not his wife, he refused to pay his taxes, he molested wayfarers and officers of the law, he was contemptuous of the Church and included a renegade priest among his followers, he was a brawler, a boozer, and he seems to have lived entirely on stolen, half-cooked meat. If he had any political opinions at all, he was a medieval communist. We suspect that he was about on a par, intellectually and ethically, with Jesse James, another scoundrel who has become a popular hero. But Robin has been dead a long time and he has become a legend.

Now that he is a legend, it is widely accepted that he only robbed the rich to give to the poor (which puts him on a par with a modern governments), that he abused the police and the Church only when they were in the wrong (which is what the Communists always say), that his relations with Maid Marian were sanctified by the nobility of his sentiments (which merely shows that nobody can be bothered about 500-years-old naughtiness) and that his simple diet and primitive living arrangements were healthy (like those of Nature Boy). In fact, Robin has had a thorough whitewashing.

We wouldn't have liked Robin if we had known him; we would have written editorials needling the police to catch him and lock him up. The Sheriff of Nottingham and all the abbots and bishops whom he abused would probably have been our subscribers and advertisers. But Robin has lain beneath the sod in the greenwood for at least five hundred years, and so it is safe for us and for the Brantford Expositor to admire him. We greatly prefer legendary heroes to live scoundrels.

Border Incidents

The daggers-drawn state of many European borders where east meets west, as for instance between the American and Russian zones of Germany, is disquieting, but not as internationally alarming as two years ago, or as in the nineteenth century. Fifty or a hundred years ago a German killing a Serb guard, or a Greek an Albanian could have led to a local war; it could have become an "international incident". Last week an American officer killed a Russian, at the border between their respective zones of Germany. We do not question here the rights or wrongs, the necessity or the folly of this incident, but do remark how little fuss it has created.

Fifty years ago, along an equally armed border and with two countries so outspokenly antagonistic toward each other, such an incident would have been the prelude to a first class international row; it could even have been the match which touched off the powder-keg of Europe. Only two years ago, similar incidents made headlines quiver and peoples quake. This year the headlines were sober, and the consequences sedate. The U.S. Constabulary in Germany has announced that it intends to file a protest against violation of the border and firing on American soldiers. The Soviet-licensed news agency reported a border incident but did not admit that there had been any shooting, not even by an American officer.

That such incidents are allowed to pass off cooly means that no major power is willing to blow up a rifle shot into a shooting war; no risk will be taken now of an incident's becoming explosively international. Behind this new measure of an 'incident' is very probably a realization that power is too evenly balanced, and war too costly and long and uncertain of issue for one nation to frighten another by threats of it. Is it too much to hope that there is greater sanity now in such matters than two or fifty years ago?

No Wing To The Chicken

Some American has contrived, after a decade or two of cross-breeding and experiment, to produce wingless chickens. He is reported to have a flock of them, and to have so impressed on the strain the foolishness of hatching chicks with anything as unnecessary to them as wings, that he seems to be able to guarantee a continuation and extension of the new variety.

It all seems very sensible. Domestic fowl are a nuisance in the hen-run if they ever discover their wings and start to use them in flight over protective netting. Further, the bodies of chickens as now developed are so heavy that their wings can barely lift them off the ground. Hotels, restaurants and even many homes would profit from the wingless variety. With no wing to sprout, the chicken's white meat would have more room to grow, and more sap to grow on. There would be more meat and less bone. The wingless chicken seems therefore to be the desirable bird of tomorrow, and its development now has merely hastened the natural process which, through the present bird's disuse of wings, would have been completed in a few thousand years anyway.

There is one shadow over the new bird. The wing is really a quite tasty morsel; to some sensitive palates, it is the most delectable part of the flesh. The new bird will deny such delicacies to the epicures of tomorrow. We must not weep sorely over this, for it is the way of Progress. Bigger is the catchword; more flesh, less bone to one chicken, more food for the money, more food for the masses—that is what the new chicken will give to civilization. The epicures can hope for an odd wing from an odd new bird, from some queer chick which has been hatched complete with wings, unmindful of the new mutation. Such would be throw-backs, throw-backs for the epicures who are themselves throw-backs, odd people out of step with quantitative progress

Frances Hodgkins' Achievement

By GEOFFREY GORER

MISS Frances Hodgkins, who died in 1947 at the age of seventy-six, was one of the most distinguished and distinctive British painters of this century; but she was more than that; she is one of the most curious and interesting figures in the history of European art. Women painters of ability are so few that just the fact of being a woman transforms the artist into something of a phenomenon; but with Miss Hodgkins there is the added peculiarity that all her best and characteristic work was produced in the last twenty years of her life. If she had died twenty years earlier, in her early fifties—an age at which most painters have produced the great volume of their work—she would have been forgotten completely by the historians of art and remembered only by her friends and pupils as one of a myriad talented water-colourists; today her pictures hang proudly in public and private collections; a few years before she died she was given the distinction of a Parliamentary Civil List pension; few British painters or art critics today question her right to her place of honour in what is still called "modern" art.

* * *

THE first fifty years of her life can be passed over very briefly. She was born in New Zealand, the daughter of a local water-colourist; she came to Europe in the first years of the twentieth century and lived for some time in Paris, attending one of the French ateliers and for three years before 1914 conducting her own atelier. She painted (and taught others to paint) vaguely impressionist genre sketches—figures in cafes, street scenes, pretty landscapes. Retrospectively, one can see in the very few examples of the work of this period which she allowed to survive faint signs of the artist she was going to become: a certain subtlety in the colouring, a touch of whimsical humour in some of the figures; but without the knowledge of her future development these works would rightly be ignored.

* * *

AFTER the outbreak of war in 1914, she came to Britain and for some years lived in the cotton manufacturing town of Manchester and earned a living by making designs for textiles. To my mind this work in applied art had a profound indirect bearing on her future development, parallel to that exercised on Renoir by his work on pottery or on Rouault by his work on stained glass windows. Unlike easel painting, the patterns of even the most popular textiles have never been limited by the appropriateness or verisimilitude of the various objects depicted together: flowers and birds, urns and ribbons, butterflies and abstract patterns are united, often out of scale, and in improbable colours, in a single whole. Provided the colour and forms of the whole are agreeable, the public, that savage critic, will accept and be satisfied.

* * *

FRANCES Hodgkins stayed in Manchester some six years, achieving both local fame and an assured income. She abandoned both in the early 'twenties, and at the age of about fifty-three set out to prepare herself to become the artist she sensed she could be. The courage and the sense of dedication which this step required cannot be exaggerated. A middle-aged spinster, without resources, without family or relations to support her, undertook the arduous rigours of the experimental artist's life. For years she lived in garrets and basements, often with barely sufficient food, frequently cold (the first year I met her, in 1927, I gave her a deeply appreciated eiderdown) skimping to buy materials for her painting, and working indefatigably. She had her first, relatively unsuccessful, exhibition of water-colours in 1928; thereafter she exhibited annually with a group of "young" painters and sculptors called The Seven and Five. Her second "one man show" was more successful; and from the early 'thirties she had a contract with two London galleries which, though it called for a quite excessive output, at least guaranteed her from want. She travelled a good deal in the 'thirties, in France and Spain, Algiers and the Baleario Islands, living like a peasant and in familiar friendship with the peasants wherever she was. The war in 1939 confined her to Britain; she was then seventy years old and reaching the height of her power. Fame and fortune—true, in a very modest degree—were beginning to come to her, and during the next six years she painted many of her most lovely pictures. Her vision and assurance increased steadily but in the end her body failed; her physical rength waned, her mind became often clouded; she had a complete collapse some s'— weeks before her merciful death.

* * *

THE subject matter of the earlier works of her middle age shows, I think, the impact of her experience of textile designing. They are a combination of two genres which had hitherto been generally held distinct — the still life and the landscape—the combining into an arbitrary and poetic whole the works of God and the works of Man. This did not long satisfy her; she wished to extol the works of man as well as the works of God; and in her final ; "s she discovered in the external world what 'e had hi herto h-d to invent in her studio. In the courtyards of English farmhouses, in the garden of a cottage looking towards the house, in the working landscape of the countryside she discovered that combination of the natural and the man-made which it was her peculiar genius to unite. In the earlier pictures the objects —the pots and pans, the vases and shells—were pleasing in themselves, selected art objects; but in her last years she took the humblest objects—manure carts, harrows, milk cans, curing sheds, the utensils, outbuildings and machinery of any small farm—and transmuted and dignified them. Her palate became increasingly rich and sumptuous and subtle and daring; no colour was too violent for her to harmonize, none too sombre for her to accent. Through her colour, but only on that account, one is sometimes reminded of the paintings of Cezanne; both had some preference for a palate centred on blue; both were infinitely subtle in their nacreous combinations.

Although man-made objects figure so consistently in her work, man himself does not; she painted relatively few human figures and these few are, to my mind, the least successful aspect of her work. Her figures always have some aspect of the caricature, of that impish and unforeseeable sense of the grotesque which distinguished her conversation. Her paintings of human beings never have that effortless ease which make her "objects in a landscape" look as if they had grown as naturally and surprisingly as a wallflower in a stone wall.

It may appear that I have insisted too much on the age at which Frances Hodgkins painted her best and most typical works; but the phenomenon is, as far as I know, unique. Some well-known painters — Renoir and Titian are famous examples—continued exercising their art to an even more advanced age; but they made few new discoveries in their latest years, and had a lifetime of successful work behind them. Until her body betrayed her, Frances Hodgkins was continuously growing; each year of maturity enriched her vision, and even in the very latest pictures one has still a sense of discovery. The works of this woman in her old age were and are regularly exhibited among the "young" painters, and nobody considers this strange. The "young" painters themselves treated her as an honoured contemporary. By some strange chance she flowered late, very late; and the flowers produced from this gnarled trunk are among the most beautiful, complex and delicate that have grown in the British garden of painting.

RUINED MINE IN WALES, by Frances Hodgkins. This picture is painted in gouache, a substance formed of opaque colour ground in water, and mixed with gum and honey. (See Third Column).

Letter To The Editor

C.C.F. WILL TRIUMPH IN A DEPRESSION

Sir: I would like to use your column to comment on the recent election. The Liberals Party was swept back into power with a great majority. But as usual Peterborough clings to the old regime, and her elected member sits in opposition to the Gov't. What do Opposition members hope to get for their section? A Gov't in Ottawa is not too keen on helping out sections of the country that didn't support them. The Liberals lay claim that they brought prosperity to the country. The Liberals just happened to be in power when the war came. The war was the cause of our prosperity. Already there are signs in some quarters of a slackening off in work and business. If the Gov't. in Ottawa does nothing to prevent a depression they will go out of power with a sweep just as they went in. After the election there was a lot of talk to the effect that the C.C.F. was finished. It has been predicted the same each election. But the C.C.F. has come back stronger than ever. A lot of people went to the polls on election day who believed sincerely in the C.C.F. program, but with sad and grim faces voted for candidates they had little confidence in, solely because they wanted to defeat Mr. Drew and his party. Many of these people reluctantly sacrificed the opportunity of putting the C.C.F. in the opposition in order to beat the Tories. The results in Toronto and the Yorks show how wrong they were in attempting to carry out that decision.

The Tories were not as badly beaten, as they were by the C.C.F. in the Provincial Election. The C.C.F. advocates social legislation and the Liberals take the credit for it. The daily press of Canada supports the Liberals or Conservatives and the C.C.F. is ignored or condemned. The C.C.F. members at Ottawa, even though few in number, were the real opposition at all times. When 75 per cent. of the Canadians would have supported price control and subsidies, the Gov't ignored it. A deputation of all parties protesting the high cost of living was turned away by Mr. Abbott as Communist inspired. The cost of living is the highest in history and yet the Gov't was proud of its record.

What is the farmer's complaint regarding the C.C.F.? His cost of living has increased greater than the urban dweller, yet he meekly submits. The monopolies ride rough shod over urban and rural dwellers alike. It is said the people have spoken. What did they base their vote on? The Liberals have promised us Health Insurance, which has worked so well in Britain. Let's see how long it will take them to bring it in. The Liberals first started to talk about it in 1919. The fact that the Liberal party still represents Capitalism. It is the strongest reason why the C.C.F. should continue to expand and lead the way to all advanced political thinking in this country. The C.C.F. has right along made a gallant fight on behalf of the man on the street and the workers, and will now more vigorously carry on the battle, for it is needed in this Canada of ours, more than ever before to keep alive the principles enunciated by that great Christian Rev. J. S. Woodsworth, the founder of the C.C.F. The C.C.F. was born in the last depression. Will the people put up with another depression before they realize they should have voted C.C.F.?

Thanking you for your valuable space, I remain, a sincere subscriber,

(MR.) BERNARD GLAUM.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

I am the living bread which came down from heaven: if any man eat of this bread, he shall live for ever: and the bread that I will give is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world.

The Jews therefore strove among themselves, saying, How can this ma ngive us his flesh to eat?

Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man, and drink his blood, ye have no life in you....

Many therefore of his disciples, when they heard this, said, This is an hard saying; who can hear it?

When Jesus knew in himself that his disciples murmured at it, he said unto them, Doth this offend you? What and if ye shall see the Son of man ascend up where he was before?

It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing: the words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life. (John 6: 51-53, 60,-63.)

Would Abolish Means Test For Blind Folk

TORONTO, July 12. (CP) — Abolition of the means test for pensions for the blind [illegible] be asked this week at a conference of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. Members will ask that the pensions be made allowances, like family allowances.

Col. E. A. Baker, managing director of the CNIB, said of the proposal in an interview:

"The means test has become increasingly irksome and obstructive in its effects, particularly on the rehabilitation of the newly-blind adult. The frustration and fears that are normally so difficult to overcome are aggravated by the additional fear introduced by the means test."

The conference will also review progress in the CNIB's building program. Plans call for the building of 20 residences, with social, recreational and employment facilities. Two have already been built, in St. Catharines and Saskatoon.

J. W. Gillespie, supervisor of the CNIB's Newfoundland division, told interviewers of the nursery for blind children established in St. John's. He said blind persons in the new province were pleased to receive the Canadian pension for the blind and he mentioned that there were only four eye specialists to serve Newfoundland.

THEY'RE THRIVING, TOO!—A stray tabby cat had a litter of four kittens in a Victoria, BC, garage. The same day the mother of four Maltese terrier puppies died. Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was asked to destroy the cat and kittens but, after destroying three kittens, substituted the four puppies. Tabby accepted them as her own and washes them, feeds them, and nestles them in her fur to keep them warm just as she does her own kitten. Two weeks old, the pups are thriving with their adopted mother.

End Racial Intolerance Advises All Saints' Rector

"We must not leave the problem of ending racial intolerance to future generations to solve; we must act now, or in time the various classes into which the world is divided racially may destroy each other."

So warned Rev. William Kibblewhite, rector of All Saints Anglican Church, in an address which he delivered to the Rotary Club at Monday's weekly luncheon in the Empress Hotel on "Racial Intolerance."

While intolerance for those of other races and religions is not taught openly in Peterborough, there are nevertheless plenty of signs of its being practised here, as well as in other Canadian cities, said Rev. Mr. Kibblewhite, who was introduced by Orley DeGraw and thanked by Herbert Bradburn.

The luncheon was presided over by Ernest C. Braund, newly elected vice-president, in the absence of President Harley Keefer, who was in Whitby attending a Rotary district conference.

The speaker based his remarks on the Biblical injunction: "God hath made of one blood all nations of men." Rev. Mr. Kibblewhite also quoted Professor Compton, noted scientist, as saying that the science of biology also supports this view.

Superiority a Myth

"The myth of racial superiority is one of the most potent forces for destruction in the world today," said the speaker, who declared that "we all carry around with us from day to day prejudices which we think are based on fact, but which in reality are not true at all."

"We need to clear up our thinking and our outlook on this problem, and stop our habit of judging people too quickly, thus making wrong assumptions."

Only Three Divisions

After years of research and study, scientists now agree, said the speaker, that there are only three racial (or ethnic) divisions of mankind: the Negroid, the Mongoloid, and the Caucasoid. These are the only "pure" racial stocks; all other so-called "races" of mankind, such as English, French, Italian, etc., are mixtures of varied backgrounds and cultures. Furthermore, the long-held notion that blood plays a big part in racial development is "absolutely wrong," these same biological scientists say.

"It is time that we stopped using the word race in the wrong sense, which causes us to become emotionally wrought up and to adopt wrong attitudes," said the All Saints' rector. He quoted another scientist, Professor Montague, as having said that "the problem of race is a social one, not a biological one."

"Many of our writers extol Canada to the world as a great country because of its natural resources, industrial capacity, etc., but a country's true greatness lies in its people. The people of Canada today are members of a large number of minority groups, a melting pot of many peoples, who have brought into our country a rich and varied cultural background."

Can Afford Raises Expert Tells Industry

WASHINGTON, July 12—(AP)—The CIO Monday received a report from Economist Robert R. Nathan asserting that "corporations as a whole can afford substantial wage increases."

Nathan, former War Production Board adviser, now is a private economist and was retained by the CIO to make the report.

Nathan made a similar report for the CIO two years ago which became an important factor in the labor organization's bid for a post-war wage increase.

This time Nathan said that fourth-round wage increases "are definitely in the interest of both labor and business, and especially in the interest of the nation."

US Cowpunchers Grab Off Top Spots In Calgary Rodeo

CALGARY, July 12—(CP) — The world's top cowboys tightened saddle cinches and hitched up their pants today to recover prestige lost Monday at the record-shattering opening day of the famed Calgary stampede.

The cowpokes took a double-barreled beating before an official paid attendance of 70,951 fans —largest opening day total in the history of the colorful western show.

First Mayor Hiram E. (Buck) McCallum and his carefree, eye-dazzling "goodwill" contingent from Toronto grabbed the limelight from the western cowhands. Then wildly bucking bronks and steers pitched the would-be saddle stickers into the dust in humiliating fashion.

Mayor McCallum—just plain "Buck" to Calgarians young and old—officially opened Canada's wildest and woolliest show before a jammed exhibition crowd Monday night. Not even a soaking late afternoon thunderstorm diminished the crowd as it surpassed the former high attendance mark set last year by more than 6,000.

The crowds attending the opening-day performances equalled almost two-thirds of the total population of some 107,000 in this foothills city.

Crack United States riders quickly took a strangle-hold on majority of the major cowboy events, sweeping to top spot in all but one event.

Richard Dodging Horse, daring young Indian cowboy from the Sarcee Reserve near Calgary, was the lone Canadian to top a major event. He sprang from his pony onto a galloping steer to decorate the horns of the animal with a red ribbon in near-record time of 4 3/5 seconds.

Recount Shows Liberal Elected

By The Canadian Press.

A recount has confirmed the election of Charles Cannon, Liberal, in the Federal riding of Iles-de-la-Madeleine. The result of the recount was announced Monday while a similar recount started in Dorchester and others were pending in constituencies which had close races in the June 27 Federal election.

Other Quebec ridings in which recounts have been granted are Trois-Rivieres and Montreal Papineau. Recounts are to be held in the Ontario constituencies of Toronto Greenwood, Brant-Wentworth and Middlesex East, as well as in Nova Scotia riding of Annapolis-Kings and in Regina city.

The recount in Iles-de-le-Madeleine gave Mr. Cannon a winning margin of 58 votes, instead of the 46 announced a week ago, over Pierre Sevigny, Independent Progressive Conservative candidate. Mr. Sevigny asked for the recount.

Officials conducting the Dorchester recount in Quebec City said they expected it would require two days.

In Middlesex East, the recount started yesterday at London, Ont. Judge Ian MacRae of Middlesex County said it probably would take "several days" to recheck the more than 21,000 ballots.

Car Exports Drop Sharply

OTTAWA, July 12 — (CP) — Canada's exports of motor vehicles slipped sharply in the first five months of 1949 compared with the same period of 1948, the Bureau of Statistics reported Monday.

While home consumption of vehicles produced in Canada increased from 84,543 to 98,079 in that period exports fell from 21,277 to 11,940.

At the same time the bureau gave encouragement to those who are waiting for new cars.

It said Canada produced 5,000 more motor vehicles in May, 1949, than in May, 1948—26,708 compared with 21,368.

But the May total wasn't that far ahead of the 26,685 for April and 25,566 for March. For the first five months of the year, 1949 Canadian factory deliveries totalled 110,019 compared to 1948's 105,820.

Of May's total, 23,339 vehicles were shipped for sale in Canada and 3,369 for export.

Excelsiors Maul Weston In 23-11 Victory

By The Canadian Press.

Brampton Excelsiors are right at home in the high-scoring department. They racked up a 23-11 victory over Weston Lions last night to take over sole possession of first place in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior series.

In another game St. Catharines Athletics defeated Hamilton Tigers 14-7 at Hamilton.

Excelsiors, paced by big Archie Browning, had little trouble as they outscored the Lions 9-5 by the end of the first half and then added seven unanswered goals in the third quarter.

The victory gave the Excelsiors a two-point lead over the idle Owen Sound Crescents. Other Brampton scores included Al Garbutt with four and Harvey Madgett, Harry Graham and Ollie Raine with three each.

At Hamilton, goaltender Doug Flavell of the Tigers drew a two minute penalty during the hectic play for slashing. Jack Gair relieved him.

Tony D'Amico and Fred Hildebrand paced St. Catharines to its victory, each scoring three goals, while Smith and Frick tallied twice. Croft, Fitzgerald, Madse and Whipper added singles. For Hamilton, McDonald got three goals, Jack Dorney netted a pair and Edmonds and Black scored the others.

From Hal B's column in the Star, we note a few items of interest to harness horse followers. Clint Hodgins, who drives often for Hugh Stewart of Peterborough, recently piloted Proximity to victory at Goshen, N.Y., in the free-for-all trot for a purse of $10,000. Alex Stewart's Port Hope horse, Millie Volo, driven by young Bill Stewart, was the best in an Ontario meet in the second division free-for-all, doing one mile in 2.15 2-5. Canada Direct, owned by Mert Storey of Peterborough, cleaned up on the first division free-for-all event at Chesley by winning first and third heats in 2.19 and 2.15, dropping the second pace to a Collingwood entry.

Lacrosse attraction here on the morrow is the OLA senior "A" fixture at 8.45 p.m. in Miller Bowl between Brampton Excelsiors and the Petes. Likely another bumper crowd and a keen contest. It's "father and son" night by the local club, meaning that sons are allowed in free if accompanied by fathers. Also a number of special draw prizes offered gratis for these sons. One man, who must be nudging 60 pretty hard, says he'll be there for sure if he can persuade his old man—a little feeble lately—to take him. Lou Vitarelli's suspension is up now, and 'tis expected that Leo Testero's knee will be okay to let him play this one.

They're Not So Bad

It is noted that as the race warms up in the men's softball circuit at the Bowl players and fans are riding the umps more. This is okay up to a point but players and fans might remember that umpires have it tough enough and none of us is perfect. The current crop of softball arbiters is as good as you'll find anywhere, we believe, the addition of Cy Whatley and Holly Mowry — along with Harold Dormer, Les Calladine and Wimp Borland—making it a pretty capable staff. And players arguing too strenously or trying to put 'em in a bad light are likely to wind up by being tossed out of the game. A few have found that out already.

* * * * * *

Umpires in the Intercounty Baseball League, getting the highest pay for amateurs in Ontario, aren't considered very good. Touring teams and scribes in that area frequently criticize them severely. Not long ago one ump called a man out for stealing when he broke for second as the fourth ball was called! Claimed the guy tried to steal before the call, if you can imagine such ignorance of rules. Another ump ruled a batter out for batting out of turn, after the next batter had been pitched to and his own side noted the error! Not only is their judgement usually bad, we're told, but many don't seem to know the rules of the game. Yeah, our baseball and softball umps aren't so bad, after all.

Where Was Lock Co.?

Two games at the Bowl last night, but just one was a Girls' Softball League fixture. Lindsay edged out a 5-4 verdict o'er the Woollens in a fine, snappy fray. Errors hurt in this close contest as S. Harris and M. Owen both pitched well, J. Walling, D. Wakelin and D. Madill leading the hitters. A 55-minute melee. Lock Co. lasses didn't field a team, so some guys made it an exhibition with CGE and as close as we can make out it was a 5-5 tie. CGE girls got their runs mainly through walks, if you follow us, but anyway it doesn't matter. Lock Co. have till tomorrow to say whether they're in or out. Tilts tomorrow: Woollens vs. CGE, and Lindsay vs. Marines.

COBL schedule has better than a month to go yet. So far, it's been pretty much of a dogfight between the Petes and Oshawa Merchants for first place, with the men o' Murphy presently occupying that spot by half a game. Batawa is next, just a bit in front of Brockville. First three teams at schedule's end go into playoffs, we understand—though no official scorer for the league as a whole has been named, so info is sort of hit-and-miss—with the loop champs going into senior "A" OBA playdowns. Runners-up then trek along the senior "B" playdown path. The Petes won league honors last season. Oshawa plays in Belleville today, whilst the Batawa team is here Saturday.

LAWN BOWLING

It's the glad "hello" and the handclasp true,
The smile of joy on a friendly face,
That means contentment for me and you
And makes the earth a happier place.

We are very pleased to have the opportunity of greeting lawn bowlers from all parts of Ontario, through the medium of our lawn bowling column.

It will certainly be a pleasure to welcome to our city and our club visitors who will be attending the annual Lift Lock Gold Trophy tournament to be held on the local greens all day Wednesday.

So, on behalf of the Board of Directors and all other members of the club, we extend warmest greetings and best wishes for a most pleasant stay in our city.

All that is now needed to make this doubles tournament a success is fine weather and 100% co-operation from all contestants. The committee have done their part—they have attended to all details, and they are many—they are doing their best to make it a good day for you. Please be on time.

Just so that there will be no delay between games, the ladies of the club are serving a full course hot dinner. This will be greatly appreciated—it will save leaving the greens and some time. Lets all strive to make this tournament tops.

Wins Track Titles

CAMPBELLFORD, July 12 — (ENS)—George Lynch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Lynch, won the Canadian junior championship in the mile and two-mile events at the title meet at Varsity Stadium, Toronto, last Saturday. George was an easy winner in each race and the soggy track didn't cause him any trouble.

Hal Walker, in the Globe and Mail, wrote: "Lynch, of course, wasn't pressed in winning the mile, nor did he try for a record because he had to save himself for the two-mile run later in the afternoon. He won this, too, finishing with a margin of more than 70 yards over the second finisher."

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

The major-league ball players' pension plan, after two years of operation at a loss, is in imminent danger of folding, it was learned at New York Monday.

Inaugurated in 1947, the plan thus far has been a financial flop, according to player-representatives Fred (Dixie) Walker of Pittsburgh and Fred Hutchinson of Detroit.

"It's no use to kid ourselves," Walker said. "The plan has not panned out as well as we hoped it would. We're just not taking in enough money to meet the cost of operation.

"We went into the hole for $80,000 last year. In other words, we paid out that much more than we took in. And it will get worse as we go along. As I see it, we must take in approximately $200,000 more a year for the next eight years to keep the plan working."

At Derby, England, Derbyshire 250 behind on the first innings, needs 150 more runs today with eight wickets standing if the New Zealand cricket tourists are to bat a second time.

The touring team established a first-innings lead of 250 before declaring at 371 for eight and then got rid of two Derbyshire wickets in the county's second innings for 44. But the third-wicket pair carried the total to 100 before the close.

It was fitting that the Dodgers beat the Yankees and Giants Monday night in a round-robin baseball game at New York.

The score was Brooklyn 6, Yankees 3, Giants 3.

Each team played six innings in an exhibition that climaxed the "night of champions" for charity at Yankee Stadium. The show drew 26,120 fans who contributed about $40,000 to the New York Heart Fund, the Babe Ruth Memorial Fund and the Lou Gehrig Memorial Fund.

As the pick of the major leagues prepared to square off for the all-star game in Brooklyn, the American League batting race Monday resolved into a feud between pace-setter George Kell of Detroit and runner-up Dom DiMaggio of Boston. Only seven points separated Kell, who last week slipped three points to .345, and Ding-Dom, who climbed eight points to .338.

Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn's brilliant all-star second baseman, continues to add to his National League batting lead with a .362 average. Robinson holds a 29-point lead over Pittsburgh's Ralph Kiner. Kiner it hitting .333 to .332 for Red Schoendienst of St. Louis who dropped from second to third.

The Cleveland Indians aren't for sale, so Dan Thornton, wealthy Colorado cattle man, has dropped his plans to buy the Indians.

Thornton said Monday at Cunnison, Colo., he wanted to purchase the club if it was for sale and "the price is right." He added his idea of a "right" price was about $1,000,000." Cleveland president Bill Veeck replied he had never heard of Thornton and the Indians weren't on the market.

In that case, Thornton said today, he is giving up his attempt to buy the club for the present.

Philadelphia Phillies scored six runs in the first two innings Monday night to coast to a 7-6 win over Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League in an exhibition tilt at Toronto. The National Leaguers used Curt Simmons and Russ Meyer on the mound before throwing in Ken Heintzelman.

Hugh Radcliffe, Bill Smith, Lou Possehl and Emory (Bubba) Church worked for the Leafs.

Lindsay Gains Close One Over Woollens

Lindsay eked out a 5-4 Girls Softball League victory over Dominion Woollens at the Bowl last night. It was a swell game, going 55 minutes, before a good-sized crowd, with Woollens right in the hunt to the last out. Their errors hurt, as they out-hit the winners. S. Harris allowed but seven hits and fanned seven, while M. Owen was nicked for 10 safe bingles as she whiffed eight, but she had perfect backing as Woollens kicked in with three miscues.

M. Dawkins and H. Deyell looked good in the field for the victors, while J. Walling and M. Laing went best for the losers. D. Madill and D. Wakelin of Lindsay each had two safe hits and M. Dawkins rapped out a triple. For Woollens, J. Walling was the main sticker with two three-baggers and a single in four times to bat.

The teams:

Lindsay: D. Wakelin, c; P. Graham, 1b; H. Deyell, 2b; M. Chase, ss; M. Owen, p; D. Madill, 3b; M. Dawkins, rf; D. Wood, cf; P. Wilkins, lf; M. Richards, lf.

Woollens: J. McIlwain, ss; J. Walling, 3b; C. Ferguson, lf; M. Laing, 1b; E. Humphries, cf; S. Harris, p; S. Wakeford, c; L. Pearosn, 2b; S. Johnson, rf.

Red Wings Paste Buffalo In 3-0 Triumph

By The Associated Press.

When a team clouts 16 home runs in the first 10 days of the month, there's bound to be a letdown.

The first-place Buffalo Bisons of the International League after doing just that apparently are tapering off, at least for the present, for they've suffered two successive shutouts at the hands of Rochester Red Wings.

They're still 4½ games in front of Montreal Royals, despite the 3-0 pasting they took from the Red Wings Monday night. The Wings also applied the calcimine brush in the second game of Sunday's doubleheader 12-0, which means the leaders have gone 16 innings without a run.

John Yuhas, a skinny right-hander, held the Bisons to six hits, and did not allow a man to reach third base in last night's conquest for his fifth triumph. Louis Aloma, Buffalo pitcher, yielded only seven hits, including a home run by Steve Bilko.

Baltimore Wins

Red Hardy of Jersey City Giants had the Baltimore Orioles handcuffed for six innings but he tossed up a pair of home run balls and they proved his undoing. Baltimore came out on top 4-2.

Frank Mancuso hit one in the seventh off Hardy with none on. In the eighth, Ken Wood whacked his 14th circuit clout of the season with two aboard. Al Widmar went the distance for Baltimore.

The Newark Bears went down to another defeat to implant themselves more firmly in the cellar. This one was at the hands of the Syracuse Chiefs, 7-2, and again it was the gopher ball that hurt the losers.

The Chiefs knocked four balls out of Ruppert Stadium—two by Bob Usher and one each by Dutch Mele and Carden Gillenwater — to enable Johnny Heiki to coast to his tenth victory.

Montreal and Toronto were not scheduled.

Robinson Keeps Welter Crown

PHILADELPHIA, July 12 (AP) —Ray Robinson still is king of the welterweights but he would readily give up the crown for a shot at Jake Lamotta's middleweight title.

If there ever was any doubt whether Sugar Ray is the best of the welters, he erased that impression last night with a clean-cut, unanimous victory over Cuba's hustling Kid Gavilan.

Robinson had no more than reached his crowded dressing room than he declared he was perfectly willing to continue fighting in the 147-pound division.

Robinson, with only the defeat by Lamotta to mar a string of 99 fights since turning pro in 1940, punched sharply and met Gavilan's two-fisted rushing tactics with a beautiful defence.

The first five rounds were pretty much give and take. But in the sixth Robinson started moving away. It looked as if he would finish the fight in the eighth when after taking a mild pounding on the ropes, he caught the Kid with a sharp left to the mouth. He followed up the blow with a right and another left. And Gavilan was in trouble.

Gavilan rallied briefly in the ninth but the champion took complete command again in the 10th, punching with deadly accuracy and catching many of Gavilan's swings on his gloves.

Robinson showed his contempt of Gavilan's punches in the 14th when he leaned on the ropes and rolled with blow after blow swung by the Cuban.

A dozen of the CGE crew went down on strikes before Akers' pitching in the seven-inning affair, and Ron also led at bat with three for four, M. Batley getting two of the losers' four hits.

The teams:

National Leaders To Shoot Works In All-Star Classic

By JOE REICHLER.

BROOKLYN, July 12 (AP) — The National League, from president Ford C. Frick down, is throwing in all its chips in an all-out effort to win the 16th annual all-star game at Ebbets' Field today.

Never has the victory-starved Frick been so determined to hang one on the chin of his rival league head, Will Harridge of the proud American Leaguers.

For the first time since the classic originated in 1933, Frick is playing an active role in shaping the line-up of the team. He still hasn't gotten over last year's most humiliating of all-11 defeats, a 5-2 pasting.

It was reported Frick recently sat down with Billy Southworth, who will lead his charges this afternoon, and after studying the probable American League line-up, helped Billy select the eight pitchers to represent the National.

Ignore Records

"They didn't pay too much heed to records," said a National League man, "but leaned toward the hurlers who they figured had the stuff to stop those sluggers."

The theory that Southworth was paying little attention to records was borne out when he announced that either Lefty Warren Spahn (9-8) of his own Boston Braves or righthander George (Red) Munger (6-4), of the St. Louis Cardinals would be his starting choice against the Americans. Except for Cincinnati's Ewell Blackwell, who is counted on to pitch only one inning if at all, no other pitching selection has a poorer record.

"I know that Southworth feels Munger with his cross-fire pitch and Spahn, with his tricky delivery can fool Joe DiMaggio, Ted Williams and Company," the National League man said.

Behind Spahn, Southworth has another pair of tough lefties in Howie Pollet (11-5) of the Cardinals and Preacher Roe (8-2) of Brooklyn Dodgers.

Back of Munger, the Nationals have three other righthanders all ready for action. Vern Bickford, an 11-game winner for Southworth, could go. So could Ralph Branca (10-3) and Don Newcombe, both of Brooklyn.

Marmora Victors

MARMORA, July 12. (ENS) — By their fourth successive win as they engaged Havelock on Monday evening, Marmora baseball team maintained its unbeaten record in the Trent Valley League, the score being 9-1 in their favor. For the winners, Drummond turned in a sound game on the mound and with Auger, led in batting. Two runs were brought in with the latter's timely double in the sixth. Errors by the visitors in two frames cost them runs.

Teams:

Havelock — Cosgrove c, Pollock cf, Bales ss, Laing 3b, Heath 1b, Smith 2b, Thompson cf, Southward rf, Vaughn p.

Marmora — Brown ss, Mumby 2b, Borland c, Drummond p, Auger 3b, Leal 1b, Dikun cf, Darrah cf, Vilneff rf, Jones rf.

British Mongrel Awarded Animals' VC For Courage In Gothic Line Fighting

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE, England, July 12 (CP)—Tich, a small mongrel bitch belonging to J. Walker, fruit barrow proprietor, has been awarded the Dickin medal, the animal's V. C.

While serving with the First Battalion, King's Royal Rifle Corps in Africa and Italy from 1940 to 1945, Tich showed "outstanding loyalty, courage and devotion to duty, which helped greatly in maintaining morale."

Tich's master won the military medal and Tich helped him get it. In the Gothic Line, rifleman Walker rescued wounded of the Ghurka Infantry Brigade under heavy fire. Tich, perched on the hood of his jeep, never left her post.

When a regimental aid post on the River Marzeno was partially destroyed by shell fire, Walker took charge. Tich, although slightly wounded in the head, again kept to her post, and next day accompanied her master through heavy shelling.

"Tich, like many real-life heroes, never was spectacular," said Lt.-Col. E. A. W. Williams, M. C., who commanded the battalion. "She just did her own very high conception of duty."

The medal is not Tich's only service memento. While at the front she gave birth to no fewer than 37 puppies.

Find 3,778,000 Out Of Work In United States

By RADAR WINGET

NEW YORK, July 12. (AP)—Unemployment figures, like everything else, are reflecting the return to a normal buyers' market in the United States.

But unemployment, while on the increase recently, still is only slightly above the average when viewed in the perspective of the last 100 years.

However, that's small comfort to the 3,778,000 persons in the United States pounding the pavements today looking for work. And it is little help to a community paralyzed when its biggest industry shuts down.

But the figures show that, even if the United States maintains a fairly prosperous economy with "full employment" in coming years, it can expect at least an average minimum unemployment of between 3,000,000 and 3,500,000.

That conclusion is based on a study by the Twentieth Century Fund, which found that five per cent of the labor force under normal conditions are looking for work at any given time. The Fund is a non-profit foundation conducting research on current economic problems.

Labor organizations and various federal government economists have predicted a possible rise in unemployment to around 5,000,000 this winter.

President Truman, in his economic report to Congress Monday, said "unemployment has not risen to the dangerous levels which would call for all-out emergency measures."

What is the danger line for unemployment.

Quick Agreement On Aims Hopeful Sign

By FORBES RHUDE

Canadian Press Business Editor

As was predictable, the wall between the sterling and dollar areas will not be allowed to grow indefinitely without a major effort being made to knock it down.

When viewed against its background, the week-end communique from the British treasury may be taken as more than just a pious hope that difficulties will be overcome.

Perhaps the most pertinent sentence is this:

"The aim must be the achievement of a pattern of world trade in which the dollar and non-dollar countries can operate together within one multilateral system."

And perhaps the most striking thing is that the "finance ministers" of Britain, the United States and Canada could meet so soon after the recent declaration of Britain's dollar difficulties, and that they could agree so quickly on a statement of aims.

Striking Thing

It was striking, but to be expected, because all along there has been no real difference in aims. There has been some difference of opinion about procedures, but without any clear-cut alternatives being offered to the procedures being followed.

That alternatives now will be sought is indicated in the communique's further statement that "the parties concerned must be prepared to review their policies."

If Britain is to successfully review her policies, it looks as though important proposals will need to come from the United States; and possibly, to some extent, from Canada.

Before the United States puts any further far-reaching proposals into effect, it is likely that she will need to feel assured that the basic British economic situation is sound.

To get a common platform for British economic revision and helpful United States proposals will require considerable technical discussions, and these will take place between now and September.

Moves of this kind require a little time. The important thing is that the need for moves is recognized and an attempt is being made to make them. This is in line with entire post-war procedures — recognizing problems before they have brought disaster, and then overcoming them, temporarily at least.

It has been close going many times, and it is close going now, but the fast meeting and agreement on aims by Sir Stafford Cripps, Treasurer Snyder and Finance Minister Abbott looks like the most hopeful development in many months.

Wheat Prospects Down

WASHINGTON, July 12—(AP)—The United States government reported Monday a sharp reduction in wheat crop prospects due to unfavorable June weather and plant disease conditions. But it forecast the second largest corn crop on record, being exceeded only by last year's all-time high of nearly 3,700,000,000 bushels.

Bangs King's Car

LONDON, July 12 (AP)—A frightened police horse charged into the King's car Monday and dented a fender. The King and Queen had just stepped out of the car, on their way to visit a Colonial exhibition. The King and Queen took little notice of the incident.

Truck Hits Handcar

MAGOG, Que., July 12—(CP)—Joseph Gagnon of Magog was killed and three injured, two critically, when a heavily loaded truck struck a Canadian Pacific Railway handcar at a crossing about three miles west of this eastern township town Monday.

Kentuckian Likes His Brides To Be Young Has Married Up With Four 14 Years Old

DETROIT, July 12.—(AP). — A 42-year-old Kentuckian apparently likes his brides to be 14 years old. He claims to have married up with four of that age now.

Earl Conners of Somerset, Ky., Monday pleaded guilty to contributing to the delinquency of a minor. In court, he admitted taking Fatima Hussan, 14, of Dearborn township, to Liberty, Ky., and marrying her last Nov. 15.

Immediately after leaving court, the Kentuckian mechanic was slapped into jail again for being $2,210 behind in his alimony payments to wife No. 2, Flora Conners.

"I love him very much," said the plump Fatima, bride No. 4. "I'll wait for him forever if I have to."

But her father, Komar Hussan, 56, doesn't share her enthusiasm. He wants his daughter back.

"Give him what's coming," he shouted in court, shaking his fist at his son-in-law.

The court deferred sentencing on the delinquency charge, pending a probation report.

Army Worms Strip 600 Acres

THEDFORD, Ont., July 12—(CP)—An estimated 600 acres of rich crop land in this Lambton County area is overrun with "army worms" and damage already is estimated at several thousand dollars.

Ironically enough, the scene of the attack is only seven miles from Ipperwash, the large army camp on Lake Huron.

It is only in the last few days that the worms have appeared in threatening numbers. County agricultural representative W. P. McDonald blames it on unusual weather this year, particularly the long drought which has favored rapid growth of worm population.

Army worms are striped caterpillars without fur on their backs, and range in length from an inch to three inches. They are so called from their habit of marching in compact bodies of enormous numbers—overrunning fields and devouring practically everything green in their path.

The outbreak, Mr. MacDonald said, is the worst in this area since 1927, but some farmers claimed they hadn't seen anything like it since 1914.

Falls 34 Feet

THAMESVILLE, Ont., July 12.—(CP).—Fred Marr, 39-year-old Thamesville construction worker is in Chatham hospital with serious injuries received when he plunged 34 feet to the ground from a new grain elevator on which he was working. Marr was fixing braces to a joist on the top story of the elevator when he apparently stepped backwards, missed his footing and fell to the ground.

INDUSTRY SLOWING UP—Elliot M. Little, president of Anglo-Canadian Pulp and Paper Mills Ltd., who has just returned from a tour of Europe, declared in a recent interview that the Canadian pulp industry is gradually being pushed into position of a man who doesn't know from where the next pay cheque is coming. A study of overseas markets led Mr. Little to believe the solution to the probelm is convertibility of currency and free trade.

Bucket Brigade Saves Home In Smith Twp.

An exploding coal-oil stove is believed responsible for the fire Monday that gutted the second-storey of the home of George Tindle, four miles west of Bridgenorth on Lake Chemong. Damage is estimated at $3,000, part of it covered by insurance.

The speedy arrival and yeoman service of neighbors is credited with saving the farm home occupied by Mr. Tindle and his wife. A bucket brigade of eager volunteers was formed and pails of water were speedily passed along the human chain to men on ladders who doused the roof and walls of the burning building.

Although temporarily held back by smoke the Tindles, assisted by their neighbors, were able to save all their furniture as well as other items of personal value.

A pumper eventually arrived from the Outboard Marine Co. to help quell the blaze, but by that time it was well under control. Early in the battle against the fast-moving flames the well ran dry leaving the lake as sole supply.

Badly Damaged

The upper storey, the wooden verandah which runs around three sides of the house, the kitchen and an adjoining wood shed were all either destroyed or badly damaged. Fire did not harm the downstairs but the combination of water and smoke added to the damage.

Mrs. Tindle said she left the new oil stove burning in the kitchen while she went to the barn with the cream can. When she returned shortly afterwards she found the kitchen in flames, presumably caused by the oil stove exploding.

She ran to the gate and called Mr. Tindle who was doing the morning chores in the barn and he rushed to the house and began to fight the flames. The alarm was raised by telephone and near neighbours spread the news also by telephone. Both for their help in this way and for aiding in fighting the fire the Tindles are extremely grateful to nearby residents.

About 150 people aided, as best they could, in putting out the blaze, and at one time there was a crowd of about 500 gathered around the Tindle house.

In order to get at the flames the volunteers had to chop holes in the roof which had only recently been put on the house. Fire ate into the beams and rafters and proved difficult to extinguish.

The families of C. H. Westlake and Charles West, both neighbours, were among the first to arrive and lend assistance.

Triple Birthday Celebration Marked

Celebration of Mrs. John Hatherly's 87th birthday took the form of a triple birthday celebration Sunday at her Peterborough home, 126 Park St. S.

Mrs. Hatherly, who lived in Cavan 50 years before coming to Peterborough four years ago, has her birthday on July 6.

A few years ago it was discovered that Mrs. Hatherly's birthday falls on the same day as the birthday of her sister-in-law Mrs Timlin and William Curtis, her nephew.

Some 50 guests, nieces and nephews, with their families, attended the family party on Sunday, several travelling long distances. Greetings and gifts came from Toronto, Oshawa, Cobourg, Fraserville, Cavan, Cold Springs, Roseneath, Baltimore, Fenella, Camborne and Peterborough.

Mrs. Hatherly's late husband was a farmer in Cavan township.

CYCLE ALL DECKED OUT

July 12 celebrations were not overlooked by city police today although there was nothing in official orders to pay special observance of this anniversary.

When Constable Claire McGillen, traffic officer, arrived at the police station for duty this morning, a group of enthusiasts headed by Constables Andy Dalton and Ernie Beatty had decorated the motorcycle to do honor to the Dutch royal house of Orange.

Constable McGillen drove the bedecked cycle through city streets.

Oshawa Youth Shatters Arm, Gun Discharges

ROSENEATH, July 12—Taking a rifle which he had brought only a few hours previously to shoot groundhog, Frank Petrosky, 21, of Wilson Rd., Oshawa, shattered his left arm Monday when the trigger was accidently released.

A truck driver for Country Club Beverages of Oshawa, Petrosky was teaching Roy Shrigley, 21, of 319 Division St., Oshawa, the route. While driving two miles north of Roseneath some of the cartons of soft drinks fell from the truck and the two men stopped to reload.

It was agreed that Petrosky would shoot groundhog while Shrigley replaced the cartons and he reached inside the truck to get the rifle. As Petrosky pulled the rifle out of the truck it went off, shooting him through the arm.

Under the care of Dr. W. W. Wilkins of Cobourg, Petrosky is in Cobourg General Hospital. Provincial Constable Don Nicol investigated the incident.

Lemonade Flows With Boys' Tears

Enterprise does not always have the rich rewards of ingenuity and labor as a group of young Toronto lads discovered Monday.

As Peterborough's city police Detective Sgt. John Stevenson and Detective Bud Clarke were walking down Danforth they came to what appeared to be a thriving business. A group of school age youngsters had set up a refreshment booth on the sidewalk. Boxes had been erected to provide a counter and a number of bill signs, all hand designed, announced that soft drinks were for sale.

Here was a fine way to make an honest penny. All seemed to be going well when the calamity occurred. The entire project was smashed as a small boy, drawning up to the counter, overbalanced and fell from his bicycle, tumbling milk bottles full of luscious looking fruit drink and indeed, collapsing the entire counter.

Council Approves $28,000 Bond Issue

Seeking $28,000 to finance an addition to the Parkhill school at the west end of Wolsley St. city council Monday afternoon gave the first two readings to a bylaw authorizing the issue of debenture bonds.

When the Ontario Muncipal Board approves the bond issue, the council can give final reading to the bylaw.

The proposed bonds will mature in five years and will bear interest at the rate of 2¾%.

A two-room addition to the school is planned by the Board of Education to accommodate the ever-increasing school age population.

Broken glass near the lock on the front door of Thompson Bros. service station at the corner of Rink and George Sts. discovered early this morning, has aroused suspicion of an attempted break-in.

George Thompson found the door broken when he went to open the station this morning. Nothing is missing, however, and it is believed that no one actually entered the building.

Poll Tax Paid By 800 Men Fetched $4,000

Bachelors young and old in Peterborough claim that the poll tax is a nuisance tax, an unfair tax, an antiquated tax, nevertheless Peterborough is one of the 24 municipalities which impose it and try to collect it. In fact, despite bachelordom's objections, most municipalities in Ontario do levy a poll tax. Peterborough's is five dollars.

The bachelors are mistaken in thinking it is assessed against them as bachelors, A. S. Couper, Collector of Taxes, remarked. "It is not a tax on bachelors. The Act does not mention a man's marriage status. It applies to all men over the age of 21 and under sixty who are not otherwise assessed." It happens, of course, that the majority of men who do not rent homes or own property are bachelors, and so they are the ones who pay most of the tax.

Peterborough collected a poll tax last year of $3,900.23. That means that about 780 men paid it. The number assessed as liable for the tax was 1,183.

Most Pay Up

This does not mean that 403 or a third of the men assessed, slunk out of paying the tax. Mr. Couper explains that between the time the assessor calls and the time the tax bill is presented men move out of town, change their local address or cannot be located. Also, in numerous instances men are improperly assessed. This happens because landladies often do not know whether their boarders are under 21 or over 60, whether they own property, whether they are volunteers in reserve forces. When the tax bill is sent to such men, and it is found that they are not liable for the tax, they are of course not required to pay the $5.

In general the poll tax in Peterborough is successfully collected. If a man is slow in paying a notice is sent him, reminding him that the tax is due, and his attention is drawn to Chapter 274, Section 7, sub-section 1, Statute Labor Act, which reads as follows:

"Every person liable to pay poll tax shall pay the same to the collector appointed to collect the same within two days after demand therefor by the collector, and in case of neglect or refusal to pay the same, the collector may levy the same by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the defaulter, with costs of distress, and if no sufficient distress can be found, the defaulter, for his refusal or neglect to pay the said sum, shall incur a penalty of $10.00."

Companies co-operate, as by law they are required to do, by supplying lists of employees eligible for the tax, and, at the request of the tax collector, by making deductions from the pay of men who have failed to pay the tax. Such requests are usually made, where necessary, in July and August.

No man has been brought to court in Peterborough since 1936 for non-payment of the poll tax. "A waste of time," Mr. Couper says.

Tax In Other Places

Other Ontario municipalities which assess a poll tax and the revenues they received from that source are: Sudbury $16,000, Branford 6,800, For William $6,815, Saul Ste. Marie $8,000, Oshawa $9,000 Port Arthur $3,300, Sarnia $3,200, Niagara Falls $2,500 St. Thomas $2,300 Stratford $3,000, North Bay $1,800, Galt $2,400, Owen Sound $850, Welland $3,000, Woodstock $1,400, Orillia $500, Barrie $400, Waterloo $2,200, Mimico $1,600, New Toronto $1,300, Collingwood $500.

Nineteen of the municipalities impose a poll tax of $5, like Peterborough. In two the tax is $6; one has a $7.50 poll tax, and another a $10 tax.

The Ontario Municipal Association recently conducted a survey and reported "a surprising variation in the per capita revenue received, even allowing for varying degrees of industrialization of the municipalities concerned." The per capita revenue is arrived at by dividing the receipts from the poll tax by the total population. It ranges from 3.5 cents to 42.5 cents, the average being 16.1 cents The per capita revenue from poll tax in Peterborough last year was about 12 cents.

Objections To Tax

Is such a tax worth bothering about? That is a question municipal authorities in Peterborough and elsewhere have been asking themselves. Many cities, particularly the larger ones like Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa have dropped the tax entirely. The reasons given in answer to the Ontario Municipal Association questionnaire are: "It costs more to enforce than it was worth." "After giving it a fair trial it was found more trouble to collect it than the revenue warranted." "A large part was assessed against a floating population from whom it was impossible to collect, if and when they are located." Some considered it a nuisance tax. Others felt it created a hardship on certain classes of citizens.

Bachelors Vehement

Several Peterborough bachelors both young and old, when asked by the Examiner what they thought of the poll tax here were unanimously against it, and most of them vehement. "If they are going to nick us for $5. why not make the dames pay too? Down at my plant half the girls are making as much as I am."

"So they think that because we don't own property or a wife and rent a house that we don't pay taxes. I buy my meals in restaurants, which keeps them going. I pay six dollars a week for a place to sleep and that helps the landlady pay her taxes."

Another man, aged 25, said: "So they think that because I don't pay house rent or land taxes, that they have a right to gouge five bucks out of me? I pay $14 a week board. If that isn't high enough to give my landlady lots of money to pay taxes and some gravy as well I'd like to know."

Sought Jailing

Another man assessed poll tax said: "I wouldn't mind paying the $5 if I got with it the right to vote at city elections. I've lived here for twenty-five years and I think I'm as civic-minded as most people, yet I can't have a say in how the city is run. I can't vote to elect aldermen. Give me a vote and I'll pay the tax. But tax without the vote is taxation without representation."

One Peterborough bachelor last year was so anxious to make an issue of the poll tax and to rouse enthusiasm against it, that he made sure that his landlady gave the assessor his name, so that he would receive a poll tax notice. Then he intended not to pay the tax, to offer to do road work, to go to court, to be fined, and not pay the fine. Then he was prepared to take a week in jail as a poll tax martyr. But he was fooled. He got no poll tax notice at all.

This bachelor would have been stymied anyway. Although the city poll tax is a survival of the old compulsory road work demanded in early days of all male residents, and is listed under the Statute Labor Act, the road work has been commuted in the tax. He cannot do road work instead of paying the tax, not in Peterborough. And if he does not pay the tax, the Tax Collector could seize enough of his goods to make it up.

Nazi Press Head Jailed

MUNICH, July 12—(Reuters)—A German denazification appeal court Monday sent Max Amann, former president of the Nazi Press Association, to a labor camp for 10 years, as a "major offender." All his property was confiscated and he was found guilty of "enslaving the German press."

"MRS. MANNINGHAM, HAVE YOU ever been embraced by a detective in his shirt sleeves?" asks Bramwell Fletcher of Margaret Feury in the 1st act of "Angel Street", Peterborough Summer Theatre's third production. Its premier showing on Monday evening played to a packed house in the Queen Mary Auditorium.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Lakefield Boy Rescues Child

LAKEFIELD, July 12 (ENS)—A drowning tragedy was narrowly averted here on Sunday afternoon when Whipple Steinkrauss, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Steinkrauss of Peterborough, was rescued from the local swimming pool a few minutes after she had slipped off some logs on which she had been playing. The rescue was made by George Gould, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Gould of Fort William, who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Northey of Lakefield.

The little girl was accompanied to the pool by Mrs. Earl Orr, with whom she had been visiting. When Mrs. Orr saw the child slip from the logs and go under water, she called to the boy, who dived in and pulled the girl out. The child did not lose consciousness and suffered no ill effects from her sudden immersion.

The incident occurred at a time when there was not a patrol of the beach, the lifeguard being off duty.

Summer Theatre Presents Thriller In Angel Street

By ROBERTSON DAVIES

The Summer Theatre deserves packed houses every night this week for its admirable production of "Angel Street". The play, which may best be described as a psychological thriller, is a first-rate piece of work of its kind, and when it is well played it keeps its audience continually excited and amused. The audience on Monday night was so engrossed in the play that there were shrieks when the favourite seemed to be in danger, and cries of relief when the villian was brought low. What more genuine compliment can actors receive?

Briefly, the play is about a criminal who tries to drive his wife mad, and is thwarted by an eccentric middle-aged detertive. The vicious Mr. Manningham was played with admirably subtle villainy by John Primm, a versatile actor who is quickly becoming a favourite with the local audience. His unfortunate wife was very well portrayed by Margaret Feury; her moments of horrible doubt when it seemed to her that she was indeed mad, were particularly telling. Bramwell Fletcher, as Rough, the police sergeant, had the meatiest part and played it for all it was worth. It was not surprising that an actor of his experience and reputation should show more authority, and a more thorough command of the audience, than Miss Feury and Mr. Primm. No actor of Mr. Fletcher's capacity has been seen in Peterborough for many years, and the audience gave him a most generous welcome.

In lesser roles Patricia Atkinson was convincing as a middle-aged housekeeper, and Anna Cameron gave a first-rate portrait of a wanton housemaid; unless this part is played with its full due of allurement the whole play suffers, and Miss Cameron gave it exactly the right emphasis.

"Angel Street" is a play of atmosphere, as well as of character, and a special word of praise must be said for Miss Martha Jamieson's excellent setting. As soon as the curtains parted its strong quality of Victorian menace established itself and it may be said without exaggeration that a full third of the effectiveness of the play was attributable to the work of Miss Jamieson and the carpenters and electricians who assisted her. Miss Jamieson's work is not, as yet, widely known in Canada; it is a safe prediction that in ten years it will be one of the highlights in what the Canadian theatre has to show.

As well as the setting, the properties and costumes were excellent. A play of this kind cannot be put upon the stage fittingly without a great deal of judicious borrowing, unearthing and cadging. The effect in this case thoroughly justified the effort it cost.

It will be a long time before the Peterborough public sees a thriller better done than "Angel Street". Go and see it by all means.

Those Russians Again!

VIENNA, July 12—(AP)—The Russians have refused to let two American armored cars cross part of the Russian zone of Austria to return to Vienna from the United States zone, American auhorities said Monday night. The armored cars have been stranded since Sunday on the American side of the river Enns. The American authorities said they have protested that the Soviet action violates interzonal travel agreements.

Eggs Increased Eleven Cents

Long-expected increases in egg prices came today with A large jumping 9 cents and A medium 11 cents from Monday's prices. Dealers expected further increases.

It is thought production has dropped to such an extent there will not be enough to supply the demand for some time to come.

Today's prices are: A large 57, A medium 55 and pullets 42. Grades B and C remained unchanged at 34 and 30.

A week ago A large were 11 cents cheaper than they were today.

Prices are expected to continue high the rest of the summer, but just what the top will be, no one is prepared to guess.

The increase was expected because of the early and intense hot weather which cuts production each summer.

Find 5 Leaves On Clover Stem

By HAZEL PAULL.

You can feel sure of good luck if you find a four leaved clover but what does a five leaved clover indicate? That is the question Mrs. Evelyn Townsend of Douro is asking today. She was standing in the clover patch in front of her home, waiting for a ride into town when she discovered a sturdy stem bearing five leaves.

Four leaved clovers—and, we hope, the luck that goes with them—are almost a commonplace for the Townsends, who had no difficulty in finding a second when the first specimen they pressed became damaged. But the five-leaved variety is surely a unique example.

The third, which Mrs. Townsend is pressing for preservation, measures about an inch and a half across and each leaf is nearly the size of a penny.

Another incident of which Mrs. Townsend is justly proud is the capture some three weeks ago by her eight-year-old son Wayne, of a racoon. Carrying the animal by the neck, the youngster brought it home from a fishing expedition on his bicycle and has kept it as a pet ever since.

Now there is even more incentive to fish than the mere glory of a good catch. He goes fishing to fed the racoon, who is thriving on fish and bread.

PERMIT SWIMMING

Deep water swimming at the new pier in Riverside Park is now permissable. Swimming was stopped there two weeks ago due to the condition of the pier. But now work is completed by the Parks' Department replacing the old wooden wharf.

LANDS 12-POUNDER

Herbert Campbell 19 Riverside Drive, and his father, Gordon Campbell, landed a 12-pound muskie from the Otonabee River this morning. Mr. Campbell was casting with a silver flash when he hooked it and after 20 minutes of fighting the fish was brought into the boat. The fish was caught just below the sewage disposal plant.

FIRE DAMAGES TRUCK

A new model truck owned by the plumbing firm of Crapp and Murphy was seriously damaged by fire Monday night. It started as a result of a short circuit in the battery while in front of 148 Fradette Ave. Nearby residents played garden hoses on the blazing vehicle and when the fire department arrived a booster pump was used.

AT ROTARY LUNCHEON

A large number of visiting Rotarians and guests were introduced at Monday's weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club by James Juby, as follows: Rotarians, George VanKoughnett, Napanee; George A. Fieldner, Bryan, Ohio; Clifford Moore, South Glen Falls; Jaspher Humphrey, Montreal; D. S. McFetters, McKeesport, Pa.; and Rev. Max Dowell, Heights of Cleveland; guests, Edgar Burnham, St. Petersburg, Fla., and formerly of Peterborough; Stewart Widdess, Los Angeles, Calif., whose father was a charter member of Peterborough Rotary Club; and Dr. Robert Ball, Peterborough.

NOT FOR PETERBOROUGH

So far as officers in charge of the Peterborough headquarters of the Provincial Police are aware, this district is not likely to witness an early switch back from automobiles to motorcycles for highway patrol work, the Examiner learned today. Cpl. L. T. Keeler in charge in the absence of Inspector E. V. McNeil, said that the motorbikes are being revived at larger centres because it has been found that police cars often get caught in traffic jams themselves, thus impeding them in their work of checking on traffic rule violators. Since impeding them in their work is not as heavy as around Toronto and other bigger cities, it is not considered likely that the two-wheeled vehicles will make their appearance here, at least for some time yet.

Outboard Marine Picnic Held Nicholls Oval

Nicholl's Oval was jammed with happy children Monday night. It was the Outboard Marine Company's annual picnic for employees and their kiddies.

Unlike Saturday afternoon when a downpour of rain forced the cancellation of the picnic, Monday brought good weather and no disappointed younger fry.

As usual there were races from the toddler class to the teen-aged, as well as races and other contests for the adults. Each child of Social and Athletic Association members received six free tickets which could be used for pony rides, merry-go-round, soft drinks, ice cream, and hot dogs.

Long queues of excited youngsters formed outside the pony-rides, and the calliope attracted them to the ever-popular merry-go-round as though it were pied-piper music.

Those who enjoy stage entertainment had a full evening too. Seated on the side of the hill they were able to watch amateur and professional performers on the bandstand.

Included in the list of amateur entertainers who received prizes for their acts were William Warren, songs; Doris Downer, piano; Herbert Ralph, step dancer; Grace Ralph, guitar and singing; Joseph Murphy, violin; Edith Frizelle, songs; Raymond and Gail Fuller, piano duet; Morgan Pinch, mouth organ; Gloria Disburbeaux, songs; Annie Millard, Highland Fling; Shirley Harris, Joan McIlwain, and Margie Lang, a singing trio; Bill Warren and Edith Frizelle, duets; R. Fontaine and E. Doughty, on singing guitars; and The Wood Sisters, tap dancing.

Pat McIntosh, of Toronto, the singing character - comedian, raised a host of laughs with his several numbers done in dialect. He doubled as master of ceremonies.

The Carr Brothers, Bob and Fred, formerly of Great Britain, received sustained applause for their ability to play the guitar and violin while maintaining an amusing clown act.

Everybody likes to watch a clever dog; and the children in particular enjoyed seeing "Major" obey the many commands of his master, Ernie Galloway of Toronto. One of his most popular accomplishments was walking a tight rope.

Bingo, a horseshoe tournament, and games of chance were also on the grounds for those that enjoy these respective pastimes. Five draws for valuable prizes were eagerly awaited by the huge crowd.

First-Nighters Enjoy Play

First performance by the Peterborough Summer Theatre players of "Angel Street" a mystery play known to some as "Gas Light" was witnessed Monday evening by more than 375 persons They were happy to be the first to see the noted actor, Mr. Bramwell Fletcher, in his first appearance in this theatre, and delighted when he came from his dressing room to speak to them informally before the curtain went up. Many of the attendants were employees of Canada Packers and their families and a number of American holidayers at the lakes came to see the play. There were also some residents of the city attending for the first time and finding the entertainment to their liking.

Shoe fashions keep step with summer prints. The flat patent leather Mary Janes (above) which cut a shine with summer florals make news with a side-dipping, edged vamp, a back bow of grosgrain ribbon. Two-strap linen wedge (upper right) dyed to match the background of a summer print repeats hemline color. It's a match this time in fabric and print between shantung dress and polka-dot shell shoes shown (lower right) with new high heel.

Fashion Designers Have Copied Cowboys' Riggin'

NEW YORK, July 12.—(AP).—Claire McCardell, high priestess of the casual look, presents bandanna necklines for fall.

Apparently charmed by a cowboy, Claire puts bandanna collars on everything from coats to dinner dresses, fastens them in back or front as her fancy dictates, makes them big or little, low or high.

Chief distinguishing characteristic is their careless look, as if they had been tied on as an afterthought.

Miss McCardell continues her plunging necklines in the fall collection, sometimes showing them slit to the waist, sometimes filled in with a silk neckerchief as a guard against pneumonia.

Notable in her fall showing are a flock of brand new fabrics, designed by Claire herself and including such things as tapestry knits, soft rayon-and-wool jerseys, nubby tweeds, crisp-quilted woollens, two-tone rib knits, all-over smocking on wool jersey, wool Irish lace and silk pique.

Visiting fashion editors were further intrigued yesterday by the fall tricks of Joset Walker, who showed one-sleeved stoles, wool turtle necked shirts and side-saddle skirts in the kind of sturdy wools and gay colors that delight the college crowd.

Typical of her collection is an outfit consisting of chamois flannel vest, red flannel skirt and brown jersey, turtle-neck shirt.

Brigance, doing his first collection for the house of Charles Nudelman, accents what he calls the "curvilinear silhouette," which seems to mean smooth, natural shoulders and hiplines in well-bred skirt-and-shirt outfits for all hours of the day and night. The skirts all have pockets.

R. Quackenbush Culminates Hospital Romance

A romance that commenced with a visit to Christie Street Hospital reached fulfilment on Saturday when Audrey Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Allison of Birchcliff, became the bride of Mr. Ralph Allen Quackenbush of Norwood, son of Mrs. Andrew A. Quackenbush and the late Mr. Quackenbush of Lakefield. The couple met when the groom was a hospital patient and the bride was doing YMCA social work there.

A pretty informal wedding took place at four o'clock in St. Nicholas Church, Kingston Road, Birchcliff, the Rev. Louis Garnsworthy officiating. Mr. Charles Gardner played the wedding march and accompanied Mr. William Marr who sang "I'll walk beside you" before the ceremony, and "O Promise Me" while the register was being signed.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a summer suit of white shantung and white accessories, and carried a cascade of pink roses. She was attended by her sister Miss Joyce Allison in a similar suit of pink shantung with white accessories and carrying a nosegay of pink roses and white gladioli.

Mr. Roy Harper of Toronto was the groomsman.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where her mother received in an afternoon dress of navy crepe with navy and white accessories and bouquet of yellow tea roses at her shoulder. The groom's mother who assisted was wearing a two-piece navy dress with navy and pink accessories and a corsage of pink and white carnations.

Before leaving for a honeymoon in Northern Ontario the bride changed to a travelling dress of printed silk and white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Quackenbush will live in Toronto.

Auger-Carman

MARMORA, July 12.—(ENS).—At St. Andrew's parsonage on Saturday morning the marriage was solemnized of Lena Gertrude Carman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Carman of Marmora township and James Hector Auger, son of Mrs. H. Auger and the late Hector Auger of Marmora. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. D. Young. Attendants were Mrs. Jean Bell and William Auger.

A buffet lunch was served at the home of the groom's mother, at which there were 28 guests. The couple left later on a trip to Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec. They will reside in Marmora.

Let Your Shoes Step Out With Your Summer Prints

By EPSIE KINARD.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Shoes designed to keep company with summer prints can hold their own with any bright motif that flashes from a hemline.

Polka dots are carried from hemline to leather sole by shoes of silk shantung. There are high-heeled shell-out pumps for example, which owe this fashionable alliance with hemlines to the same kind of polka-dotted fabric which makes summer dresses.

Natural or white linen shoes sandals, pumps, wedges — come matched to vanilla ice cream shades of summer clothes or can be dyed to repeat a color note of your favorite summer print.

A summer shoe able to take any print in stride and at the same time focus eyes on its brand new design is the 1949-styled "Mary Jane" pump of black patent leather. What's new about this Mary Jane is its dipping side vamp, grosgrain binding and perky bow, tied as neatly as a school girl's hair ribbon.

DOROTHY DIX

Boredom Wrecks Marriages Need Separate Activities

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a young married man with two children. I don't smoke, drink or gamble. I never go to a show or a banquet alone. I take my family out to some place of amusement at least once a week. My wife keeps the house and is a good mother. I think she is a worthy wife and that I am a worthy husband, but, somehow we don't agree. There is too much wrangling and pouting and the reason of it is because occasionally I want to attend a ball game alone or to play cards with men alone. My wife pouts for a week when I do it and complains that I don't want to take her anywhere. While I am at work she sees her friends and goes to shows and belongs to card clubs, etc., which is all right with me, but why should I not now and then have the privilege of seeing my friends? M. I. W.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Of course, you should have the privilege of going out alone sometimes, and your wife is silly and selfish to try to deny it to you. If she had any knowledge of life or any breadth of vision she would know that a man has need of some relaxation just as much as a woman has and that a man craves masculine companionship just as much as a woman does feminine.

Any woman would think herself very badly used if her husband objected to her hen parties or if he insisted on going with her shopping or if he didn't want her to go to a bridge game where he couldn't go. She doesn't think for a minute that her husband should monopolize all of her leisure time, but she thinks that every minute of his spare time should be given to her and she raises ructions if he wants to go to a ball game without her or to play poker of an evening.

Funny how wives think they have so much more right to boss their husbands than their husbands have to boss them. I wonder how they get that way?

And I also wonder how any woman expects her husband to keep loving her if she pouts, which is a childish and lowdown method of trying to get her own way. DOROTHY DIX.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 45 and am thinking of running for representative. Some of my friends think it is foolish. Others think it is a good idea as long as my maid could look after my home and children. What do you think of women being in public office? M. D.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: No reason in the world why a woman should not hold a public office if the position she seeks is one that she is fitted to fill and she can get elected to it. But the way to any public office is a thorny one to tread and one filled with heart-burnings and anxieties, and beset with the slimy serpents of slander. Before you reach your goal you will be bruised and battered by the hard knocks you get and you will have lost many a friend, so think long before you give up your peaceful home life for politics.

As for women pursuing a political or any other kind of career, I think the determining factor is always how much they are needed at home. Certainly no woman who has little children, or adolescent children who need their mother far more than babies do, has any right to pursue a career unless she is absolutely driven to it by financial necessity. Her job is in her own home. That is the one that God is going to hold her responsible for, and woe to her if she is a quitter.

No hired servants, however competent they may be, can take the place of a mother, because the mother gives children something that is necessary to their development which no other human being can give them. It takes mother love, mother patience, mother understanding to solve the problems of little souls and steer young lives in the right direction.

And a woman who has a good husband is foolish to swap him off for a career. Of course, most women don't intend to do this. They think they can have their cake and eat it, too, and that husband will stay put while they are off campaigning or lecturing or what not. But he doesn't. Some other woman always gets him, and only too often the woman finds out that the career has failed and her husband has been lost, too.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a boy of 19 very much in love with a girl of 16. Can a girl of 16 know the meaning of saving? Most girls want to see how much a boy can spend on them, but this one is different. Can she really mean it?

GLENN.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Most girls of 16 belong to the Gimme family. They think of nothing but having a good time and grabbing everything in sight, so if you have found one who considers your pocketbook you have discovered a marvel. But she is too young to marry or for you to be certain what she is going to develop into. Give her five or six years more in which to develop and grow, then you can be certain whether you are getting a spender or a saver.

DOROTHY DIX.

Peterson-Carveth

In St. John's Church, West Toronto, on Saturday, the Rev. W. I. D. Smith of Sutton officiated at the marriage of Mary Elizabeth Carveth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley R. Carveth of Millbrook, to Mr. Clifford Otto Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl O. Peterson, Toronto.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore white Chantilly lace and silk marquisette, patterned on princess lines. Her circular veil was caught to a headdress of matching lace and she carried a cascade of red roses. Miss Marguerite Peterson, sister of the groom, was maid of honor, wearing salmon pink Chantilly lace and chiffon and carrying a cascade of pink roses.

Mr. Douglas Carveth of Rochester was groomsman and the ushers were Donald Baird of Hamilton and Paul W. Holmes of Peterborough.

The reception was at Kilcooley Gardens where the bride's mother received in an azure blue lace and crepe dress with which she wore grey accessories and a corsage of choral roses. The groom's mother assisted, wearing a flamingo rose crepe frock with lace, navy accessories and corsage of pink roses.

The bridal couple will spend their honeymoon in New York and the east coast states and on return will live in Toronto.

Social Situations

SITUATION: You are expecting a caller who is bringing her small child.

WRONG WAY: Make no preparation for the child.

RIGHT WAY: If you plan to serve refreshments to the adult caller, have something suitable prepared for the child, and if possible have something for the child to play with.

Plan 16 Church Weddings In City for Saturday

If Peterborough girls have their way, July will become the traditional month of brides instead of June.

Sixteeen church weddings are taking place in the city on Saturday, July 16, and at least five Peterborough residents are being married in churches at other places. Ten was the greatest number on one day in June, and this number was equalled on the first Saturday of July; and there will be almost as many on July 23.

Vacation shut-downs in local factories this month is the big reason why the girls choose to be July brides.

However, catering facilities are being severely taxed by the large number of weddings and some receptions are having to be held out of town.

Eastern Star 161 Picnic Held At Lake Chemong

A fireworks display had to be cancelled due to the weather and each child was given some to take home for future use.

After supper had been served, the Worthy Matron, Mrs. H. Green, moved a hearty vote of thanks to the hosts.

Results of races were:

Claire Ruskin Is Married At Chemong Lake Cottage

At the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Ruskin, Poplar Point, Lake Chemong, on Sunday, July 10, the marriage took place of their youngest daughter Claire to Mr. Arnold Golumbia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Golumbia, Macrorie, Saskatchewan. Rabbi J. Mayer performed the ceremony.

The wedding was on the lawn and the bride came down a pathway lined with hollyhocks and white streamers. Prior to the ceremony Mr. Sidney Fisher sang "Because."

The bride was wearing a gown of white net with bertha collar effect and a very full skirt trimmed with lace. Her fingertip veil of net was caught to a beaded headdress trimmed with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Morton Golumbia, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and was gowned in canary yellow sheer. Mrs. Frances Semel in pink silk jersey and Miss Margaret Florence in a gown of ice blue satin were bridesmaids. Each wore a headband to match her dress and they carried nosegays of roses in contrasting shades.

Mr. Morton Golumbia was his brother's groomsman. Ushers were Dr. Ralph Green and Mr. Abe Semel.

More than 200 guests were present for the ceremony and reception which followed. A buffet supper was served and afterward an orchestra provided music for dancing. Mrs. Ruskin received in a gown of beige crepe with lace inset, and the groom's mother was gowned in turquoise. Each wore a corsage of red roses.

The bride and groom have gone to Niagara Falls for their honeymoon and will go to their home in Saskatoon later. For travelling the bride chose a suit of natural linen and navy accessories.

British Farmers Complain Too Many Shows Organized

By DON GILBERT

LONDON, July 11 (CP). — Some farmers say Britain has too many agricultural shows.

More than 1,000 of them, big and small, are staged each year. With farm prosperity running high, the number keeps growing.

The farmer's objections is that they come at a time when things are busiest on the farm. Farmers hate to miss a show but there is hay to get in and crops to be cultivated.

Said one Somerset farmer visiting a recent Royal Agricultural Society's Show at Shrewsbury, Somerset:

"Local shows need cutting down. Give us one county show and be done with it. And let's have it early, not in hay or harvest time."

Experts are concerned over the effect on food production that excessive fair-going might have. They concede the farmhand has his right to a "clodhopper's day out" but feel that one good show yearly would keep him happy.

Not Necessary

"Farmers around here attend six shows each summer instead of one as formerly," said one Scottish farmer. "It is unnecessary with modern transport bringing larger shows within everybody's reach."

Many feel the number of shows could be cut in half. Already there have been considerable merging of small shows and even some long-established county shows have joined together.

In the latter crategory, the Bath and West Show, held this year near Bristol, is an example of several older fairs amalgamating. Another is the Three Counties Show which replaces separate county fairs for Herefordshire, Gloucestershire and Worcestershire.

Besides the effect on the production by absent farm workers, experts say the multiplicity of shows has had a bad effect on livestock. The way things now are exhibitors of cattle engage in a mad rush from one show to another.

Agricultural specialists say this is harmful. Cows, in the full flush of milk, produce smaller yields. Breeding stock have to be kept so fat to win prizes that their breeding ability is impaired.

Skinny men, women gain 5, 10, 15 lbs.

Barbara Ann To Give Show In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, July 11 (AP)—Barbara Ann Scott, Canada's skating beauty, is headed for Hollywood before she starts on a Canadian skating tour with her own company.

But the trip to Hollywood isn't primarily to sign a movie contract. She is to display before the music lovers who regularly crowd Hollywood Bowl for symphony the skating talents that won her the world's and Olympic championships.

For that job—skating two or three numbers on a "tank" in front of the Bowl's symphony orchestra—she collects a cool $7,500. That's a healthy figure and more than many a top-flight Hollywood star gets for a single performance.

While she's here, she will consider a couple of handsome movie offers.

Hutton Business

From Betty Hutton comes news that her sister Marion is planning to quit show business.

Marion Hutton, who first found fame singing with the Glen Miller Band, will soon marry radio writer Jack Douglas. She says she'll retire to a ranch in the San Fernando Valley.

"Marion never liked show business," reports Betty. "She always preferred to putter around the house."

Negro Settlers Trying Out Life In Britain

By DON GILBERT

LONDON, July 12 (CP).—Tens of thousands of British emigrants sail each year to start new lives in the Dominions. But the traffic is not all one way.

From the British West Indies and West Africa, every ship brings a handful of Negro settlers to Britain. In the last three years, close to 5,000 have landed at British ports.

For them, Britain is a land of opportunity. They are fleeing unemployment and poverty at home. They continue to clamor for passages to Britain despite official warnings that there is only a bleak future for them here unless they are trained workers.

Many of these newcomers quickly fit into the pattern of British life. Others find only casual employment or go on relief. A few take ship for home, frustrated and bitter.

Tone Down Enthusiasm

British officials have visited the West Indies and West Africa to try to tone down the popular enthusiasm for life in Britain. Persuasion is the only weapon officials may use, because these Negroes are full-fledged British subjects who come and go as they please.

All they need to make the trip is a ticket and a British passport. They are not required to have any specified amount of capital to land at British ports.

Even stowaways can't be sent back. They are sent to jail for 14 days. Then they are free to look for work.

They'll Do It Every Time

LONDON, July 13.—(CP)— Prime Minister Attlee told the House of Commons today London's spreading wildcat dock strike threatens the economy of Britain at "a critical period in its history.

Attlee spoke as 14,000 idle dockers of a total force of 25,000 dug in for a showdown with the government. The strike, tying up 132 ships and causing eight others to be under-manned, seriously hampered Britain's export-import program at a time when the country is hard pressed by a growing dollar crisis.

There has been "a lot of talks as to whether this is a strike or a lockout or partly a strike and partly a lockout," he said.

"I think theer is no doubt that this is a strike."

The unofficial committee running the strike meanwhile announced plans for a monster mass meeting Sunday in Trafalgar Square in support of the workers.

2,400 On Job

Troops sent into the dock area under the proclamation of a national emergency began erecting field kitchens to feed up to 4,000 men. About 2,400 soldiers and sailors already are unloading ships.

Since the government formally seized the dock area Tuesday, almost 4,000 dock workers have joined the 10,000 who had been on strike.

Meanwhile, parliament today was debating the government's sweeping powers as the five cabinet-appointed dock "dictators" got down to work controlling the docks.

Members of the Canadian Seamen's Union, whose dispute with Canadian shipowners caused the London dock stoppage, visited the House of Commons today.

Led by J. Pope, union organizer in Britain, they were to press for intervention by Prime Minister Attlee.

At today's Commons session Home Secretary James Chuter Ede was expected to move for approval of the 19 emergency regulations issued under the proclamation.

These regulations, drafted under the Emergency Act of 1920, are being enforced

Allow Employment Service To Hire Seamen Concession Made By Union

Demand No Strike Discrimination Made In Selecting Crews, Want Withheld Wages Paid Without Delay

MONTREAL, July 13.—(CP)—The Canadian Seamen's Union today made a major concession towards settling its world-wide strike when it offered to accept the practice of hiring seamen through Canada's National Employment Service instead of through Union hiring halls. The Union, which called a strike against more than 80 vessels owned by the Shipping Federation of Canada March 31, sent a telegram Tuesday to Arthur MacNamara, Deputy Labor Minister at Ottawa, setting forth conditions under which it was "prepared to immediately call off the deep-sea strike."

The major concession was the Union's agreement that all future replacements shall be made through the National Employment Service without discrimination for reason of strike activity and that experienced seamen be given preference of employment."

When a conciliation board examined the dispute between union and shipowners last year the CSU sought to have hiring in Canada and as far south as Norfolk, Vt., and San Pedro, Cal., done through hiring halls.

The owners had demanded that the hiring-hall practice cease while the conciliation board recommended that hiring be done either through the union offices or through NES.

A Major Move

The telegram was interpreted here as meaning some major move in the long drawn-out strike was near.

The strike was precipitated when the union, negotiating with shipowners for a new contract, learned that the owners had signed with the rival Seaferers' International Union (AFL).

Gradually ships were tied up all over the world and two in the port of London have precipitated a strike by dockers acting in sympathy with the allegedly-Communist-led CSU.

Tuesday the union sent a cable to Prime Minister Attlee—its second in two weeks—asking him to use his influence with Canadian shipowners to bring about a settlement.

Mr. MacNamara was not available in Ottawa for comment on the CSU telegram which referred to discussions Tuesday with himself and other labor department officers.

US Army Convoy Of 60 Trucks To Run Blockade

BERLIN, July 13.—(AP).—An American army convoy of 60 trucks, loaded with supplies for the United States military post in Berlin, rolled toward the Soviet-zone frontier today in a test of Russian policy.

Unarmed, but with American military police escorts, the convoy is scheduled to appear at the Russian's Helmstedt checkpoint on the main Berlin autobahn Thursday morning.

British military police at Helmstedit reported today that several hundred Berlin-bound German trucks were stalled there in a continuation of the tie-up which the Russians began Sunday.

The military police said that Soviet guards had allowed as many as six trucks an hour to pass in the early morning but were now cutting back to as few as three.

Since the formal lifting of the Berlin blockade May 12, Allied vehicles have travelled the Soviet zone autobahn without hindrance.

All other border points were closed by Soviet guards last Friday and Saturday to Berlin-bound truck cargoes.

Re-elect Reuther UAW President For Third Time

MILWAUKEE, July 13—(CP)—Walter Reuther Tuesday was elected to his third term as president of the United Auto Workers (CIO).

The union's other three top officers were swept back in at the same time at the UAW convention.

Reuther's re-election, a foregone conclusion, became positive when he received a majority of the 2,400 delegates' 8,780 votes.

Opposing the veteran red-haired chieftain was W. G. Grant, former head of the big Ford Local 600 at Detroit. Grant was the nominee of the left-wing progressive unity caucus. A third nominee, Claude E. Bland of Hudson Local 154, Detroit, declined to run.

The three other incumbents are Secretary-Treasurer Emil Mazey and vice-presidents John W. Livingston and Richard T. Gosser.

On the Grant ticket were James Lindahl, Packard Local 190, Detroit, opposing Mazey, and John de. Vito, Cleveland, and William H. Johnson, Local 600 seeking the vice-presidencies.

Reuther was elected to his first term as UAW head in March, 1946, unseating left-wing leader R. J. Thomas in the convention at Atlantic City, N.Y.

At this year's convention Reuther's program has suffered only one minor setback. Delegates Monday boisterously defeated a measure to hold future conventions at two-year intervals. But Tuesday Reuther smoothly guided to approval another proposal, a 20-month break between conventions.

Leon Keyserling, vice-chairman of President Truman's council of economic advisers, told the convention the only wage policy which can sustain the country is "one which provides for increased consumer power from year to year."

Talks With Spain

PARIS, July 13—(Reuters) — Financial negotiations have begun between France and Spain, sources in the French finance ministry disclosed Tuesday night. These sources denied that agreement had been reached for a 15,000,000,000 franc credit to Spain by a group of French banks.

Delay Steel Strike 60 Days

PITTSBURGH, July 13—(AP)—President Philip Murray of the United Steelworkers (C.I.O.) today announced that his union's executive board "by unanimous action" has accepted President Truman's proposal for a 60-day delay in a steel strike. The executive board's decision will be given to the union's wage policy committee for ratification at a meeting later today. A strike of 500,000 union steelmakers was set for this week-end—on Friday and Saturday midnight.

President Truman had asked Murray and six leading steel producers to continue existing contracts for 60 days pending a report from a fact-finding board the president has appointed.

Only one of six steel companies —Jones & Laughlin—thus far has accepted the White House proposal.

The president made the same request of United States Steel Corporation, Republic Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation, Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, and Wheeling Steel.

Jones and Laughlin, one of the country's leading independent producers, immediately told the president it was agreeable to the 60-day reprieve.

Then United States Steel hurled its bombshell. The corporation said it would have nothing to do with the fact-finding board. It based its objections on the fact that the president had by-passed the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Republic and Bethlehem then chimed in with rejections. They echoed United Steel's reasons.

Tackle Dollar Problems In Commonwealth Talks

LONDON, July 13—(CP)—Prime Minister Attlee today linked Britain's dollar crisis with the whole problem of world stability and peace. Opening a meeting of Commonwealth Finance Ministers, Attlee said he hoped the ministers could find a way to solve the immediate problem of halting the dollar drain and also lay foundation for working out long term salvation.

After a two-hour morning session, Walter Nash of New Zealand said "a good start" had been made.

Pakistan's Ghulam Mohammed said the meeting was "successful," but was only a beginning.

The delegates were drawing up a program of work for their talks, expected to last for a week.

They will be deliberating with an eye on another conference among those three set for some time in September in Washington. In view of this, a treasury spokesman said Tuesday night that no hard-and-fast decisions are to be expected.

The sterling area is the currency group which takes in all countries of the British Commonwealth, except Canada, and also includes Burma, Iceland, Iran and the Republic of Ireland. Britain is its banker.

In the last three months they ran up a deficit of £157,000,000 ($628,000,000) with the dollar area notably the United States. Their gold and dollar reserves slumped to £406,000,000 ($1,624,000,000).

Observers take the view that the dollar problem is rooted in the fact that North American and European economies are not complementary. At least part of the difficulty is also held to be political.

Manslaughter Charge Laid

TORONTO, July 13.—(CP)—Adam Blandy, 37, Holland Marsh farmer, has been charged with manslaughter in connection with the accident Saturday in which five Hamilton residents were killed.

Police who went to his farm today to serve the warrant said he had left to attend the funerals of the five victims in Hamilton.

Crown Attorney A. Armstrong of suburban Newmarket, said Blandy would be remanded until Thursday on $1,000 property bail. Police said the laying of the manslaughter charge will eliminate the inquest originally ordered.

Blandy was the driver of the truck which smashed into a car driven by Mr. Robert Hamilton on the brow of cemetery hill near here last Saturday. Hamilton, his wife and daughter, Margaret and two other passengers, Mrs. James Hibbard and Patrick Tuohy, were killed in the crash.

Police said they have been investigating the accident since Sunday afternoon and laid the charge on orders from the Crown Attorney.

Britain Planning To Assist Imperial Vets

OTTAWA, July 13 (CP) — Britain's war pensions chief said today the 9,000 Imperial veteran pensioners living in Canada soon will get news of recent legislative measures that should be a financial boon to many of them.

Completing a six-weeks visit to Canada and the United States, Sir Arton Wilson told a press conference "the problem of the aging veteran of the first Great War, now somewhere between 55 and 75, sticks out like a sore thumb" among the problems faced by his staff.

The great majority of the 9,000 living in Canada are veterans of the first war.

Sir Arton said the top basic pension for a totally disabled single British veteran is $45 a month—Canada's is $94—but there are other aids. A married pensioner with two children could get as much as $146. This would include allowances for the wife and children, $30 a month if the man is unemployable and another $40 if he is so helpless he needs constant attendance.

There also are arrangements for cars or motor-powered tricycles for some 1,500 of the most severely wounded among Britain's 1,100,000 veterans. Some of these eventually will come to Canada.

To acquaint the pensioners with these provisions, some of them recent, the pensions minister is mailing individual letters to each man. The pensioners in Canada should get their's in the next few weeks.

Of the British pensioners in Canada, Ontario and British Columbia have the greatest numbers, he said.

Red Leader Jailed

SYDNEY, Australia, July 13. — (CP).—John H. King, Communist union leader, today was sentenced to one year for contempt of court. King, district secretary for the New South Wales Miners' Federation, refused to give an arbitration court information about union funds he withdrew from the union's bank account.

Tries To Shoot Policeman, Held

WAWA, Ont., July 13—(CP)—A Wawa miner who Tuesday took a pot shot at a provincial constable as the policeman was going to arrest him on a drunkenness charge and then fled into the bush, was arrested today after two other constables were flown in from Sault Ste. Marie to aid in the search for the marksman.

The gunman, Carman Lethbridge, 43, surrendered at his own home without a struggle. He was flown this morning to Sault Ste. Marie, where he will answer to a charge of shooting with intent.

The policeman, Provincial Constable O. A. Waito, in charge of the Wawa detachment, was not injured by the single shot of Lethbridge's .22 calibre rifle that was fired at him.

Constable Waito is on holiday. However, when the report of a disorder at the Wawa hotel came in, he proceeded in his car to the scene. Just as he was getting out of his car, Lethbridge fired the one shot at him.

Not Hopeless Case

WASHINGTON, July 13 —(AP) —W. John Kenney, new chief of the Marshall plan mission to Britain, thinks Britain's dollar plight is "in no sense a hopeless one." Kenney, 45, was sworn into office Tuesday, a few minutes after announcement of his appointment.

It's Raining Fish

WELLINGTON, N.Z., July 13—(Reuters)—It was raining fish today at Hastings—10 miles from the sea. During a brief rain storm, thousands of fish averaging four inches in length fell on a 10-acre field. It was believed they had been caught up in a waterspout, carried aloft and then fell in the shower. However, no waterspouts had been reported anywhere in the vicinity, authorities reported.

Jennifer Jones Weds Director

PORTOFINO, Italy, July 13 — (AP) — Actress Jennifer Jones and movie director David Selznick were married today aboard the yacht "Manona," it was announced by the mayor of this town.

The ceremony took place while the motor yacht lay an anchor a few miles off this picturesque resort on the Italian Riviera.

Miss Jones, in sunglasses and with a white, flower-patterned handkerchief on her head, wore a white summer frock for the ceremony.

Witnesses for the shipboard marriage were French actor Louis Jourdan and Mrs. Jourdan, producer Leland Hayward and Mrs. Hayward.

Remove 360 Patients While Bomb Dug Up

LONDON, July 13 (AP)—Ambulances today removed 360 patients from a hospital endangered by a Second World War bomb buried across the street.

The bomb, dropped by a German plane in 1941, burrowed 25 feet in the ground without exploding. A disposal unit found it Monday.

Patients evacuated were taken home or to other hospitals.

The disposal unit will decide Thursday whether to dig the bomb out or try to de fuse it on the spot.

Before the dare-devil experts go to work the neighborhood will be cleared, subway trains will be diverted and gas will be cut off in the area.

Stampede Sets New Record But Loses Toronto Sparkle

CALGARY, July 13—(CP)—Canada's most colorful exhibition, the Calgary stampede—appeared headed for an all-time attendance mark today despite the loss of its "Toronto sparkle."

For the second straight day a mammoth crowd jammed its way into the exhibition grounds Tuesday to shatter the second-day attendance mark. Official attendance Tuesday was 66,943 compared with the previous second day high of 49,612 set last year.

This year's stampede has attracted 23,400 fans more than at the same time last year.

The big western show today was lacking the gay, carefree Toronto "goodwill" contingent whose antics proved one of the highlights of the first two days.

Mayor Hiram E. (Buck) McCallum, who officially opened the Stampede, and his 250 "goodwillers" left early today for an outing at Banff and Lake Louise in the Canadian Rockies before starting their homeward trek. They will visit Edmonton and Saskatoon on the return journey.

Meanwhile United States cowboys held a commanding lead in the majority of stampede events.

The first go-round in a major event was scheduled to be completed later today in the North American saddle bronc riding championship. Ross Dollarhide of Lakeview, Ore., still clung to the lead in the event with Deb Copenhaven of Portland, Ore., in second place.

Urges Public Works To Absorb Unemployed

OSHAWA, July 13.—(CP). — Michael Fenwick, secretary-treasurer of Oshawa District Labor Council, said Tuesday the government "should get going with its public works projects before there are line-ups at unemployment insurance offices."

He singled out conditions at Eastern Ontario steel industries as forewarnings of bad times to come.

The Port Hope Sanitary Manufacturing Company, he said, is working a three-day week; the Bowmanville Foundry Company recently laid off some employees; Whitby Malleable Iron and Brass Company Limited dropped 50 per cent of its staff last year, and the Ontario Malleable Iron Company in Oshawa was working four days weekly.

Hope To Save Baby's Life In Emergency Mercy Trip

BRANTFORD, July 13 (CP)— Ambulances and police sirens were shrilling between Brantford and Toronto this morning in an emergency dash to the Sick Children's Hospital to save the life of a five-day-old boy requiring immediate replacing of his blood through transfusion.

Baby Zuerrer infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric P. J. Zuerrer, of nearby Burford, suffered from "RH positive" blood condition and was placed in an incubator with oxygen and heating equipment on a fire department ambulance.

The operation involves draining of the toxic blood from the child's body and replacing it by transfusion with blood of another type.

When the condition of the baby became apparent earlier this morning, Dr. J. A. D. Marquis set a chain of emergency telephone and radio calls in action between here and Toronto. Six separate police escorts relieved one another during the dash.

Provincial Constable Don Oxlay, of the Brantford detachment, escorted the ambulance from the hospital here to Ancaster, where Dundas OPP took over. Brantford traffic officers made sure that streets in the east ward here were clear as the ambulance roared to the outskirts.

Hamilton City police and the Dundas cruiser cleared West Hamilton streets and at Sheridan, Auroro District OPP took over the escort from the Dundas car. At Toronto's western limits, the municipal force completed the escort to the Sick Children's Hospital.

Constable Fires Shots At Family

BRAMPTON, July 13 (CP) — Constable Albert Stubbs of Peel County Tuesday was charged with shooting with intent to maim his wife and three children. He was held in custody here and bail was set at $2,000. Provincial Police said Stubbs fired three times from a shotgun while his wife and three children were crossing a field to her brother's home. Stubbs was charged earlier with creating a disturbance.

Mrs. Lorine Stubbs, her daughter, Joan, 5, and sons, Allen, 10, and Ronald, 7, ran from the Stubbs home at 4:30 o'clock Tuesday morning in night attire and headed across a schoolyard. Three shots from a 12- gauge shotgun rang out behind them. Pellets tore up the dirt splattered the verandah of William Stubbs, a brother of Constable Stubbs, where the family sought refuge.

As the officer's family clustered on William Stubbs' verandah one of the pellets stung Ronald's arm, but did not penetrate.

Mrs. William Stubbs, awakened by the sound of lead pellets rattling against her window, let her sister-in-law and the children into her home.

Recover 40 Bodies In Bombay Crash

BOMBAY, India, July 13—(CP) —The rain-soaked underbrush on Ghatkopar Hill today yielded the bodies of 40 of the 45 persons killed Tuesday in the flaming crash of a Royal Dutch (KLM) airliner on Bombay Island.

Thirteen of the dead were American newspaper and radio correspondents. The bodies of all but one of the correspondents—Fred Colvig of the Denver Post—have been identified.

Hundreds of police slogging through monsoon rains continued the search for the five missing bodies. Luggage aboard the ill-fated plane has been recovered.

Death Toll Reaches 35, With 14 Injured After California Crack-up

Find No Sign of Any Mechanical Failure After Careful Investigation; One of Worst Disasters In US Air History

LOS ANGELES, July 13—(AP)—Official sources differed today whether a fight aboard an airliner caused it to crash and explode 30 miles north of here with a loss of 35 lives and injuries to 14. A C-46 transport operated by Standard Airlines snagged a wingtip Tuesday in the Santa Susana mountains in a fog and exploded on a steep canyonside in what Civil Aeronautics Board inspectors said was the worst non-scheduled flight accident in United States history.

James N. Peyton, regional C.A.S. chief, said that a brief fight between two men passengers apparently did not cause the crash. He made this statement after talking to survivors. Peyton said the crash occurred an hour and a half after the fight.

However, Capt. L. R. Powell, chief pilot for Standard, said his investigation convinced him the battle caused the tragedy. He described the pilot of the twin-engine craft, Roy G. White, as highly skilled and careful. White was killed.

Standard Airlines previously had been ordered by the CAB to discontinue flight operations next week for violating regulations.

Asked Police Aid

A half hour before the crash, Pilot White had radioed Lockheed Airport at Burbank that he wanted police to stand by to arrest one of two men passengers who had been fighting aboard. He said one man was badly-beaten. The plane was inbound from New York.

A passenger, Mrs. Mary Bettis of Long Beach, Calif., said she saw the fight. She said she saw a man strike one blow at the man next to him.

Stewardess Vicky Zelsdorf said in a Long Beach hospital that the two men also had been fighting the day before.

When Mrs. Zelsdorf saw they were going to crash she threw a blanket across her knees and abdomen. Doctors said this was her maternal instinct to save her unborn child, which they hoped to save. The stewardess was severely injured.

CAB Chief Peyton aid "there was no apparent malfunctions of the engines or structural failure of the aircraft."

He has recommended a formal hearing and said investigation at the scene will continue several days.

Crash In Canyon

The crash occurred in sage-brush-covered Box Canyon at an altitude of about 1,800 feet. Bodies, many of them charred, were strewn for 400 feet across a ridge and over boulders.

Five persons, including a girl with a foot torn off, stumbled 300 yards down the slope to a fire road. Two others made their way nearly two miles toward a highway before rescuers picked them up.

Early today only 16 of the 35 bodies had been identified. Nineteen remained unidentified.

Plans To Keep Family Of Six

OSHAWA, July 13 — (CP) — Francois David Boire, who calls himself King David II, said Tuesday that he will continue to house a family of six in a garage despite a court action brought against him by suburban East Whitby township.

Boire, who has visited the United States and many world capitals to present his views on world government, faces five charges of infringing township building and sanitary by-laws. The cases have been set over to July 25.

Meanwhile, the 57-year-old carpenter is digging heavy stones from the basement of a demolished house near Oshawa's business section and says he intends to use them to construct a shrine on another lot. Under an agreement with the owner of the house site, he is to have the stone in return for filling in the basement.

Boire, who calls himself "King David II" by "divine ordinance," said he bears council members no ill will.

"They don't realize it, but they are actually God's instruments to publicize my program," he said. "There is no foundation for their case as they are up against a dominion statute guaranteeing freedom of worship."

Despite township claims that his garage is unfit for human habitation, Boire insists he is only "obeying God's first commandment—to shelter the homeless."

Blames Small Boys For Attack On Child

OTTAWA, July 13.—(CP). — Was 28-months-old Marie Giselle Lachance beaten and raped by an adult sex maniac or by some neighborhood children?

Confused and uncertain, little Marie Giselle told her mother Tuesday that "some bad little boys" hurt her.

But police still probed the possibility that an adult tied her up with heavy fishing line and a man's necktie and raped her as she hung from a rafter in a shed near her home.

They continued to question youths and children near Marie Giselle's home on Bruyere St. in Ottawa's Lowertown.

Oshawa Won't Bar Women Cabbies

OSHAWA, July 13 (CP)—Oshawa's Police Commission Tuesday reversed a decision barring women from driving taxicabs. The previous action was taken when complaints were received about a woman taxi driver. "I don't think we should discriminate against women drivers," Judge D. B. Coleman said. "Their licences should only be cancelled for a cause."

Magistrate F. S. Ebbs said today that he had been under the impression there was only one woman driver. "I understand now that there are two others. The police chief didn't bring that to our attention," the magistrate stated.

"One of them is earning a necessary living this way," commented Mayor Michael Starr. He agreed to rescind his previous motion barring women cab drivers after Magistrate Ebbs recommended that each case should be dealt with on its individual merits.

The telegram signed on behalf of the CSU national negotiating committee by T. G. McManus, secretary-treasurer, asked as another condition for ending the strike that "all seamen employed on ships on March 31 shall be returned to their former place of employment without distinction."

It asked that seamen now in foreign ports return to their vessels without discrimination and have the right to continued employment at the end of the voyage.

It also asked that all wages owing to the seamen that have been withheld or forwarded to Ottawa shall be paid without avoidable delay.

PREFER THEIR MUSTARD

Orangemen are Orangemen and July 12 they don't tolerate half-way measures.

Although mustard is the traditional decoration for hot dogs, relish has been gaining popularity for a number of years and a great many people want both.

But at Fenelon Falls July 12 where the huge walk was held there wasn't a daub of relish to be seen. Everyone had mustard on his hot dogs and no questions asked.

Mustard is a beautiful orange color but relish is green.—R.H.

Missing Quebec Youngster Drowns Near Farm Home

NOTRE DAME DE LA SALLETTE, Que., July 13—(CP)—A tiny white crucifix clutched in her hand, little Monique Boucher was found floating in Clay Lake Tuesday, just a mile from the farm home she failed to reach last Friday when she started home after helping a cousin with the cows. A car horn, sounding through the wooded hills near this village of 500 persons, told searchers the four-day hunt for the seven-year-old girl was over.

Eloi St. Amour, a lifelong friend of Monique's parents and her 11 brothers and sisters, found the body. It was floating fully-clothed three feet from shore and near a creek that ran through the Boucher farm.

Dr. Jean Lorrain, the coroner, said death was due to drowning and there would be no inquest.

Believed Lost

Veteran woodsmen said the little girl must have become lost while returning home. She probably was drowned in the creek and her body floated down into the lake.

Dr. Lorrain said he believed she died some time Friday night.

Regis Boucher, Monique's father, and the family arrived at the lake just a few minutes after the body was found. Asked if it was Monique's body, Mr. Boucher nodded his head silently and the family burst into tears.

Footprints indicated she became lost in the bush after leaving her cousin Annette. Overtaken by darkness, she probably wandered around in a circle and finally stumbled into the creek.

Monique will be buried Thursday after services in the parish church.

Alberta Faces Very Poor Crops

OTTAWA, July 13 — (CP) — Saskatchewan and Alberta, plagued by a long dry spell, face below-average crops this summer. Manitoba, hit less severely by drought, can expect good crops, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said Tuesday in its weekly crop report.

Many parts of Saskatchewan and Alberta will have grain yields of less than 10 bushels to the acre, the Bureau said.

Rainfall in all three provinces has been below normal during the growing season—41 per cent below normal in Alberta, 19 per cent below normal in Saskatchewan and 11 per cent below normal in Manitoba.

Grain crops in southwest Saskatchewan will be "very light and hay is a complete failure," the Bureau said. In the southeast corner of Alberta, crops were beyond help.

The worst Alberta area ran east and north of a 220-mile line from Coutts on the United States border to Stettler and east to Lacombe, midway between Calgary and Edmonton. Around Hanna, in east-central Alberta, crops were expected to average only five to 10 bushels an acre. Near Edmonton all crops were in the worst condition in years.

Urge Changing Set-up In Maritimes

By JOHN LEBLANC.

HALIFAX, July 13 (CP)—Creation of a new railway set-up within the Maritimes for the fixing of freight rates was proposed to the Royal Commission on transportation today by the maritime Board of Trade.

A brief from the Board's transportation commission, read by transportation manager Rand H. Matheson of Moncton, N. B., suggested that Canadian National Railways lines in the Maritimes be designated as a separate railway for rate-making purposes.

The plan would not involve any physical change in railway property or services in the seaboard area. But through legislative technicalities as suggested by the Board, it would facilitate the granting of lower rates on traffic moving into and out of the Maritimes.

Management of what the Board termed the new "system" for rate-making purposes would be located at Moncton, where the CNR now has its Maritime regional headquarters under the Montreal head office. The Moncton office, the brief suggested, should have "complete administrative powers in the interests of persons and industries located on the 'system' in the Maritime Province."

The Board's suggestion came as the Commission went into the second day of Maritime sittings on its Trans-Canada tour of investigation into national transportation problems.

The three-man body under Hon. W. F. A. Turgeon, High Commissioner to Ireland, has spent the last five weeks in Canada. From here it goes to New Brunswick, opening sittings in Fredericton early next week. After that, it will go to Charlottetown.

Lakefield Sea Scouts Enjoy Seven-Day Cruise On Lakes

SPRINGVILLE, July 13 (ENS) —Lakefield Sea Scouts completed a seven-day cruise that took them over 160 miles on a course through the famed Kawartha resort lakes, on Sunday night.

Seven boys under the supervision of Skipper Ken Jakins piloted the 24-foot sloop rigged craft and several of the boys added new Scout badges to their list as a result.

The Scouts left Monday morning and made their first landing at Buckhorn.

Tuesday they went through Gannon's Narrows, Bobcaygeon and camped at McAlpine's dock, Sturgeon Lake.

The boys slept at night in hammocks hung from the trees. All meals were cooked on shore.

Had Auxiliary Engine

The gaff-rigged sloop had a seven and one half horse power motor as auxiliary power, loaned by Doug Davis.

The boys were shown through the luxurious summer home of Col. C. D. H. McAlpine, famous Arctic explorer.

Wednesday the craft went to Lindsay, to Skipper Jakin's father's cottage on Sturgeon Lake.

Thursday, points of interest visited were Fenelon Falls, Cameron Lake, Rosedale, and Balsam Lake.

Turning point was the old Fort at Balsam Lake.

Thursday night the boat went through the locks and the boys pitched camp by moonlight below Fenelon Falls.

Sail Through Rain

Saturday they sailed through driving rain and head winds to camp at Buckhorn.

Saturday morning they locked through at Buckhorn, where they attended the Anglican church services where Skipper Jakins read the lesson.

Dinner on Sunday, the only meal the boys had not prepared themselves, was a gala affair at the Windsor hotel.

All cooking on the trip was done by Sammy Edwards, who passed his cooking test. He was aided by Patrol Leader Bob Pratt.

Those on the cruise were Skipper Ken Jakins, Patrol Leaders Bob Pratt and Morley Brown, Leading Hand Ronald Kingdon, Ship's Writer Harry Roth and Sea Scouts John Pue, Murray Edwards and Wayne Hill.

On Wednesday, July 13, First Class Scouts Morley Brown and Jack Burger leave for the first Canadian international jamboree at Ottawa.

These boys have been transferred, at the request of their leader, to the Ottawa Sea Scouts troop for the occasion.

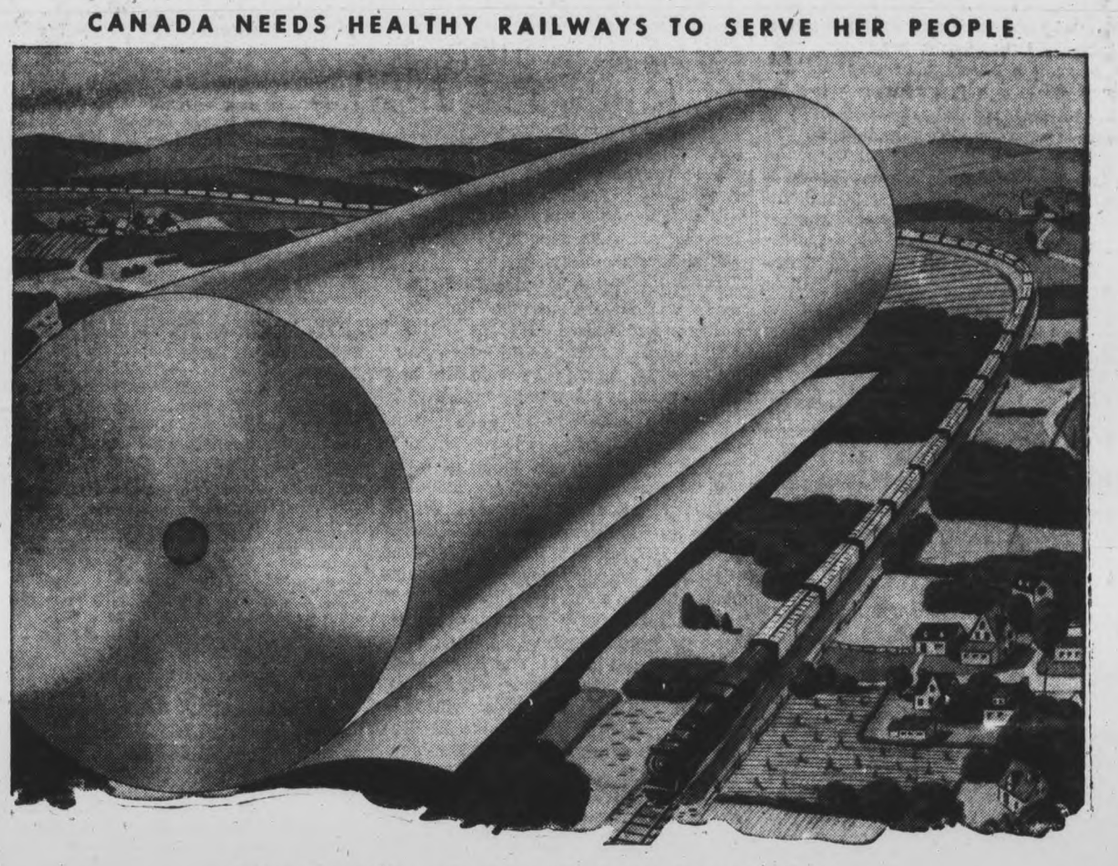
CANADA NEEDS HEALTHY RAILWAYS TO SERVE HER PEOPLE



The Railways Do A Giant's Job in Moving Canada's Huge Newsprint Production

This advertisement is one of a series pointing out the railways' key place in Canada's economy. As Canada's largest builders of railway rolling stock and equipment, this company and its employees are directly concerned with the railway industry. Canadian Car & Foundry, operating eight modern plants, turns out thousands of railway cars of every type. The company is fully equipped to supply Canada's railways with the latest type passenger and freight cars to meet the growing needs of our expanding economy.

Our great pulp and paper industry every year relies on the railways to carry nearly seven million tons of newsprint and wood pulp. Yet that is hardly more than a quarter of the total tonnage of forest products they handle in a year.

IT IS a long way from the North woods to the roaring presses of big-city newspapers. The railways perform this long haul for Canada's newsprint producers.

And that is only a fraction of their job. They carry millions of tons of pulpwood logs, further millions of lumber and other forest products.

Sinews of steel are needed to move the combined output of the biggest pulp and paper industry in the world and of Canada's far-flung woods operations. It takes organization, and manpower, and a huge investment in track and terminals and rolling stock.

Every Canadian, both as producer and consumer, has a direct interest in the railways—in seeing that they are kept efficient and fully adequate to the nation's needs.

The railways are big BUYERS too

Paper is a relatively small item in railway purchasing. Yet last year they spent several hundred thousands of dollars for menus, tickets, timetables, forms, stationery . . . some of the "little" items which together make the railways important customers of the paper and printing industries . . . and the country's biggest buyers.

A Blow To Our Trade

The British Colonial Office did not apparently wait for the results of the conference between Sir Stafford Cripps, Mr. Douglas Abbott of Canada and Mr. John Snyder of the U.S.A. last weekend. Perhaps it knew the negative nature of the results ahead of time. At any rate, the Colonial Office issued a request which was virtually an order, that West Indian colonies cease importing goods from Canada. The reason for the demand was, of course, shortage of dollars. The result is that Canadian export business to Trinidad, Jamaica and elsewhere in the West Indies is stopped up completely.

* * *

Last year Trinidad purchased $30,000,000 worth of goods from Canada. Although Canada's export business is in the hundreds of millions, a $30,000,000 chunk out of it (or something less, for the regulations will be eased) is a heavy bite. Jamaica, acting on official advice from the Colonial Office, froze dollar imports last Friday "for an indefinite period". Jamaica is, next to Trinidad, the largest West Indian importer of Canadian goods.

* * *

Canadians cannot condemn self-righteously a course which their own country had to take in November of 1947 when all imports from the United States were banned summarily and later put under license. Nevertheless they can regret that such a stoppage of trade as now imposed on the West Indies was considered essential. The London Conference of finance ministers had no discernible good results; the conference of Commonwealth ministers now assembling could be a closure against Canada, the only member not in the sterling area. Our hope is that experts exploring the situation, and the proposed Washington conference in September will be able to chart a fluid way between the now almost mutually exclusive dollar and sterling circles.

Squeezing The Middle Class

The Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, which is one of the finest musical organizations in the world, completed a tour of Great Britain recently; although the critics praised it highly its audiences were poor, and it is estimated that the deficit on the trip was about £25,000 or $100,000. The reason for this failure has been explained thus by J. B. Priestley, in the New Statesman:

> There is no mystery here. Too many of the people who could appreciate such an orchestra could not afford to pay the prices of admission. This is one of the results of being tough with the middle classes. If Joe Louis or the Dynamo football team had come to England, there would have been no empty seats; but then the people who prefer sporting contests to concerts still have some cash to spare—or spend it whether they have it to spare or not.
>
> Many middle-class parents spend less on themselves than any other section of the community except the poorest. And some of them like books, music and drama; but now they have to watch every shilling. This is having its effect on our life here.

Squeezing the middle class (which is what socialist governments invariably do) can have very bad effects on the national intelligence. The middle class has always been the great supporter of arts, letters and the things of the mind generally. The rich do their part, but they are too few to do it all, and they cannot provide the large, trained audiences without which arts and letters cannot flourish. It is from the middle class, also—the professional class and the upper levels of business—that a majority of artists and writers come. The people of this class are appreciative of education, they have the means, and they are ready to make the sacrifices which will enable their children to give their lives to music, painting, writing and so forth. To tax this class into silence and eventually out of existence is to blow out the most important part of the nation's brains.

Nothing will more quickly turn Britain into a second-class nation than a prolonged attack upon its middle class.

Ignorance At The Information Office

A few weeks ago a British Government employee, working in the Central Office of Information in London, wrote to a firm of publishers to ask if translation rights were available for a book called Gulliver's Travels, by J. Swift. The publishers made this known, and it was soon revealed that the poor boob had never heard of the book before, knew nothing of its author, and was not aware that Gulliver's Travels was first printed in 1726.

That such ignorance should have cropped up in a well-paid Civil Servant is in itself remarkable; still, most people have odd gaps in their general knowledge. But that it should have happened in the Information Office is really astonishing. It seemed obvious that the blunderer should be discharged, but his fellow Civil Servants have rallied to his defence; after all, if the Civil Service is to be penalized for lack of knowledge, what might not happen? And so the man who had never heard of Jonathan Swift is to keep his job.

We do not know whether this ill-informed fellow is an appointee of the Labour Government, or whether he has been drawing government pay since the ministry of Lord Palmerston. It does seem odd, however, that a man of any education whatever should have entirely escaped any knowledge of one of the most famous books in his native language, by one of its most celebrated authors. The only thing about the story which does not seem strange is that the Civil Service should have defended one of their own on a charge of stupidity. It is the strongest trade union of them all.

Hammock Lull

The old-fashioned hammock swung between two trees or two verandah posts has become a memory. People rush about nowadays in search of summer ease instead of taking it in the hammock on the side porch. Life is too strident for the hammock's gentle lull.

Memory is of course rose-tinted. Hammocks of the last generation were not always gaily-coloured, nor comfortable, or easy to manage. The rep faded, unravelled and wore thin. The cushion at its head was a knotty board deceptively plumped. The hooks on verandah posts or in trees gave way in the midst of a snooze. When the rain came, the hammock had to be wrenched from its stays, furled and stored away. It was an awkward bed to get into, a more difficult one to free oneself from. And it was ungainly to the view as to the occupant—a sinking protuberance two-thirds of the way along its length, to which all else tilted uncomfortably.

Despite its disadvantages, the hammock was an era's symbol of drowsy stillness and repose of spirit (if not body) while the mind and heart, lulled by its sway, took flight from the heat and burden of the day.

Now the hammock has gone. Some landscape designers say it is a blight to symmetry, styling and grace of lawns and gardens. But there are inventive people other than landscape artists. There are hammock designers. Owing to them, it seems that there may be no permanent disappearance of the hammock; merely a lull in its popularity. A hammock has been designed. It swings securely from "suspension points" on a stand that will not tilt. There are safety hooks. It is a mobile hammock, and can be turned to sun or shade at will. It is made of new materials chemically protected against sun and rain and mildew. The new contraption will not jackknife.

The executive secretary-treasurer of the National Canvas Goods Manufacturers' Association, Inc., a Mr. James E. McGregor, has this to say: "There was a time when the canvas hammock was not made with any particular design. But today it is a work of art". Work of art or not, we hail the promise of a return of the hammock. Life with a hammock is sweeter, softer and easier than life without one.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Maybe history repeats itself out of kindness. After all, we rarely hear it the first time.

Lovers of reading are usually mild men. You can call one a bookworm and he will smile, but if you call a fisherman a fishworm you had better do it over the 'phone.

On June 23 the C.C.F. NEWS said that the prize for the best wisecrack of the election campaign must go to Premier Tommy Douglas of Saskatchewan. The wisecrack was this: "The Liberals have a wishbone where their backbone should be". We don't wish to shatter Mr. Douglas' reputation as a wit, but the first time we heard that palsied wheeze, we kicked the dashboard clean out of our cradle.

Soviet Dilemma Over Nationalism

By
W. N. EWER

SOVIET propaganda just now is in a troublesome dilemma on the question of nationalism and national sovereignty. On the one hand, Soviet diplomacy is exceedingly anxious to prevent any further development in co-operation between the Western democratic countries. For two years now, its propaganda organs have harped insistently on the "national sovereignty" of independent countries. Every move to international co-operation has been fiercely attacked as involving an infringement of sovereignty. The complete and entire division of nation from nation is held up as the democratic ideal. And the usual weapon of scurrilous abuse is employed against every western writer who argues for any form of internationalism.

◇ ◇ ◇

IN an article in the Moscow paper, Slavyane fully quoted by the Soviet radio this week, there is, for example, a long diatribe against the "venal 'philosophers and sociologists' who lend themselves to the campaign against the national sovereignty of peoples and the equality of nations, large and small". The "Labourite theoretician, Harold Laski" and the British "philosopher and obscurantist Bertrand Russell" get special mention.

◇ ◇ ◇

BUT this is a little embarrassing for the propagandists whose leaders, both in the Soviet Union and abroad, have been accustomed for many years to believe that internationalism, not nationalism, is the ideal in which they should believe: who, indeed, have many of them been brought up to sing the "Internationale". That difficulty, however, is easily surmounted by a change of words. The ideas of a Laski and a Russell are not referred to as "internationalism" they have become "degenerate cosmopolitanism". One is reminded of Molotov's cynical remark, after making his pact with Ribbentrop for the partition of Eastern Europe, that they would now have to change the meaning of the word "aggressor".

◇ ◇ ◇

BUT there is a greater trouble than this. How is this thesis of the national sovereignty, of the complete independence of all nations to be reconciled with what is happening in Eastern Europe, where the heads of the Governments of all the satellite states are required every now and again to declare publicly not only their belief in Communism but their personal loyalty and devotion to "the great Stalin our leader and teacher". Is not belief in "national sovereignty" the precise heresy for which Tito is being condemned?

◇ ◇ ◇

HEAR on the subject Comrade Anna Pauker, the Rumanian Foreign Minister and Secretary of the Communist Party. She said: "nationalism is exposed by the Communist and Workers' Parties in lands of People's Democracies as the worst enemy of security and national independence". Outside the "iron curtain", nationalism is applauded and encouraged. But once a people comes within the "iron curtain" that nationalism becomes anathema and must be stamped out by purges, terrors and executions.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE contradiction is no new one. In the very earliest days of the Soviet Government it proclaimed its firm belief in the "equality and sovereignty of the people" and in their "right to free self-determination". Four years later the author of that proclamation was calling for a "ruthless struggle" against nationalism. He was calling for the "burning-out of nationalist survivals with a hot iron" and for "smashing the hydra of nationalism". And he had his way.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE two voices are certainly there. Soviet Russia today still poses as the champion of national freedom and national independence throughout all the world which is not under her effective control. But wherever that control exists, nationalism becomes "the worst enemy" to be "burnt with hot irons". And the burning process has been efficiently developed since Stalin applied it in his native country, in 1921.

What Sort Of Graduates?

What are the functions of a university? Is its main purpose to train young men and women for particular careers or to train their minds for any and every career? Should it be technical and particular or philosophic and general? In fact whether most people realize it or not, our universities are increasingly becoming higher technical schools.

The Principal of McGill explained what is happening in his usual challenging way at the conference of Canadian Universities meeting recently in Halifax. An increasing number of crafts and professions are trying to win the status of having a university degree. As Dr. Cyril James said: "Medicine and law have been followed by dentistry, business administration, nursing, social work and physical education. We may yet be asked to set up courses that will lead to the academic accolade for morticians, boilermakers and acrobats."

The student's search for professional qualifications from his university is, said Dr. James, a "new phenomenon"; and he suggested that these new conditions "may lead us into a situation in which our universities have become no more than a superior sort of school — its diplomas of greater pecuniary value when the graduate has to earn his living, but its training no different in kind from that of any other school."

Let's not be in too much of a hurry to pronounce the change as inevitable and practical until we examine the qualities we expect the graduate to bring with him when he enters business life. Are we looking for specific skills only? Or are we becoming more aware lately of a need for initiative and leadership, curiosity and courage? Traditionally we believed such human qualities might be found in the person who had had the benefit of higher education. Can we now assume that years devoted to acquiring mechanical skills will provide background for such development?—Financial Post.

Letters To The Editor

DISGUSTED WITH PETERBOROUGH FILTH

Sir: Having recently moved to the new sub-division being built by Central Mortgage and Finance Corp. in the south end of Peterborough, I find the atmosphere "highly" reminiscent of the three years I spent in a Southern Ontario village during the war. This long-established village of some 2,000 inhabitants, beautifully situated on the banks of a large river, had no municipal water facilities, or sewage disposal, whatsoever. Although a bylaw authorizing the installation of such a system was passed twice by the Council, no action was taken—simply because the town fathers and older taxpayers were reluctant to increase their present rates to accommodate a young and growing population, which they felt to be no direct concern of theirs. As one doctor stated then, "It will take an epidemic with at least 8 or 10 deaths to offer sufficient proof that our health is in danger!"

Is the backbone of this city made up of the same ilk of unconscientious objectors? I am supposed to feel grateful because I have settled at last right in the midst of the sewerage of 35,000 people. Thank you, Peterborough!

I am further horrified to learn that the children have discovered surface cesspools a few yards from our doorsteps. Are these to be tolerated within the city limits too? The youth of the country gave up everything to protect your interests. The least we should expect in return is a clean, wholesome place in which to rear our children and safeguard their health. I do not wish my own to be the human guinea pigs in this gross experiment to test the Peterborough Disposal Plant beyond its extremity.

We hear much these days of the high cost of living. What price the cost of breathing?

Yours truly,
A DISGUSTED VETERAN'S WIFE.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND IS A TEACHING CHURCH

Sir: One can admire and enjoy your editorials, so pointed and forthright, without always agreeing with them. The editorial "Should Churches be Excluded", in last Friday's paper, is one of these with which I cannot altogether agree. The statement, by inference, that only the Church of Rome expounds theology to her members is a very sweeping one, and is not backed up with any proof. This certainly is not the case as far as the ancient, historic Church of England is concerned, for which alone I am qualified to speak. This part of Christ's Church, called Anglican in Canada, with the early creeds, the ancient prayer-book with its church year, the catechism and other formularies, and the Bible, has always been known as a teaching church. Her bishops, priests and deacons are commissioned to teach as well as to be pastors of the flock. It would be easy to name many of her great scholars and theologians whose works and influence have gone far abroad, for example the late Archbishop Temple whose death is much lamented by the whole Christian world.

All this does not lessen the credit of the Church of Rome and other Christian bodies to be teachers as well. However, one must remember, what takes largely away from the force of your supposed "fascination" in studying "the tough problems of theology", viz., that the Church of Rome does not allow on the part of her members the right of private judgement. There must be no debating. It is, 'accept and believe this dogma as set before you, otherwise there is no hope for you'.

As evidenced by your editorial the press still persists in lumping all those who do not submit to the claims and obedience of the Church of Rome as 'Protestant'. The Anglican Church has no such title. The word 'Protestant' means to protest against something. In relation to the Church of Rome the Anglican Church can be called 'Protestant' because it protests against the claims of the Church of Rome to be without error and the one and only church. But in relation to the Anglican Church the Church of Rome can also be called 'Protestant', because it protests against all those who will not admit its claims. The word 'Protestant' has a second meaning, to testify for or to witness. The Anglican Church professes to witness for the truth, so does the Church of Rome. If you insist, Mr. Editor, on using the term, all Christians are 'Protestants', and you must include therefore the Church of Rome; such a large and important part of the Christian Church would not like to be left out.

Tappers Tactics

Sir,—An accomplishment necessary to a publican is an ability to outwit the trapper, that ubiquitous gentleman who finds himself simultaneously possessed of a raging thirst and no money. At some expense we soon learn to recognize the type, and are prepared for the stock approaches, ranging from the gambit, menacing to the appeal, heartrending. Twice within a week, however, I have been almost non-plussed by new tactics. One man offered to deposit his spectacles with me as an earnest of his intention to repay a modest loan, and the second overwhelmed me with his dentures. I feel that the free provision of security against short-terms loans is an unheralded aspect of the magnitude of Mr. Bevan's bounty which should not go unrecorded.

I am, Sir Yours, &c.,
Walter Seeley.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

In the way of righteousness is life; and in the pathway thereof there is no death. (Prov. 12: 28.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Therefore we ought to give hte more earnest heed to the things which we have heard, lest at any time we should let them slip. For if the word spoken by angels was stedfast, and every transgression and disobedience received a just recompence of reward; how shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation; which at the first began to be spoken by the Lord, and was confirmed unto us by them that heard him; God also bearing them witness, both with signs and wonders, and with divers miracles, and gifts of the Holy Ghost, according to his own will?....

But we see Jesus, who was made a little lower than the angels for the suffering of death, crowned with glory and honour; that he by the grace of God should taste death for every man. For it became him, for whom are all things, and by whom are all things, in bringing many sons unto glory, to make the captain of their salvation perfect through sufferings....

Forasmuch then as the children are partakers of flesh and blood, he also himself likewise took part of the same; that through death he might destroy him that had the power of death, that is, the devil; and deliver them who through fear of death were all their lifetime subject to bondage. (Heb. 2: 1-4, 9, 10, 14, 15.)

Uniteds Take 5-1 Win Over Outlaws

Uniteds yanked out a 5-1 City Softball League win over Outlaws at the Bowl last night before a big crowd. They took a 2-0 lead early and cinched it with three in the last frame. Bob Greenlaw hurled four-hit ball in the seven stanzas, as George Hunter was nicked for nine safeties in a snappy scrap. Both teams played errorless ball, and Outlaws got all their outs without an assist. Harrison, George Sullivan and Douglas led the way at bat for United with two for four each, Currie topping the losers with two in three. Catches by Currie and Taylor were features.

Royals Defeat Locals In Lakeshore

By FRED MAYBEE

Gord Sturrock was in fine form last evening at Bowmanville as Royals defeated McGinniss' Young Petes 11-1, in a Lakeshore League baseball game before a large crowd, at the high school grounds. The slow-baller allowed six scattered hits, struck out five and was particularly effective with men aboard, nine Petes being left stranded.

His mates took kindly to the offerings of Corkery and Pagett for eight hits, one a homer which aided by by nine walks and two errors netted 11 runs. Dadson twirled the final innning for Petes and struck out two. He had a homer in the sixth. Cowle, Hooper and Yourth were the other big stars for the Royals, while Swanstons' fielding and hitting and the work of Dadson, Pagett and Mills was outstanding for Petes.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Brampton Excelsiors play the Petes an OLA senior "A" game at 8.45 tonight in Miller Bowl. And lo, a goodly crowd should attend if the weather is okay. It's "father and son" night, but our mention yesterday of a middle-aged man planning to attend free with his elderly dad hastens executive advice that the age limit is 16 years for boys entering gratis accompanied by fathers. Ah, well, an adult should be able to afford the entry fee, one supposes—but 'twas a good try, anyway. Number of draw prizes for the lads, too. Game itself should be worth seeing as these senior "A" gutted-stick wielders really dish up the action.

Pro wrestlers stand for far more press abuse than any other type of athlete. The late Phil Lawson used to tell us: "You can write almost anything about a wrestler and he's happy about the advertising. Call him ugly looking, a dirty wrestler, a guy without scruples, one who probably beats his mother to keep in shape—call him anything. The only thing he resents is a crack which might hurt his drawing power." A strange specimen, but he goes right along making lots of money, and getting all kinds of publicity, so mayhap he knows what he is doing. But what other athlete would stand for that sort of printed abuse, huh?

For Minor Ballsters

President Dit Clapper of the City Baseball League has called a meeting for tonight at seven in the "Y". It's for executive members as well as managers and coaches. To bring loop business up to date and discuss future activity, playoffs, and so forth. Dit is also working on a plan to bring some NHL stars here for a ball game — it's pretty much an annual event now — and hopes to have something definite on this soon. Dit was plenty busy recently in the election campaign, but henceforth will have the time to devote to local sports again. Minor baseball in the summer, and hockey in the puck season.

Twice Cobourg ballsters let the Young Petes down in games here over the past week-end. They were slated for a Lakeshore League encounter in Riverside on Saturday night but sent word they wouldn't come, as it should have been an afternoon fixture. They agreed to come Monday eve instead, but half a dozen of their players went to the pro ball school Leafs are running. Now, they say they'll come here this Friday p.m. Since they were so sticky about declining to come Saturday, we feel the local club should have claimed the Monday one on a forfeit. These non-appearances don't do the game a bit of good at all.

Three Of 'Em, No Less

And now, for the love of Michael, they're throwing triple-headers at us! Okay, so we'll cover 'em and do a box score, but we're not going into great detail on that many men's softball scraps in one evening. It seems Uniteds played twice and beat Outlaws 5-1 and Jewellers 8-5. Then Cosmos copped an 8-5 verdict o'er Knights to put Cosmos in top spot as July 12 wound up. Just half a game up on the United. Three tilts were run off in fair time before a hefty gallery. Three more seven-stanza jousts listed for there tomorrow e'en, starting at 6.45: Cosmos vs. Jewellers, Uniteds vs. Cosmos, and Outlaws vs. Knights.

Listened to the big league all-star game yester aft and it came out the same old story. American Leaguers had too much punch for the Nationals, to win 11-7. Fourth straight all-star victory and the 12th in 16 tries. A crowd of 32,577 saw the loose but interesting affair in Brooklyn, rain once interrupting for a short spell. Joe DiMaggio showed the partisan National League crowd why he is poison at the plate in his own circuit. But for a previous engagement, we would have taken advantage of Ken McCannan's invite to see the game on his television set, beamed from Buffalo or Rochester, something definitely new in this town.

Cosmos celebrated July 12 by taking over top spot in the City Softball League with an 8-5 win over Knights. Akers relieved Crowley early to fashion the win with good support. His side pulled off two double plays and looked better as they came from behind to win out, despite the fact that they booted five. Dalton and Carpenter led them at bat, with Leether getting two for three to top the Knights. O'Heron had a nice catch in centre.

Plan Boxing Show In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, July 13 — (ENS)—Rotarian Bert Taylor reported on the boxing show to be staged in Davidson's Arena on Wednesday night, July 27, at the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club. He said that Canadian flyweight champion, Vic Bagnato, coach for the Diamond Boxing Club of Toronto, is matchmaker.

Jack Devine, sports announcer and commentator of CJBQ, Belleville, he continued, had been engaged as master of ceremonies. The referee will be Jackie Dugan, well-known to Peterborough fight fans and who speared on the Joe Louis-Jersey Joe Walcott card.

There will be eight all-star bouts, Mr. Taylor stated. Maurice Muir, 112 pounds, will be featured. Also Bud Runions, the local boy; Carravaggie, Peterborough; Chief George E. Charles of Cobourg and others.

Mr. Taylor said that the Rotary draw would be made between bouts. The last boxing show was a decided success, he declared.

Via Television

CAMPBELLFORD, July 13 — (ENS)—A large crowd watched the all-star baseball game between the American and National Leagues at Ebbett's Field yesterday on Hector MacArthur's television set. The reception was almost perfect.

Hector was the first to bring television to Campbellford.

NAMED TO TEAM — Brenden Macken, 25-year-old Montreal tennis star, was included in the names of Canada's Davis Cup team announced Monday. Macken, who now plays his tennis in Philadelphia, was a member of last year's team which lost to Mexico. The team will meet Australia in Montreal July 21-23.

Remember When—

Vancouver dominated the Canadian Tennis finals at Quebec six years ago today, as Don McDiarmid and Eleanor Young won respective singles championships. McDiarmid defeated Monte'al's Louis Duff in straight sets, 6-1, 7-5, 6-2; and Miss Young was extended by another Vancouverite, Jean Milne, 7-5, 7-5.

Irv Dusak Pitches Red Wings To 8-2 Triumph

By The Associated Press.

Will Erk Dusak be the next to follow in the footsteps of Bucky Walters and Bob Lemon?

Walters and Lemon, after failing to make the major leagues as an infielder and outfielder, respectively, switched to pitching and attained stardom. That's what Dusak is doing for the Rochester Red Wings of the International League.

Dusak, who failed to stick in the big time as an outfielder, was optioned to the Wings by the parent St. Louis Cardinals this spring to gain pitching knowledge—and his report card is getting better all the time.

The 28-year-old hurler pitched the best game of his short career Tuesday night—an 8-2, one-hit triumph over the league-leading Buffalo Bisons.

Gene Markland solved Dusak for Buffalo's lone hit of the game in the fifth inning when he belted a home run after Marty Tabacheck had walked.

Dusak, who now has won four straight games during which he has allowed only two runs per contest, fanned six and walked six Bisons. The big righthander boasts a 7-4 won-lost record.

Dusak also collected two of Rochester's 13 hits.

Has Their Number

Dusak's best previous performance also came at the expense of the Bisons. He turned back Buffalo 3-2 in 13 innings July 6.

It appears that all Dusak has to master is control. In his 13 inning triumph he walked seven but fanned 12.

Although Dusak got two hits, the heavy stickwork for Rochester was done by husky Steve Bilko and catcher Charley Marshall.

Bilko poled his 20th homer of the season with a teammate on base in the fifth inning. Marshall slammed his second homer in the third, also with a runner on the sacks.

Lefty Jim Parton started for the Bisons and yielded four runs in the first inning, to the delight of 10560 Rochester fans. Parton gave way to Luman Harris in the fourth after Marshall's circuit blow.

A scheduled game between Syracuse Chiefs and Newark Bears was rained out, as was a scheduled doubleheader between the Jersey City Giants and the Baltimore Orioles. Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Royals were idle.

American League Band Hands Out 11-7 Drubbing

By JOE REICHLER.

BROOKLYN, July 13 (AP) — A disgruntled National League band, writhing under still another solar plexus punch delivered by the merciless American League, today placed the blame for its latest all-star shellacking directly on the fans' doorstep.

The National League has been defeated 10 times in 16 counters with the American Leaguers.

Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, in whose ball yard the latest nightmare for the National League took place — a 11-7 drubbing, said:

"I suppose it's silly to alibi our defeats, especially when so many have been inflicted upon us," he said. "But it seems to me that the nation-wide fans' voting idea is not the best.

"The manager should not be forced to start with the fans' top selections—and play them for three innings. He should be privileged to start anybody he sees fit and use him as long as he desires.

"You might have noticed that after the first three amateurish innings, the game was played in a smoother and more interesting fashion. That was because the managers were left free to run things the way they wanted."

No Names Mentioned

Although Rickey was careful not to mention names, a listener could gather from his conversation that he blamed the National League defeat upon three individuals—all selected by the fans. They were first baseman Johnny Mize of New York Giants, third baseman Eddie Kazak of St. Louis Cardinals and catcher Andy Seminick of Philadelphia Phillies. It was obvious that he thought Gil Hodges, Sid Gordon and Roy Campanella, their respective fourth - inning replacements, should have started in their places.

Rickey's main target appeared to be Mize. He kept referring to him as "that fellow," in reviewing the sloppily-played first inning when the National League infield fell apart and permitted the opposition to score four unearned runs. That eventually was the margin of defeat.

In that inning, with one away, George Kell was safe when Mize failed to come up with a routine pickup of a low throw by Kazak. That error, technically charged to Kazak, but morally to Mize, opened the door for the American League.

Forgets Something
